While the Labour Day parade was being held in this city, the Prince and his party, including the Prime Minister, members of his Cabinet and scores of members of Parliament, who are here for the session which opened yesterday afternoon, participated in a ceremony which for many years will be associated with Labour's Day. And the Prince struck the keynote of the Victory Loan campaign in his reply to an address by Sir Henry Drayton, Minister of Finance, when His Royal Highness stated that this loan was to be the bridge between war and peace—finishing off the job. The honour flags, the first of which was dedicated and unfurled yesterday morning, are to be awarded, as was done last year, to every city and district which exceeds its quota in the campaign. It is a Union Jack on a white ensign, containing the Prince of Wales' coat-of-arms.

Immediately after laying the corner-stone at the Parliament Buildings the Prince walked to the flag-pole where the honour flag had been placed in readiness for the ceremony. Sir Henry Drayton, Minister of Finance, read an address.

Finishing Off the Job.

The Prince then unfurled the Victory Loan flag and said:

"I consider it another privilege to be invited to perform the ceremony of unfurling this flag, and to be associated with Canada's 1919 Victory Loan. I am proud that this flag it going to be called the Prince of Wales' flag, and that it is going to be competed for. It is a great joy to me to be associated with the loan, which is the bridge between war and peace, and is finishing off the job. I hope all cities and districts will soon reach their objectives and be able to fly my flag."

GERMANS VIOLATE PEACE TREATY

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, Sept. 2. — The Supreme Council of the Peace Conference decided to-day to send a note in forcible terms to the German government, pointing out a contradiction with the Versailles treaty of the provision in the new German constitution providing for representation of Austria in the German Reichstag. The Council demands suppression of the article within a fortnight declaring that other wise the allies will be compelled to undertake further occupation of the left bank of the Rhine.

SIGNIFICANT STEP FOR DEMOCRACY

(United Press.)

MILAN, Sept. 2. — King Emmanuel took another step, a significant one, along the path of democracy to-day when he informed Premier Nitti, according to an official announcement, that he intended to relinquish all the Crown lands throughout Italy for the benefit of the peasantry and the combatants for Italian unity. The official announcement states that the King renounces possession of the buildings on these lands in favour of charitable institutions and organizations whose aim is to mitigate the sufferings which have followed in the wake of the war. The King also announced that in the future his own private property would be taxed the same as that of the commoners.

LOCAL MOULDERS STRIKE SITUATION

THE LOCK COMPANY MOULDERS WENT BACK TO WORK ON FRIDAY LAST—SETTLEMENT SATISFACTORY.

In Friday's issue an item appeared dealing with the moulders' strike, and we find the information given was not altogether correct. In the first place we now understand that as far as the Lock Company was concerned the matter of hours hardly entered into the dispute as a number of this firm's moulders did not work more than eight hours per day, and Saturday afternoon was always given the men when they so desired.

As regards the question of wages, in justice to the moulders of the Peterborough Lock Manufacturing Company, it might be stated that their request for an increase did not amount to 15 per cent. We understand negotiations were under way for some little time between the men and the company, and a compromise arrived at an increase being granted of practically 10 per cent., and not 25 per cent., as erroneously reported.

It will be recalled the day work moulders of the city on May 1st requested a 25 per cent. increase in wages, namely, from 60c to 75c per hour, with an eight-hour day. Some two months ago the employers offered an increase of 12½ per cent., or 67½c per hour, for an eight-hour day, but this offer was not accepted by the men.

PETERBORO AT THE EXHIBITION

HOLIDAY EXODUS TO TORONTO WAS LARGER THAN EVER.

Outside of the hundreds of people from the city who motored to Toronto during the past week to see the Exhibition, the railways carried over the week end 675 passengers. The C. P. R. sold 500 tickets since Saturday and 300 holders of these went up on Saturday and Sunday, making the traffic from Peterboro to Toronto one hundred per cent. heavier than last year and considerably heavier than ever before at exhibition time. At the Grand Trunk uptown office 150 tickets were sold over the week end and 25 at the station.

BOLSHEVISTS HAVE BEEN SURROUNDED

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 2. — The Lithuanian Legation announces that the Bolsheviki have been surrounded on the Lithuanian front and they are offering to make peace with Lithuania, whose advance continues.

ANOTHER LEVEL CROSSING TRAGEDY

MONTREAL, Sept. 2.—Alfred Marcette of Drummondville, Homer Catonguey of the same place, and the latter's two children, were instantly killed and Catonguey's wife and another child seriously hurt Sunday night when their automobile, dashing down the hill in the darkness, missed the bridge and plunged down the embankment into the River Desvauches. The story reached this city last night. The victims drowned before help could reach them.

BLAMES PACKERS FOR BIG LOSSES

By Raymond Clapper.
(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, D.C., Sept. 2.—Virtual packer control of five live stock markets is responsible for heavy losses to producers during the last ten days, Senator Capper, Kansas, said to-day. Capper's statement comes on the heels of a similar one from the National Consumers' League.

"While there is probably no proof that the big packers actually controlled the situation, I cannot believe that they have been a factor," Capper said. "I think the market would have been better off in such an emergency if the "Big Five" did not have practical control. They did nothing to brace up the market and I can see no good reason for a decline to the extent we have just witnessed.

"I am thoroughly disappointed that a scare of this kind should be thrown out at a time when it would tend to arrest the movement for regulatory legislation."

The National Consumers' League declared that the packers, with their warehouse buildings with food, could afford to cease buying as the Senate hearings on the Keyon and Kendrick bills got under way.

"The farmers of the country are being made to suffer for the sins of the packers as in times past," the League voted.

PRINCE OF WALES ARRIVED IN MONTREAL THIS MORNING

WILL SPEND A FEW HOURS IN THE CITY AND THEN DEPART ON WESTERN TRIP.

MORE PRESENTATIONS

(Canadian Press.)

MONTREAL, Sept. 2. — With church bells ringing and hundreds of factory whistles blowing, the special train with the Prince of Wales on board steamed into Windsor street station this morning from Ottawa. The Prince will pass a few hours in this city to-day before departing on his western trip. Most of his time here will be spent in an automobile tour of the city and this will conclude on Mount Royal, where his Royal Highness will be entertained to lunch by the corporation. The tour was broken for a few moments at the home of Mederic Martin, Mayor of Montreal, where a little nephew of His Worship presented the Prince with a bouquet of flowers, and at the Cartier memorial, to be unveiled by cable by King George next Saturday, where His Royal Highness was given the medal struck for the celebration of the centenaire of this Canadian statesman.

(Canadian Press.)

MONTREAL, Sept. 2.—Hundreds of thousands of people acclaimed the Prince of Wales as he motored through the streets of Montreal to-day on a short tour of the city before he goes on his western trip. The prince arrived in the city from Ottawa at 10.30 o'clock this morning. He got his first taste of the welcome prepared for him at the C.P.R. station. A large force of policemen was called upon to keep the people in line. As the train pulled in, bells in all the churches began to ring, while factory whistles sounded in the distance in competition with the notes of the scream of sirens on the craft on the river.

Dressed in a plain business suit, with soft hat, the Prince did not make so dashing a figure as he did in other cities where he appeared in uniform. He had the same cheery smile, however, the same quick step and the same quick glance which took in everything as he passed along. Among those presented to him was Lieut. Patrick Matthews, formerly of Dublin, Ireland, ninety-three years of age. The old soldier presented a picturesque figure in his navy blue uniform of the days of the Crimea.

The old gentleman was a member of the guard of honour in 1848 when Queen Victoria laid the corner stone for the great Portsmouth docks. Later in Canada he had the honour of being one of the first men chosen as a personal body guard of the late King Edward when he visited Canada as Prince of Wales.

The old veteran said to the Prince: "I am the only remaining member of the body guard of your grandfather when he was here."

The Prince took off his hat to the old soldier and shook his hand cordially.

Line of Route.

The line of route followed through the city by the prince and his party took in all the best features of Montreal's business, residential and sightseeing sections. The route was crowded with enthusiastic people along almost its entire thirty miles. At the Cartier monument on Fletcher's Field, the Prince was presented with a special medal struck in commemoration of the centennial of the great Canadian statesman and celebrations being held here this week. The statue has had a romantic career. It was in Brussels when the war broke out and was buried so that it would not fall into the hands of the Germans.

A luncheon tendered to His Royal Highness by the city was served in a marquee nearby.

This afternoon the Prince will visit Dixie golf links, where he will be the guest of the Royal Montreal Golf Club. After the game he will board the Royal train and leave for the west.

INSURANCE CLAIMS FOR PETERBERO

According to the last issue of the "Life Insurance Press" the total amount of life insurance claims paid to Peterboro beneficiaries, during 1918 amounted to twenty-six thousand dollars.

HIGHEST U.S. PRICES FOR MILK SUPPLY

(United Press)

CLEVELAND, OHIO, Sept. 2.—Cleveland must pay 2 to 3 cents more a quart for milk or find its supply shut off, according to an ultimatum from farmers in the hands of milk distributors today. More than 100 farmers were reported in the combine.

They demand 36 cents a gallon for their milk. The price to the consumer is fifteen cents a quart.

The farmers said their price of 33 cents a gallon is below the cost of production. The city was short fifteen per cent. of its normal supply to-day.

AUSTRIAN TREATY IS NOW READY

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, [illegible] Peace Treaty, which is now [illegible] completed by the Supreme Council for submission to the Austrian plenipotentiaries, leaves the future of Austria very largely in the hands of the League of Nations. The League that is, will be able to decide whether Austria shall be permitted to join Germany, and as France is opposed to such union, as are Switzerland and many other countries, there would appear to be little chance of Austria securing permission to terminate her existence as a separate State, should she so desire in future. There seems to be a general feeling of dissatisfaction in Peace Conference circles with the treaty, which was adapted from the German treaty and does not fit such a small power very well. The Council, however, had agreed to-day on virtually all sections of the treaty, because there is general weariness with discussion. Under the terms of the treaty, Vienna, with its two million inhabitants, seems doomed to lapse into comparative commercial insignificance, as there is a population of only four million within the country outside the city to support the capital, while with Jugo-Slavia, Czecho-Slovakia and Hungary existing as separate powers, Vienna can hardly hope to recover the business formerly drawn from their territories.

BROTHER OF A PETERBORO MAN

The portrait of Mr. Colin C. Ferguson, general manager and actuary of the Great West Life Assurance Company, Winnipeg, Man., appeared in the Toronto "Mail and Empire" yesterday. He will address the company's Hundred Thousand Club for 1919, which meets in convention at Royal Muskoka Lakes resort from the 2nd to 5th September. He is a brother of Mr. J. H. Ferguson, local seed and grain merchant, formerly manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia here.

VITAL STATISTICS FOR THE MONTH

INCREASE IN BIRTHS, MARRIAGES AND DEATHS.

The vital statistics for August show an increase in both births, marriages, and also deaths, over the corresponding month of last year, although there are no radical increases, showing that the "flu" has almost died out, and the rate is back to normal.

| | 1919 | 1918 |
|---|---|---|
| Births | 33 | 38 |
| Marriages | 14 | 12 |
| Deaths | 13 | 11 |

Building Permits.

The building permits for the month of August totalled 15, with a value of $9,275.00. The permits for 1919 to date have a value of $76,200.

SAYS PRESENT HIGH FOOD COSTS DUE TO BLOCKADE

HERBERT HOOVER TESTIFIES BEFORE THE INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE.

PRICES "ARTIFICIAL"

(United Press.)

PARIS, Sept. 2.—High food costs in America are entirely due to the failure of the Allies to lift the blockade against Central Europe immediately after the armistice, Herbert Hoover declared in testifying before the American Congress committee, investigating war expenditures.

Food supplies now held in the United are greater than at any time since 1918, Hoover said. This was proof, he added, that the present high costs are artificial.

"The delay in lifting the blockade," Hoover asserted, "caused speculators to corner foodstuffs and sell them, expecting that tremendous demands would arise from Central Europe when the embargo was lifted. In the meantime the countries on that part of the continent bought to the fullest extent through the Economic Council of the Allies. This exhausted their gold reserve, rendering further purchases impossible when the blockade was finally lifted."

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, Sept. 2.—A distressing era of speculation in food stuffs in the United States and throughout the world's primary food markets is largely responsible for high food costs in the opinion of Herbert Hoover, chairman of the Inter-Allied Relief Organization, on the eve of his departure from the United States.

Warehouses in Northern European ports are overflowing with foodstuffs, principally meats, fats and dairy products, sent by merchants all over the world, Mr. Hoover said. These merchants, he declared, had gambled on sales in Poland, Czecho-Slovakia, Baltic States and Germany, at high prices, but these States have only depreciated. Local currency and many commodities were in danger of spoiling as certain European foodstuffs is limited to the ability of the population to buy on credit.

LAST DANCE AT SOUTH BEACH

FRIDAY NIGHT WILL BE THE OCCASION OF THE LAST AND BEST.

Many of the young people of Peterborough and the guests at South Beach have enjoyed themselves immensely at the regular South Beach dances this summer the last of which takes place on Friday night of this week, when an exceptionally enjoyable time is looked forward to. The Piblow Orchestra of Toronto will furnish the music which has been so much enjoyed.

MONTREAL MEN GO ON STRIKE

Fifteen Thousand Men Connected With Building Industry Affected.

Canadian Press:

MONTREAL, Sept. 2. — Fifteen thousand men connected with the building industry in this district went on strike this morning for an eight-hour day with ten-hour day pay. A report received at union headquarters this morning stated that every man connected with the industry is out, but some of the contractors claim their men are merely taking advantage of the civic holiday ordered by the Mayor, because of the visit of the Prince of Wales, to stop work.

SAYS EXCESS PROFITS TAX AIDED PROFITEERING

SUGGESTS APPOINTMENT OF NON-POLITICAL BODY OF EXPERTS TO DEAL WITH SITUATION

REMEDIAL MEASURES

(Special to The Examiner.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.— Remedial measures to eliminate direct contributary causes for the high cost of living were suggested to-day by Otto M. Kahn, of Kahn, Loeb and Co. Expressing the belief that the system of taxation adopted in this country since 1917 played a considerable part in boosting prices, Kahn suggested the appointment of a non-political body of experts to study the effects of the various kinds of taxation in force during and since the end of the war, and to make recommendations to Congress.

The excess profits tax, Kahn said, has not stopped, but rather intensified profiteering.

The income tax, he said, is a breeder of extravagance and thus of higher prices.

FOUR MET DEATH IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Canadian Press:

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—"I will stay with you, Mary." With these words, William F. Tanner, cashier in the offices of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad here, closed his eyes, embraced his wife, whose foot was caught in a railroad frog and was killed with her when the limited train of the Chicago and North-Western railroad crashed into them last night on a level crossing. John Miller, flagman, in attempting to rescue the couple, lost his left leg and sustained a fracture of the right arm. Three little children are orphans to-day because of the fateful decision of Tanner to die with his wife.

FREE METHODIST DISTRICT MEETING

GAIN IN MEMBERSHIP AND GIVINGS REPORTED; LIST OF APPOINTMENTS.

KINGSTON, Sept. 2.—At the District Conference of the Free Methodist Church, which concluded here yesterday, $2,050 was raised for missionary purposes. Rev. E. Snyder was elected District Elder in charge of Kingston and Campbellford Districts, and Rev. A. Sims was chosen District Elder in charge of Muskoka and Toronto Districts.

These appointments were made: Kingston, Rev. R. Babcock; Perth Road, W. M. Simpson; Odessa, E. Babcock; Verona, W. H. Gregory Westport, A. F. Ball; Vennachar, N. F. Perry; Harrowsmith, D. S. Wartman; Campbellford, Miss Gertrude Patterson; Frankford, John Potter; Picton, W. Brown; Warkworth, S. C. Snider; Cordova, C. Hutchings; Marmora, N. M. Gunter; Toronto, R. Burnham; Armadale, M. S. Ben; Uxbridge, W. Scarbrigg; Newmarket, H. C. Cowder; Holden, D. L. Gunter; Peterboro', E. J. Lee; Bracebridge C. Cunningham; Gravenhurst, Miss M. Harden, Crown Hill, G. H. Bray; Midland, E. Wall: District Conference Evangelist, Rev. E. C. Farnburn.

An increase in membership and finances was reported.

AIRPLANES NEEDED TO CHASE DUCKS

"We should'a had aeroplanes to get any ducks yesterday. The birds were flying a mile or two high, at least that's what they looked like to me, but some of the green shooters must have thought they were firin' "archies" because they banged away at everything. The higher the birds went the more of them of these boys plugged away at them."

This was the report of the opening of the duck shooting season. Another enthusiast told the same story in slightly different words, but to the same effect that a few birds were brought down early in the morning, but that after the first fusilade the ducks climbed to empyerean heights and hid in the clouds until night fell.

One man dropped five birds with one shot. They fluttered and flopped into a dense marsh and he was unable to retrieve one of them.

For the most part, however, the men failed to get within range of any flocks after the daylight barrage, and sportsmen who were new at this game banged away at any and all distances with the result that the birds kept continually on the wing.

LION OF LINDSAY ON THE WARPATH

A NUMBER OF QUESTIONS ON THE ORDER PAPER.

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, Sept. 2. — Sir Sam Hughes is on the warpath again in the House of Commons, and has given notice that he will move on Wednesday for the production of a circular, supposedly of German origin, distributed among the Canadian troops at St. Julien, deprecating the Canadian Ross rifle.

Sir Sam also asks for reports on the Lee-Enfield rifle, and why certain changes were made in England to the Ross rifle.

Further, he demands a statement of the housing conditions of Canadian troops during the winter of 1918 and 1919, and the return of casualties for the various battles, including Cambrai and the second Battle of Mons.

BURNED TO DEATH.

REGINA, Sept. 2. — Six children were burned to death yesterday while the family were away leaving the children alone in the house.

CAUSE OF PENSION CHEQUES GOING ASTRAY

RETURNED MEN ASKED TO HAND IN CHANGE OF ADDRESS TO VOCATIONAL OFFICER.

Returned men who have completed Vocational Training under the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-Establishment, or whose course has been discontinued, are advised to hand in any change of address to the Vocational Officer in their district. This is for the purpose of notifying the Pensions' Board.

Failure to report removal from one city to another often results in Pension checks going astray and, apart from the loss of time to Departments concerned, may result in inconvenience and hardship for the men and their families.

CABINET DESCRIBED AS REACTIONARY.

EXODUS FROM STONEY LAKE BEGUN

COTTAGERS AND TOURISTS MOVING DOWN TO THE CALL OF SEPTEMBER WORK--EXCELLENT SERVICE BY THE STONEY LAKE NAVIGATION CO,--THE BEST SEASON FOR YEARS.

"Hello, Cap!"

"Hello, Billy! Got to looking quite natural again; been up long?"

"Say, it's great here!"

Such are a sample of the inspiriting salutations heard at the calling places all along Clear Lake and Stoney Lake, as the tourist passes up through these favourite waters this season.

The end of August and beginning of September sees some of the passing changes now taking place where the first call from "refreshmept to labour" is heard by cottagers and visitors. "All too soon," they, must these hlidays come to a close, and the rejuvenated energies again resume their allotted tasks.

What impresses one, as much as anything else, in connection with these halycon days at Stoney Lake, is how the local setamboat company manages to provide so highly efficient a service as it does for so short a period of the year as three months. How captains and crews, and engineers, and firemen and cooks can be secured for such short engagements. And how the company hopes to clear itself within so limited a period, and have a dollar to themselves at the close?

Looking at what this company accomplishes during their abbreviated summer season, the remark is often made: "Could anyone else do it but the Youngs?" It seems highly improbable that any other organization could be brought together capable of making the success which this company is doing so well.

"During the short season every day must count ,or there's a dead loss" said Manager Young, "and there's hardly a bare chance of making it up. It's not so with any other business that has the whole twelve months of the year to come and go on."

The running expenses every day must mount up into quite a sum, with a fleet of active vessels engaged daily and each pressed to their full capacity—in hours of service and length of runs.

The "Stoney Lake," Capt. Scollard, with an an efficient ,crew, has pulled through this year, one of the best excursion seasons ever enjoyed, covering larger stretches of waters from Healey Falls to the south up to Lindsay in the north. And such has been the favour in which the "Stoney" has been held that Manager Young has been successful in securing close dates of sailings all season comparatively free from any lost time in making connections

The "Empress," Capt. Robinson, the regular morning and night boat on the Stoney Lake service, has also enjoyed a marked increase in tourists and other passengers this season. The systematic regularity of the daily work done by this steamer is frequently remarked. It is rarely that more than from one to three minutes are occupied in letting off or taking on passengers from the islands. The many intricate channels through which the vessel has to enter and back out quickly could only be accomplished by an expert wheelsman. And one rarely hears of an accident or a failure in the service, notwithstanding the awkardness of many of the locations, or the weight and character of the freight handled. Any old white rag tied to any old kind of a flag pole is sufficient to catch the alert eye of the captain, no matter from what part of the island it may fly, and seldom a call is neglected.

The "Manita," Capt. P Young, is known as the noon boat, which takes the mid-day passengers up through the lakes, and covers generally a similar course to that of the "Empress," allover the wide stretch of cottages and summer resorts. Capt Young knows every inch of these waters, and the right road in and out to each cottage and regular calling station Train connections are made regularly three times a day, and visitors can depend upon the time-table with certainty. The crews are prompt and expedite their work in discharging and taking baggage, and the loads are often hard and heavy to handle.

Some idea may be gained of the long distances travelled by tourists and cottagers to get to Stoney Lake by the following:

Dr. Wood, from New York; Mr. Stevens, Texas; Mr. Winch from Montreal; Mr. Craig, from Grand Valley; Mr. Hamilton, from St. Louis; and Messrs. Russell, Cole, Jones, Sutheralnd, Miss Moffatt and others from Toronto.

It is said that the Stoney Lake Navigation Company are considering the need of another steamer next season for the Canal route, which has been neglected ever since the burning of the "Islanda."

FORESTERS GIVE UP TEMPLE TO VISITORS

When Mr. G. A. Mitchell, Assistant Supreme Chief Ranger, conceived the idea of providing for the pleasure and comfort of visiting companions and brethren of the Order during their visit to the fair by placing the handsome organization offices in the Temple building at their disposal, besides providing writing material, reading matter, etc., he touched a very popular idea, for, since the beginning of Canada's great fair the membership have expressed their approval of the hospitality thus afforded by responding to the invitation in large numbers. Visiting members of this great fraternal and insurance organization are high in their praise of the consideration shown them, and the many kindnesses unostentatiously accorded them In conversation with Mr. Mitchell it was learned that alteady this month over one million dollars of insurance has been written, which evidences the confidence that the public have in, the stability of the Independent Order of Foresters.

The general public, who have not given this organization any study, would be surprised if they knew more fully of the many benefits the Order is conferring upon mankind.

It provides life insurance at cost based on safe scientific rates, thus eliminating any guesswork about its protection. It paid all war and flu claims in full. Besides the fraternal benefits and the regular insurance, they provide sick, funeral, disability and old age benefits, as well as maintaining a sanitarium and orphans' home for the benefit of the sick members. In fact, it is a golden circle formed for the protection of yourself and family. The desire of Superintendent Mitchell is that no member or friend will neglect to call at the organization offices on the ground floor of the Independent Order of Foresters, Temple Building, corner of Richmond and Bay Streets, Toronto, and receive a souvenir.

PALE CHEEKED WOMEN TOLD ABOUT RESTORING A ROSY COMPLEXION

A few years ago the girl with pale, drawn cheeks scarcely knew what to do. In order to restore her fading appearance. At that time there was no blood-food medium made that really would put color and sternath into systems that were more or less worn out.

To-day it's different. The blood can be quickly nourished, can be made rich, red, and healthy. All you have to do is take two Ferrozone Tablets with a sip or two of water after meals. The effect is almost magical.

Mothers, look at your children. Are they ruddy and strong—do they eat and sleep well, or are they pale, weak, and anaemic?

FERROZONE will rebuild them. Take your own case—is your blood strong and rich? Have you that old-time strength and vigor, or are you somewhat under the weather

FERROZONE will supply the strengthening elements you require. It is a blood-forming, nourishing tonic that makes every ailing person well.

FERROZONE is a marvellous remedy, it contains in concentrated form certain rare qualities that especially fit it in cases of anaemia, poor color, thin blood, tiredness, and loss of weight.

Every day you put off using FERROZONE you lose ground. Get it today, sold in 50 cent boxes by all dealers, or by mail from the Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

THE FIRST AIRPLANE.

While the world is honoring the latest aeronautic heroes let it not forget the first man who designed the modern airplane, Professor Samuel Pierpont Langley, who died broken-hearted because the government refused to vote more money for experiments after the first flight failed. Is was his scientific investigation and his constructive ability that made the airplane of to-day possible. He did not fail except in the apparatus for starting, and with a little more money he could easily have corrected the trifling fault.—Portland (Ore. Telegram.

THE VETERAN'S BAND.

Te visit of the band of the Great War Veterans to the Canadian National Exhibition to-day is convincing evidence of the great progress that has been made by the band since its organization—progress upon which Bandmaster Hughes is to be congratulated. He has without any reward for himself except the satisfaction of being of service to his comrades and to the citizens generally devoted a vast amount of time and energy to the work of developing the band and the steady improvement that has been achieved under his leadership, speaks volumes for his methods. The concluding concert of the summer season in Victoria Park on Friday night was proof that the members of the band have been faithful in attending practices, for their playing showed a vast improvement over the concerts at the beginning of the season. It is stated that the Veterans Band propose to give a series of concerts during the winter and no doubt these will be largely attended.

THE GOVERNMENT'S TROUBLE

According to the Ottawa correspondent of The Globe, the Government is stunned by the reports that the members have brought back of the extent of the feeling against the administration throughout the country and the anxiety with which the electors are awaiting an opportunity to smite the Government. If the Cabinet had to wait until the private members returned with their doleful tidings to size up public sentiment, they have proved as slow in this connection as they have been tardy in realising the anger of the people at the continued lack of action in dealing with the cost of living problem.

Sir Robert Borden and his Ministers have been completely out of touch with the people of Canada, and are only now beginning to realise that the country is sick of the inertness and indifference of the present Government, and are waiting for a chance to allow their feelings in the polling booths.

The session that began yesterday is not expected to produce any reasons for a change of feeling on the part of the people. Indeed, the very fact that an extra session is being held, a session that is patently unnecessary, will add to the dissatisfaction. The opinion will not down that the gathering together of the House for the alleged purpose of ratifying the Peace Treaty was really actuated by the desire to give the members a chance to collect a second indemnity—which will not make the Government look any better to the country.

A NEW WAR HISTORY.

Preceded by an inspiring introduction by General Sir Arthur Currie, Commander of the Canadian Corps, the story of "Canada's Sons and Great Britain in the World War," by Colonel George G. Nasmith, has so many things to commend it that the reviewer's task is, Where to begin? The praise of men of Canada at Ypres and the Somme has been sung around the world; it had become almost an old story. But we confess to a new thrill after reading the magnificent tribute paid to the men under his command by the General who led the Canadian Expeditionary Forces.

One is tempted to linger over these stimulating introductory pages by General Currie; indeed they deserve a separate review. But Colonel Nasmith's narrative is no less absorbing, no less thrilling.

We had thought that nothing new could be said about the war, but there is a freshness and charm about the Colonel's book that will win readers. Of course he has the advantage over other historians in that he was on the fighting line. His personal impressions of Ypres at the moment of the first gas attack by the Germans, his detailed narrative of just how the Canadians smashed the Hindenburg Line; his vivid portrayal of the series of irresistible attacks that made the Canadians the spear-head of the British army—these are the vital things that only a man on the spot, a soldier as well as a trained soldier writer, could set down with a realism that fascinates.

Relieved by humorous touches—for there was comedy as well as tragedy—Colonel Nasmith takes the reader into the different theatres of war, giving brief scenes from the operations of the Russian, Italian, American and other armies that help to a general understanding of the whole huge drama, but keeping the centre of the stage free for Canada's Sons and Great Britain.

There are something like a hundred illustrations in the book. Some of these are portraits; some are photographs made by official photographers; some are reproductions of sketches made at the front. There are many battle scenes, and a number of human-interest pictures that convey a vivid impression of the actual work of winning the war.

Many maps and diagrams illuminate the text. Particularly well illustrated is Colonel's great chapter, called "From Amiens to Mons with the Canadians," in which he takes the reader into the thick of the fighting, describes the break-up of the German armies, and makes you enter into the riotous joy of victory at the taking of Mons. Interspersed in these pages are a number of maps that show graphically the advances made by Canadians from day to day.

Canada's part at home as well as in the red fields of Flanders is given its place, and a long chapter is devoted to the many private and public activities of the Dominion that helped the morale of the fighting men and made possible the defeat of the Germans.

There have been other histories of the war, but we know of none that should find a warmer welcome in Canadian homes.

There are 608 Octavo pages in the volume which is published by The John C. Winston Co., Limited, Toronto.

DENATURED GERMAN DIPLOMATS.

Divers names, too numerous to mention, if they were worth mentioning, have been proposed at Berlin, in a somewhat fumbling, hesitant "trial balloon" manner, of German diplomats selected or said to be selected, as German Ambassadors to the United States and other countries. What difference does it make what German diplomatist is selected? They were all brought up in the same treacherous and dishonest school. They all bear the same taint. The hideous crimes perpetrated and attempted by German Ambassadors and Ministers in many different countries during the war have sufficiently instructed us in Germany diplomacy. These men practiced in war a little more flagitiously the ordinary arts of German diplomacy.

A German Embassy is primarily a great spy system in the country to which it is accredited. As Counsellor of the German Embassy at London the egregious von Bernstorff rehearsed his brilliant performance of "The Complete Spy" in this country. There are gradations in the manner of German diplomats but substantially none in their methods. Wherever they are, they spy out the land; they try to control the citizens of German origin in it; they work to steal its business secrets, to use it for German benefit, in case of need to embroil it with other countries. They are perfectly crooked in their methods, absolutely untrustworthy. The worse they are the better is their standing if they are not found out.

Till Geman diplomacy is denatured of its guile and its falsehoods—in short, till everything which characterizes it has been changed or removed—how can everybody trust it, and what difference does it make who is the German Ambassador? There has got to be a change of heart, conviction of sin, contrition, repentance, resolve to "lead a new life." Till the German people show that, perhaps it is too much to expect it of German diplomacy; but a new and honest German diplomacy would greatly contribute to international good relations in the future.—New York Times.

Voice Of The People

To the Editor of The Examiner:—

What Drink Has Done.

One of te saddest of the many sad things that drink has done to us is the effect it has on the mental and moral faculties of many of our clever public men. Whether in the form of beer, wine or spirits, alcohol poisons those higher centres of the brain which control the moral faculties, such as patience, kindness, unselfishness, generority to a serious extent, before the other faculties are much affected.

We see this exemplified in the conduct of some of our public men who have attained to high positions by reason of their noble, helpful unselfishness, but who have become indifferent to the sufferings of women and children through the cruelty of drunken husbands, careless of their country's welfare, and contemptuous of the peace, prosperity and happiness which prohibition has brought.

We see the same thing in letter in the public press. Some of these letters are wrote by men clever enough in some ways, but who apparently have had some faculties of their brains destroyed they desire to have the old bar room days come back with all the horrors, even allowing women and children to suffer, and letting their country go to destruction. One cannot imagine any other reason for this change of conduct unless it be a change in some spots in the brain caused by constant saturation with alcohol.

An example of this was in a recent well written letter, in which the writer claimed that men enlisted to defend their liberty, especially th liberty in drink intoxicants, no matter whether it injured others or not. He asserted that 95 per cent. of the G. W.V.A. would vote against prohibition, and said, "in my humble judgment prohibition has done us more harm morally and physically in a few years we have had it than the wide open bar ever did."

To that man's brain the almost complete abolition of drunkenness, the great reduction in poverty and crime, the many empty poorhouses and jails, and the peace, prosperity and happiness which prohibition has brought have no meaning whatever. He would undo all this that he might have his fill of drink.

If this man were correct, it would simply mean that nearly all sober, temperate men, who marched away to the defence of their country had returned home seriously fond of drink. I do not believe it. Such statements are a slander upon Canadian soldiers.

ONE HUNDRED AND FIVE PER CENT. BONUS.

I thought maybe the following would interest some of the textile workers in the city and at the same time it should catch the eye of the textile manufacturers the employees may get a raise in wages without even asking.

At a meeting of carpet weavers and textile workers recently held in England it was decided to grant a further increase in wages to the workers making a bonus of 105 p.c. The meeting was attended by representatives from the Manufacturers' Association and the Textile Workers' Union.

Now, readers, just think, every $4 that the textile workers earn, another $5.25 is given to it. And mind you there are no goods being exported and lots of work at that. If the manufacturers can afford to do that in England, why not in Canada? If the Dominion Textile Co. can make 800 p.c. profit surely they can give a much larger bonus to their workers than they are at present. There's lots of wool in Canada and I believe the price has gone down a little. Another thing there are not many textile factories in Canada (especially carpets) thus making less competition. Here's another one. The Dominion Textile Combine which was exposed during the investigation of the Cost of Living committee of the Commons, has cut another melon. The dividend on Montreal cottons has been increased from 4 to 5 per cent. and the D. T. will profit to the extent of its holding 6,000 shares. And still the price of cotton goes up. So is there any reason why the D. T. can't pay a real good bonus? Thanking you, Mr. Editor.

Textile Worker.

BERLIN AT HOUSING CRISIS.

City Considers Enforced Billeting to Aid 2000 Homeless Families.

BERLIN, — The municipal authorities are considering the question of enforced billeting of civilians, in order to meet the increasing shortage of dwellings and apartments, owing to the failure of citizens living in spacious quarters voluntarily to surrender their superfluous rooms. Only 200 responses have been received during the past fortnight, whereas 2,000 homeless families need accommodations.

The War corporation is still occupying luxurious quarters, although it has been disbanded. It has been requested to vacate the premises. The municipality also is negotiating with the Ministry of War with the object of requisitioning barracks within the city, which have been for the most part unoccupied since the demobilization and reduction of the army.

The overcrowding in Berlin is accounted for by the steady influx of land workers during the past few years.

NEIL TELLS BAB IT IS HER FAULT HE VISITS BLANCHE.

CHAPTER LV.

I sat quietly thinking for some time. Was it possible that Neil had meant that he would take his men friends—the ones I had objected to—to Blanche Orton to be entertained? I had not taken his speech at all seriously—then. Now it seemed portentous, as if he had already decided in his mind what he would do, when he made it.

The maid had said they were all drinking. Neil had not taken as much at home as I had before father and mother came. I had been so pleased that it was so. But I would far rather have him drink at home had been common and uncouth house—especially Blanche Orton's.

Of course I was silly to even connect Neil with such a dinner as that which the mail had described. Even at the worst, the men he had brought home had been common and uncouth—never noisy or drunken. I would tell Neil about it, however. He would see that even the servants talked if men brought guests of that type to their homes. It simply strengthened my position, I thought with satisfaction.

Neil remained out all night. It is easier far to say you will put things from your mind than to do it. All the long, lonely evening I thought of little else save what Lorraine had told me. I blushed as I decided that I would call upon Mrs. Lacy the very next day. Blushed because I cared nothing for Mrs. Lacy, in fact rather disliked her, but was using her to learn what I could of the dinner Blanche Orton had given.

I had not changed my mind about telling Neil what I had heard, but it was so late when he came in—after one o'clock—and he looked so tired, that I hesitated to begin. Then he yawned prodigiously and said:

"Please don't say one word to me to-night, Bab. I am tired almost to death and want to go right to sleep." So I kissed him good-night, without saying anything of what Lorraine had told me.

But at breakfast I repeated my bit of gossip.

"What would Lorraine do if she couldn't talk?" he asked when I had finished.

"But I shouldn't think Mrs. Orton would receive such creatures." I watched him narrowly. "That maid said one of the men was terribly noisy and that all three drank too much, even the one she described as 'lovely.'"

"You and Lorraine have a lot to do to spend your time listening to servants' gossip."

"I didn't listen to any servant!" I exclaimed indignantly, forgetting that I had made up my mind to go to Mrs. Lacy's to find out still more of the servants' gossip. "Lorraine told me, and Mrs. Lacy told her."

"It came from her servant, didn't it?"

"Yes—but isn't it horrid?"

"That depends. You, of course, would refuse to put up with anything disagreeable even to help a man in business. Other women may not be as finicky—and more loyal."

I looked at Neil in amazement. He was excusing Blanche Orton and blaming me. Could it be?—

"Neil, do you know who was at Blanche Orton's that night?"

"Why do you ask? What is it to you?"

"Answer me, please!"

"Yes."

"Who was there?"

"I for one. Black for another, and a western client — he was the one your friend the servant described as the 'noisy one.'"

"And you were the 'lovely' man she spoke of. What can you mean to so insult me, Neil Forbes? Why do you go to her house without me?" I burst into a perfect flood of tears.

"It's your own fault. I told you if you wouldn't receive men with whom I had business, that there were women, friends, not as near as a wife, who would."

Right then we had our second terrible quarrel. Neil blaming me for anything he had done to displease me, and I blaming him for going to Blanche Orton, yet yielding not the slightst bit in the stand I had taken.

To-morrow—Bab's Indignation Is All Directed Against Blanche Orton.

REVENGE OF GENERAL'S BEAUTIFUL DAUGHTER

Behind the "execution" of a so-called Bolshevist agent, named Ardasieff, at Stockholm, after a "court-martial" on which women served as jurors, lies the story of a beautiful girl's revenge.

A Copenhagen message says that two more persons have been arrested in connection with the murder.

They are a young Russian naval officer named Bittenbinder, son of the admiral who was arrested when endeavoring to flee to Denmark, and the well-known General Gysser, who was present, together with his seventeen-year-old daughter, when Ardasieff was murdered.

It appears that Ardasieff spent twenty-four hours in a villa outside Stockholm before he was killed, during which time he was tied to a chair without food or water.

In the middle of the night members of the "league" arrived and a court was formed consisting of about twenty persons.

After a short discussion the "league" unanimously decided that Ardasieff should be put to death and he was hanged in the presence of the young Miss Gysser, who hated him because he had rejected her love.

Miss Gysser, adds the message, is reputed to be ong of the most beautiful women in Sweden.

TENDER GUMS —A WARNING

Beware of gum tenderness that warns of Pyorrhea. Four out of five people over forty have Pyorrhea—many under forty also. Loosening teeth indicate Pyorrhea. Bleeding gums, too. Remember—these inflamed, bleeding gums act as so many doorways for disease germs to enter the system—infecting the joints or tonsils—or causing other ailments.

Forhan's positively prevents Pyorrhea, if used in time and used consistently. As it hardens the gums the teeth become firmer.

Brush your teeth with Forhan's. It cleans the teeth scientifically—keeps them white and clean.

If gum shrinkage has already set in, start using Forhan's and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

The Legacy of War

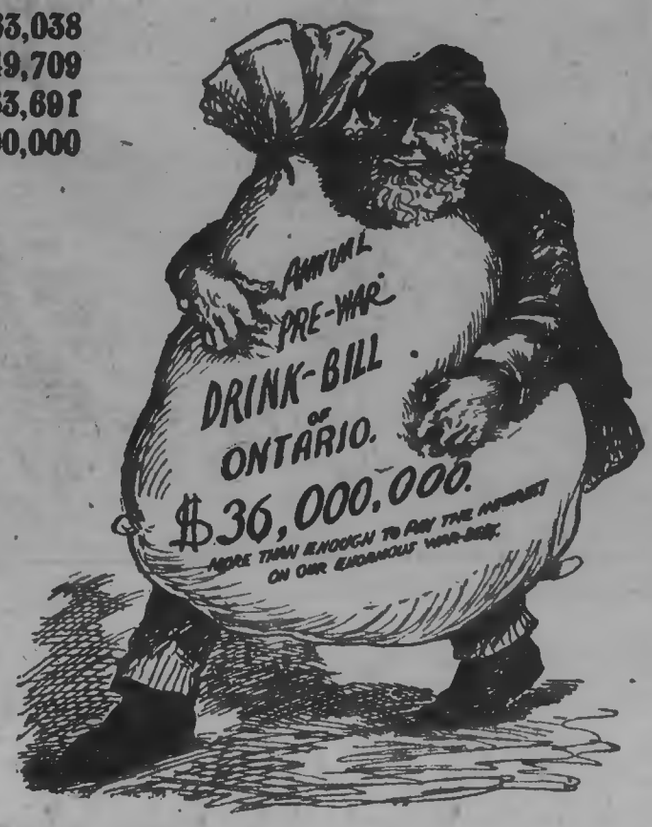
| | |
|---|---|
| Canada's Dead and Missing | 63,038 |
| Canada's Wounded..... | 149,709 |
| Canada's National Debt... | $1,670,263,691 |
| Soldiers' Annual Pensions. | $35,000,000 |

THE world to-day is staggering with debt. Some of the leading countries are verging on bankruptcy. The British pound shrunk from $4.86 to as low as $4.12½ in New York and the Canadian dollar to 95 cents.

Five years ago Canada had never dreamed of the financial burden she carries to-day.

Canada entered the Great war with a national debt of $337,000,000 or $42 per head of population. Canada emerges with a national debt to date of $1,670,263,691, which is expected to approximate $2,000,000,000 by the end of the fiscal year—or about $250 for every man, woman and child in the country.



Interest charges alone will eat up nearly one-half our present national revenue and soldiers' pensions will have to be provided as well.

Can Ontario Afford $36,000,000 a Year on Drink?

TO Canada's effort Ontario contributed one-third of the men and nearly one-half the money. And she will bear a chief share of Canada's burden of annual charges. If efficiency was necessary to win the war, it is necessary to reconstruct for peace.

"I say without hesitation," declared Premier Hearst, "that I do not know of one act or measure in this province that increased the efficiency of our people, conserved our national strength, aided thrift and generally contributed to our fighting power to a greater extent than the Ontario Temperance Act."

Previous to the Ontario Temperance Act the drink bill of the province approximated $36,000,000 per year, an amount about equal to Ontario's share of the annual interest on our national debt. In the face of our financial responsibilities alone is this the time to repeal the Ontario Temperance Act or relax a single one of its restrictions upon waste of money and man power? ## ENGLAND IS ENGLAND STILL

N. Y. TRIBUNE SAYS.

Publishes Ad. From Times Which Shows "Absurd British" Are a Never-to-be-Beaten People.

Take all of Shakespeare and all of Dickens and most of Wells, and you could reconstruct England as she was in these centuries with tolerable accuracy a thousand years hence. Burn all the histories and bomb the British Museum out of existence, and you would still have in these few feet of books the essential facts of British character and life and habit.

Or if even these were lost (in the sacking of the Western world by the East in 2462 A.D.), suppose that by some freak a charred copy of the London Times, survived on which there could be deciphered the following advertisement in that absorbing column of "Personals" with which the Times and Great Britain begin their daily annals of the universe:

Quaint Appeal. 5

Old Crock.— Will a few generous souls celebrate peace by ASSISTING disabled MAJOR, joined up in 1914 at 45 as a private soldier, to purchase a piano street organ. Outdoor life ordered; genuine appeal. Gave up £500 a year to join the ranks. No pension, no income, bad health; friends killed; still cheerful and smiling.—Box G 697, The Times.

There would be call for much imagination. Probably no true Oriental could reconstruct such a preposterous being out of his mind. But there would surely be some who from direct contact with the absurd British would explain enough to make the whole story clear. And with such a beginning these sixty words would yield about as much of essential British character as would be needed. Talk about "carrying on"! Here is the original never-say-die. Ridiculous stuff, of course. What would a major do with a piano street organ? Is there a touch of bitter irony in the personal? Well, that is British, too, providing it is good-natured, cheero stuff, as this clearly is.

National Ritual.

Really, there is precious little of British character lacking in this record. Courage of the calmest, smilingest kind, yet nothing gay, mind you, still less pompous. Whimsical is the word for the humor, perhaps. (One remembers Barrie's old clubman—was he by chance a major?—in "The Little White Bird.") The whole would be forced and ridiculous, and unpleasantly self-conscious if it were not so obviously a sacred national ritual, a deep plan for enduring human tragedies calmly, effectively, sweetly. How can you beat such a people! The old war cry comes back: "Are we downhearted?" with its answering roar. Neither yet, or ever, we suspect by much evidence that comes out of England to show that England, broken and saddened is England still.

"HER INSPIRATION" ATTRACTS LARGE CROWD

MAY ALLISON IN STORY OF KENTUCKY MOUNTAINS AND BROADWAY, SEEN AT THE GRAND THEATRE.

Quite in accord with the usual enthusiasm which greets this young star on her many appearances at The Grand was the overture which her latest picture, "Her Inspiration," received yesterday at The Grand, where it was shown to a large and enthusiastic audience.

Besides the great popularity of the player herself the charm and freshness of the play met with the enthusiastic approval of those who saw it.

Transported to the romantic setting of the Kentucky mountains—into the mysterious little village of generations of moonshiners—the beholder was forced, by sheer beauty of the settings and the thrill of the plot, to forget for the time being that he was just viewing a play of the screen, and so true and gripping were the adventures that it was easy to live them as the play progressed. It was easy to fall in love with Kate—as Harold did—it was delightful to go fishing with this free spirit of the mountains and it was thrilling and daring to face the moonshiners with the revenue officers and to participate in the saving of the young hero from their vengeful anger—hooded and mysterious in the robes of their clan. Then a most unexpected climax occurs, when Kate reveals her identity. It is not the least of the surprises in this forceful play and both Metro and Miss Allison are to be congratulated in their achievements — the company for providing the plot and the star for her charming and convincing work.

Others of the excellent cast were: Herbert Heyes, Charles Edler, Allen D. Soars and Jack Brammall. The production was made by Director Robert Thornby under the personal supervision of George D. Baker.

"SEVEN DAYS LEAVE" AT THE GRAND ON WEDNESDAY EVENING

THE GREAT ALLIED VICTORY PLAY THAT IS CREATING SUCH AN IMPRESSION WHEREVER IT IS PLAYED.

No melodrama of recent years has met with the success that has been accorded Walter Howard's "Seven Days' Leave," to be seen in this city at The Grand on Wednesday evening. This melodrama was first produced at Sir Henry Irving's Lyceum Theatre, London, nearly three years ago, and played there to practically capacity business. The gross receipts have averaged $20,000 a week, and it can be but faintly imagined how many thousands of persons have seen the play. Nor was its success when produced at the Park Theatre, New York, much less pronounced. It still retains all the elements which made it so successful in Great Britain. It played for twenty weeks in New York, and only closed to give the players a much-needed rest at the approach of hot weather.

The story concerns a young major in the British Army, and the scene showing a British cruiser destroying an enemy submarine; also the appearance of British soldiers at the dedication of a shrine in an English churchyard, and their departure for France "Seven Days' Leave" proved a happy one for New York audiences, and raised them to the highest pitch of patriotic approval throughout the entire engagement. The third act is replete with excitement, for not only is the cruiser seen, but a subsequent spectacle shows its actual destruction by gunfire, and a race to a buoy in the English Channel by the English heroine and the female German spy, both clothed in the least possible raiment.

"DARING HEARTS" AT THE GRAND

FRANCIS X. BUSHMAN AND BEVERLEY BAYNE IN A THRILLING DRAMA ON THURSDAY, FRIDAY AND SATURDAY NEXT.

"Daring Hearts" is a romance. It presents Mr. Bushman in the character of a high-minded, daring, athletic American who seeks adventure and follows the call of duty. Miss Bayne is seen as a beautiful Alsatian girl who loves France and who performs great deeds for her.

Hugh Brown, the hero, is a wealthy young American making a motor tour through Alsace as the story opens. He comes upon Miss Bayne in the role of Louise de Vaillars on a country road suffering insult at the hands of a pair of German soldiers.

Louise has been out for a canter, with her great dane dog following. The Germans have set upon the dog and have slain the animal. Louise, shocked and indignant, has denounced the Huns and is being struck by one of them when Hugh appears. The American sails into the Germans and rescues Louise. She takes him to her father's chateau.

Here Hugh meets the girl's father and has a pleasant visit. The men discuss the approaching war clouds, and Hugh voices his sympathy for France, which is close to the hearts of the Vaillars. He tells them that if war comes he will at once go to France and enlist.

Mobilization starts the very next day, and peaceful Alsatians are dragged off to fight in gray uniforms against France.

Hugh witnesses many distressing things and joins the Vaillars in grief over the disaster to their people. He bids them good-by and sets out for France. Baron von Steinbach, German commandant, refuses to give him a safe conduct, and Hugh is compelled to travel a long, hard journey through Belgium. But he ultimately reaches France and becomes a soldier of France.

Four years later Hugh is seen in the uniform of an American aviator. He has become an ace, with thirty enemy planes to his credit.

One day Hugh attacks single-handed a group of five enemy fliers who are bombing a Red Cross hospital. He brings down three, but is finally compelled to land behind the Hun lines and is captured. The American is taken to the filthy prison camp of Colmar. His capture is emblazoned in German papers, and Louise sees the report.

The young woman immediately visits the prison camp and succeeds in passing a note to the man who once saved her from injury. He is transferred to Mulhausen, but receives a secret map of the roads from Louise and makes his escape. Hugh reaches the Vaillars chateau after a thrilling flight.

Von Steinbach traces him there and, with a company of Hun soldiers, invades the dwelling. Louise is subjected to harrowing experiences in the effort to force from her lips the secret of Hugh's whereabouts. In the end she and Hugh escape to the American lines. The adventeures in the chateau and the escape form thrilling scenes. A wedding back of the American lines is the climax that punctuates the ending of the war.

FORMAL OPENING OF ALLEN THEATRE

COMMENCEMENT OF NEW CHAPTER IN CITY'S THEATRICAL HISTORY—HIS HONOUR JUDGE HUYCKE PRESENT AT THE OPENING CEREMONY.

A new and exceedingly important chapter in the theatrical history of the city was opened yesterday evening when the Allen Theatre was formally opened by His Honor Judge Huycke. Long before the time billed for the first show a crowd commenced to assemble at the doors of the Theatre and by the time the cashier was ready to handle the tickets a queue reaching from the Theatre to the corner of Simcoe and George streets had gathered.

Shortly after the first audience gathered, Mr. Maurice Rosenthal, the manager of the Theatre, gave a short address outlining the Allen policy and said that it was the custom of the management in opening a new theatre to invite a prominent honorable and distinguished citizen to formally dedicate the new house to the Allens, and called upon Judge Huycke to do so. His Honor in doing so spoke of the splendid name the Allens hold in the theatrical world and of their absolutely unbreakable policy of keeping faith with the public. He concluded by stating that the city should be proud to have the latest addition to its play houses and that the Allen's should be proud of having an opportunity of opening in Peterboro.

Perfect System

With the perfect organization for which the management is noted the crowds who attended the shows, numbering 1200, were handled in such a manner that there was no crowding and no discomfort to a single patron of the Theatre. Every emergency was prepared for even, to a supplementary cashier who came on duty when the patronage became too heavy for one person to handle the tickets. The mechanical and electrical fixtures all of which are of the latest types work- [illegible] ushers proved models for courtesy and efficiency.

Distinguished Musician

A feature of the evening's performance was the presence of Luigi Romanelli, the famous violinist, who rendered selections and led the six-piece orchestra which played continuously. Romanelli was enthusiastically encored and his solos and leadership sincerely appreciated. The orchestra is in future directed by Wm. Leader who, like all the members of the orchestra he directs, is a local man.

Directing Manager

Mr. Jule Allen the directing manager of the Allen Theatres was present at the opening ad expressed his complete approval of the Theare of whch he said he is justly proud.

The Programme

The programme presented last evening was excellent. Marguerite Clarke appeared in "Three Men and a Girl" and Fatty Arbuckle in "The Cook." In dddition to these splendid pictures a Travelogue of unusual interest was presented. All who attended were completely charmed by the unusually beautiful finish of the interior of the Theatre which is outrivalled by none in the city and equal in proportion to any in Toronto, and with the programme given at the opening show.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

MUSIC AND DRAMA AT THE GRAND

The ticket office at the Grand was completely sold out last evening long before the time of opening and the programme presented upheld all previous records of excellency. In a Kentucky story, "The Racing Strain," Mae Marsh, one of the favorite actresses of the screen, completely charmed her audience. The story featuring the Saratoga race track, held the audience in breathless interest throughout the action of the play. May Allison, another screen favorite appeared in a charming Southern story, "Her Inspiration," while Charlie Chaplin in "The Masher," provided one long series of hearty laughs. The orchestra last night was augmented by several talented musicians. So great a crowd attended the evening programme the management found it necessary to open the gallery.

AT THE EMPIRE.

Over two hundred would be patrons of the Empire Theatre were turned away from the evening performance on Labour Day and the seating capacity was taxed to the utmost. While the new management has only been in office a short time the theatre has already gained wide popularity and the pictures presented are an unusually high standard. Yesterday's and to-day's programme feature Douglas Fairbanks in "Back to Earth," while a splendid picture "Ladies First," in which Chester Conklin and Mary Thurman, star, augments the programme.

REPUBLICIANS INTERESTED IN THE PRESIDENT TOWN

Fear He Will Blame Them for Holding up Peace Treaty.

(By L C Martin)

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—Next Wednesday, the day of President Wilson's Departure on his tour for the League of Nations, has now been fixed as the probable date for completing work on the treaty in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee

Republica leaders do not wish the President to be able to tell the country that the Committee is holding up the treaty for even though they would regard such a statement as unfair to them, they fear, they said to-day, that it might be believed in some quarters.

C.P.R. IS PREPARING TO HANDLE EUROPEAN RUSH

HEAVY TRAFFIC IS EXPECTED TO EUROPE NEXT YEAR—ARRANGEMENTS BEING MADE TO HANDLE IT,

Realizing that next year will see one of the biggest rushes to Europe ever known to modern transportation, the Canadian Pacific Railway and Ocean Services with their usual foresight, and up to the minute policy, have already begun to make arrangements for these tourists. The C.P.R. have installed one of the cleverist exhibits yet seen at the Toronto Exhibition grounds, in the railway building, which takes for its motto the phrase "Spans the World," referring to the great transportation service rendered by the company.

To commemorate Canada's part in the Great War, one of the pictures, the work of J. S. Muir, a Toronto artist, depicts the whole western front when the Germans made their great bid for the channel ports and were foiled by the heroic work of Canada's army. In the distance on the canvas can be seen the battlefield sown with barb wire entanglements with the enemy trenches in the background. In the foreground bodies of infantry, cavalry, tanks and great siege guns propelled by electricity are seen moving up the front. Not only are the figures lifelike, but the various battlefront effects such as falling planes, demolished houses, and camouflaged roads are carried out with technical correctness which reflects great credit on the painter.

On the other hand of the span, the world tableau is a pastoral scene in Japan, with Mount Fujiyama in the background of a typical Oriental lake in which, moving at a fair rate of speed can be seen a model of a C.P.R. steamer, which is also propelled by electricity. A tea house in the foreground, decorated with cherry trees and wisteria, gives a quaint touch to the scene. Electrically propelled Japanese figures are seen moving across a cherry bridge, and the whole effect unconsciously forms an effective foil to the scene of war-torn Flanders on the opposite side. The Oriental scene is by P. A. Staynes, R. O. I.

It has already been stated according to a C. P. R. official in charge of the exhibit, that a certain section of land in Flanders has been dedicated to Canada as a burial ground for the heroes who were buried in France.

With their excellent accomodation of steamships and trains, the C. P. R. and Ocean Services feel confident that they will be able to handle any amount of people who may take the trip to France next year to view the places made famous in history by the courageous work of Canada's army.

PRIZEWINNERS AT METROPOLITAN PICNIC

OVER TWO THOUSAND PARTICIPATED IN THE EVENT.

The weather man smiled upon the policyholders' picnic of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. of the Peterborough District on Saturday last. Although the morning looked threatening good weather prevailed throughout the day, the sun coming out in the afternoon and cheering the hearts of the two thousand five hundred people assembled on the grounds of the T. A. S. Park.

The flag of the Metropolitan Life, representing the three different policies—the Ordinary, the Intermediate, and Industrial—was flying from the large flag pole in the park, adding its note of good cheer.

At 9.30 a.m. the steamer Stoney Lake left the George Street wharf with the first contingent, and made hourly runs during the entire day, carrying a load of happy picnickers to and from the T.A.S. ground and the Street Railway wharf. The local representatives of the company were untiring in their efforts to make the day a memorable one for the policyholders and, judging by the happy faces of their guests, they succeeded.

After the assembled crowd had enjoyed dinner in the open, sports of all kinds were participated

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

To the Editor of The Examiner:—

Dear Sir:—I have long had a sincere regard or respect for the paper called The Examiner for several reasons.

First, for the very readable and intelligent way you give us much of the general news of the day at the present time.

Second, that I believe that my father and also my father-in-law took the paper nearly or quite from the commencement.

Third, that largely through the efforts of the late James Mitchell, my nearest neighbor, we had succeeded in building a temperance hall at what was known as Mathers' Corners, in Otonabee, about 45 years ago and the late James Stratton, that I believe had a great deal to do in founding or commencing The Examiner paper, was one of the speakers at the opening of said hall.

Two events worthy of mention: Mr. Stratton, a friend and myself, standing outside the office door. We upholding the Methodist church and Mr. Stratton upholding the Baptist—especially Baptism; I thought he had the best of it.

Quite a while later, standing on the Market Square offering produce for sale, talking to another man on some business matter, the late James Stratton came along. He stopped, shook hands and then went away a little piece until the other man went away and then came back and told me how sick he had been and then I questioned him about his prospects for the future. Oh, how bright he pictured the future trough our Lord and Savior Jesus Crist. I think he passed away in about three weeks after; hope not ashamed....and then you have seen fit in late years to honor me by printing in your noble papers many pieces from by pen holding in some way our Holy Christianity, but lastly to act in line with this with some pieces in the Home Circle Column which I was glad to see.

True happiness lies not in doing for ourselves alone, but in the performance of every duty that will ameliorate the condition of mankind in general, it seems to have been part of the Divine plan to put man into the world in such a condition that from his birth to his grave he is dependent on some one else, and many other thoughts worthy of consideration, yours respectfully,

J. H. TAYLOR.

LABOUR DEMONSTRATION AN IMPRESSIVE SUCCESS

PARADE OF UNIONS ONE OF THE MOST NUMEROUS AND IMPOSING EVER SEEN IN PETERBORO—DAY'S EVENTS PASSED OFF WITHOUT A HITCH—EVERYBODY DELIGHTED.

THE UNIONS IN LINE

Organised Labour's annual international holiday was celebrated in Peterborough yesterday with a sweeping success that realised the expectations of the organising committee and fully recompensed them for the arduous preparations they had made for the first big demonstration since the year previous to the War. The plans worked out smoothly and so effectually that the Trades and Labour Council must be as gratified as the large crowds were satisfied with the results.

Events that had seemed doubtful, such as the ball game coming after a long scheduled series, provided pleasant surprises, and the prospect of a comfortable credit balance on the financial side rounded out a perfect day. The parade in the afternoon was the feature of the whole proceedings. Twenty Unions were represented in the imposing retinue that embodied the new spirit of Labour, vitalised by its sacrifices in the War, proud of its contribution to Victory, aroused by a new sense of its dignity, its rights, and its responsibilities, and confident of its place in the new order of industry and human affairs. Not one of the Unions mustered its full strength, but the hundreds of workers, mechanics, and labourers and the men of the city's various crafts, reached out in an impressive line, suggesting an affinity of interests and unity of purpose, together with numerical power, that has given the Labour movement a new emphasis and a greater recognition of its importance to the community. Unions that had been for so long forced into a defensive, that were more or less furtive in their efforts to expand and grow, have suddenly found themselves hurriedly summoned to protect society and the established order against revolutionary and extreme communistic ideas and outbursts. As a result of the new conditions, responsibilities have been thrust upon the international organisations that have given them a new morale, a deeper pride in themselves, and thus far a reasonable compromising attitude that is encouraging and reassuring. These aspects of the Labour situation are as manifest locally as they are evident generally, and their effects were noticeable in yesterday's demonstration in Peterborough, just as they were common to the demonstrations that were held all over this continent.

THE PARADE OF UNIONS.

The Unions assembled in Central Park, and at a few minutes after half-past one o'clock, they swung out into George Street, following the route of Charlotte, Aylmer, and Hunter Streets to Riverside Park. The City Fire Fighters' Local 169 occupied the place of honour at the front of the line. They had five pieces of apparatus, polished and dusted to the last spoke and buckle.

Mr. Peter McArthur, of the Machinists, the Chief Marshal, rode in the Fire Chief's runabout with one of the men, and Ald. Morrison, chairman of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, was with him for part of the route, and also had a place on the big motor truck.

The mounted marshals were Victor Lebar and Harry Wilford, of the Fire Department.

The members of the Trades and Labour Council, who had arranged the details of the celebration, preceded the 57th Regimental Band. A place of honour was also given to the Women's Local of the Electrical Workers, who rode in decorated automobiles. President Bolwell, who has been chairman of the Labour Day Committee, marched with the Labour Council. He must be credited with a big share of the success, for he not only worked in season and out himself, but also inspired his associates in the wearisome weeks of preparation. Ald. Gainey, J. J. Hartley, Wm. Stevens, secretary of the Trades Council, and many other members, were all in line.

MOULDERS WERE STRONG.

The Moulders had a big delegation, and by right of pioneers and priority of charter, they were accorded the first place in the main body of the parade. They secured their charter in 1874, and all the other Unions have been formed here since the Pattern-makers in 1900. The Moulders had a fine banner and a decorated float, entitled "What We Have We'll Hold," showing a bull dog in a setting of Union Jacks.

SOME OF THE OTHER UNIONS.

The Typographical Union was also well represented, and the Electrical Workers, No. 261, had a bright, new banner at the head of their numerous group. The Machinists, with their emblematic banner, were outnumbered only by the Labourers, who had at least one hundred members in line. The Bricklayers and Masons were distributed among other groups for the reason that most of their members are out of town, and the Carpenters were also reduced in strength by the same cause. The recently organised Bakers were out in force, but the Barbers were comparatively few in number. Most of the Musicians were doing duty with the 57th Regimental Band, under the leadership of Mr. Rupert Gliddon. The Letter Carriers' had only a few of their members missing. The Stage Employees were represented, and the Steam, Operating and Hoisting Engineers attracted attention with a big banner. But the Labourers' Union carried off the palm with the biggest showing of members and a bright new banner, made, as were the others, by Mr. Hardie of this city. Ed. Tighe led his contingent dressed like a plutocrat, in a high silk hat, frock coat, and black trousers, all the raiment that is regarded as distinguishing the rich bourgeois from the proletariat. He carried an umbrella for any emergent shower that might dampen his finery, but a few scattered drizzles did not require its unfurling. The Labourers were certainly "there with the goods," and the splendour of their leader and their brilliant banner was reflected all down the long line.

The Baby Show.

Class 1—Six months and under—One prize, $4.00—Seven entries—Mrs. Harvey Staunton, Baby Wm. George, aged three months.

Class 2—Six months and under 12—Seven entries. Mrs. D. Corkery, Baby Jack, aged 11 months; Mrs. John Pirie, Baby Mary, aged 11 months. Each participant in this class was awarded a prize of $2.50, the judges deciding on a tie.

A special prize of $1.00 was added to Class 2, owing to the number of entries of really fine babies. Mrs. Earl Warde, Baby Ernest, age seven months, received the award.

The judges of the babies were Mrs. W. R. Morris, Mrs. R. H. Parsons and Alderman R. Morrison. It was only at almost the last moment that these worthy citizens were called upon to act, and the readiness with which they came forward with their services and the able manner in which they handled one of the most delicate tasks that can be given anyone to perform are worthy of the highest commendation.

In the afternoon a crowd numbering several thousand gathered at Rivers Park, where some excellent sports were run off. The sports programme was well organized, and each event enjoyed several entries, ensuring some good live displays of sportsmanship. Some exciting moments were lent by the close finishes in the different races.

The Results.

100 Yards' dash (union men)—1st, F. Scates; 2nd, R. Brady.

100 Yards' dash (open)—1st, Roy Cherrett; 2nd, Allen Hill (Port Hope).

Married ladies' race—1st, Mrs. L. Thompson; 2nd, Mrs. John Pirie.

Married men's race — 1st, J. McMartin; 2nd, W. Jackson.

Three-legged race—Roy Henry and Clifford Reynolds.

Girls' race (12 to 16 years) — 1st, Helen Conroy; 2nd, Lizzie Ridyard.

Girls' race (under 12 years)—1st, Annie Shaw; 2nd, Mary Lipsett.

Boys' race (12 to 16 years)—1st, F. Wolff; 2nd, R. Clancy.

Boys' race (under 12 years) — 1st, Kenneth Graham; 2nd, Ernest Wolff.

Dance at the Armouries.

The day's entertainment wound up by a dance at the Armouries, where the huge floor had been made ideal, and splendid music was supplied by members of the Musicians' Union.

HUSBAND THOUGHT $4 WAS TOO MUCH FOR HAT FOR HIS WIFE

California Judge Grants Woman Divorce from Economical Spouse.

LOS ANGELES. — How much should a woman pay for a hat? Is $4 to much?

Charlts F. Goodman, a foreman for a telephone company, thought it was extravagance, and his attractive wife, Rose Goodman, considered herself very economical when she paid the $4, so she said.

They couldn't agree so they passed the question up to Judge Willis.

The Judge scratched his head and listened to the testimony. While he carefully avoided making any direct reference to the $4 hat in giving judgment he upheld the wife's contentions in a general way by granting her a divorce.

Mrs. Goodman declared that her husband accused her of wasting his money. When her attorney, George W. Perkins, asked her to specify, she replied that she once bought a hat for $4, and her husband made her take it back, declaring, she said that it was too much to pay.

Goodman instituted the action, and accused his wife of cruelty. She then filed a cross complaint, in which she included some charges of her own, in which she alleged that she was caused mental suffering.

Most of the trouble of the Goodmans appeared to be over domestic finances. Once when a woman friend came to the house and suggested going to a theatre, Mrs Goodman said that she showed her friends some holes in an apron she was wearing, and said:

"Look at the holes in this apron. It has been nine months since my husband has given me dollar."

At this she said her husband retorted:

"Yes, and it will be 'never' before you ever get another dollar."

Mrs. Goodman said she always held sacred the anniversary of her birth and their wedding. On their wedding anniversay she said she went to the beach and her husband objected because they were short of money, the aniversary having fallen four days before the pay check was due.

"And all I bought was a 35-cent dinner," she said.

In addition to a decree Mrs. Goodman was awareded $20 a month alimony for two years.

HOSPITAL NURSE PRAISES TANLAC

GAINS ELEVEN POUNDS AND IS FEELING FINE SINCE TAKING TANLAC.

"Tanlac did so much for me that I feel it my duty to tell others about this medicine," said C. M. Rhamey, a professional nurse living at the Hotel George, on Sixth Street, San Francisco, Cal., recently. Mr. Rhamey has been nursing patients in the hospitals for the past eight years.

"Last February," he continued, "owing to an accident in which my leg was broken, I was confined to my bed for several weeks. I lost my appetite and could hardly eat anything to nourish me, consequently I lost weight. I took several different kinds of tonics, hoping they would help build me up, but they did me no good.

"One morning I read a statement by a lady in Los Angeles, who said she had got such wonderful benefits from taking Tanlac that I decided to try it myself. By the time I had finished half of my first bottle my appetite returned and I felt hungry for the first time in weeks. From then on I started right in to pick up, and my appetite got better and better and I slept better at night. I have already gained eleven pounds and am feeling just fine; even my doctor has remarked how much better I am looking. I would never allow my name to be used in connection with a medicine before, but I have had such excellent results from using Tanlac that I take great pleasure in recommending it to anyone needing a medicine to build up the system."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd.; in Havelock by A. C. Denike; in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd.; in Fowler's Corners by W. A. Hunter; in Gelert by A. J. Scott; in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

THE EASY LIFE.

"You college men seem to take life pretty easy."

"Yes; even when we graduate we do it by degrees."

BULLET HIT BOY IN THE SHOULDER

ACCIDENT ON DOWNIE STREET ON SATURDAY AFTERNOON.

Master Garnet Whaley, 10 years of age, had a narrow escape on Saturday afternoon on Downie Street, near Charlotte Street, when a bullet shot from a rifle in the hands of a companion entered his right shoulder. The bullet was partially spent when it reached its "billet," with the result that the boy escaped with a slight flesh wound.

Dr. Frank Neal attended him, and the bullet was extracted after being located by the X-ray. He is now almost completely recovered. The shooting was an accident, as the boy who held the rifle was aiming at a target, but he proved a poor marksman, and the bullet entered the shoulder of little Garnet Whaley, who was standing near.

He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Whaley, 186 Rubidge Street.

CHIMES PLAYED ON LABOUR DAY

In connection with the celebration of Labour Day in Riverside Park, a special programme of music was played upon the Peoples' Chimes by Mr. R. J. Devey.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Peterborough, 2nd Sept., 1919.

Editor of The Examiner:

Sir, — Yesterday's parade would have been greatly improved by a display of flags along the route. The Grafton Clothing Store, splendidly beflagged, was the only decoration visible outside the procession to the crowd on George Street. A courteous request from the Trades and Labour Council to the business men along the route another year, to put out their flags, would no doubt meet with an equally courteous response.

Thanking you for inserting this, if you think it worth while,—Yours,

Citizen.

IN MEMORIAM

MARTIN—In loving memory of Rosina Martin, who died Sept. 1st, 1918.

Inserted by Mrs. J. Edwards.

In sad and loving memory of our dear and only son and brother, Tom, who fell in action, Sept. 2, 1818, in his 20th year.

He died—that all he loved might live,
And man his mission might achieve;
He died for those he held most dear,
He died—to serve the world from fear.
For faith and liberty and truth,
He offered up his stalwart youth,
He fell—that peace might come again
Throughout the tortured world—and reign.

And we who loved him should rejoice
Though ever now we hear his voice,
That who joined the glorious ba
Who ished for the Motherland—
Died game!
If it is death to give one's life that all one loves may live.

Inserted by his mother and father, sisters Queenie, Doris and Nellie, Brother-in-law Will, and Grandma Goodwin, 151 Hart avenue.

In loving memory of our dear and only brother, Tom, killed in action Sept. 2, 1918, in his 20th year:

Just Away.

We must not say, and we will not say
That he is dead; he is just away,
With a cheery smile, and a wave of the hand.

He wandered into an unknown land,
And left us dreaming how very fair,
It needs must be since he lingers there,
And we, oh we, how fondly yearn
For the old-time steps, and the glad return.

Think of him faring on, as dear,
In the love of there as the love of here;
Think of him still, as his name we say,
He is not dead, he is just away.

Sister and Brother-in-law,
Madge and Walter Townsend,
151 Hart avenue.

In loving memory of Pte. Percy Fowler, who was killed in France, September 2nd, 1918:

Far from the home of his loved ones,
Laid to rest in a far-off land,
Never more shall our eyes behold him—
Never more shall we clasp his hand.
'Tis only those who have lost can tell
The pain of a parting without a farewell.
A foreign grave is the hardest blow
That only an aching heart can know.
—Interred by his loving sister, Mrs. H. E. Pollock, 581 Chamberlain street.

HIDDEN INFECPION OF TEETH SOURCE OF DANGER TO HEALTH

ROOSEVELT'S DEATH DUE TO POISONING OF HIS SYSTEM WHILE HE APPEARED TO BE IN BEST OF HEALTH—IMPORTANCE OF X-RAY.

One of the most striking features about the late Colonel Roosevelt was his teeth. When he smiled, he showed most of them. When he made a point in a speech he was accustomed to snap them together. They were large, white and even. Yet it now appears that Roosevelt's death was due to a diseased tooth. The direct cause of death was a pulmonary embolism, that is to say a clot of blood that was carried through an artery to the lungs, where it stopped circulation. The creation of this clot, however, was due to an infected tooth more than twenty years ago. Through the diseased tooth a malevolent organism entered the system and manifested itself in various ways on several occasions. Eventually it created the blood-clot which carried off the greatest of contemporary Americans when he appeared to be in his vigorous prime. This statement is made on the authority of Henry James Buxton, in the Philadelphia Public Ledger, who uses it as a text to call atention to the great importance that is now attached to the healthy teeth by medical authorities.

Modern Dentistry.

Until quite modern times the general idea was that the only risk one ran with a bad tooth was the risk of toothache, and toothache was often treated as an unavoidable ill. When a tooth ached too badly it was yanked out. When several teeth had been lost in this manner the custom was to have the remaining ones extracted and their place taken by a set of store teeth, preferably of a pale blue tint. These teeth in two sets were removed at night and deposited in a glass of water and more than once it has happened—but that is another story, and not any too pleasant. In late years dental science has made many discoveries about teeth. It is found, for instance that in hardly any circumstances is it wise to extract a sound tooth. It has discovered the wisdom of filling the first teeth of children. It has performed miracles in the way of crown and bridge work, and now it is coming to the conclusion that the pride it took in much of this work was false pride, and that a crowned tooth is a danger, that toothache is the smallest of the ills that attend an insanitary state of the mouth, that the proper care of the teeth may be a mater of life and death, that, indeed, thousands of people die annually as a result of infections that enter the body through diseased teeth.

American and Canadian Teeth.

Rheumatism and infections of the heart, kidneys and intestines are often closely associated with the condition of the teeth. For example, it has been learned that these afflictions were most common in the Austrian and Italian armies in which dental science was least advanced. The writer claims that the American army went to the front with the best teeth of any army in the world, all filed and set, as it were. This claim may be disputed. No army had any superiority over the Canadian army with respect to the health of the men's teeth. If the American soldiers were as well attended to, that must be the limit of their claim. It is not necessary to argue ,of course, that in the United States and Canada there are the best dentists in the world, that the average teeth are better cared for than in any other civilized countries, and that the importance of sound teeth is understood by almost everybody, since the dental principles are taught in school. But even here, it appears, there is much to learn.

Dead Teeth Dangerous.

For instance, the famous Dr. C. H. Mayo, of Rochester, Minn., says that "a crowned tooth is not a crown of glory and may cover a multitude of sins." The really dangerous tooth is the dead tooth, the tooth from which the nerve has been removed. This tooth cannot ache, nor form an abcess, but here is always the possibility of germs remaining in it and laying the foundation for some illness that may incapacitate, or cause the death of the victim, and he have no reason at all to suspect the cause of the trouble. On this account some medical men and dentists are now advancing that every devitalized tooth should be removed from the head. Tonsilitis, earache, inflammation of the nasal cavities, deafness, eczema, rheumatism, blood poisoning are a few of the ills that modern science has traced to teeth that have never ached but that have harbored germs. One authority mentions a case of obstinate deafness in a middle-aged woman which was completely cured by extracting the roots of a couple of teeth.

Importance of X-Ray.

In discovering the cause of some mysterious maladies the X-ray has been of great assistance. By its aid, Dr. Mayo says, the presence of alveolar, absorbed roots of teeth or absorbed bone without the teeth, have been detected when there was no other indication that there was anything amiss in the mouth. He points out that the one place in the body in which man quite regularly if not invariably, carries bacteria, is the mouth. On this account there is no other part of the body whose constant attention is so important. Another doctor observes that the modern dental surgeon must look beyond the little problem of saving a patient's tooth to the greater question of saving him from a serious or perhaps fatal infection. Regular brushing of the teeth, and rinsing of the mouth with some mild antiseptic, inspection by a competent dentist once or twice a year will go far to maintain the teeth in good condition, but it will require an X-ray examination to determine whether a dead tooth that has given no trouble for years perhaps, should be permitted to remain in the jaw. The responsibilities of the dentist are increasing.

The caddy who was carrying his clubs was a new lad—at least new to him—possessed of many freckles and a face wholly devoid of expression.

Noticing that the caddy never once smiled nor sneezed at his employers' bad strokes, the player after a time began to take quite a fancy to him.

At the end of the round he said, in the hope doubtless of some sort of compliment, "I have been so busy lately that I am quite out of practice. That is why I am in such poor form to-day."

The caddy gazed at him incredulously for a second or two, and then replied, "Gordeplus! Then you 'ave played golf before?"

INCITING NEGROES TO SOVIET REVOLT

SIGNS OF ORGANIZATION TO OVERTHROW THE GOVERNMENT.

WASHINGTON.—Negroes of the country are being organized by the I. W. W. and the "Reds" to assist in overturning the recent form of government in the United States and installing the soviet rule, according to charges made on the floor of the House to-day by Representative Byrnes, of South Carolina.

Representative Byrnes read sensational extracts from various negro magazines tending to support this claim. He charged that the recent race riots in Chicago and Washington were in part the result of this movement and announced that he will call on the Department of Justice for action. He declared in this connection, that he was bringing particularly to the atention of the Attorney General utterances in print of W. E. B. DeBois, negro editor of the Crisis, a monthly published in New York, with a demand that he be prosecuted under the Espionage Act.

Several of the extracts quoted from the various publications by the South Carolinian declared that the Germans in the occupied portion of France treated the negro soldiers of the United States with far greater consideration than the white Americans did, and one declared that the status of the negro would be better off "if the war had lasted a little longer and America had been given greater chastisement."

MODESTY TO PREVAIL IN DANCES THIS YEAR.

NEW YORK. — Modesty and respectability will prevail in dancing from now on, according to the official forecast of the second annual convention of the American National Association of Masters of Dancing, held here recently. Three hundred members from all parts of Canada and the U. S. attended, and Fenton Bott, president of the association, voiced the prediction, "The old waltz is coming back again—is already back," he said, 'and there will be no new dances—only a few modifications. For instance ladies who have been pushed backward over the ballroom floor too much, will go forward on a 50-50 basis with the men."

BIG FIGHT ON OPEN SHOP IN PITTSBURG

FEDERATION OF LABOUR WILL TRY TO UNIONIZE U. S. STEEL CORPORATION—THREATEN GENERAL STRIKE.

Pittsburg, Aug. 28.—After a year of preparation for what, if it eventuates, may be one of the most momentous struggles between Capital and Labor that this country ever has known, the American Federation of Labor is preparing to attack "the last great citadel of the open shop" in America—the United Steel Corporation. The success or failure of the movement now under way may mark the beginning of a new era in the relation of Capital and Labor in the United States.

Much Depends On It.

If the American Federation of Labor succeeds in bringing about a general strike in steel industry, as it threatened to do in the event that its demands are not met, and forces the United States Steel Corporation to surrender, its victory will be one of the greatest achievements of organized Labor, and will prove beyond question how completely Capital is at the mercy of Labor.

On the other hand, if the Federation should persist in its announced purpose to bring about a general strike and then fail to win after twelve months of organization and preparation, it would indicate that the workers of one great industry at least, appreciates that there are limits to which big business ought to go in making concessions to Labor. Also it would indicate that the Federation is not so strongly intrenched as some of its leaders would have the public believe, and that it can be successfully defied, at least under certain circumstances.

EFFICIENCY TEST FOR HOUSEKEEPERS

WOMAN PROPOSES LIST OF QUESTIONS FOR HOMEMAKERS.

To Mrs. T. Q. Franks a medal has been awarded as America's best home-maker. Here is the efficiency test which she would submit to every housekeeper to answer:

1. Do you consider your occupation of housewife a profession of which you are proud and to which you bring your most intelligent attention?

2. Do you and your husband regard yourselves as business partners, sharing a knowledge of the family finances and prospects, and co-operate in spending your income wisely?

3. Have you a stated amount to expend on food, operating expenses, furniture, recreation, etc.

4. Have you a personal bank account for the income entrusted to ... and do you handle bills and other communications systematically and promptly?

5. Have you a cost keeping system which is a complete record of every day's expenditures? Can you give a yearly or monthly statement of what you have spent and how?

6. Is your house planned throughout on sanitary, economic principles, both for yourself and for all others within it? Are the heating, ventilating and lighing systems up to the maximum in quality and quantity and down to the minimum cost?

7. Have you accurate knowledge of all labor-saving devices applicable to your household, supplying all you can afford? Is the work of your house intelligently planned, so that each worker has a clear idea of individual responsibilities and a reasonable time of rest?

8. Have you a practical knowledge of cooking? Of economical buying, stock-taking and the balance ration?

9. Have you taken all possible precautions against fire, thievery and other dangers to the house? Have you a complete inventory of all your household belongings?

10. Have you compared all your housekeeping methods, in detail, with those of at least a dozen women of similar incomes and circumstances ?Are you willing to be told that your methods might be improved by such practical housekeepers?—by an employee?—by an expert?

In marking yourself on this test, allow 10 for each question, giving yourself a fair percentage if you cannot fairly claim the entire 10 points. Add results for your total percentage of 100, or "perfect."

"DOES GOD PROHIBIT?"

(By REV. JOHN GALT)

The following sermon was delivered Sunday at Gilmour Memorial and Selwyn Baptist churches, by the Rev. John Galt. As it deals with the liquor question it will be read with interest:

Does God Prohibit? The epidemic of scriptural quotation which has broken out in conection with the discussion of the coming Referendum on the Ontario Temperance Act, will have caused but little surprise to thoughtful people, for it was to be expected that both parties would be anxious to claim the support of the Book, which more than all other books commands respect and enlists confidence. Nor is it a matter of surprise that a Book comprising sixty-six distinct works by some thirty writers and produced during a period of many centuries should be found to abound in texts which can be pressed into the service of the one or of the other. Both parties seem to show a tendency to set aside the more common arguments, involving economics and expediency. As in the classical instance of the Apostle Paul when he appealed to Ceasar, the highest authority in the Empire of his day, so the appeal seems to be from the lower to the highest court of appeal known to man: the Word of God. Like the judge who was hearing Paul's case, we say with all readiness, Acts XXV, 12: "Hast thou appealed unto Cesar, unto Cesar thou shalt go.

God's Dealings with Man.

The statement has been made that God does not prohibit anything, and by some process of reasoning not indicated, the inference is drawn that when we prohibit, we assume to know better than God. This argument reminds one of King David who said of himself that he was fearfully and wonderfully made. But in any case let us see what the record of God's dealings with man have to say as to God's not prohibiting anything.

In the second chapter of Genesis, while the first pair of human beings were still in their innocency, a prohibitory law was promulgated which provided that of the tree of the knowledge of good and evil they should not eat; moreover the law was complete in all respects, even the familiar penalty was duly stated. This tree God had made and on examination our first mother pronounced it to be good for food and pleasant to the eye and to be desired to make one wise—a much better description than could with fairness be given of alcoholic liquor. This prohibitory law was broken by our first parents and the penalty was duly imposed "dying, thou shall die."

Then in the following chapter we find that another tree, the "tree of life," was placed under prohibition, and that the strong sword of power and authority was employed in enforcement.

We refrain at this time from exposition of these passages of Scripture for the reason that we are simply conducting an enquiry as to whether or not "God prohibits nothing."

Time and patience would both fail if any attempt were made to give anything like a complete list of the divine prohibitionists recorded in Scripture. It will be enough to have it pointed out that when God gave the law to the children of Israel, through Moses, about half or the things that we permit ourselves to eat were placed on the prohibited list—amongst other things were pork, hare, rabbit, oysters, eels and turtle.

Nor were the prohibitory laws mere advisory affairs for severe penalties were imposed for every breach that might be made in the prohibition list.

Ten Commandments.

Those who have received even the most elementary religious instruction well know that the Ten Commandments are for the most part prohibition measures. They prohibit for instance the manufacture and use of idols, and work by either man or beast on the Sabbath. We Gentiles may fancy that God does not prohibit anything, but we have only to ask one of our Jewish neighbors why none of their number are in the hog-raising business to be told that for ever 3,000 years the sons of Abraham have been living under total prohibition so far as the pork business is concerned.

That we have noted seems to dispose of the statement that God prohibits nothing, but even if it could be shown that it is really the case that God prohibits nothing at all, it would still have to be proved that we ought not to prohibit anything. An honest effort to understand just what is meant by the statements so frequently appearing in the newspapers has resulted in a guess that the complete argument might be as follows:

It is wrong for man to do what God does not do.

God does not prohibit.

Therefore it is wrong for man to prohibit.

The soundness of this argument will depend on the truth of the first statement, and the truth of that may easily be tested by applying it to other things. For example—

It is wrong for man to do what God does not do.

God does not use a typewriter.

Therefore, it is wrong for man to use a typewriter.

It is wrong for man to do what God does not do.

God does not use spectacles.

Therefore it is wrong for man to use spectacles.

The absurdity of the reasoning is apparent in these instances, for it is evident that we are constantly doing things that God cannot be imagined as doing.

It is strange that anybody in good health should ask people that there should be a 'thus saith the Lord' before we proceed to put a ban on any undesirabel thing. It is inevitable that there should be differences of opinion on such a matter as the abolition of oru drinking customs and it ought to be posible for us to believe that those with whom we contend are just as honest and sincere as we claim to be.

In the present instance our opponents are making it altogether too difficult a task to believe in their sincerity when they make such wild statements. Every lawyer and almost every citizen knows that practically every law on the statute book is a prohibition measure. We had total prohibition of the manufacture, importation and sale of margarine in Canada for years, and that too by a Dominion statute. Where were the protectors of our liberties when that law was passed, and while it was in force?

Will any man dare to say that the British Parliament dishonoured God or incurred His displeasure when by the note hat of a free people they declared every man in their empire as freee as God intended him to be?

Abolition of Slavery.

Who dores to say that the abolition of slavery was not in line with the will of God eben though it is true that nowhere in the Holy Writ is there any direct command to prohibit slavery. What the Bible did was to enunciate principles which when accepted and acted upon made the permission of slavery an impossibility. When oru opponents demand of us that we shall produce a 'Thus saith the Lord' before we proceed to abolish the drink trac we feel like suggesting that a suitable text of Scripture for their consideration would be 'Be not righteous over-much.'

The statement that God made alcohol has been made with an insistence that is almost pathetic. We are invited, I suppose, to infer, that if God made a thing we should not prohibit it but the fact is that almost everything that we do prohibit is a something that God has made. It is also the fact that we never heard of this doctrine of non-interference with what God has made until we determined to interfere with that one thing which more than any singe agency unmakes God's great masterpiece, Man—who alone of all the creatures is declared to be made in the likeness and image of God. I feel like saying to our opponents, "Fellows, why don't you play the game?" You know that you are all strong prohibitionists when it suits your case; why cannot you allow that what is sauce for the goose is also sauce for the gander?? You prohibit lots of things that God made and there is no talk of anyone knowing more than God.

If any anti-prohibitionist fortunate enough to be a married man, would go home and propound to his wife that inasmuch as God made cooties, therefore they must be prohibited, he will be sure to get the thing straightened out, in double quick time, good measure, pressed down, shaken together and running over.

DESTROYERS of stockings! Truly. The rules of wear and tear they know from A to Z. Yet, try as they will, it takes them longer to go through the knees of Penmans stockings.

There's something more than strong re-inforcing to defy the wear and tear. The yarn is of special long-fibre, spun carefully to insure strength.

To make sure of extra wear as well as neatness and warmth, mothers need only remember the name Penmans.

PRESENTATION BY AUBURN EMPLOYEES

MR. JOHN M'AULIFFE PRESENTED WITH ADDRESS AND HANDSOME CLOCK.

On the occasion of his recent marriage Mr. John McAuliffe, of the finishing department of the Auburn Woollen Company, was met by his fellow employees on Saturday last, when the following address was read and a presentation made of a handsome clock:

Peterborough, Aug. 29th, 1919.

To Mr. John McAuliffe:

Dear Friend,—We, your fellow employees of the Finishing Department of the Auburn Woollen Company, having learned of the very important and pleasant step you are about to take, feel we cannot allow this most auspicious occasion to pass without expressing to you in some slight, tangible form our appreciation of the many good qualities you have shown while working amongst us. Your genial good nature and willingness to assist us in everything you can has won our gratitude and appreciation and we all join in wishing yourself and bride very many happy and prosperous years.

Yours on behalf of the staff—

C. W. Fairgrieve, Foreman.

Mr. McAuliffe briefly thanked his friends for their very kindly consideration of himself and his bride.

LEMON JUICE TAKES OFF TAN

Girls! Make bleaching lotion if skin is sunburned, tanned or freckled

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle, sunburn and tan lotion, and complexion beautifier, at very small cost.

You grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of Orchard White for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day and see how freckles, sunburn, windburn and tan disappear and how clear, soft and white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless.

BIG BREWERY PROFITS.

British Firm Pays Huge Tax, But Has the Money.

No less than £5,855,900 gross brewing profit and £2,175,800 net, were made by the great Guinness brewery business during the past year—easily record figures for this huge concern. TThe net profit is £695,300 higher than that for the last complete year before the war. In excise and license duties and other taxation the company paid to the Government during the year the enormous sum of £4,666,400. In spite of this the fortunate ordinary share holders get a 16-per-cent. dividend for the fourth year in succession, and receive it free of income-tax. The company's position is enormously strong, its reserve, including the £250,000 set aside out of the profits of the past 12 months, being £1,965,600. And this in spite of the fact that not far short of a million sterling was withdrawn from it this time last year to pay a substantial bonus to Ordinary shareholders in Five per Cent. War Loan.

To Discard Freckles, Tan, Pimples, Blotches

The use of creams containing animal grease sometimes causes hair to grow. You run no risk of acquiring superfluous hair when you use ordinary mercolized wax. There is nothing better for a discoloured skin, as the wax actually absorbs the offensive cuticle—gradually, gently, so there is no detention indoors and no inconvenience. The discarded complexion naturally is replaced by a clear, smooth, healthy ne—full of life and expression. It's the sensible way of get rid of a freckled, tanned, over-red, blotchy or pimpled skin. Just procure an ounce of mercolized wax at any druggist's and apply nightly like cold cream, erasing in the morning with soap and water. It takes a week or so to complete the transformation.

PETES BEAT PORT HOPE AND CANNON BALL SCOTT

The two ball games between the Port Hope and Peterborough Central League teams at Riverside Park yesterday morning were features of the Labour Day celebration that greatly pleased the fans.

In the morning game the two teams played a 4-4 tie, and in the afternoon fixture the Petes won after an exciting battle by 4 runs to 3.

Finnegan Hills for Port Hope, and Lornie Rose for the Petes, engaged in a pitcher's battle in the morning game, and both pitched clever ball, Hill being in far better form than when he pitched here some weeks ago. It was a close finish. Port Hope were ahead 4 to 2 when the Petes went to bat in the ninth, but Murray's double, Heenan's long triple to right field, an infield out, and safe hits by Rose and Cherrett, sent two runs over and tied up the game. Solomon, who batted for McCarney, was thrown out at the plate with what would have been the winning run.

The afternoon game was one of the best exhibitions of the season. Port Hope had secured the services of Cannon Ball Ed. Scott, and the Hillcrest-Lindsay twirler worked his head off to beat the Petes. He and Kirn battled along on even terms until the 8th innings when the Petes sent over the runs that put them ahead and won the game. Cherrett and Ray Rose both hit safely, and then Swanston came through with a timely triple that sent two runs over. The score was tied at 2-2 when the Petes' backstop came through with the wallop.

It was 4 to 2 against Port Hope when they went to bat in the ninth, but they staged a rally that nearly won out for them. An error by Cherrett and two hits sent a run over, and with nobody out and two on the sacks the outlook was not any too bright for the Petes. Lorne Rose relieved Kirn at this stage and pulled the game out of the fire by striking out Morse, Scott and Rowdon in a row, leaving the base-runners stranded. It was great pitching and the fans were delighted.

Kirn pitched fine ball up to the ninth, his curve holding the visitors in check in grand style.

The game was one of the most exciting of the year.

The Petes lined up as follows in the afternoon game:

Swanston, c.; Kirn p., l.f.; L. Rose, 3b., p.; Jackson, 1b.; R. Rose, 2b.; Cherrett, s.s.; Murray, l.f., 3b.; McCarney, m.; Heenan, c.f.

The line-up in the morning was practically the same, except that Clancy was in the outfield.

Alex. Kay was the umpire-in-chief of the afternoon game, with Art Johnston on the bases.

Port Hope lined up as follows:

Rowden, 2b.; A. Hills 1b, F. Chalk 3b, R. Chalk c, R. Hills rf, Weir lf, Sleeman m, Maher ss, Scott p.

The score, by innings, of the afternoon game was as follows:

Port Hope .. .. .. .. 000200001—3

Peterborough .. .. .. 00110002—4

Scott allowed eleven hits and struck out eleven, while Kirn only gave four hits and Rose none, Kirn striking out four and Rose three.

BRIGHTON WILL PLAY HERE THURSDAY NIGHT

The ball game with Brighton, announced for Wednesday night of this week, will be played instead on Thursday night, the change being made at the request of the visitors. Brighton beat the Petes 8 to 2 last week and are one of the best teams the locals have encountered. The majority of them are American players who are summering in the Brighton district and the outfit have only lost one game this season, being beaten 8 to 2 by the champion Belleville team. They have beaten Belleville once, and everything else they have encountered. In Bullock, they have one of the best third basemen seen around these parts, while Lefty Allen, their pitcher, is a crack southpaw, and Strong is a clever catcher. The first baseman, Dr. McGee, played overseas with the Canadian forces. The Brighton game will be played at Riverside Park at 6.15 o'clock and should be one of the best of the season.

BASEBALL

This question was put to Christy Mathewson:—"Do you think the reds strong enough to beat the White Sox?"

"Why the Reds?" was the rejoinder. "We aren't out of it yet. Baseball, as you may know, is uncertain, and if they hit a slump and we spurt we can beat them."

"True enough, but if the Reds finish first, do you think they are strong enough to win the world's series"

"Why not, if they're strong enough to win the pennant in this league?"

Clark Griffith intends to use youngsters from now on—"a whole flock of 'em" as he puts it. Two will make their appearance against the Yankees to-day. One is Harris, a second baseman from Buffalo, and the other is Ellerbe, a young third baseman Griffith rent to Binghamton last spring and who will be tried to-day at short.

Can the Reds win 100 games? It's a stiff contract. They have only twenty-five to run their victory total up to 100, and, feeling that the pennant is in, it would be natural for them to ease off.

Two master shine ball specialists will come to grips if the White Sox and Reds win the day in their respective leagues. Cicotte, the father of the shine ball, as it were, and Eller who has had success with it this year, are likely to have it out once or twice. Cicotte has fine control and does a lot of effective work without using the ball. Eller, I think, has more speed than the Chicagoan and can put on a more baffling up and down skip on the shiner. The shine ball, according to what a big league umpire told the writer the other day, is no good unless it breaks up or down. A lateral slant doesn't bother a batter. The vertical and lateral slant depends on how the ball is held with relation to the slickened area.

ENGLISH FOOTBALL BEGINS NEXT WEEK

LONDON.—Intense enthusiasm is being shown through the country in the opening of the soccer season next Saturday. The sport will be resumed on the lines of the pre-war days, including the English Cup ties, internationals and the three principal competitions, Divisions 1 and 2 of the English League and the Southern League, each consisting of twenty-two clubs. In addition to the clubs which gained promotion to the First Division at the end of season 1914-15, the two vacancies in that competition caused by the extension of the league were filled by the election of Chelsea and the Arsenal. There was a struggle for the four vacant positions in the Second Division, and at the top of the poll were two Southern League clubs—Coventry City and West Ham United. The former had been playing in one of the war competitions promoted by this league, but West Ham United did not make public their intention of becoming a candidate until shortly before the special meeting. For thus leaving the Southern League that body promptly fined the "Hammers" $2,500.

The following clubs have entered for the principal competitions, English League, Division 1:

The Arsenal, Ashton Villa, Blackburn Rovers, Bolton Wanderers, Bradford, Bradford City, Burnley, Chelsea, Derby County, Everton, Liverpool, Manchester City, Manchester United, Middlesborough, Newcastle United, Notts County, Oldham Athletic, Preston North End, Sheffield United, Sheffield Wednesday, Sunderland.

TWENTY ROUND BOUT TO-NIGHT BETWEEN TWO HEAVYWEIGHTS

JOE BECKETT AND EDDIE M'GOORTY LOOK FOR A KNOCK-OUT

(United Press)

LONDON, Sept. 2.—Confidence in their ability to win by the knock-out route was expressed to-day by both Joe Beckett, British heavyweight champion, and Eddie McGoorty, American, who meet to-night in a twenty round bout at the Olympia.

The twenty round set-to between the French bantam champion, Charles Ledoux, and Walter Ross, British champion, was called off, it was announced this morning. It seemed probable to-day that McGoorty will be unable to make more than 165 pounds, while Beckett will enter the ring weighing about 184 pounds.

Betting on the big match was lively, with the champion a favourite. McGoorty's backers were playing him on the form he showed recently in knocking out Harry Rolph and Harry Reve, British heavyweights. The dope also fired said that the American's speed and ring generalship would balance the weight handicap. Beckett expressed the utmost confidence and announced his intention of taking on the French champion, Georges Carpentier, next, and then making a bid for the world title in a battle with Jack Dempsey.

Fred Fulton, the American plasterer predicted he would knock out Arthur Townley, British lightweight, in five rounds. They are scheduled to go ten rounds in a preliminary.

TENNIS ONCE A CRIME

Modern folk are accustomed to regard tennis as an innocent enough sport, likewise bowls and shove ha'penny, which is still a popular game in the Navy; but our ancestors even went so far as to pass a law against these mild forms of recreation.

In 1541, the "bowyers, fletchers, stringers, and arrowheaded-makers of this realme" petitioned Henry VIII of matrimonial fame, to prohibit "Sundries newe and crafty games as . . . slydethrifte, otherwise called shovegrote, tennys and bowles, practised within this realme to the great hurt and lets of shotinge and archerie."

It apears that the lads of the village preferred to exercise their cunning at 'slydethriffte" when, in the opinion of the bow and arrow makers, they would have been better occupied in shooting at the butts on the village green.

However, King Henry granted the petition, moved no doubt, by a passage mourning the decay of good archers. . . "who have not only defended this realme against the cruell malice and danger of their enemyes in tyme paste, but also with little numbers. . . have done many notable actes and discomfytures of warre against the infidels." The fine old English fighting spirit which rings through this passage must have appealed to bluff King Hal, and Act of Parliament was duly passed making the "newe and craftye" games illegal, and rendering players thereof liable to a penalty for each offence of 6s. 8d.—a considerable sum in those days.

Presumably the "bowyers and fletchers" went on their way rejoicing all unaware of the danger which threatened their craft from another quarted. They had not reckoned with a certain Friar Bacon, whose discovery of gunpowder was destined to bring about the "decay of archerie" for good and all.

CLOVER SEED IS VERY SCARCE

SMALL SEEDS WILL BE VERY HIGH IN PRICE.

Red Clover seed will be very scarce and high in price. Farmers everywhere should be interested in the situation of small seeds. The price of alsike, alfalfa, sweet clover and timothy seed will be relatively high with red.

See what the Toledo market, one of the main world markets quotes on Aug. 25 for December deliveries. For red clover $30 for alsike $25.05 for timothy $5.70 per bushel.

It seems too bad this year to see cattle eating off fair to good red clover seed prospects in Central and Eastern Ontario. Be sure there is little or no seed in the second growth clover before turning stock in it. Eliminate as far as possible the weed seed danger by cutting, pulling or picking them out of the seed crop when practical. Don't cut the the killed out or thin spots, where foxtail, ragweed, mustard and other weeds common and noxious are most prevalent.

Thresh lot of the hay in which matured timothy seed in many cases alsike and red clover seed as well, throughout Eastern and Northern Ontario where alsike grew like a weed this year. The fodder will not be injured for feeding and good money may be made from the sale of the seed as well. Where ox-eye daisy is a prevalent weed do not thresh out seed. Most other weed seeds may be separated.

Some provision will be made for getting the threshing done by properly fitted machines that will do the work satisfactorily where there is enough seed worth while and three weeks or one month's threshing would be worth while.

The Ontario Department of Agriculture will send free of charge, on application, experts to fit the ordinary threshing machines for threshing the small seeds and will locate where secod hand hullers are available.

THE NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—After resting 3 days the stock market opened to-day with all leading issues showing strength.

U. S. Steel opened at 104 1-4, up 1; Marine at 57 1-8, up 1-8; Sinclair Oil at 59 1-4 up 7-8; Studebaker at 110, up 1 3-4; Central Leather at 97 1-2, up 1 5-8; Mexican Petroleum at 189, up 1-4; Southern Pacific at 104 1-2, up 5-8; Pan-American at 116 1-2, up 2 1-4.

The market continued its upward movement, going into new high ground before the end of the first half hour. Oil shares led, and the advance in Mexican Petroleum and Pan-American approximated four points. In early trading General Motors sold at 239 1-2.

The market held its early gains right up till noon. These gains centred in oils, shipping and motors shares.

The market closed strong. U. S. Steel, which was above 106 in the afternoon, reached less than a point.

ROSS CRAIG MAY COACH DUSDAS O. R. F. U. TEAM

DUNDAS, Aug. 27.—Dundas will be represented in the O.R.F.U. junior series this fall. A meeting of the players of the Valley Town will be held in the library building Thursday night at 8 o'clock to discuss plans.

Ross Craig, the famous line plunger, will likely coach the team.

DIES AFTER FIGHT.

Opponents Held Without Bond—Referee Also Arrested.

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 29.—Frank Heifling, of Wilkesbarre, Pa., a prize-fighter, died in the city hospital here to-day, as a result of injuries sustained in a prize fight last night. His opponent K. O. Circus, of Pittsburg, was held without bail. Sam Louis, the referee, was held in $1,000 bail.

Circus landed a right short hook which caught Heifling square on the jaw in the eight round and felled him. Referee Lewis counted ten, and the spectators thought Heifling had merely been knocked out. Heifling was carried to his corner by the seconds, who threw water on him. He had a spasm and again lapsed into unconsciousness. Physicians worked on Heifling for an hour, but failed to revive him. He was then taken to the hospital.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

An April Fool's Paradise

By EDITH MORGAN WILLETT

(Copyright)

Mr. Bud Bennington was responsible for it. So, naturally, was the first of April—our ancient feast day sacred to the observance of practical jokes.

It must be explained just here that Bud was a born joker, having a sense of humor which might truly be called "saving," from the fact that he invariably practiced it at other people's expense. On this particular morning, for instance, literally no pains had been spared.

The day was still young, the hour being 8 a. m., but already in order to celebrate it properly old Miss Skipworth, a fellow boarder, had been operated upon with most satisfactory results.

Miss Skipworth hated traveling and had a cat-like horror of rain. And it was a rainy morning. She had also been overheard referring to Bud as "an empty-headed young idler." Therefore an imperative telegram from her lawyer had just arrived, summoning her to New York on "urgent business." And even as the author of it sat by his cosy sitting-room fire, he could hear from the next room the sounds of excited feminine bustle, and a shrill voice issuing unintelligible directions.

From time to time other tones chimed in, too, at which Bud looked a little pensive; for that second voice belonged to Miss Skipworth's niece and his own best girl—the sole reason, in fact, why he at twenty-one, with a fortune and an automobile, was wasting both at a suburban family hotel instead of disporting them at Newport or at Palm Beach.

The thought of Phylys Folsom, on this especial morning, however, was not entirely welcome, as it reminded Bennington of some one else in the house, and he became suddenly, irritably conscious of noises coming from the veranda underneath his room.

"There's that Pomeroy now!" he mused disgustedly. "Tramping about and mooning up at her window, as usual. Oh, the unutterable fool! Just because Phylys is kind enough to notice him occasionally, when I'm not 'round, he has the brass to fall in love with her! Or rather"—satirically—"he hasn't the brass, with only a miserable law business to depend upon."

Mr. Bennington stretched himself luxuriously in his silk-lined dressing-gown and continued his reflection.

"I suppose the truth is, Phylys is sorry for Pomeroy. . . . Well, who wouldn't be? . . . What a life! Every day hard at work in the city—grinding away half the night over his law-books! Gee! I wonder what the poor devil would do if some one left him a fortune—or a fake fortune! Jiminy crickets! How's that for an April fool?"

Pulling a piece of paper toward him, he selected a pen with care and began to write:

New York, April 1.

My Dear Sir:

I have just deposited to your credit at the Fifth Avenue bank of this city the sum of $2,500, the amount, with interest at 6 per cent. of a loan made to me by your father ten years ago. I regret very much that I was unable to repay it during his lifetime, but am only just in condition to discharge an obligation which has lain very heavily on my mind.

Believe me, with sincere regards,

Very truly yours,

Douglas Wallace.

Purging his lips thoughtfully, he now proceeded to forge a check, and then, cramming the letter with its enclosure into a business envelope, turned the latter over in order to write on its back in tiny letters two meaningful words appropriate to the season.

"Perhaps he'll see them when he doesn't find the money at the bank," Bennington surmised, with a grim chuckle, "and then won't he be ripping!"

He was still hard at work five minutes later when a knock at the door made him start guiltily. But it was only one of the numerous "Buttons" in the house, bearing a steaming, smoking, breakfast-tray. Bennington hailed both jubilantly. "Get a job for you, Sam," he announced. "Now listen, my boy."

Wheeling around, he dropped his voice in a few whispered directions. There was the clink of coin followed by the gleam of African teeth, and a fervent "T'ank ye, sah. Trus' me, sah!"

Gazing anxiously at the dining-room door, Bennington saw it open suddenly.

"Dear me!" cried a familiar high-pitched voice. "Here's the trap already! Phylys, dear, just get my bag; hurry.

"Ah, there's Pomeroy!"

He glanced down at a tall young man putting on his hat in the hall, and then drew back, with an irresistible chuckle, as the form of Sam appeared solemnly in the doorway holding out an envelope, with these portentous words, "Special-deliberate letter, sah!"

Pomeroy took it. So far, so good!

There was the crisp rending of paper, followed by silence.

At last some one looked in through the front door, a girlish figure in a white duck suit. "I hope you haven't any bad news, Mr. Pomeroy?" asked a voice that made Bennington start consciously.

Pomeroy started too. "No, indeed, Miss Phylys," he stammered; "but I—I don't think I'll go to town today. You see——"

Bennington was completing a lengthy toilet an hour later, when something—a mysterious, prophetic something—made him glance out of his front window, through which the April sun was now shining effulgently. Its beams lay in golden shafts over the shaven lawn, and across it, from the direction of the hotel, could be seen strolling leisurely a man and a girl! There was no mistaking them. Pomeroy had stolen a march on Bennington, or—what was worse—a walk with Phylys.

The rest of the morning seemed interminable to Bennington. It had cleared off beautifully, after all, with a turquoise sky above, and under foot a hard earthiness that positively cried for motoring. But Bennington's machine stood neglected in the garage, while its owner tramped moodily up and down the hotel piazza smoking frequent cigars and wondering when that couple would return. They had not come back by luncheon, which meal Bud devoured hastily, stationing himself immediately afterward in his first front window, where with an impatience which turned gradually into positive alarm, he sat scanning the drive as the minutes rolled by.

What had happened? What could have become of them?

At 3 o'clock a distant whistle proclaimed the New York train, and some minutes later the hotel 'bus drew up in front of the door, depositing Miss Skipworth, not to mention her umbrella, waterproof, valise, and sundry parcels.

"Such a nice day as I've had!" she announced cheerfully to a little group assembled on the hotel piazza. "Whom should I meet as I got out at the Grand Central station but my old friends, the Allertons, just in town for the day! We lunched together at the Waldorf and had a delightful talk. But, what do you think? Mr. Selfridge and his partner were both out of town and the office closed! Isn't it the most extraordinary thing about that telegram?"

"She's had a lovely time, however, thanks to it," thought Bennington, rather sadly. Somehow, although his jokes were brilliantly successful, they had not turned out quite to his satisfaction.

Grimly he watched a certain pair come into sight at last along the drive, the girl swinging her hat, while the youth ambled beside her with a jauntiness that struck Bennington as positively asinine. Listening anxiously he heard them come into the house, and a moment later steps ascended the stairs and stopped at Bennington's door.

"May I come in?" inquired a masculine voice. And without waiting for permission Pomeroy entered the room—a beaming, glorified, altogether incomprehensible Pomeroy.

"Hello!" he said, grinning idiotically, "haven't seen you before today."

Here, quite unnecessarily, he strode across and shook Bennington warmly by the hand. "Well, old boy——"

The reserved, diffident Pomeroy calling any one "old boy!"

"Fork out your congratulations—every one of 'em. She accepted me. I tell you, man, Phylys has accepted me!"

What else he said in his exuberant frenzy the stricken Bennington could not quite take in. There was a good deal about Miss Folsom's angelic characteristics, Pomeroy's own incredible good fortune, and then a confidential outpouring on the subject of an unexpected couple of thousand that had drifted in that morning—the very capital he had "wanted for so long in order to get into Green & Waldrop's real estate office."

"And, do you know, Bud," Pomeroy volunteered huskily, as he at length verged toward the door, "if it hadn't been for that blessed money coming, I don't believe I'd ever have had the courage to propose. It just made everything possible."

Oddly enough, it was these last words that settled Pomeroy's fate, up to that time hanging on the balance of his listener's distracted mind.

For a moment after the door closed on his happy, unconscious victim, Bennington stood struggling fiercely with the resolution that was gaining possession of him.

Then, squaring his shoulders determinedly, "Yes," he said, between his teeth. "It's the only thing to do now—the only thing, for a gentleman to do."

And, seating himself at his writing desk, Pomeroy's involuntary benefactor, with a few strokes of the pen, converted an April Fool's Paradise into a tangible bank account.

New Plastic Material.

A new plastic material that can be put to many uses in the arts is made by melting glue or gelatin on a water-bath at a temperature slightly below the boiling point of water. When the glue is liquid a decoction of hop flowers in dilute oxalic acid is added, and the impurities are allowed to settle. The liquid is then poured into carefully leveled shallow molds, and allowed to dry in the air, forming thin plates. It can be dyed any color desired, after which it is treated in a bath consisting of a mixture of formaldehyde, alcohol, tannic acid, glycerine and water. This hardens the glue, renders it insoluble in water, yet leaves it quite plastic.

Developing a Theorist.

"Jud Tuskins says he's a scientific farmer."

"Yep," returned Farmer Corntossel. "Jud has got so scientific he'd rather put in all his time attendin' lectures than run a cultivator."

W.S.S.

DURING the last few years people have had to be content with many lines of goods that were inferior in quality to those procurable before the war.

To-day, people are demanding the better grades again. Those who from a mistaken idea of economy tried to be satisfied with common teas are coming back to Red Rose Tea. They realize that they cannot be satisfied with anything less than Red Rose Quality.

And Red Rose probably will cost them no more than common tea, because Red Rose not only tastes better—it goes farther.

Consisting chiefly of Assam teas—the richest and strongest grown—three teaspoonfuls of Red Rose goes as far as five of ordinary tea. A brewing will prove it.

Sold only in sealed packages.

BABY HAD DIARRHOEA

WAS GIVEN UP.

DR. FOWLER'S EXTRACT OF WILD STRAWBERRY CURED HER

Mothers should look well after their children during the hot summer months as this is the time of year when the young ones are liable to all kinds of bowel complaints.

If your children have any looseness of the bowels do not experiment with new and untried remedies. Get one having stood the test of time. Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry has been on the market for the past 74 years. Don't accept a substitute and perhaps endanger your child's life.

Mrs. Willis Coupland, Sundridge, Ont., writes:—"About four years ago my little girl, then a baby two months old, took diarrhoea. I took her to the doctor but to no avail. After he had given her up, I read of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry and immediately got a bottle. Within two days she was improving fast. I cannot ever praise it enough I hope some poor sufferers will see this letter and lead them to a friend indeed."

Price 35 cents. Put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Get the Habit of Drinking Hot Water Before Breakfast

Says we can't look or feel right with the system full of poisons.

Millions of folks bathe internally now instead of loading their system with drugs. "What's an inside bath?" you say. Well, it is guaranteed to perform miracles if you could believe these hot water enthusiasts.

There are vast numbers of men and women who, immediately upon arising in the morning, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This is a very excellent health measure. It is intended to flush the stomach, liver, kidneys and the thirty feet of intestines of the previous day's waste, sour bile and indigestible material left over in the body which if not eliminated every day, become food for the millions of bacteria which infest the bowels, the quick result is poisons and toxins which are then absorbed into the blood, causing headache, bilious attacks, foul breath, bad taste, colds, stomach trouble, kidney misery, sleeplessness, impure blood and all sorts of ailments.

People who feel good one day and badly the next, but who simply can not get feeling right are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store. This will cost very little but is sufficient to make anyone a real crank on the subject of internal sanitation.

Just as soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and freshening, so limestone phosphate and hot water act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. It is vastly more important to bathe on the inside than on the outside, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do.

WITH FINGERS! CORNS LIFT OUT

Freezone is magic! Corns and calluses lift right off—

Doesn't hurt a bit

A few cents buys a tiny bottle of the magic Freezone at any drug store. Apply a few drops of Freezone upon a tender, aching corn or a callus. Instantly that troublesome corn or callus stops hurting, then shortly you lift it out, root and all, without any pain, soreness or irritation. These little bottles of Freezone contain just enough to rid the feet of every hard corn, soft corn, corn between the toes and the calluses on bottom of feet. So easy! So simple. Why wait? No humbug!

DISPENSATION OF TITLES A TENDER SPOT IN BRITAIN

LONDON. —The tender spot in British political life to-day is the dispensation of titles. These are awarded, of course, by the King, but on the nomination of the prime minister, and the criticism of the reformers is that titles have been given for a long time and by various prime ministers for purely party services and practically bought by contributions to party funds.

The House of Lords has a peculiar interest in this matter because the old, noble families are jealous of having their caste lowered by the addition of the newly-rich to the orders of nobility.

The question was threshed out last year, and there was a general understanding that hereafter, when honours were announced, the reason for their bestowal should be published. This has been done in form, but it is allged not in substance, because several much-criticized honors in the last list were described as "for public services," which might mean almost anything.

The new National party, which has a few members in the House of Commons, has taken up the question. The chairman, Gen. Page Croft has written to the newspapers proposing to prove before any judicial committee that since 1910 one member of Parliament has rejected an offer of a title in return for a cash payment to party funds, and that the father of a member of the House of Commons was offered a baronetcy for £25,000.

He charged also that a member of Parliament, who was created a peer after the beginning of the war, subscribed shortly afterwards a very large sum of money to a newspaper that supported the premier.

He mentions also instances in which he says titles were granted to a politician of so notorious a character as to be regarded as unfit to be a candidate for Parliament, to another politician regarded as unscrupulous, and to a third man "previously involved in a notorious social scandal."

Gen. Page Croft offered to prove all his charges.

GERMANY FACING BANKRUPTCY FROM LACK OF CREDIT

FINANCIAL WRITERS SEE VERY GLOOMY OUTLOOK IN DECREASING VALUE OF THE MARK.

BERLIN. — The financial writer on the Lokal-Anzieger takes a gloomy view of the financial situation and the decreasing value of the mark. He points out that Germany had only 1,500,000,000 marks in gold left in the Reichsbank, and of this she cannot dispose, while the paper money now totals 40,000,000,000 marks, and more is being printed daily.

"Only foreign credits will save Germany from complete bankruptcy," says the writer. "If Finance Minister Erzberger is able to induce foreign credits to Germany, then disaster can be avoided."

The writer questions the ability of the Finance Minister to obtain the necesary credits, saying the accomplishment of this task is well nigh impossible. He cites an alleged threat of an American financier to remove the mark quotation from the stock exchanges of the world, declaring this would make them utterly worthless.

The dollar has been buying more marks recently than ever. The quotation rose from about 10 marks per dollar, the rate after the signing of the armistice, to 14 and 15 marks. Here it stood for a time but recently it swung rapidly upwards and as high as 24 marks were offered in Berlin for American bills. The correspondent was informed at the Dresdner Bank that on an American draft he might surely count on 18 marks and probably more per dollar.

Felix Pinner, the Tageblatt expert, admits that Erzberger's plans are partly responsible for the financial situation but he calls attention to the heavy overloading of the foreign markets with German money, giving as an instance Switzerland, where he says there are 2,000,000,000 marks, or as much as Germany's paper circulation in peace times. A similar situation exists in Scandinavia and Holland, says Pinner, who adds that the Entente Powers doubtless have picked up many millions in occupied territory.

"The escape of the mark abroad and its consequent depreciation, Pinner declares, "came about in two ways: First, through payment for goods smuggled through occupied territory, and second, through Erzberger's withdrawal order."

Pinner estimates that 9,000,000,000 marks are abroad. He says that havoc was caused the value of the mark when it was proposed to stamp bills, and invalidate those unstamped. The writer also declares that credit from the United States is the only salvation and that unless the people work and increase production they cannot expect to induce credit to come to Germany.

REMARKABLE WAR PROPHECY

The great war was anticipated in detail ten or twelve years ago by the late General Nogi. Here is what this distinguished Japanese soldier said in a speech delivered at the time of the siege of Port Arthur:

"The great war of the future will have Europe as its field of operation and will decide the Franco-German conflict and the Anglo-German rivalry. France and Germany will perform that decisive part in the Belgian plains, very probably near Waterloo. The result of this war does not appear to me to be doubtful; the French will beat the German on land and the English will inflict a maritime defeat. This war will be the last struggle by force of arms which will be produced in our time."

CITIZENS' LIBERTY LEAGUE

ITS AIM AND ITS OBJECT

The Citizens' Liberty League is an organization of representative men and women throughout Ontario, who through necessity have banded themselves together to oppose all legislation (Dominion or Provincial) which tends to curtail the liberties and lawful rights of the citizen.

In view of the imminence of the Ontario Referendum the activities of the League will for the present be chiefly directed to

SANE LIQUOR LEGISLATION

The Ontario Temperance Act, adopted by the Government as a war measure—without the vote of the people—is legislation that does curtail personal liberty and one which has bred great dissatisfaction.

The Citizens' Liberty League is absolutely opposed to a return of the open bar as it previously existed in Ontario under the old License Act. The League believes that The Ontario Temperance Act should be repealed and so enable the Government to enact a law in accord with the sentiment of the people, permitting the general sale of non-intoxicating beer and light wines and the sale of pure spirituous liquors only through Government agencies under proper restrictions.

Now that a Referendum is about to be taken, the members of the League feel that every citizen should clearly understand the meaning and significance of the questions asked in the Referendum Ballot.

In order to accomplish this purpose the Citizens' Liberty League will discuss all phases of this great issue in the public press in the interests of sane, moderate temperance legislation.

WEDDING BELLS

BATCHELOR—DELONG.

On Tuesday afternoon at half past one o'clock at the Mark street Methodist church parsonage, a quiet but pretty wedding took place, when Mr. Charles Batchelor, formerly of Port Hope, was united in marriage to Miss Emma Delong, of Peterborough.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. G. E. Ross. They were attended by Mr. Noble Maxwell and Miss Lizzie Maxwell, both of Peterborough. Immediately after the ceremony the happy young couple left on the 5 C.P.R. train for Toronto and Niagara Falls, where they will spend their honeymoon. On their return they will reside in this city.

TURNER—HUBBS.

At the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Hubbs, Picton, Ont., yesterday evening, the wedding was solemnized, in the presence of a large number of friends and relatives, of Maud Hubbs, to Roy Turner, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Turner of this city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Gray, of Queen's University. The bride who looked lovely in her wedding gown of white satin and conventional wedding veil, was attended by her cousin, Miss Mary Hubbs, who wore a charming gown of flesh colored georgette and black picture hat. Mr. B. MacGregor of Toronto, supported the groom. The wedding march was played by Miss Raylor of Picton.

The out of town guests included Mrs. Ford Turner, of St. Catharines, Mrs. Stinson, grandmother of the bride, of Boston, Mass., Mrs. Grey of Ogdensburg, Mrs. Lavell of New York; Mr. and Mrs. Melville Turner, of Peterboro, and Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Turner of Peterboro.

After the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Turner left for the Kawartha Lakes to spend their honeymoon, Mrs. Turner travelling in a smart tailored suit of navy blue with a small black hat. They will reside in Sherbrooke, Que.

DODDS—WATTERS.

A quiet wedding took place in Detroit, on Wednesday, August 6th, when Miss Violet Watters, of Peterborough, became the bride of Mr. Eddie Dodd, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Dodd of Hastings. After a short wedding trip the happy couple will make their home in Detroit.—Hastings Star.

COLLEGIATE COMMERCIAL CLASSES WILL BE TRANSFERRED TO NEW SCHOOL BUILDING

EVERY ROOM IN NEW BUILDING WILL BE OCCUPIED---MEDICAL INSPECTION IN THE LOCAL SCHOOLS.

BOARD MEETING

At the regular meeting of the Board of Education held last evening, Mr. H. R. H. Kenner drew the Board's attention to the fact that in the near future some action must be taken to accommodate the ever increasing attendance at the Collegiate Institute. At the beginning of the next school year new forms will doubtless have to be opened. He agreed that the transferring of the Collegiate Commercial classes to the new school to be built in the west end would relieve the congestion for a year, but stated that after that some arrangement for the extension of the Collegiate must be made. When the new South Central school is opened with the Commercial classes in the building, every room will be occupied.

Suggests Medical Inspection.

Dr. F. C. Neal reported that during the holidays he had spent considerable time in going into the methods of medical inspection in the schools in other towns and found that a comparison of what is done in Walkerville and in towns of the size of Peterborough in order to carry out the medical work in the city, a medical man should be appointed to make two yearly inspections of the schools and spend at least an hour a day in looking into such cases as the school nurse might refer to him. The secretary was instructed to mail to all the doctors in the city a copy of the Act as to the duties of a medical officer and ask each for their terms in carrying out the duties involved. Dental work would, the doctor reported, require more finances than the medical inspection. Brantford has already a fully equipped dental parlor and London two dentists at salaries of $1,200 and $1,000.

Refused Some Pupils.

Mr. Kenner reported that he had admitted such pupils to the Collegiate Institute as resided near the boundary, but had refused some who resided at greater distances, incurring the wrath of several parents. He said that at the time of opening day there was some indication of overcrowding.

Public Schools.

Mr. Mowat in reporting the conditions of the schools on the re-opening for the fall term, said that there were no signs of overcrowding and that all the teachers were on duty today. He also reported that the sanitary conditions in the rooms rented by the Board of Education in St. James' Methodist church were not up to the mark. The Property committee was instructed to take up the matter.

The secretary was instructed to convey the condolences of the Board to Mrs. McCarthy, of Keene, on the death of her son Joseph, who was killed in action, and to acknowledge the receipt of an enlarged photo of him to be hung in the Collegiate Institute halls with the other ex-pupils of the school who made the supreme sacrifice. Mr. Kenner drew the Board's attention to the fact that of the fifty-seven pupils of the school who laid down their lives, enlarged photos have been hung in the halls of all but Leroy Chambers, whose next of kin has not as yet been traced. The secretary was instructed to write the Department of Militia for information about the Chambers family and was authorized to have any photo of Leroy Chambers which could be secured enlarged and hung in the hall with his fellow heroes.

Receive Tenders.

Mr. E. G. Patterson, on behalf of the Building committee, stated that the committee would meet on Wednesday evening to receive the tenders for the new school, and that the City Solicitor has applied to have the Chamberlen estate, upon which the school will be built, brought into the city limits.

Acknowledged Honorarium.

A communication was received from Miss Jenkins, acknowledging the receipt of an honorarium of one year's salary upon her resignation from the Public school staff. Upon the receipt of a letter from Miss Lucy Richardson, making inquiries as to her salary, which she contended was not in keeping with other employees of the Board, the secretary was instructed to notify her that she had made an error in her computation. The Provincial School Attendance Officer wrote

BARON FISHER WOULD SCRAP NAVY

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Sept. 3.—The campaign for administrative economy is gaining momentum daily. Andrew Bonar Law, Government Leader in the House of Commons, and J. Austen Chamberlain, Chancellor of the Exchequer, came to London specially to hold a meeting of the Cabinet. The party included Earl Curzon, President of the Council and Leader in the House of Lords, and George Nicoll Barnes, Minister without portfolio.

It is understood that the discussion was centred around national finance, being particularly devoted to the question of how far it would be possible to reduce the estimates for defensive services.

The demand of Baron Fisher of Kilverstone, former First Sea Lord, for the virtual scrapping of the Navy, half of which is already obsolete, on the ground that a big navy is not required now that Germany has been defeated, has been printed in all the newspapers here, and has caused a great sensation.

Naval experts who have been consulted, consider that Baron Fisher's proposal is much too drastic, and fears are expressed that there is imminent a great fight between the advocates of a small and a big Navy.

COUNCIL WANTS ENGINEER OR DEPUTY ON BRIDGE

UNEXPECTED TURN TO QUESTION AS TO WHETHER THE CITY OR MR. BARBER SHOULD PAY MR. FRED CHRISTIE'S SALARY.

ANOTHER POINT CROPPED OUT

The Council last night accepted Mr. Frank Barber's explanation that Mr. Fred Christie, of his engineering staff, had been employed for the most part, as an inspector in the construction of the Hunter street bridge, and that consequently his salary for that time should be paid by the city. In arriving that conclusion, however, the Council seized upon a clause which City Solicitor Widdifield singled out of the agreement between the city and Mr. Barber to the effect that the engineer was to be present at the work at all times during its construction or that he have a representative here. Hence, they decided that since Mr. Christie was an inspector and did not represent Mr. Barber as engineer on the work that Mr. Barber be requested to be present at the work all the time or that he depute a substitute whose salary he shall pay.

A motion embodying these ideas and conditions was proposed by Ald. Turner and seconded by Ald. Hamilton, with the additional provision that Mr. Christie be paid by the city a salary of $175 a month from the time he became an inspector on the bridge.

Ald. Edgar submitted an amendment, seconded by Ald. Crowe, that the Council and Mr. Barber each appoint an engineer, who in turn would agree upon a third and that these three interpret from an engineering, rather than a legal standpoint, the disputed clauses, and that the cost of this procedure be met by the city if Mr. Barber's contention was upheld, or by Mr. Barber in the event of the three engineers reporting that an engineer was required by the agreement to be in constant attendance at the bridge.

The amendment was lost, and the motion carried.

Mayor Duncan suggested that the case might be left to the Russell-Townsend Co'y for a decision, but Ald. Turner replied that when the contractors approached the city and stated that they needed an engineer permanently on the work then the Council could raise the point with Mr. Barber regarding his supervision of the work and he could make his own arrangements.

The Engineer's Statement.

When the motion was adopted at midnight, Mr. Barber told the Council in a parting statement that he had given the city honest and sufficient supervision of the bridge, that for the present the work did not require his presence or that of a personal representative, and that he could not afford the extra cost thus imposed on him. Up to November he had disbursed $8,800 in this contract, and that the general practice of the engineering profession was contrary to the Council's demand.

The Progress of the Debate.

Ald. Turner introduced the resulting debate by referring to the fact that the point at issue as to whether the city should pay Mr. Christie's salary had not been settled.

Mayor Duncan— My idea has always been that Mr. Barber paid Mr. Christie. When the contractors caught up with the work laid out we telephoned Mr. Barber for another engineer and he sent another man.

Ald. Crowe—That's what I contend.

City Solicitor Widdifield gave his opinion that there was no doubt but that the city had to pay all inspectors on the bridge, and that another clause required the engineer to be present at all times or to have a representative here, and that person was to be paid by Mr. Barber

Mr Barber—I have three engineers

ATTORNEY-GENERAL DECLINES TO ACT

HAS NO JURISDICTION OVER ACTIONS OF POLICE IN SPARE TIME, VETERANS ARE INFORMED

At the regular meeting of the Peterborough branch of the Great War Veterans' Association in the G.W.V.A. Hall last night, a letter was read from the Attorney General's Department in regard to the complaint against Sergt. Blade of engaging in other occupations in his spare time. The Veterans, after the local Police Commission had taken no action in the case, referred the particulars to the Attorney General. The reply read last night was to the effect that the matter was outside of the jurisdiction of the Attorney-General.

"Looks as if we had reached the end of a blind trail," was the comment of one member and the letter was filed.

Seventeen members were admitted at last night's meeting. Several of those who joined were Original Firsts, leaving here in August, 1914.

The meeting decided in response to a request from the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition, to co-operate with that body in making this year's Exhibition a success. The Veterans will likely have a float in the big parade on the opening day of the Fair.

A proposal to open a co-operative store in Peterborough, supported by the members of the G.W.V.A. was endorsed. The proposition seemed to find much favor among the returned men.

It was decided that the public shall be invited to attend meetings at which matters affecting the public weal are concerned.

BOLSHEVIK AFTER PEACE

PART OF THEIR FORCES HAVE BEEN SURROUNDED.

BERNE, Sept. 8 — The Russian Bolsheviki have proposed peace negotiations following the route of their forces, which are surrounded, according to an official announcement received here.

The foregoing despatch, while it does not refer to any particular district in Russia, probably has reference to the Lithunian front, where the Bolsheviki were said on Tuesday to be surrounded and to be offering to make peace.

PRESENTATION TO MR. GEO. KENYON

KNOX CHURCH CHOIR SAYS FAREWELL TO THEIR POPULAR CHOIR-MASTER

On Sunday evening the members of the choir of Knox Church gathered at the home of Miss Crocker, Rubidge street to say farewell to Mr. George Kenyon, the organist and choir master who is leavig for Trenton. Mr. Kenyon was presented by the choir with a beautiful reading lamp while Mrs. Kenyon received a bouquet of flowers. The presentation was made by Miss Penrose while Miss Morrow read the following address:

Peterboro', Aug. 31,

Dear Mr. Kenyon,—We, the members of Knox church choir wish to express our deep regret that you have felt it necessary to leave Peterboro for another field of labor. We wish to tell you how highly we have appreciated your services as choirmaster who is leaving for Trentsix and a half years you have spent with us, also to place on record your marked ability in the profession you represent as shown in "honors" obtained by you personally and those who were your pupils. Your high regard for the truest and best in church music has always kept that portion of the service at a high tone.

Your good humor, together with the ability to preserve both discipline and good feeling has enabled you to attain that very rare result, a united choir during your period of office.

We, therefore ask you to accept this reading lamp as a visible token of our respect and esteem, and wish for yourself, Mrs. Kenyon and family, and even larger measure of success and happiness at Trenton your new sphere of labor.

Signed on behalf of the choir,
John A Smith, President,
Mabel Crocker, Secretary.

Mr. Kenyon expressed his thanks in a suitable speech.

ANOTHER BIG GOLD STRIKE

(Canadian Press.)

WINNIPEG, Sept. 3. — News of another sensational gold strike, this time in Contract Bay District, seventy miles from Kenora, was brought here to-day by Robert Wachman, a Chicago salesman, who claims to have made the find.

The strike is a pay streak, says Wachman, containing two hundred thousand dollars to the ton, surrounded by other ore that will mill one hundred dollars to the ton.

NEXT SUNDAY WILL BE "PROTEST SUNDAY" THROUGHOUT CANADA, SAY LABOUR MEN

BRIDGEWORKERS MUST RESIDE IN THE CITY

Complaints that men who did not live within the city were employed on the Hunter Street Bridge were made to the Council last night by Ald. McIntyre, who moved, seconded by Ald. Crowe, that the workmen be required to register where they live and when they came to the city, and that preference be given to residents

Ald. Phelan said he hadn't heard any reports of that kind, but Ald. Morrison remarked that men living in the city were complaining that they couldn't get a job on the bridge, while others living outside the city were taken on.

Ald. Edgar reminded the Labour alderman that he had proposed a register of the employees last April, but the Carpenters' Union would have none of it.

Ald. Gainey: I understand there are men driving into the city and leaving their horses at the Temperance House while they work on the bridge all day.

Mayor Duncan: I'll see about that first thing in the morning.

FAIR WAGE CLAUSE.

Ald. Gainey moved, seconded by Ald. Morrison, that a fair wage clause be inserted in the specifications of every contract the city let. It carried by 6 votes to 2.

Ald. Gainey: I overlooked the last contract, but by this means we will be assured that there will be no forgetting it.

Ald. Edgar and Ald. Turner suggested that there was plenty of time to provide for the fair wage clause when any contract was under consideration. They pointed out that they were not objecting to the clause itself, but to this means of securing its insertion.

THE POLICE COMMISSIONERS ORDER AN INVESTIGATION

BRIDGE HAS COST $20,844.63 SO FAR

MR. ALEX. ELLIOTT'S STATEMENT TO COUNCIL---GRANITE FINISH

According to Mr. Alex. Elliott's first report as accountant of the Hunter street bridge work, presented to the Council last night by Ald. Phelan, the sum already expended totals $20,844.43. The detailed statement exhibited the items of the pay roll total of $7,875.78 and invoices of materials etc., $12,968.65.

Ald. Gainey moved seconded by Ald. Crowe that each member of the Council be provided with itemized statements of the expenditure as soon as convenient after the end of each month.

Granite Finish.

In the vote on the adoption of the reports of the special bridge committee and Board of Works it was finally decided that the bridge should be given a chipped granite finish in the exterior walls and in eighteen strips on the edge of the soffits of the arches. The members who supported this provision were Aldermen Taylor, McIntyre, Edgar, Hamilton, Turner and Morrison.

FATHER McGINETY DIED YESTERDAY

WAS ASSISTANT AT THE CATHEDRAL FOR SOME TIME

The death occurred yesterday at St. Joseph's Hospital of Rev. Father D. J. McGinety, after an illness of about six months. He is survived by three brothers and two sisters in England. All three of the brothers served in the great war.

The deceased was born in Liverpool, Eng., about forty one years ago. He came here about five years ago, and was assistant at the Cathedral, and afterwards went to Parry Sound. Later he was appointed parish priest at Wooler, where he remained for about a year, when he suffered an attack of influenza, from which he never recovered.

The late Father McGinety was a great linguist, and spoke several languages. His death removes from the Diocese an active and able worker, and will be regretted by a wide circle of friends and his former parishioners.

The funeral will take place to-morrow morning from the Cathedral to St. Peter's cemetery. Requiem High Mass will be sung at the Cathedral.

MEMBERS OF POLICE FORCE IMPLICATED IN SERIOUS CHARGES---HEARING WILL BE PUBLIC.

A STATEMENT

Rumours of corruptness in the local police force that have been circulating the streets for weeks, stung the Police Commissioners in action yesterday, and City Solicitor C. R. Widdiefield has been instructed to ask Lisence Inspector, Joseph Stewart, and Mr. R. R. Hall, acting for Detective Sam Newhall, who is one of the principals implicated in the charges to appear before the Commission next Tuesday afternoon at 3 o'clock, to submit evidence of the rumours which have been rampant in the city. Other citizens who wish to clear the matter up are also invited to attend and give evidence.

The investigation was thrown open to the public at the suggestion of His Honour Judge Huycke.

Magistrate Dumble was strongly opposed to an investigation, stating that some specific charges should be laid before the Commission, and that the Commission were grabbing at rumors, vague and unverified.

The Resolution.

The motion, moved by the Mayor, and seconded by the chairman, but not concurred in by Mr. Dumble, read as follows:

"That the matter referred to in Mr. R. R. Hall's letter, and the statement he enclosed, be investigated by this Board, and that Mr. C. R. Widdiefield, the City Solicitor, Mr. R. R. Hall, and Mr. Stewart, the License Inspector, be asked to meet the Board on Saturday next, September 6, 1919, at 3 o'clock p.m., and also that any person who has any information is invited and requested to furnish it in writing to this Board, in the meantime, or to attend the meeting" Carried.

Was in Favour.

Chief Thompson, who was present, was entirely in favor of the investigation and stated that if any of his men were guilty of connivance they should not be members of the police force. He requested that a special letter be sent to Mr. Joseph Stewart to attend the investigation.

Mayor Duncan was of the opinion that if the charges were substantiated the whole police force should receive the blue ticket.

Judge Huycke stated that the investigation was held purely to protect the public, and that all information would be available for the public.

The Letter.

The letter follows:

Aug. 27, 1919.

His Honour Judge Huycke,
Peterborough,—

Dear Judge Huycke,—Herewith I beg to enclose you a copy of a statement made by W. H. Hamilton, furnished to me by Jos. Stewart, License Inspector for West Peterboro. Mr. Stewart says that the original of this statement duly signed by Hamilton, is in the office of the Solicitor for the Board of License Commissioners for the province of Ontario.

I also enclose you a copy of an editorial that appeared in the Daily Review on Tuesday, August 26, 1919, which evidently refers to W. H. Hamilton's statement and indicates where various copies of this statement are to be found.

In justice to the police force of the city of Peterboro, I think it is only fair that these charges should be investigated and the good name of the force vindicated. Inasmuch as the charge is against officers under the control of the Police Commission I think that the proper parties to set the investigation in motion that a meeting of the Board be Commissioners I would, therefore, suggest for your favorable consideration that a meeting of the Board be

THE EXHIBITION TO BE USHERED IN BY A MONSTER PARADE

FLOATS, DECORATED AUTOMOBILES, BANDS AND FIRE BRIGADE WILL ALL PARTICIPATE TO MAKE OPENING DAY A BIG SUCCESS.

The Amusement Committee under Mr. Webber Turner, for the Exhibition Board, is arranging for a monster parade for the opening day of the Fair, Monday, September 15th.

An invitation extended to the business houses, manufacturing concerns, and others, to put in floats or decorated automobiles,has already brought out the following names, who have agreed to do so

The Canadian General Electric Co.
The Quaker Oats Co (2 no.).
The De Laval Co.
Archie Barbeau.
The Cressman Co.
Peterboro Business College.
Singer Sewing Machine Co.
J. M. Greene Music Co.
Peterboro Bread Co.

And others who have not returned their cards.

Everyone is invited to participate in the parade and to send their names in to Mr. F. J. A. Hall, secretary

This will be Peterboro's Biggest Fair, and everyone is getting right behind it to even exceed expectations.

GOVERNMENT WILL BE RECIPIENT OF A NUMBER OF RESOLUTIONS---WORKMEN IN CANADA MAY BE INVITED TO TAKE A HOLIDAY.

NEWS FROM WINNIPEG

(Special to The Examiner.)

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 3.—Next Sunday will be "Protest Sunday" throughout Canada. The protest will take the form of mass meetings under the auspices of labour in every city, at which resolutions denouncing the detention in jail of eight Winnipeg strike leaders held for trial at the fall assizes on charges of seditious conspiracy, will be passed.

If the expected flood of resolutions fails to move the Government to release the men on bail, every labour organisation will be asked to "take a holiday" on 17th September for the purpose of holding mass meetings in protest against the refusal of bail.

Such are the more detailed plans of the Defence Committee, as announced this morning.

"A request will go out from the Defence Committee to all organisations," said Robert Ringland, member of the Defence Committee, this morning. "It will not be a strike, because to be a strike the men would have to quit in the middle of their work. Instead, if necessary, the men simply won't go to work that morning, or that afternoon, depending on whether or not the whole day or only part is taken."

Will Be Deported.

Ald. Queen is still confined in jail, with seven other leaders. As soon as arrangements are completed with the United States authorities, Oscar Schoppelrei will be deported, according to Thomas Galley, Commissioner of Immigration. Schoppelrei has been in detention at the Immigration Hall since his arrest last June, and was ordered to be deported by a special Board of Inquiry. He appealed his case to the Minister of Immigration, Hon. J. A. Calder, yesterday, but the appeal was refused.

The necessary arrangements are now being made with the United States authorities, and he will be sent across the line as soon as proceedings are completed. When entering Canade, Schoppelrei claimed to have been born in Canada. At the investigation of his case he said he was born in San Francisco. He was one of the founders of the Rank and File Club, which at the conclusion of the strike changed its name to "Ex-Soldiers' and Sailors' Labour Party."

BRIGHT CHILDREN OFTEN WEAR GLASSES.

Why is it that bright children so often wear glasses? The answer is that children often are retarded in their studies because they cannot see. Poor vision holds them back, while those who wear glasses forge ahead. If you are in doubt about your child's eyes, consult W. H. Lacey, Optical Specialist, 410 George street.

HINTS ABOUT EATING.

It is always best to eat just when you are hungry, though not perhaps always possible. The digestive organs respond to hunger as to nothing else.

Fat in food is most essential, but it is not always visible, and one need not resort to seal-blubber, like the Eskimo. There is fat not only in meat, but in nuts, cheese, eggs, salmon, milk, herrings, and many other foods Meat is not necessary more than once a day at most, and three meals a day are ample for any healthy person. Four or five hours should elapse between meals, and the last meal should not be eaten late at night.

Fresh vegetables, fresh milk, fresh fruit and fresh meat are best. Staleness in these things is not a merit People who have a long and hard day before them should begin with a real good breakfast, and if they are wise it will include, but not consist of, porridge. Meat which has been kept in cold storage loses nothing, and tinned meats are just as nutritious as fresh if they have been properly tinned.

With regard to fat, bacon has a high food value; but such fish as cod, hake, and haddock, which contain no oil like salmon and herrings, have little food value.

"HOW DO YOU DO?"

In most European countries, when we meet a friend, we shake hands and say, "How do you do" but in other climes the methods of greeting very considerably.

When two Arabs meet one another they rub their cheeks together, while a native of Burma pretends to smell his friend's face, pronounces it sweet and then asks for a "smell."

The Australian natives have a greeting which if it were practised here we would consider very rude. They stick their tongues out at each other.

If a Chinaman is riding and any one great passes, he immediately dismounts.

The Hindo falls in the dust before his superior, while the Turk crosses his hands upon his breast, and makes a very low bow, thus showing his regard iwthout coming in personal contact with its object.

A Jap removes his sandal, crosses his hands, and cries out "Spare me !"

But perhaps the greeting that would strike us as the most strange, both physically and mentally, is that of the South Sea Islander. He throws a larful of water over the head of a friend when they meet.

EVERYDAY READING

"Ye shall not surely die" is said to be the first sermon preached upon the immortality of the soul. Yet this declaration, resting solely upon the authority of Satan, is echoed from the pulpits of Christendom, and is received by the majority of mankind as readily as it was received by our first parents. The divine sentence "the soul that sinneth, it shall die," is made to men, the soul that sinneth, it shall not die, but live eterally. Had man after his fall been allowed free access to the tree of life, he would have lived forever, and there sin would have been immortalized. But cherubin and flaming sword kept "the way of the tree of life." Gen. 3:24: and not one of the family of Adam has been permitted to pass that barrier, and partake of the life giving fruit. Therefore there is not an immortal sinner. It is beyond the power of the human mind to estimate the evil which has been wrought by the heresy of eternal torment. The foregoing so clearly expresses the truth, that I was led to give it just as I received it: A short time ago, in a sense, I was compelled to listen to one of our city preachers (not in a church) make statement, that the redemptive work of Jesus was a success, because the vast number of children, who die in infancy, would go to heaven, notwithstanding the great bulk of mankind, would after this life ended, would go on to live and endless life in torment. I cannot conceive how he could thus reckon, that the redemptive work of Jesus was a success. In fact, I cannot accept it, as an honest statement, unless he was talking as a parrot talks. I am thankful I am not forced to listen to such talk. I am grateful to know that Jesus has made ample and full provision for the redemption of every child of Adam; that every one has a complete chance, either in this age or in the age to come, to accept the free gift of eternal life; and if after the full provision has been made, and every chance given to accept the free loving favor of God; delibertely and finally refuse to accept the free loving farm of God; then they must receive the wages of sin, must reap the result, even death.

CURIOUS CLUBS.

The recent announcement that an English "Bald-Headed Men's Club" had just met — the first time since 1916, owing to the war—serve to recall one or two odd clubs.

"The Fat Man's Club," for instance, was known to exist in Paris in 1897. Its heaviest member turned the scale at 336 pounds and the chief qualification for membership was to weigh at least 220 pounds.

About this time there also met in New York the "Society of the Pointed Beards"—a most exclusive club. No one was eligible unless he had a carefully-cultivated beard of natural growth and terminating in one symmetrical point half an inch from the apex of the chin.

At two club dinners, in 1898, even the celery was served with its leaves trimmed to a point.

A single davit which launches a boat from a ship with a sling and automatically releases it as it reaches the water has been invented by an Englishman.

STARTLING EVIDENCE IN THE TEMPLETON CASE

PROOF SUBMITTED BY RETURNED SOLDIERS INSPIRES PUBLIC CONFIDENCE

Public interest in the Templeton case has been accentuated by a volume of further evidence which has been submitted to prove that Templeton's Rheumatic Capsules do remedy Rheumatism, Sciatica, Gout, Lumbago and many of their kindred diseases.

Canadian soldiers from the front claim that these capsules were of the utmost benefit in relieving them of sciatic pains and preventing the development of rheumatic troubles. One well known Canadian General was a constant user of T.R.C.'S and his persistent demand for them is proof that they gave him the relief he sought.

Men such as our Canadian soldiers are not prepared to make false statements. T.R.C.'S fixed them up and they are glad to say so in order that others may benefit by their experience. There is no denying the fact that T.R.C.'S do all we claim they will. Convince yourself. Try them

Ask your Druggist or write us for our new booklet; it is interesting and costs you nothing (Templetons, 142 King West, Toronto). We mail T.R.C.'s anywhere on receipt of $1.04.

PREDICTS A STEEL STRIKE.

Will be Answer to Gary, Calumet Leader Predicts.

GARY, Ind. — The refusal of Elbert H. Gary to confer with representatives of the Amalgamated Union, will mean an immediate strike in all plants of the United States Steel Corporation, in the belief of heads of the Calumet District Council here.

"I did not know that Mr. Gary is from Missouri but I guess he will have to be shown that John Fitzpatrick is authorized to represent the oragnized iron workers by calling out the thousands of steel workers in his shops to enforce the steel workers' demands," said E. A. Lux, the secretary of the local council.

There are 18,000 steel workers here and 50,000 are employed in steel plants and subsidiaries in the Calumet district.

The shortage of clover is real and will be felt severely again next spring. Produce your own seed where possible.

TEN PERSONS DIED FROM INFLUENZA FOR EACH AMERICAN SOLDIER KILLED

STATEMENT OF LIFE INSURANCE COMPANIES---WAR MORTALITY.

SOME STATISTICS

NEW YORK, Sept. 3.—The rate of mortality which American life insurance companies had to meet in 1918 was about 34 per cent. greater than in 1917, and 14 per cent. higher than the average death-rate for a score of years.

This is the statement in a summary made public to-day by the Insurance Press, reviewing the life insurance distributions last year by insurance organisations operating in the United States and Canada, including the transactions of the Bureau of War Risk Insurance of the United States Government.

Ten persons died from influenza for each American soldier killed in battle, the report declares, placing the number of influenza deaths at a half-million.

Stating that influenza was mainly responsible for the increase in the number of deaths, the report continues:

"Thirty-eight life insurance companies paid $93,000,000 more than in 1917 for death claims and indemnities. The increase in death losses paid by legal reserve companies was approximately $123,000,000 in the United States and Canada on lives under the age of fifty."

The Insurance Press confirms a report of the Connecticut Insurance Company that war claims, meaning all deaths suffered by men in the service, not including influenza, were equivalent to about a six per cent. increase over normal mortality. On that basis the war loss by life insurance companies of the United States in 1918 amounted to $23,000,000.

War mortality, it is stated, will continue in a decreasing proportion for from five to ten years, inasmuch as wounds, diseases contracted, effects of poison gas, shell shock, etc., will impair many lives.

Tuberculosis, it is said, was the basis of nearly fifty per cent. of all the claims by one company under the total disability provision of its policies, while only four per cent. resulted from accidents. It is pointed out that despite the persistent war against it, 150,000 persons die in the United States each year from tuberculosis.

Life insurance distributions in this country and in Canada in 1918 totalled $1,115,810,000.

DO OR DIE.

Ex-President Taft relates an amusing experience that befell him while he was touring the country in the interests of the League of Nations. He had just finished a speech, and it was necessary that he make the last train out of town in order to keep the next day's engagements. "Cabby," he cried, "I'll give oyu five dollars if you get to the station in time for me to make that train." "Jump in, boss," yelled the cabby, with visions of the princely fee dancing before his eyes. "I'll get you there in time or break your neck."

If Thin, Nervous, Run Down, Depressed, This Will Help!

The wear and strain of life has tended in recent years to produce nervous debility in a large percentage of our population.

Thousands are affected with a feeling that they can't exactly describe. They are always tired and droopy, lack ambition, have poor appetite, look pale and suffer from depressing headaches and insomnia.

This condition is full of peril. It is the stepping stone to invalidism, the beginning of a shattered constitution.

We advise everyone in this condition to take a good medicine at once and try to get well while yet there is time.

Probably no better advice can be given than to use Dr. Hamilton's Pills which have become famous in restoring the sick to good health. A general toning up of the system at once takes place. The whole body is vitalized by rich and purer blood. The appetite is increased, food is digested and naturally, strength rapidly increases. Headaches go because the bowels are regulated and all the wastes are carried off.

There is no experiment about using Dr. Hamilton's Pills because they certainly restore the sick, as a trial will quickly prove. Just as good for the young as the old, and suitable to the needs of women and children. This grand family medicine should be in every home.

A New C. P. R. Station

Three Rivers Station as It Will Appear When Completed.

Above is a diagram of the floor space of the old Station, and below a diagram of the floor space of the new building.

The City of Three Rivers, Province of Quebec, will soon be graced by a new station, more modern and better suited to the requirements of the traffic which has been steadily increasing in this progressive metropolis of the St. Maurice region. Such is the announcement of the Canadian Pacific authorities, and one may rest assured that their decision to replace the present structure by another more in harmony with the importance that this industrial centre takes to-day will not fail to satisfy the Three Rivers population, which for some time has been anxious to see this company undertake the works rendered necessary by the rapid development of the city and surrounding country.

Delayed to some extent by the European War, which forced it to work in other directions, the Company will now be able to satisfy the reasonable demands of the public at Three Rivers in erecting at this point a station which will be a credit to it, and which at the same time will answer to the needs of the traffic.

The new construction will, it goes without saying, be absolutely up-to-date, and provided with all the conveniences and different services which one can find in the stations of larger cities. The architects who have designed the plans, have adopted the French Chateau style, successfully employed at Quebec for the Chateau Frontenac and the Palace Station, since it harmonizes thoroughly with the character of the population and of the country, and since it lends itself equally well to this kind of building, both from the practical and the aesthetic point of view. From the exterior the great waiting room below is frankly indicated, while the principal entrance of the station as well as the exit to the trains, have been designed to form an ensemble very pleasing to the eye. The interior disposition is arranged so that the passenger has easily accessible on the ground floor all the services of the Station, comprising the ticket offices, news stand, toilets, telephones, telegraphs, a well lighted restaurant, parcel room, etc. Two waiting rooms, one for ladies and the other for men, come out of the general waiting room to which access is given in the first place by a well lighted central concourse. The baggage room wing has been placed at the side of, and parallel with, the train platform and tracks, opening on one side directly to the platform and on the other to the street.

The building as designed, will be of fireproof construction, faced on the exterior with warm brick and cut stone dressings of Deschambeault or similar limestone. The roofing material will have floors of marble and terrazzo tile, the walls treated with marble wainscots and caen stone or marble above. The toilet rooms will be finished with tile floors, marble wainscots and divisions. Generally the wood finish throughout will be of Canadian oak.

The heating, lighting and plumbing services will be of the most up-to-date, arranged and furnished in quality and kind commensurate to the requirements of the travelling public.

With its population of 22,000 souls, and its numerous industries, this town has an undoubted right to these improvements which will certainly contribute to the continuation of its expansion. The development of the City of Three Rivers will not fail before long to reach vast proportions for its exceptional situation half-way between Quebec and Montreal, and at the mouth of the St. Maurice, drawing all the valley of that river, guarantees it a future of progress and prosperity.

The City of Three Rivers is one of the most ancient and interesting in the Province of Quebec, if not of Canada, and its importance was recognized from the earliest colonial times. Founded in 1634 by Laviolette and a group of hardy colonists from Quebec, this point was under the French regime, one of the most important positions in the country for the fur trade with the Indians; it was the rendezvous of all the Indian tribes friendly to the French, and many expeditions were organized against the Iroquois and the New Englanders at a time when the Kingdoms of France and England were each edeavoring to ensure their supremacy on the American continent.

What contributed not a little to the development of Three Rivers was the exploit of the famous iron mines of St. Maurice, which were already at work in 1737. This industry gradually assumed greater importance, and today the manufacture of pig iron in the Radnor Foundries is one of the most prosperous in the district. The forest, which covers all the regions situated to the north along the St. Maurice and its tributaries, has also been an important factor in development; sawmills and great pulp plants have been established on the banks of the St. Maurice, and employ at the present date thousands of workmen In that industry alone, one factory ships annually 60,000 tons of pulp and of Kraft paper. Shoe factories glove factories, biscuit factories furniture factories, etc., also give employment to a working population.

Three Rivers also possesses a spacious harbor sufficiently deep to ocean vessels.

TILLSONBURG, Ont.—"A few years ago I had a severe nervous breakdown. I would have pains in my head and would suffer with backache. I was going for about two years. Had doctored but did not seem to get cured of the ailment. At last I took Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and it did me more good than any medicine I ever took. It built me up and I felt better in every way than I had for six years previously."—Mrs. L. Shaver.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

When Mixed with Sulphur It Brings Back Its Beautiful Lustre at Once.

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundredfold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, its natural colour is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

IF KIDNEY AND BLADDER BOTHER

Take a glass of Salts to flush out your Kidneys and neutralize Irritating Acids.

Kidney and Bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame causing a burning scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and in very profuse again, there is difficulty in avoiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it, because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is splendid for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant effervescent lithia-water drink which quickly relieves bladder trouble.

UP TO THE COMMISSION.

The Great War Veterans' attempt to solve the question of whether or not a policeman should be allowed to engage in some other occupation in his spare time has succeeded only in establishing the point that the matter is left entirely in the hands of the local Police Commission. The facts in connection with the case having been submitted to the Attorney General of Ontario. That official has lost no time in washing his hands of the affair, and has informed the Veterans that the question is entirely out of his jurisdiction and must be settled by the Police Commission. The Commission, apparently, can draft and put into force whatever rules they see fit to govern the work of the police department, and if there was any doubt as to the extent of their jurisdiction, it has been dissipated by the reply of the Attorney-General, who is evidently quite satisfied to leave questions as to what a policeman should be permitted to do when he is off duty in the hands of the local body, charged with supervision over the operations of the police force.

A LACK OF CONSISTENCY.

The Citizens' Liberty League announces in its advertisements in the daily press that it is absolutely opposed to the return of the open bar as it existed in Ontario before the passing of the Ontario Temperance Act. At the same time the League advises the electors to vote "yes" on all four questions on the referendum. And yet Sir William Hearst declares that if the majority of the electors vote "yes" on the first question the old bar-room system would be restored. The Premier's announcement requires an explanation from the Liberty League. If the members of that organization are opposed to open bar then they should tell the people of the province to vote against the repeal of the Temperance Act, because if the Act is killed the old conditions come back. The present tactics of the Liberty League are inconsistent, for no person can conscientiously vote "yes" on the first question who is opposed to the open bar. The man who believes in the sale of liquor in government shops or in one of other ways indicated in the referadum must vote "no" on the first question, if he wants to have his "yes" on the other question become effective. Otherwise he would be voting for something he did not want— the restoration of the conditions of several years ago.

A VEXING PROBLEM.

A reference in these columns to Mr. Burnham's new position as a member of the cross-bench section of the House of Commons, draws from our contemporary a typical specimen of ponderous sarcasm. The Review is easily irritated these days, and it is not to be wondered at, the attempt to support Mr. Burnham and yet remain true to the party leaders at Ottawa and Toronto being a difficult operation that is trying to the nerves. When you have to shout for a member who declares that it is time to end the Union government, it is not easy to keep on supporting that government. And then when the Provincial leader declares in favour of prohibition it is annoying to find that the Federal representative of the party is flatly opposed to the same principle. The trouble is, from our contemporary's standpoint ,that if Mr. Burnham is right in his views on prohibition, Sir William Hearst must be wrong, and again, if Mr. Burnham has the proper conception of the mission of Union government, Sir Robert Borden and his associates are altogether mistaken. The problem then is how to continue to support Mr. Burnham and the Dominion and Provincial leaders at the same time. It requires some intricate wriggling and sidestepping, and the developments in the situation will be watched with interest.

WHAT ABOUT THE FARMERS?

The political campaign of the farmers is growing so steadily in fervour that it is realised that in rural ridings at least the new movement is going to have a considerable effect in Provincial and Dominion politics. The Globe voices a question in this regard that has been in the minds of many of the electors. What are the plans of the farmers if a considerable number of them are elected for the Legislature? Just now they are smiting the Conservative and Liberal parties with vim and vehemence at every farmers' picnic in the province. The days of the old politices are dead, declare the leaders of the movement. And yet how do the farmers propose to act? It is impossible that enough of them will be elected to have a majority in the House; it is equally true on the other hand that they may be strong enough to have the balance of power. What will happen then? The spellbinders of the U.F.O. should tell the people a little more of their plans Their addresses are wonderfully indefinite in so far as the future is concerned. Their chief ingredient just now is abuse of the old parties, and there is little in the speeches that are re-echoing along the side-lines to enlighten the electors as to just what the farmers have in mind.

A SEASON OF UNCERTAINTY.

Are we moving toward the group system in Canadian politics? The farmers have resolved to organize as a separate political party. In Ontario there is an independent Labor party, and doubtless Labor candidates will appear in the industrial centres in other Provinces. Labor has direct representation in the municipal councils of many towns and cities. It must have a greater direct representation in the Senate and House of Commons. Whether Labor members can be more effective in association with the old political parties or as detached representatives of the workers is a question which they must settel, but as to which there is room for difference of opinion. Mr. Robertson, as a member of the Unionist Government, probably can serve Labour better in that relation than he could as an isolated member of Parliament. There are not so many constituencies in Canada where Labour candidates can be elected, and for some time to come it is doubtful if Labour could have the balance of power in Parliament.

There is a movement to unite the organized farmers and organized Labour, but it would seem to be as natural for Labour to unite with Liberals or Unionists. There is a conflict—one think unfortunate and unnecessary conflict—between the country and the towns and cities in which Labour is not naturally involved. When all is said, the prosperity of industrial workers is measured in some degree by the prosperity of the industrial communities, and any policy which threatens industrial activity and stability is opposed to the interests of the masses of workmen. It cannot be expected that legislative proposals to lower prices of food products would appeal to farmers, nor are farmers very sympathetic towards movements to raise wages. The farmers' party and the Liberal party are both committed to low tariff, while the bulk of the industrial workers have favored the protectionist system. Hence an alliance between the Grain Growers and the Labour party probably would not strengthen Labour candidates in the cities nor farmers' candidates in the country. It is a question, too, if Labour members acting with the Liberal or Unionist party would not be more influential than as a separate group in Parliament.

That is not the view which appeals to Labour in Great Britain or in Australia, but in both those countries it is not impossible for Labour to control Parliament. There does not seem to be any such prospect in Canada or in the United States, and for that reason probably Mr. Gompers has opposed the organization of a separate Labour party. An organized minority has great power to affect the decisions of a government or the measures of a national party. We believe that majorities govern, but in many cases they govern through the minorities for whose favour political leaders compete and whose orders they obey. But whether or not Labour parties become powerful in the United States and Canada, political conventions of the old parties would be wise to select more of their candidates in the industrial centres from the ranks of the workers.

It is difficult to understand why so few farmers should have seats in the Cabinet. When a Minister of Agriculture is appointed it seems to be assumed that the obligation to agriculture has been discharged. But in a country like Canada there is no sound reason why the professions should have such excessive representation in Parliaments and in Governments. Surely it should be in the common interest if Agriculture and Industry alike had greater authority in the public councils. A fairer and wiser distribution of honors and responsibilities would do something to abate class feeling and assure that national considerations would not be subordinated to class and sectional interests. Governments in Canada have not neglected agriculture, but there is a sense in which farmers have been neglected and in the fact there is a partial explanation of the immediate political activity among farmers. If we would put upon representatives of agriculture and of Labour a greater direct responsibility for administration and public policy, many prejudices would be dispelled, and we would come closer to actual and practical democracy in government.

Moreover, if we had been more generous and far-sighted, we would not have developed a condition of feeling in which it seems to be impossible for the new Minister of Finance or the new leader of the Liberal party to get a seat for a rural constituency. While it is desirable that more farmers should be returned to Parliament, it will be unfortunate if class feeling becomes stronger than national feeling, and local considerations so predominant that men of exceptional ability will be excluded from Parliament because there are no constituencies for which they can be elected. For the moment, however, political conditions are greatly confused and unsettled. The death of Sir Wilfrid Laurier closed an era in Canada, while the Unionist party has not yet developed a programme as definite as those of the Liberal party and the Grain Growers. Until that is done there will be a degree of uncertainty and apprehension in the country inimical to stable and responsible government. — Montreal Star.

FEW SWISS GIRLS ARE MARRYING FOREIGNERS.

Predominance of Men in Mixed Unions Have Been Increased By The War.

Among the Swiss the habit of taking foreign partners in marriage has always been more prevalent among the men than among the girls, but contrary to the prophecies of the statisticians the difference was even more marked during the war than in the years of peace. The Geneva correspondent of the "London Daily Express," says:

"At Geneva the number of Swiss men marrying girls of other nationalities has always been greater than the number of Swiss girls marrying stangers. In 1911, for instance, the figures were 301 and 177 respectively. But the war has accentuated this, and the figures now published for 1917 show 334 mixed marriages in which the man was Swiss and only 113 of the opposite kind. Obviously, the departure of many young foreigners for the war has rendered the Swiss girls more accessible to their compatriots. The same effect is seen at Basle, where 424 Swiss married German girls and only 151 Germans married Swiss girls, and in the whole of Switzerland the effect is even more marked.

"At Geneva one wonders what will be the effect of the large influx of foreigners as the result of the setting up of the headquarters of the league of nations."

AN UNSHAVEN ROMEO.

Otis Skinner, the actor, delights to recount barnstorming experiences of the early days. "Once," he says, "I discovered that I was flat broke and ventured to ask the manager for 15 cents. 'What the deuce do you want 15 cents for?' he wanted to know. 'Well,' I answered, 'I've got to play Romeo to-night, and you can't expect me to do it with five days' growth of whiskers on my five.' 'Mebbe not,' growled the manager, 'but just the same, you ain't goin' to get no money outter me. We'll play "Othello" instead.

Concerning Your Fall Shoes

IF you would secure service and satisfaction from your shoes this Fall, it is more than ever important that you should go to a reputable dealer in whom you have confidence, and see that the maker's trade-mark is on the shoes you buy. This for the reason that leather is now scarcer than at any time during the war, prices are higher, and some grades of leather are to-day almost unobtainable at any price.

¶ Millions of pairs of shoes, millions of feet of leather, have been bought for the Nations of Europe whose stocks of footwear were entirely wiped out by the war. This has more than offset the reduction in demand for army shoes. And coming upon a supply of material which was already scarce, it has resulted in a situation which, for the time being, is serious.

¶ Therefore, unless you have first-hand technical knowledge of shoes and leather, you must rely more closely than ever this Fall upon the reputation of the maker and of the retailer.

¶ The retailer who has a reputation to sustain will not endanger it for the sake of a little extra profit. And no established manufacturer will stamp his trade mark upon goods which do not represent good value at a fair price.

¶ The chances are that you do not feel any great interest in the leather market, or in the conditions which govern the manufacture and distribution of shoes. But you ARE interested—vitally interested—in securing for yourself and your family reliable footwear at fair prices. And the value which you receive for your hard-earned dollars is inexorably determined by those same conditions which govern what we call the shoe trade. You cannot control them, any more than we can. But you CAN control your method of buying, so as to get the greatest possible value for every dollar you spend.

¶ So we think it only just and proper to tell you, at the commencement of each season, what the conditions really are, so that you may base your buying judgment upon them.

To Buy Wisely This Fall:

FIRST: Go to a reliable dealer whose reputation you know and whose judgment you can trust: and SECOND: Make sure that the trade mark of a manufacturer whose standing is known is stamped upon the shoes you buy.

Our booklet, "How to Buy Shoes," is gladly sent without charge to any address in Canada. Please address inquiries to our head office at Montreal.

Victories of Peace

If Canada is to share in the Victories of Peace she must translate into industrial activity the spiritual valor of her men. War developed untold possibilities in human energies.

They and we know the part that engineering played in war, but they and we know that its part will be infinitely greater when applied to the arts of peace.

Men who did big things are not going to let their energies lie fallow because the conflict is done. Already they are grasping industrial opportunities, and the driving force and the unconquerable spirit that kept them at the big task overseas will make them formidable competitors here.

Men contemplating new enterprises or the re-establishment of old industries are invited to visit us and draw upon our experience in all matters pertaining to Power Transmission Engineering.

We welcome them back into industrial life, and we offer them the best that we have to aid them in re-establishing their industrial footing.

We have made great strides in productive capacity in the past four years; and we are eager to match this capacity with the initiative and ability of new forces in the industrial world.

FIRE AT "ROYAL MUSKOKA."

Slight Damage Done to Roof of the Dining Room.

Port Carling, Ont., Aug. 29. — A small fire occurred at the dinner hour last evening at the Royal Muskoka Hotel, on Lake Roseau, but was confined to the roof of the dining room. Little damage was done, and that mostly by water. The male guests rendered valuable assistance with hose and buckets.

The Royal Muskoka is one of the largest and finest, and is the most fashionable of the Muskoka resorts. All the Muskoka hotels have had the biggest season on record. For weeks accomodation has been at a premium. It speaks well for the management of the many resorts, and for the carefulness of the visitors, that there has not been a serious fire or accident throughout the season.

HOSPITAL NURSE SHOT DEAD.

Murder Verdict Against Canadian Soldier Who Loved in Vain.

The murder of the Liverpool nurse, Alice Jones, of the Northern Hospital, in conection with whose death a Canadian ex-soldier named Joseph Hutty, is charged with wilful murder, was the subject of an inquiry at Liverpool.

Evidence was given that last year he was a shell-shock patient at the hospital, and a friendship sprang up between the parties.

Robert Richard Jones,her father, gave evidence that, with his approval, Hutty in November, spent a week at his house. He was an invalid and unable to walk without help, and had no friends in England.

The night before Hutty left he spoke to witness about being engaged to his daughter and witness said he had better wait until he was established in business.

Later Hutty returned to America. In February deceased told him that she had written to Hutty to say they could be nothing more than friends. On July 15 witness' other daughter, Elsie, received a letter from Hutty, dated Liverpool, saying he had come over to try to make it up with Kitty.

Elsie telephoned to her sister, at the hospital, and the deceased wrote: "I was mad to think he had come back here on a wild-goose chase. There is nothing in this wide world to make me change my mind."

Mr. Jones added that his daughter wrote to Hutty, refusing to meet him and he replied that he was returning to America.

Letters found in prisoner's possession were read. In one of them Nurse Jones wrote: "I do not love you, and it is far better we should not see each other again."

A verdict of "Wilful Murder" against Hutty was returned.

BAB'S INDIGNATION IS ALL DIRECTED AGAINST BLANCHE ORTON.

CHAPTER LVI

I was terribly indignant with Neil Nothing, I told him, could exceed the baseness of his proceedings. That he should make Blanche Orton a widow, the repository of his business affairs, was scandalous. There were clubs, restaurants and hotels where he could take such men as we could not receive in our home. It wasn't necessary to take them—and incidentally himself—to her.

He listened for a while in silence He had exhausted himself before I had a chance to say all that was in my mind. Then he broke out:

"You refused to help me. You even tho you are angry because of Blanche's kindness to me, have not offered to do what she is doing—help me. You are too high and mighty to make yourself agreeable to men who mean success to me, money for you. Yet you object to my having a friend who cares enough for me to make herself attractive to my business acquaintances that she helps me already more than you ever have in all the years we have been married.

I recalled what she had said about getting rested so she could properly entertain and interest some one who bored hem

She did this for Neil.

The full sighificance of this action on her part rushed over me. She was in love with Neil and had taken this way tp make him care for her. She had been in love with him before Orton died, I thought bitterly, as I recalled many little things which were unnoticed at the time because I had thought of her as married, and so not free. Now they fairly glared at me. Had Neil also loved her? Did he care for her now as a woman, or only as a means to an end? That, I must know at all hazards, and—at once.

Jealousy of her was the predominant feeling now. I cared nothing about the business, her connection with it. It was Blanche Orton, the fascinating widow, with whom I was occupied.

"What did you do after you finished eating?" I asked, "You certainly didn't stay at the table until one o'clock? I recall distinctly that was the hour you came in."

"No, if you feel interested, we played cards." His sarcasm nearly made me cry, but I winked the tears back and asked:

"Bridge?"

"No poker—Haltman wouldn't play bridge. He calls it a woman's game."

Unconsciously I registered that name for future use. "Haltman."

"Did you play for stakes?"

"Fairly high."

"Can't you tell me things without my having to pry everything out of you?"

"And so deny you the great pleasure you seem to find in questioning me? I would not be so cruel."

I rushed from the room at this answer, and threw myself upon the bed, sobbing and crying bitterly. I wanted him to tell me about that dinner, and while he had not refused to answer my questions, he had refused to talk about it or to satisfy my curiosity in any way.

He had gambled, too! Was that something else men had to do to get business from these common men? I didn't believe it any more than they should be entertained in our home.

"I suppose she was all dressed up in some of her queer gowns?" I said to myself when, I grew more calm. "They are only intended to make men stare, anyway?"

I realized, long after, that all my indignation that day was directed toward Blanche Orton, instead of toward Neil. What right had she to even allow him to make her home a business rendezvous? How dared she invite him and his business friends to dinner and slight me, his wife? Not that I wanted to go if those horrid men were there; but was it her place to give me the chance to refuse, if she asked my husband.

That she knew I had refused to entertain men of Haltman's stamp and had offered to help Neil by having them at her home, would have angered me still further had I known it.

To-morrow — Neil Refuses to Tell Bab Where He is Going.

HOME CIRCLE COLUMN

MATRIMONIAL DON'TS.

Don't marry the young man who leaves his mother to find her way home as best she can on a dark night, while without thought or word of apology to the old lady, he looks after yet. One of these days whe nthe novelty is worn off, he will leave you to go alone as best you can, while he seeks his enjoyment at the club.

Don't marry a man who curls a scornful lip when religion and the Bible are spoken of, and who has all the mistakes of Moses and the misdeeds of Solomon on his tongue's end. A copy of Ingersol's lectures on his parlour table, instead of the family Bible, is a very poor guarantee of happy family life.

Don't marry a man whose friends smile at each other when his name is mentioned, and say, "Well, we hope he will come out all right, but he is sowing a few wild oats right now." Remember that what is sown before marriage is reaped after marriage. It will be very awkward for you to be obliged to reap that crop one of these days; and if you marry him, you will have the most of it to gather in.

Bow low the head, do reverence to the old man, once like you. The vicissitudes of life as silvered his hair and changed the round merry face to the worn visage before you. Once the heart beat with aspirations, crushed by disappointment as yours, perhaps, is destined to be. Once that form stalked proudly through gay scenes of pleasure, the beau ideal of grace; now the hand of time, that withers the flower of yesterday, has bent that figure and destroyed that noble carriage. Once, at your age, he possessed the thousand thoughts that pass through your brain, now wishing to accomplish deeds equal to a nook in fame; anon imagining life a dream that the sooner he awoke from it the better. But he has lived the dream very near through, the time to awaken is very near at hand: his eye never kindles at old deeds of daring, and the hand takes a firmer grasp of the staff. Bow low the head, boy, as you would in your old age be reverenced.

It is not the woman who is for ever chasing everyone in the house with a broom or duster who makes the most impression as to the desirableness of neatness and order. While she is making a martyr of herself in her frantic attempts to always keep the heart tidy and the woodwork polished, and the carpets free from spot or speck, she is often driving away the better elements of the home—peace and love and harmony. A child cannot enjoy his playthings without a place in which to play, nor a man feel free in his own house if he must be always remembering that not so much as a magazine or book shall be left one moment out of place when not being read.

Look at the bright side. It is the right side. The times may be hard, but it will make them no easier to wear a sad, gloomy countenance. It is the sunshine, and not the cloud, that makes the flower. The sky is blue ten times for once it is black. You have troubles; so have others. None are free from them. Trouble gives sinew and tone to life—fortitude and courage to men. That would be a dull sea, where there was nothing to disturb the surface of the ocean. What though things look a little dark, the lane will turn, and the night will end in broad day. There is more virtue in one sunbeam than in a whole hemispere of clouds and goom.

We want a religion for both worlds, for this because we are living in it—for the next because we are going to it—one that prepares for the next-by right living in this—a religion that softens the step and gives melody to the voice that checks impatience and irritation and gives self-control; a religion not merely for the church and the prayer meeting, but for business, for the family and for every day life; a religion of both faith and works; and of works as founded on faith; a religion of principle as well as feeling, of right habit as well as occasional impulse, that projects the honeymoon into the harvest moon, and makes the happy home like the fig tree, bearing at once the beauty of the tended blossoms and the glory of the ripened fruit, a religion that shall level the ruts and gullies and rocks in the pathway of life and give joy in that pathway to all who are in it.

Luxuries and the surroundings of wealth and idleness cannot bring contentment to a young woman of pluck and good sense. She would far rather deny herself all luxuries and enjoy the glorious sense of independence which her own exertions bring. If parents could but realise this they would perhaps oftener assist their daughters in procuring self-supporting honourable enjoyment, wherein the restless roving of the mind might be checked.

What do you think of a man who will sit down at the table three times a day, and thank the Lord for bread which he has swindled some poor man or beat his grocer out of?

Home without a woman's care and a woman's love is like no home at all—only the empty nest in a winter's gale from which the birds have flown.

When you talk to a man or a child about his faults, don't stand over him with a club.

A foolish woman can make a lover a husband, but it takes a bright woman to keep a husband a lover.

Overdoing

How Women Break Down

Owing to the modern manner of living and the nervous haste of every woman to accomplish just so much each day, they overdo, and as a consequence develop ailments peculiar to their sex, as is indicated by backache, headache, nervousness, the blues, displacements and weakness.

Women who find themselves in this condition should slow down, and depend upon that good old fashioned root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, to restore them to health and strength, for there is no other remedy known that so quickly restores a healthy, normal condition.

Here is the Story of a Most Remarkable Recovery

Minneapolis, Minn.—"I was run down and nervous, could not rest at night, and was more tired in the morning than when I went to bed. I have two children, the youngest three months old, and it was drudgery to care for them as I felt so irritable and generally worn out. From lack of rest and appetite my baby did not get enough nourishment from me, so I started to give him two bottle feedings a day. After taking three bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I felt like a new woman, full of life and energy. It is a pleasure to care for my children and I am very happy with them and feel fine. I nurse my baby exclusively again, and can't say too much for your medicine."

REST ROOM FOR FARMERS' WIVES

Mr. S. B. Strothers of Clinton, Ont., Huron's Agricultural representative, is offering the use of his front office as a rest room for women from the country who are in town shopping.

There has been a sort of a general movement amongst townspeople to supply some such place where women might go when through with the day's business and in many towns different societies have opened rest rooms which have been much appreciated.

This office is a natural rendezvous of farmers anyway, and as it is always open during business hours, with a young lady in charge, we have no doubt it will prove popular as a gathering place for their families when they are in town.

Dry weather is causing severe damage to the British and French fruit crops.

HIS GRADE.

Jim Johnston was called up for a medical examination. His wife waited anxiously for the result. When she saw her husband approaching she ran out to him.

"What's the verdict, Jim?" she panted. "Ca?"

"Ca be blowed!" said her husband dolefully. "It's C Fritz!"

Reconstruction and Telephone Service!

WHILE meeting and solving the problems of reconstruction, we are most anxious that our service should be up to the highest standard and that courtesy and helpfulness should characterise all our relations with our subscribers.

Back of the switchboard operator who handles your call, is needed the united effort of an army of skilled workers to keep intricate apparatus in order and to extend the service.

Over 840 of our trained men went overseas. There was a world-wide demand for the materials that go to make up a telephone system, making the problem of maintenance and extension of our plant during the war very difficult.

Now, although the majority of our men are back at work, the business world has sprung into intense activity and the problems of reconstruction, of getting back to normal, confront us.

We shall endeavor to tell you frankly what some of these problems are.

LEGAL ACTION WILL BE INVOKED TO COMPEL THE CITY TO INSTAL A MODERN DISPOSAL PLANT

LETTER RECEIVED FROM THE PROVINCIAL OFFICER OF HEALTH--- ALD. TURNER PRESENTED A REPORT.

Dr. J. W. S. McCullough, Provincial Officer of Health, informed the council that unless the city showed that they were taking practical steps to erect a modern sewage disposal plant legal action would be invoked. North Monaghan ratepayers, he said, are insisting that the city comply with the order of the Provincial Board of Health.

Ald. Turner presented a complete report of the system adopted in Rochdale, Eng., and the development of the plant there.

Ald. Edgar remarked that there seemed to be slow progress with the preliminary work of securing a site, but Ald. Phelan told him that the special committee was confronted with difficulties that had prevented an earlier report. He expected to make a statement to the council in a short time.

Ald. Phelan proposed that the question of the site should first be determined, but Ald. Turner and the Mayor held that the system of sewage disposal should be first decided since that phase might affect the property required.

Sell Potatoes by Weight

The Chief Inspector of the Weights and Measures Department recommended that the Council promulgate as a City Market by-law a regulation requiring that potatoes be sold by weight instead of by measure. A bag of potatoes is defined as 90 pounds but frequently the bags as sold retail are considerably less than this weight. The Department approves of the proposal to dispense with the sales by measure but will be unable to pass the necessary legislation until 1920.

In the meantime they suggest a municipal by-law to deal with the new harvest of potatoes now coming to market.—Referred to Legal Committee.

Request for Lights

Fred Holmes wrote that he was building a new house on Hilliard street and that a few lights were needed in that vicinity.—Referred to Fire, Water and Light Committee.

Withhold Decision.

Replying to the city's communication regarding the proposed "slop over" on to property belonging to the Hydro Electric Commission on Hunter street, Mr. F. A. Gaby replied that because of the possibility of the city acquiring the gas and street railway plants the question of damage to the Hunter street lots would be left in abeyance for the present. Mr. Gaby suggested that this property immediately north of the gas plant offered a good site for a substation, offices, etc., for the street railway and electric and water works departments.

Wants Salary Increase

Plumbing Inspector Thompson asked that his salary be increased to $60 a month.—Referred to Property Committee.

Department Took Notice

W. G. Bailey of the Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment Department referring by letter to the appointment of the Hunter street bridge accountant stated that the rejection of the applications of returned men was not a good example for manufacturers and other employers. He reminded the Mayor of his promise last March to support returned men and thereby assist the Re-establishment Department.—Received.

Fine Remitted

The Attorney General's Department recently remitted $175 of the $200 fine imposed on Gerald Dunford for an offence against the Temperance Act. Notice to this effect was forwarded to City Treasurer Adams who in turn requested the Council to consider this matter and advise him what to do. No reason was assigned by the License Commissioners in recommending the reduction of the fine.—Referred to Legal Committee.

Asks for Stairway

J. H. Bettes, No. 1 Hunter street east, through his solicitors Peck, Kerr and McElderry wrote that his property was greatly damaged by the new bridge. His first demand is for a stairway to his property on the water front.—Referred to Legal Committee.

Half Holiday.

As in former years the Board granted to the school children a half holiday (September 16th) to enable them to attend the Industrial Exhibition.

The Reports.

The following reports were received:

Appointments Confirmed.

The resignations of Messrs. A. D. Hone and S. J. Graham from the Collegiate Institute staff were accepted.

Mr. H. H. Graham was appointed to the Collegiate Institute staff to succeed Mr. Hone at an initial salary of $1,900, with increase according to schedule, and duties to commence September 2nd.

Mr. Lorne M. Richardson was appointed to the Collegiate Institute staff to succeed Mr. Graham, salary according to schedule, and duties to commence September 2nd.

Property Committee.

The Property committee reported that an arrangement had been made with the trustees of the St. James' Methodist church for a renewal of the lease of the class room in the basement for another year on the same terms, namely, $200, and recommend that the lease be executed by the chairman and secretary.

The committee also recommended that the janitor of St. James' church be paid for his services, the same amount as paid last year namely, $178, for the year.

PRESIDENT WILSON LEAVES TO-DAY ON 10,000 MILE SPEAKING TOUR

WILL MAKE A PERSONAL REPORT OF HIS WORK AT THE PEACE CONFERENCE.

By Hugh Baillie.
(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 3.—President Wilson leaves Washington this evening on a 10,000 mile speaking tour of the United States in an effort to convince the people that the peace treaty should be ratified as it stands. He will attempt to solidify public opinion in favour of the treaty so that pressure will be brought to bear on opposition senators from their home territory to change their attitudes.

In this endeavour to create an irresistible demand for quick ratification, the President, it was learned today, will make bold statements of what he considers the facts rather than oratorical efforts.

His itinerary calls for the invasion of the States of some of his principal opponents in the Senate. Most of his speeches will be delivered west of Chicago, where the administration believes antipathy to the treaty is strongest. Special attention is to be devoted to the Pacific coast, where the people, according to their senators, are suspicious of the Japanese and resentful of the Shangtung settlement, whereby Japan gets important grants in China. In addition to his speeches on the coast the President will review the Pacific fleet at Seattle on September 13.

One of Wilson's arguments for ratification is expected to be that the industrial unrest and high prices era cannot end until peace is established through the acceptance of the treaty. He plans to explain his reasons for committing the United States to the League of Nations, and, in fact, makes a personal report to the American people on his work at Paris, telling the "whys" and "wherefores."

CO-OPERATIVE PLAN GROWS IN ENGLAND

SOCIETIES HAVE MEMBERSHIP OF 3,500,000, WITH CAPITAL OVER $375,000,000—SEEK CONTACT WITH UNIONS.

NEW YORK.—The signing of the armistice stimulated a new interest in the co-operative movement throughout Great Britain, where there were already some 3,500 industrial co-operative distributive and productive societies in operation with a membership of 3,500,000 persons, a total share, loan and reserve capital of over $375,000,000, a total trade (distributive and productive of over $1,000,000,000, and a total profit in 1918 before deduction of interest or share capital of about $80,000,000. The above statement is made in a bulletin of the Bureau of Statistics of the Department of Labour.

On the whole, the Department of Labour states, the war has had a favorable effect on the progress of co-operation in Great Britain. Controlled prices have been helped rather than hindered by the movement, since in the case of the controlled commodities, for which everybody must pay a certain retail price, members of the co-operative society have an advantage over non-members in that they receive a dividend on all purchases. Co-operative stores are the only stores paying such a dividend, and in many cases this has been an excellent argument to prove the soundness of the co-operative system.

"The number of members of individual co-operative societies has shown a fair increase, and this increase would undoubtedly have been much greater had the societies been able to obtain sufficient supplies. Government restrictions, applying equally to all stores, made it very difficult for a stock of supplies to be maintained in any section of the country. During the last ten days of Jandary British consumers had the option of changing their retail dealers, and this is expected to result in a substantial gain in the membership of retail co-operative societies, since it is believed that many persons who were not members during the war now appreciate to a greater extent the merits of the co-operative idea.

"The extent to which the war has interfered with normal organization of co-operative societies can be realized when it is known that the British Co-operative Society alone had 6,000 employes called to the colours. The society undertook to make up the difference between their pay as soldiers and their wages by means of the payment of a separation allowance, and to date $6,000,000 has been disbursed for this purpose. As demobilization proceeds and former employes return the society will be in an excellent condition to proceed with new development schemes."

The total sales of the whole sale societies for the first six months of 1919 are given as $144,157,296, and it is estimated that the corrected figures for 1919 will show sales totalling approximately $311,656,000 and practically all of this total represents sales to co-operative retail societies— in other words, wholesale prices. Groceries and provisions made up the biggest item in the co-operative wholesale societies.

Seek Contact With Unions.

The most important single units in the co-operative movement in Great Britain are the British Co-operative Wholesale Society, Ltd., with headquarters in Manchester, and the Scottish Co-operative Wholesale Society, Ltd., with head offices in Glasgow and Edinburgh. The membership of the British society now exceeds 3,000,000 persons.

"Up until the last two or three years the contract between the co-operative societies and the trade unions has not been at all close. Recently, however, there has been a definite attempt made to persuade trade unions to do their banking business with the banking department of the Co-operative Wholesale Society, and an important scheme of agricultural and industrial development which will shortly be announced by the society will tend, it is believed, toward establishing a closer working arrangement between the co-operative societies and the trade unions."

"For a long time the leaders of the co-operative movement have sought to widen the field of co-operative trading, and efforts have been made to have the law governing co-operative efforts so amended so as to allow individual members of societies to increase their interest beyond the limit of $1,000. The treasury has now sanctioned the proposal to issue what will be called development bonds,' in denominations of $100, $200, $500, $1,000, and $5,000 up to a sum of $10,000,000. These bonds will bear interest at the rate of 6 1-2 per cent., payable half yearly and they may be redeemed at par at the end of ten years. At a meeting of the shareholders of the Co-operative Wholesale Society held in Manchester this scheme for issuing development bonds was ratified.

"The Directors of the Co-operative Wholesale Society believe that their scheme will appeal not only to individuals but also to trade unions as a good investment for their funds. Already several hundred trade unions are banking with the local retail co-operative society in their districts, which acts as an agent of the banking department of the Co-operative Wholesale Society at Manchester. Trade unions also invest their funds in municipal, Government, and railway stocks. The proposal which the Co-operative Wholesale Society now makes to the trade unions is that it will be to their interest to invest their money in a co-operative scheme for development in the field of agriculture and industry.

"Among the projects contemplated under this development-bond scheme is the acquisition and operation by the society of flour mills, tanneries, jam factories, boot and shoe factories, corn mills, dairy farms and similar enterprises. Not long ago the Co-operative Wholesale Society began the manufacture of textiles. It bought, and is now running, three weaving sheds—one at Bury, with 800 looms; another at Radcliffe, with 800 looms, and a third at Chorley, with 500 looms. It proposes to extend its interest in cotton-textile manufacturing when it is in position to consume the yarn output of a moderate-sized mill. It intends to build a mill for the spinning of yarn in the near future."

Another big development foreshadowed is the acquisition of large coal fields in Yorkshire. Already the society owns a coal mine near Newcastle. During the war the society has spent large sums for the purchase of farm lands and factories. For land in connection with factory extension it has paid $972,400; for new factories and workshops it has paid $6,040,650, and for farms and other land $2,000,000, a total of nearly $7,000,000. It is estimated that the society now holds about 80,000 acres of farm lands in Lancashire, Cheshire, Yorkshire, and Cambridgeshire. It is also hoped to establish eventually 1,400 branches of the banking department of the Co-operative Wholesale Society.

WILL REGULATE PRICE OF SUGAR

CONSUMER WILL HAVE TO PAY ABOUT THIRTEEN CENTS A POUND

(Canadian Press.)

MONTREAL, Sept. 3.—The Board of Commerce will probably fix a maximum price for both the wholesaler and retailer within the next day or two in order to mitigate the effects of alarmist statements that were sent out from the Wholesale Grocers' Convention recently, that sugar would go to eighteen or more cents a pound in the near future it was learned here to-day.

The probability is that the maximum price for wholesalers will be 11½ cents a pound, and that retailers will be allowed to charge one cent per pound more than the wholesale price, plus freight charges as filed by the standardized freight rate book, issued every six months.

VETERAN'S TRAGIC END.

Unable to Stand Sufferings From Shell Shock, Took Own Life.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 29.—Funeral services were held yesterday morning at the chapel of Alvarez and Blue for Albert E. Farth, of Montreal, Que., who on Sunday, shot himself at his home in the city. Farth was a hero of the world war. He served under both the United States and French flags for some time. The veteran has been suffering severely from nervousness due to shell shock. Last Sunday afternoon, fearing his condition would drive him insane, he took his life. When the detectives investigated the tragedy they found a note, explaining the cause of the suicide. Burial was made in Calvary cemetery. Farth has no relatives in Los Angeles.

AVIATION ADDS 200 WORDS TO LANGUAGE.

New York students of the English language attribute to aerial navigation the addition of 200 words. As the average person has had to the past a speaking vocabulary of only 600 of the more than 600,000 words in the English language, the increase brought about by the airplane and airship is regarded as remarkable.

For the benefit of those as yet unacquainted with the true meaning of such words as "fuselage," "nacelle," etc., the Manufacturers' Aircraft Association has prepared a "flying dictionary" with the aid of a report compiled by the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics at Washington.

IMPRACTICABLE TO APPOINT A VETERAN AS BRIDGE ACCOUNTANT

COUNCIL'S REPLY TO G.W.V.A. RESOLUTION—MAYOR OBJECTED TO THREATS DIRECTED AT THE ALDERMEN WHO WOULD SEEK RE-ELECTION.

ALD. HAMILTON CONCILIATORY

The Great War Veterans' resolution objecting to the appointment of Mr. Alex. Elliott as accountant for the city in the construction of the Hunter street bridge in preference to the applicants who were returned soldiers was received without comment by the Council last night until Ald. Hamilton suggested that some explanatory note should be forwarded to the Association.

"If this appointment is explained to them I think it will be quite satisfactory," he said. "We have appointed many veterans and we intend to do so. The G.W.V.A. is wrong when they state that six members of the Council were committed to Mr. Elliott. I voted for him at the last moment for reasons I don't care to go into just now."

Mayor Duncan —I don't like the threat in that letter that they are going to turn out all the aldermen who voted for Mr. Elliott."

Ald. Hamilton—They may not understand all the circumstances.

Mayor Duncan— We are doing all we can for returned soldiers, but I wouldn't reply to a letter like that.

Ald. Hamilton —It wasn't very courteous.

Ald. Edgar— When we appointed the inspector for the street paving we struck out all the applicants who were not returned men, but when the other appointment came up the returned soldiers weren't in it. Of course the Council can do as it wishes, but I don't think that was very consistent or that the Council did just what was right.

Other members referred to the question, and Ald. Crowe said that nothing was too good for the soldiers who had seen hard fighting.

"I take exception to the man who was here to-night (Mr. Harry Coit). He went only as far as Kingston. I believed some members of the Council were pledged," said Ald. Crowe.

Ald. Garside remarked that there should be some show for civilians, and spoke of Mr. Elliott's right to consideration.

After other business had intervened, Ald. Hamilton returned to this item and moved, seconded by Ald. McIntyre, that the City Clerk write the veterans replying to their resolution, assuring them that returned men were not being slighted or overlooked, but that in this case it was impracticable to appoint a returned soldier.

"FIRST AID" MIGHT HAVE GIVEN GUERIN A CHANCE

DECEASED LIVED TWENTY-FIVE MINUTES AFTER THE ACCIDENT—BLED TO DEATH.

JURY'S VERDICT

"We the jury empaneled to inquire into the death of Adelarde Guerin, 81 London street, find that the deceased came to his death on August 26, 1919, at the street railway barns in the City of Peterborough. Death was caused by hemorrhage and shock, the result of an injury he received by being crushed between two cars, having unthinkingly put on the trolley when the controller was in action."

The foregoing verdict was brought in by the jury last evening at the inquest of Adelarde Guerin, who was killed on the morning of August 26th. The jury was out only ten minutes.

First Witness.

William Gereghdy, 169 Lake street, who was working with Guerin at the time of the accident, was outside at the time, but ran inside when he heard a car running and found Adelarde Guerin pinched in between the two cars. He pulled off the trolley and Guerin fell in his arms. He lived 25 minutes after the accident.

He at once tried to 'phone the police station, but failed to get the correct number, and impatient, he started on the run for the police station. He informed Sergt. Deannard of the accident and asked him to call an ambulance and make all arrangements. On returning to the car barns he found that the deceased was still alive. Just after Guerin breathed his last P. C. Boyd arrived on the scene. In the car he found that the circuit breaker which shuts off the "juice" was not open, which was contrary to printed instructions placed by the street railway company in the car.

Glass Smashed.

P. C. Boyd, who received word of the accident from P. C. Wigg, found Adelarde Guerin lying on the rails near the car. Gereghdy said that he had just died, but the body was still warm. There was blood on the bumpers of the cars where his legs had been caught. The trolley was pulled off the wire and the fender of one car was underneath the next car. The body lay about a foot from the car on which he was working. The glass in the headlight of the next car was broken by the impact. The controller door was open and the power handle on two notches. Dr. Malcolm McCulloch soon after arrived and the body was removed the undertakers.

Constable Wigg corroborated P. C. Boyd's evidence.

Sergt. Deannard, who was desk sergeant the night of the accident, asked central to procure a doctor as soon as possible and Dr. McCulloch responded. He was of the opinion that Guerin stepped on the fender to put on the trolley and when the car moved Guerin was thrown off his balance and was jammed in between the moving car and the next one on the track.

Dr. McCulloch found the deceased dead in a pool of blood. A post mortem by Dr. McCulloch and Dr. Edward Wood was soon after performed. Death might have been prevented if a tourniquet had eben made immediately after the accident. The chief cause of death was excessive bleeding. The knees were so badly crushed that they were almost pulp. A small clot of blood was found in the chest wall, but had no bearing on the cause of death.

First Aid Lacking.

Dr. Wood was of the opinion that immediate first aid would have given Guerin a fair chance for life. He thought it would be quite in order if the street car employees were given lessons in first aid.

Mr. John McCann, superintendent of the street railway line, explained how Guerin came to be working on the cars. When the conductor returns to the barn he punches a printed card in the office through the name of the part of the car that is out of order and the night men inspect these cards and then proceed to repair the parts affected. Guerin was very proficient in this work, having been there a number of years before he enlisted. He had been working several months in the barns since he returned from overseas.

"Guerin left the controller on accidentally after he repaired the controller."

He further said that Guerin was a great worker and always busy and that it was likely in his hurry that he left the power on.

FORMER RESIDENTS OF PETERBORO CELEBRATE THEIR GOLDEN WEDDING

MR. AND MRS. N. CROWE, OF NOGIE'S CREEK HONOURED BY FRIENDS AND RELATIVES.

NOGIE'S CREEK, Sept. 3. — On Monday, Aug. 25th, over 50 guests gathered at Cedar Wylde, the home of Mr. and Mrs. N. Crowe, to celebrate their golden wedding. Fifty years before Mr. and Mrs. Crowe were married at St Andrew's manse, Peterboro, by Rev. D. J. MacDonnell, then pastor of that church.

Mrs. W. Church, nee Miss Borrowman of Peterboro, a lifelong friend of Mrs. Crowe, was among the guests of the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Crowe were the parents of five sons and four daughters, namely, Edgerton, of Orangeville, Cecil and Frank of Bobcaygeon; Leslie of Manitoba; Mrs. J. Bardeau and Mrs. Emory Taylor, of Bobcaygeon, and Miss Ida, who resides with her parents. One daughter, Mrs. Cairndoff, died eleven years ago, and Chas. died in B.C., seven years ago.

Twenty-eight grandchildren and one great grandchild, complete their family.

In addition to the family there were present about 25 guests.

A programme of music, etc., was carried out and a purse containing $35 was presented by their children, besides a number of suitable presents. Mr. Emory Taylor, husband of the youngest daughter, made the presentation, and Frank, the youngest son, read the address, to which Mr. Crowe made a kind and loving reply.

Mr. Wooley of Hamilton, gave a pleasant address on behalf of the guests which was replied to by Mr. Crowe.

Refreshments were served at which the old time wedding cake, most beautifully decorated, was present. A very happy and enjoyable evening was spent which closed by all the family and guests passing in procession and giving the kiss of love and friendship to the elderly couple. Three cheers were then given, and then good-night.

Returning Home.

Little by little the summer guests are returning to their homes and the local residents miss the cheerful noise, the bon fires with their corn roasts, and toasting of marshmallows, the singing around the fire and the hearty cheering.

Mother Ill.

Mr. R. A. Peck, editor of the Caledonia Era, Caledonia, N. Y., and the proprietor of the Era Printery, who was spending a much needed holiday at "The Cedars," was called home by the serious illness of his mother.

PERMISSION WILL BE WITHHELD

Medical Officer of Health Will be Asked For Opinion.

A member of the local Hebrew colony applied to the Police Commission yesterday afternoon to open a second hand store on Louis street. The Board was somewhat doubtful whether Dr. W. A. McPherson, M. O.H., would advise the Board of Health to issue a permit for the store and it was decided to withhold the license until a decision has been reached by the Board of Health.

THIS WOMAN FOUND HEALTH

And Escaped an Operation by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Hazelhurst, Ga.—"I have used your remedies for only ten months, and they saved me from an operation. Before I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I was so ill from a female trouble that I was forced to stay in bed for a week at a time with weakness and pain, but your medicine has done so much for me that I am recommending it to all suffering women. It certainly is a great medicine and is a sure road to health for women. You may publish this letter if you like."—Mrs. W. C. LITTLE, R.F.D. A, Hazelhurst, Ga.

Women who suffer from headaches, nervousness, backache, the blues and other symptoms of a functional derangement should give this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a trial.

For forty years it has been overcoming such ailments of women after other medicines have failed.

If you want special suggestions in regard to your condition, write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of long experience is at your service, and your letter will be held in strict confidence.

held and that the course of procedure to be followed be taken up.

From what I can gather Inspector Stewart has shown this statement to a number of citizens of Peterboro, and I think that he should be given an opportunity of proving these statements since he has undertaken to circulate them. I shall be very pleased to appear at the investigation for Detective Newhall to assist in laying all the facts before the Police Commission.

Police Protection.

William H. Hamilton, of the city of Peterboro, standard hotel keeper, makes the following statement:

"This information is private that I am about to give and it came to me from Rae Sullivan of Peterboro, who runs a barber shop and pool room, about Saturday, the third of May, in my house. He told me that he could get police protection to steal twenty cases of whiskey stored at County Constable Moore's house. I then asked him what police protection he had, and he said that Detective Newhall and Taylor had been talking among themselves, and Sullivan said that Newhall and Taylor would get Moore out of the house, he could get the whiskey and Sullivan would be cleared. This was to be done on Saturday night, May 3rd, between 7 and 9 o'clock. It was calculated that Moore's wife would be up town at that time. They proposed to send Moore to the police station. Sullivan was to get men, and go to the house and take the whiskey. Sullivan was to be at the police station when Moore comes over. The object in getting the whiskey was to clear Sullivan of a charge which was being made by the Inspector, in regard to illegal possession of whiskey which was seized by the Inspector at Kendry station, a flag station on the C. P. R., it having come off the morning train from Montreal on April 30th. Newhall was to see that there would be no policemen there to interfere in taking the whiskey. Newhall and a man named Wiggs are going to swear that they saw Sullivan on the morning of the seizure. Newhall will say he saw Sullivan in town on that morning. Police Constable Wiggs will swear he saw Sullivan at 7.30 a. m. in Peterboro."

AFRAID OF THE BULL.

A Pelly farmer came into the North Star office the other day with an inquiring look upo nhis countenance. "Where might I find Henderson's dray?" he asked. "I want him at once to take my parcels over to the tie-posts!"

"Why don't you bring your team over and pick your stuff up on your way home?"

"Well, I am all alone and don't want to be fined twenty-five green backs for leaving my mules unattended on the main!"

"Maybe you could get the town 'Bull to hold your nags outside the stores while you went in?"

"Bah!"—North Pelly Star.

"DARING HEARTS" GRAND THEATRE

FEATURE PICTURE WILL BE OF UN USUAL INTEREST.

It is refreshing to see Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne on the screen again, and more than usual interest will be taken in the Vitagraph feature, "Daring Hearts," which will be shown at the Grand on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday of this week. Aside from the fact that it has two popular stars, this picture has many other features that will create an interest and make it go big. It was written by Albert E. Smith and Cyrus Townsend Brady.

For over 22 years Mr. Smith has been producing motion pictures. He is thoroughly familiar with every angle of the game. Cyrus Townsend Brady has written some of the Vitagraph's best features and serial plays. The two in collaboration have turned out a production that is out of the ordinary run of features. They have included scenes of mobilisation and the outbreak of the war that have become history, and aviation stunts have been shot that are amazing.

The feature is certainly a classic, and although it tells a story of the war and shows some scenes upon the battlefields of Europe, all the ghastly, gruesome features of war and warfare are eliminated. It tells the story of Alsace and what the little state endured.

Francis X. Bushman has a role in which he can do big things. He is forced to fight his way every foot of the picture and proves himself equal to the task. He is the type of American one would expect to see and he does the things that every red-blooded American would do under the circumstances.

Equally strong and prominent is the co-star, Beverly Bayne. She is a daring woman, willing to risk everything for France. She displays quick wit and adds a touch to the role that makes it distinctly her own. She has a way of telling a story by the twinkle of an eye or movement of the head. It is a trait that might not be noticed by the casual observer because it blends so well with the story and is a big factor in putting it over.

Jean Paige does an unusual bit of acting in the character of Suzette. Her death scene is highly commendable. L. Rogers Lytton as Baron Von Steinbach and Karl Dane as Lieutenant Von Borgheim, deserve mention for the way they handle the heavy roles. They certainly put all that is mean and contemptible into action and draw hisses from the audience.

The air photography is unusual. Scenes showing wrecked airplanes, plunging towards the earth, air combats, and observation manoeuvres are faithfully reproduced, and stand out vividly in the picture.

OPENING SHOW AT THE GRAND

FIRST ROAD SHOW OF THE SEASON HERE TO-NIGHT.

"Seven Days' Leave," the big spectacular New York and London military melo-drama, will play at the Grand to-night. This melo-drama was first produced in London three years ago, and played there to capacity houses. The play was later produced at the Park Theatre, New York, where it had a run of six months.

The story of the play concerns principally a rollicking young major, back in London on leave of absence, with buoyancy and heart enough to fall in love with a certain young woman, who ardently welcomes his wooing. But Cupid has hardly opened his eyes to the affair, when enters again sinisterly the clutch of conflict, whose roars can still be heard within the bowers, and from romance the play instantly stiffens to the tense thrill of danger for both the boy and his fiancee, and indeed all about them who are dear to both. Many of the phases of life in London, as it is at present, and as it was during the duration of the war, hazard of spies, levelling of castes, awakening of a finer spiritual note, are brought out. There is a thrilling denouement when a submarine is destroyed by the use of powerful explosives, in full view of the audience, and the interest of the audience is sustained at a high pitch from the rise of the curtain till the final scene, which carries the spectators to a quiet British churchyard, where a troop of American soldiers are seen at the dedication of a shrine, from which they march off to embark for France.

This is the first attraction of the season.

FANCY WM. S. HART WEARING A DRESS SUIT

SEE HIM AT THE ALLEN.

Can you fancy "Big Bill" Hart in a dress suit? Well, it was a great affliction to him for the time being, but those who have seen him in white shirt and claw hammer coat in "Branding Broadway" his latest Artcraft picture are compelled to admit he presents an excellent appearance.

The story is simply that of a puncher who is shipped east against his will but seeing an advertisement that he thinks suits him, goes on to Manhattan and gets the job of taming a millionaire's son. In seeking to get letters from a waitress, he falls in love with the girl himself and in the end it is all straightened out perfectly, with everybody happy. And there is one of the greatest chases that was ever shown when Bill pursues the detective who has stole the letters.

In addition to the feature the Allen Theatre will show a comedy and other features in keeping within its policy of presenting only pictures that excell.

Remember, you can see a full show at any time of the day, we never stop our pictures.

"GROUSE SEASON" IN MESO.

The following poem was written by a friend of Corp. Arthur Smith, recently returned from Mesopotamia, where he served with the Royal Engineers, who is visiting Miss E. Smith, 286 George Street, prior to leaving for California for the winter:

A land of shady palms and gardens fair,
Of glittering mosques and palaces so rare;
Thus did the ancient poet sweetly sing—
But Tommy's lay has quite a different ring.

This blooming place would give a king the hump!
No wonder camels carry such a lump.
An' "shady palm"—'ere, boss, you makes me cry;
A palm tree wouldn't shade a blinking fly:

And as for palaces—well, they are rare;
So, Mr. Poet ain't so far out there;
In fact, the only palace that I've seen
Is one where Charlie Chaplin's on the screen.

But the Garden of Eden may have been all right.
But if Adam came back now he'd get a fright.
The "pip" he got from Eve would be a trifle
Compared to tramping Meso. with a rifle.

Say, guv-nor, can ye show us to a pub?
I'm pretty well fed up, but not with grub,
Well, drink, there plenty in the river bed:
That's it, just over there, three miles ahead.

Now, strike me pink, that beats the blooming band!
Is this another Prohibition land?
Still, if I was a camel, from the creek
I'd take in drink enough to last a week.

Thus Tommy has his grouse, but "carries on,"
And will until the end, through rain or sun;
And afterawrds explain, o'er many a pot—
"My glorious thirst I gained in Mesopot."

BUT THERE WAS NO PEACE.

(From the Manchester Guardian).

Xenophon was, I suppose, writes a correspondent, the real father of the League of Nations. At least, in a report on the African budget, he formulates a wish that war might be suppressed and proposes to his colleagues the creation of a Ministry of Peace. Generally speaking, of course, the ancients regarded war as an inevitable evil, so that his action was all the more remarkable. Other ancients seem to have had glimmerings that peace might be a good thing. A third century historian, Vopiscus, utters the following cry of joy: "Now that the Emperor Probus has conquered the barbarians, there will never be any more war!" We seem only lately to have heard something of the kind in Europe. With the truth of God we come to the end of peace conceptions in general, and until the eighteenth century only the moralists, such, for instance, as Bossuet, seem really to deplore war. It is possible that the prophets who are always declaring that war is inevitable have something to do with its coming, and for them might be recommended a passage of Diodorus: "In India at the beginning of each year philosophers assemble and predict droughts, rains, plagues, and anything that concerns the people. If they are wrong in their prophecies they are condemned to remain dumb all the rest of their lives!"

The Prince and the Duke of Devonshire at Quebec.

What He Wanted.

Daily News:—General Biddle said at a London party:—

'The doughboy in France has a lot of trouble with the French language. A doughboy sat on a bench in the Tuileries Gardens one day and thumbed a French phrase book discontentedly.

"'This here book,' he growled, 'don't tell you what you want to say at all. It tells you how to say the uncle of your mother is sixty-five years old, or the sister of your wife has bought a cow, or the umbrella of your neighbor is in the attic, but I don't wan tto say nothing of that kind.

"'What I'm after,' said the doughboy, 'is a book that tells you how to say:—"Your face is familiar—ain't we met before?" or "Gee, them eyes!" or "Little girl, you sure do look out o' sight in that swimmin suit"'" on the job and may have to send another. But they are all inspectors. Therefore by the Solicitor's interpretation I would have to pay all three.

Continuing Mr. Barber said:—"Christie came down to lay out the bridge and for the first few days there was no work for him to inspect. He wasn't supervising, he was laying out the work for me, and that was part of the engineer's duties. He was afterwards appointed by me as inspector. I sent down a second and third man as the work developed and I may have to send a fourth shortly. They are all civil engineers thoroughly competent men but they are inspectors.

Anything in the way of supervising must be paid by me. I am opening up an office here and will install a stenographer. All that cost will have to be paid by me. If I find I can't keep in touch with the work by my present method I may send some one here. But he wouldn't be required to live here all the time. I might have to recall him to Toronto from time to time. Besides if Christie is the superviser then what am I?"

Mayor Duncan— My idea is that there should be an engineer resident here.

Mr. Barber—I don't have to be in Peterborough to supervise the work.

Mayor Duncan—If you're not here your agent should be.

Ald. Edgar asked whether the contractor took orders from an inspector. He understood the inspector's duties to be seeing that the proper materials were used, proper mixtures of concrete and so on.

"I always understood that Mr. Christie was doing Mr. Barber's work," said Ald. Edgar, who questioned the authority of the Mayor and Ald. Phelan to increase Mr. Christie's wages as had been reported.

Had No Authority.

Mayor Duncan—We didn't increase them. We had no authority to do so. We simply recommended to Mr. Barber that Mr. Christie be given $25 a month more than he was receiving.

Ald. Phelan— We heard that Mr. Christie was going to quit and because he had been in touch with all the preparatory work we didn't want to see him leave. I called up Mr. Barber and asked him if he wouldn't be satisfied to pay Mr. Christie $25 more a month.

Mr. Barber —When Ald. Phelan spoke to me I wouldn't have put the matter to him at all if I thought I was to pay him. I was paying Christie $150 a month and I didn't want the Council to think that I was sticking them by recommending that he be paid more than he had got for doing other work elsewhere.

Ald. Phelan—I said to Mr. Barber that if $25 a month increase would keep Mr. Christie here he ought to try to keep him. I had no authority to offer the increase.

Conceded One Point.

By this time it was conceded that Mr. Christie was an inspector, but the other clause required the attendance of the Engineer or his deputy, according to the City Solicitor's opinion.

Ald. McIntyre considered that Mr. Barber was within his rights in objecting to being present at the work or of having a representative here. He cited instances from his own experience as a contractor in support of his view.

Ald. Morrison — Haven't we an agreement with Mr. Barber? What's the need of a motion. Mr. Barber is supervising the work at all times, as I see it.

That practically exhausted the debate. Ald. Turner suggested that he qualify his resolution by the clause "if necessary" applying to the presence of the Engineer or his representative, but objections all around him prompted him to withdraw it.

TLKED SCIENTIFICALLY.

The engineer had become tired of the boastful talk he heard from the other engine drivers at his boarding-house. One evening he began: "This morning I went over to see a new machine we've got atour place, and it's astonishing how it works."

"And how does it work?" asks one.

"Well," was the reply, "by means of a pedal attachment, a fulcrumed lever converts a vertical reciprocating motion into a circular movement. The principal part of the machine is a huge disc that revolves on a vertical plane. Power is applied through the axis of the disc, and work is done on the periphery, and the hardest steel by mere impact may be reduced to any shape."

"What is this wonderful machine?" was asked.

"A grindstone," was the reply.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

(By H. F. GADSBY)

OTTAWA, Sept. 6.—Having nothing much to do save draw its sessional indemnity Parliament naturally grumbles a great deal at things as they are. The grouch is confined to the Government side of the House, where the question is frequently asked "Why isn't the Liberal-Conservative party born again?"

The grouch has spread from the Ginger Group to most of the old line Tories who put high tariff above the convenience of Union Government which seems to exist now, only to perpetuate its orders-in-council. The enthusiasm displayed at the Liberal Convention leads many supporters of Premier Borden to ask why the Liberal-Conservative party doesn't hold a national convention also and grab its share of the hurrahs. Some of the bolder souls suggest that it might be well to copy the Liberal example and choose a young new leader, while others, more timid, argue that Premier Borden is all right, if he's only take that name—Unionist Party—out of his hatband. They say that Premier Borden made a bad guess when he elected to cling to a name which puts every element of discontent in the country on edge.

In short Premier Borden is up against a recrudescence of human nature which demands that political parties shall be of one solid colour or another and not piebald. The Liberal party has Liberalized itself. Very well the answer to that is that the Conservative party become Conservative again, get a divorce, and resume its maiden name. The same philosophers point out that the old name will work no hardship on the Liberal members of the present Unionist party, the term Liberal-Conservative having been specially invented by Sir John A. Macdonald to cover the case of Liberals who found themselves becoming Conservatives as they grew older and more satisfied with their lot. It is recalled that Sir James Pliny Whitney who was once a Liberal always found an excuse for the love of his old age by calling it the Liberal-Conservative party and so blessing the bands.

The name Liberal-Conservative has a face-saving quality which permits high tariff Liberals to take the oath of allegiance to the National Policy and remain where they are. There are perhaps only two Liberal ministers in the Cabinet who would find the new allegiance awkward and Newton Wesley Rowell is not one of them. Besides, Unionist set a bad example. Call a coalition by any other name and it has the same troublesome results—intrigue, suspicion, lack of cohesion and worse matters. Moreover, it is a trick that can be played, by the "groups" who might be defeated or bargained off one by one but who become a dangerous political bloc when they join hands, as Labour, the returned soldier and the United Farmer threaten to do in Ontario and elsewhere.

The Liberal-Conservative shouters say that it is not too late for Premier Borden to yield in this small item of a name and that if he does all may be happy as wedding bells. But if he doesn't — well the whole is greater than the part and if he tries to kidnap the Conservaive party and re-christen it the Conservative party is entitled to try its brute strength on him.

There is another point on which Premier Borden must yield if he is to survive as leader of the Liberal-Conservative party—Rowell must go. Indeed some say that the choice is this way—either Borden stays and Rowell goes or Rowell stays for a few perilous minutes longer and Borden goes for letting him stick around. Mr. Rowell has been definitely kicked out of the Liberal party and now that Mackenzie King has draped the Liberal platform with Mr. Rowell's social-reform bowels wonder is expressed that Premier Borden should keep him in an eviscerated condition in which he is of no use to anybody. Mr. Rowell has lost his home with the Liberal party and he seems not to have found one with Conservatives who ask why they should acquire a hump carrying him around. Mr. Rowell is the one camel your good old Tory cannot swallow—the one Jonah that must be thrown overboard before the Liberal-Conservative party can joyfully answer the helm.

I often wonder why the Tories hate Leader Rowell so. God knows he has done his best to be a loyal, Empire-loving, tariff-worshipping Conservative but he seems to be about as welcome as a spider at a picnic. The fact is there and cannot be gainsaid and does much to prove the old saying that virtue is its own reward because nobody else cares to reward it. If the Liberal-Conservatives have their way Mr. Rowell's brief but fevered career in Dominion politics will come to a sudden close. Mr. Rowell has been diligent, faithful, enterprising, minding everybody's business including his own, and talking the while with both sides of his face and all he gets out of it is jeers for Jonah.

"Overboard with him!" I hear the mutineers. "The whale is waiting. It will be tough on the whale—we know that—it's hard to keep a good man down. But never mind. The whale has a mouth as big as a High Court Judge's bench and now's the time for disappearing."

Yes, the rebels are very saucy. Another grievance they urge is that there is not enough youth and vigor in the Cabinet. A brisk business man is needed in the Department of Trade and Commerce, where Sir George Foster has fallen into a trance so deep that you can stick pins in him and not wake him. Incidentally Sir George Perley, having no further change to clutter up the war with his imbecilities, is back in Ottawa and leasing the High Commissionership go bang at a time when Canada's liveat wire should be on the job of getting new business. Also there is Mr. Doherty who has reached the lippered ease stage and might very well retire to private life and help grandmother teach us to suck eggs.

Meanwhile Cabinet reconstruction lags and British Columbia, which has the smallest representation in the House of Commons next to Prince Edward Island, enjoys two Cabinet ministers, a horse doctor who operates as Minister of Agriculture, and Mr. Burrell who as Secretary of State, operates nothing at all except sealing wax and yearns for a happy release and a snug billet in the Parliamentary library. The Department of Public Works goes begging. It will probably be filled by a shift of portfolios, the idea being to head off any more by-elections than are absolutely necessary. There are eight by-elections on the horizon now, each one a cloud considerably larger than a man's hand, but they will be postponed to the end of October so that the lightning, if any, may be bottled until next year.

True the deferred by-elections will keep the new leader of the Liberal party and the new Minister of Finance out of their seats for this season but this inconvenience is not worth regarding beside the feeling of comfort and security the Government will enjoy for the next eight weeks. Parliament has been called to ratify two things—the Peace Treaty, which explains itself and the new domestic loan which needs so much explaining that the seldomer we mention it the better. Obviously a Government, concentrating these two important matters, can not be distracted by by-elections which might put a crimp in their deliberations. It does not aid clear thinking to get a chill down one's back.

Ratifying the Peace Treaty is regarded as a rare joke by a Parliament which has met largely to ratify an extra hand-out of two thousand five hundred dollars per. Parliament is under the impression that Canada ratified the treaty when England ratified it for her but is willing to accept any excuse for another swig at the fountain of blessing. Besides there is always the danger that if we don't ratify the treaty, the war will have to be fought all over again.

As a matter of fact it was Mr. Rowell and others who put the "rat" in ratify but we shall not labour that point more than to remark that Parliament will say as little and do as much less as it can for the money. The times are hard, of course, but what's an odd million more or less when the National Debt is going to make us all rich at five and a half per cent? We are borrowing another three hundred and fifty millions from Peter to pay Paul and the joy will be unconfined so long as Peter doesn't ask for his money. This frenzied finance of ours reminds me of the town where everybody got rich taking in each other's laundry.

I hear faint murmurs that the finances of Canada are such a great problem that they ought to be entrusted to an expert committee of three instead of to one amateur Finance Minister but the voice is sweet and low and does not rise above the greater clamor for a leader with a backbone and a rejuvenated Liberal-Conservative party that will spurn the false whiskers and green goggles of Unionism.

I hear other faint murmurs that thrift, having won the war, might well be given a chance to do the same thing for peace. In other words no more borrowing—but retrenchment as they are about to have it in England and a ruthless looping off of the superfluous war establishments which still cumber the pay roll. Now that the army is demobilized of what use can three hundred and fifty million more dollars be except to help the grafters and feed the spongers?

An optimistic old Scotchman's favourite expression was, "It micht have been waur." One day a friend said to him, "Tammas, I had an awful dream about ye last nicht, I dreamt ye were dead." "Aye, man Sandy, that was bad indeed; but it micht have been waur." "But it wis waur," went on the other. "I dreamt ye had gone to the bad place." Losh me, Sandy! Sandy! Me an elder in the kirk dead an' gone to the bad place. That was awfu', but—it micht have been waur." "Hoo could it have been waur than that?" asked Sandy, amazed. "Weel, ye ken, it micht have been true."

CALLS SMOKING SINFUL.

That's the Judgment of One of America's Great Religious Sects.

As an example of the tendency of the times there is quoted the recent decision of a great religious sect to enter upon a campaign for righteousness through a standing committee which wears the title of "temperance and moral welfare." It has set out to begin "a dignified but effective" campaign of methods against certain evils of the body politic.

In the list of things to be opposed are the use of narcotic drugs, the evil of hasty and improper divorce, gambling in all forms, exhibitions of prize fighting and boxing and finally—tobacco! It seems settled that the use of this herb has been finally placed in the catalogue of crimes against morality—sins, if you please—and the country may as well accept the inevitable result.

There will be left no middle ground for the proscribed smoker chewer or snuffer; no plea available that it is being taken for medicinal purposes, which was the now rejected excuse of the thrice accursed tippler of alcoholic beverages. These unhappy people are now alike with the morphine fiend, the crafty, dishonest gambler, the disgraceful seeker of unhallowed divorce, and the bloodthirsty orutes of the boxing platform. Indulgence in the Indian weed is, alas, the mark of the Beast upon the sinful brow.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

WHICH?

Arizona Joe, the animal hunter and trainer, was telling an after-dinner story:

"Old Bill had charge of the animal tent, and among his pets was a leopard, the only one with the show. He was a bad leopard, too, and kave Bill far more trouble than all the rest of the menagerie together. One day, when the show was in New Jersey, I went out to Chicago to arrange some business. While I was having dinner a telegram was handed me. It read: 'The leopard has escaped. Prowlin gabout town. What shall I do?—Bill.'

"Bill was one of those fellows who had to have explicit directions to do anything, even in an emergency. He was always afraid of making a mistake. I rushed from the table and sent a reply.

"'Shoot him on the spot,' I wired. Being unusually busy, I forgot all about the affair until about two hours later, when I returned to the hotel, and another telegram was handed to me. It proved to be from careful, conscientious Bill, and asked:

"'Which spot?'"

"DOES GOD PROHIBIT?"

(By REV. JOHN GALT)

The Present Campaign.

How about disease germs? Did God make them and do we permit or prohibit them? To ask the question is to answer it. Every sane person knows that in order that we may live we must prohibit multitudes of things that God has made. God made the plants that we call weeds and the farmer conducts a prohibition campaign on his own farm in relation to them; and the law of the land enables him to compel his neighbor farmer to be a prohibitionist also and no one complains that it is either unjust or dishonoring to God.

We may as well note here that the present campaign is not intended to interfere with the production of alcohol in the ordinary course of nature. To hear some folk talk it sounds as if some time, and somewhere, God made intoxicating liquor that men could drink, the fact of the matter is that the alcohol in nature is generated in dunghills, garbage pails and rubbish heaps. It is also the fact that for many years we have been doing our best to prohibit the process. Our sanitary officers get all too small salaries for getting after those who allow decaying matter to ferment; we can hardly open a farmers' paper without finding something to the effect that stable manure should not be allowed to ferment. One gets a dizzy feeling when one contemplates the absurdity of grown men consenting to the prohibition of God's process and at the same time objecting to the same treatment of man's process, and then claiming that we must not interfere with what God does. Isn't there something wrong about all this?

Man and Temptation.

We are told that since God placed man in the midst of temptation it is wrong for us to seek to remove it from his path, that it is by resisting Temptation that we are made strong, that it is in this way that we develop the highest qualities or words to that effect. Suppose we try that doctrine on something else. A noted doctor made himself responsible for the statement that the reason why comparatively few elderly people died of influenza during the recent epidemics, was that either they were not susceptible to that form of disease or that they had had it several times already and so had developed powers of resistance that enabled them to survive. It is true that we grow morally strong by the resistance of temptation, and it is also true that we develop great powers of resistance against disease by having it; but no one would say that we should therefore throw down the bars and give every one every facility for having influenza so that we may develop the power to resist it. No we have more sense. Last year we all submitted to very great invasions of our liberty and to very great interference with our comfort, because the medical health officer made up his mind that influenza was a menace to the common good and so should be prohibited as far as possible. It is true that in that instance prohibition did not prohibit, in the absolute degree; but we stood by the health officer. It is foolish to run into danger and it is wicked to run into temptation and it is surely also wicked to provide temptation for others. The prayer which is a prayer of all Christians the world over, prohibitionist and anti-pohibitionist alike, includes the petition "and lead us not into temptation." The business of the legislator is to make it as easy as possible to do right and as difficult as possible to do wrong.

Regulate the Traffic.

We are told that it would be far better for us to regulate the traffic in strong drink than to prohibit it. Can it he that there is any one who does not know that the very reason why we demand prohibition is because regulation has failed. The regulationists have had an innings of at least three hundred years. Legislators of every type and brand and breed have sought to regulate it so that the attendant evils might be reduced to a minimum, but only to find that both the traffic and its attendant evils flourished under every restriction possible. After centuries of regulation, British statesmen who were not temperance men; confessed that the liquor traffic is a greater evil than war, pestilence, and famine combined, and never has that statement been contradicted, so far as we can learn. If we could, we would prohibit war, pestilence, and famine, because they are such great evils. We can prohibit that which is greater than all three; and since we can do it, we ought to do it. We have had enough of regulation, and we must be excused if we decline to take any more of it. When a thing is bad in its very nature, it is difficult to make it good by legislation. The boy who delivered a pound of butter, and insisted that it was quite all right and clean, because his mother and his two sisters had been picking hairs out of it all the forenoon, had a better case than those who invite us to regulate some more, for in his case some hairs had been removed.

Light Wines.

We are invited to allow at least light wines and beers, containing some 2½ per cent. of alcohol by weight; that is to say, about 5 per cent. by bulk. An intimate knowledge of the drinking customs of Scotland and of England enables one to know just how spirit drinking and light beer drinking work out. In Scotland, the drunkard becomes a maniac; in England, where the beer is so light that a man may drink more than a gallon a day and never be really drunk, and, of course, never be really sober, the drunkard becomes a bloated sot. We are not open to provide facilities for the production of either. No matter how diluted beer may be made, those who have the drink craving will take enough of it to produce the desired effect; and so with light beers. We are sure to have drunkenness and gluttony combined. We have to do what is right in the sight of God in this matter. Whichever way we vote we may be the means of imposing some hardship on some one. Let the hardship be placed on those who are best able to bear it. Let it not be on the child who, since we have had Prohibition, has known what it is to have a kind father or a tender mother, and who would be robbed of their birthright just as soon as the sale of strong drink was permitted. Let it not be on the wife, whose husband has been all she ever hoped that he would be since drink has been out of his way. There are other sounds to listen to than the sound of the voices of those who claim the right to eat and drink just because they please. There is the low, sad wail of broken hearts; there is the cry of the agony of little children, worse than orphaned. We have been told that there will be a greater damnation for the Prohibitionist than for the drunkard. Such a statement indicates either a profound ignorance of the teachings of Holy Scripture or a belief that the people generally are profoundly ignorant in this connection. The truth is that from cover to cover the Bible advocates the Prohibition of every kind of evil. The language of Scripture is emphatic in the highest possible degree: "Taste not, touch not, handle not." "Put away the evil from you." "Make no provision for the flesh to fulfil the lust thereof." "Abstain from all appearance of evil."

In conclusion, we say again: "Hast thou appealed unto Caesar? Unto Caesar shalt thou go." Scripture has been quoted against Prohibition in a way that violates every law of reasoning. Let some attention be given to what Scripture has to say about drink and drinkers, and those who provide facilities:

"Wine is a mocker, strong drink is raging, and whosoever is deceived thereby is not wise. Look not thou on the wine when it is red, when it giveth its colour in the cup, when it moveth itself aright. At the last it biteth like a serpant and stingeth like an adder. Woe unto him that giveth his neighbour drink, that puttest the bottle to him and makest him drunken also."

If we fear God and honour His word, there is but one thing to do. If we love our fellow men, there is but one thing to do—that is, cast our vote for the putting away of an evil greater than war and pestilence and famine combined.

RAISING WIFE'S SUSPICIONS

The governor of a Western state determined not to be interrupted by so many callers, instructed his negro doorman to say to all callers that "the Governor is not in."

"But if they say they have an appointment with you Governor?" asked the doorman.

"Just say: 'They all say that.'" ordered the Governor.

All went well until the next day, when a lady called, and when she was told that the Governor was not in she replied:

"I know better than that. You tell the Governor his wife is here to take him to the theatre."

"Oh," said the doorman, "they all say that."

REFRIGERATRS FOR HOGS.

Invention for Keeping Porkers in Good Condition in Summer

Human beings carrying a superfluity of avoirdupois know how they suffer in the heat of Summer and how the surplus fat may become a factor favoring illness during the heated term. Now it happens that his Majesty the Hog—for in these days, when the cost of a meal of pork chop would make a start toward a King's ransom, it seems that no less respectful term should be used in his normal capacity as a pork produced must devote all his energies to multiplying fat, and at the same time he must be kept free from worry an disease on this account.

When pork was the cheap meat of the humble masses it did not matter so much, but now that it has arrived in the realm of high finance care must be taken. So a genius in the Department of Agriculture has invented a method whereby, figuratively speaking, hogs may be kept on ice in hot weather.

"The "refrigerator" is a frame inclosed in canton flannel, burlap, or duck, a pan of water is placed on top and wicks are extended from the water over theside of the pan and own the sides of the frame. The evaporation of the moisture in these wicks keeps the place cool.—Rochester Democrat and Chronicle.

BRIGHTON A REAL BALL TEAM

HAVE ONLY LOST ONE GAME THIS SEASON AND ARE OUT TO WIN TO-MORROW

The game with Brighton at Riverside Park to-morrow night promises to be one of the most exciting of the season.

This Brighton gang have only lost one game this season, and that a one-run defeat at the hands of the Belleville crew.

The Petes lost in Brighton a week ago by 3 to 2, and are anxious to turn the tables to-morrow evening.

Allen and Strong will be the Brighton battery, while either Kirn or Lornie Rose will pitch for Peterborough, with Swanston doing the receiving.

The game will be called at 6.45 o'clock, and promises to be a real battle. The Magnets of the Brighton team come from Uncle Sam's land, the home of ball players.

BASEBALL.

The Peterborough ball team will practice at Riverside Park to-night in preparation for to-morrow's game with Brighton.

GENERAL MEETING OF THE BOARD OF TRADE TO-MORROW EVENING

SUPPER WILL BE PROVIDED FOR MEMBERS OF THE BOARD—THE HOUSING PROBLEM.

The general meeting of the Board of Trade on Thursday evening is to be inaugurated by a supper to be served in the Council Room at 6.30 and 7.00. The meeting itself will be in the large class room of the Business College on the upper floor.

Chairman A. G. Roberts of the House and Entertainment Committee, is especially anxious that the younger members of the Board should be on hand at the supper. Those who desire to participate in the preliminary exercises are requested to notify the Board of Trade, telephone 1360, this evening, or before 10 o'clock, on Thursday morning, as provision can be made only for those who send advance acceptances.

Considerable interest is felt in this first general meeting of Board add a large attendance is promised. Reports are expected from committees on city interests and development rather than questions affecting business.

Vice-President Thomas Barrie, the Chairman of the Executive Board, is expected to give an outline of the activities in hand not covered by committee reports.

Among these will be the recommendation on the Kawartha Reginal Plan of which Peterboro is the greater centre. The board seeks to enlist the active interest and co-operation of all the farmers and others interested in the whole territory.

If this plan is endorsed by the Board immediate steps will be taken to assemble the representative men of the entire area at Peterboro as the guests of the City and the Board at an early date.

An unusual report is likely to come from the Board's Committee on Manufactures by its chairman, Mr. Breyfogle. Industrial growth and employment is looked upon as a primal factor in the prosperity and growth of Peterboro.

Dr. Harvey, Chairman of the City Plan Committee, and his associates, R. V. Copping, Wm. Sangster, C. E. Sisson and J. W. Worth, will submit a special report looking to the systematic and continuing development of parks, playgrounds, beaches, parkways and boulevards for Peterboro.

This is probably the first comprehensive outline of what is practical and attainable at small cost by the city. The committee has the promise of a visit of the government town planner, Mr. Thomas Adams, who will before long address a public meeting as the guest of the City Council and the Board of Trade.

Civic Education will be discussed in a report from Fred Roy, chairman, and Alex. McGregor, Alex. Mowat, P. P. Westbye and R. M. Glover, on the vital importance of intelligent understanding and cooperation among the people of Peterboro, for the making of a greater city.

It is likely that John Crane, chairman of the Membership Committee, will make a special statement regarding the membership of the Board, which has been steadily growing but in the view of the committee should include at least one thousand men from the city and country who are concerned in sectional development.

The matter of industrial welfare may also be referred to by Chairman J. J. Hartley of that committee and his associates, E. F. Mason and Edgar Worth.

The report of the Transportation Committee will be submitted by the chairman, W. S. Campbell. That committee has been successful in its efforts to secure better passenger, freight and express service for Peterboro. It will submit three important recommendations which if adopted will lead to active cooperation on the part of the Board.

The Committee on War Memorials composed of H. R. H. Kenner, Dr. A. W. MacPherson, Frank Kerr and W. A. Logan will submit a report making a specific recommendation for a memorial that will probably receive a welcome on the part of Peterboro people.

The committee has carefully studied the whole situation and its report is looked for with unusual interest.

The meeting is to be in the hands of the House and a Sub-reception Committee to be composed of the following members: A. G. Roberts, R. V. Copping, Christopher G. Graham, Joseph John, T. Percy Hooper, Robert M. Beach, Walter T. Belleghen, George A. Benor, Albert H. Boomer, J. Edgar Burnham, William E. Conway, A. Stanley Couper, W. Richard Cowain, A. Ernest Dawson, Albert A. Fowler, J. Mendell Greene, Thomas E. Hall, James H. Hamilton, Wm. J. Henry, Ernest H. Howson, Chas. Lacheur, Cyril K. Lech, Keith G. Lech, Michael J. Maher, John A. McKone, John H. Miller, G. Read Munro, Ernest L. Payne, James Skinner, Kent Throop, Webber F. Turner, George A. Wesley, William A. Richardson. They are to meet at 5.30 o'clock for organization and assignment.

ATTACK ON PETROGRAD

(Canadian Press.)

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Sept. 3.—Admiral Cowan, commander of the British squadron in the Baltic, has arrived here in connection, it is understood, with the preparations for an attack on Petrograd.

The Admiral intends, it is said, to confer with members of the British Military Mission on plans for the attack.

A Berlin despatch on Tuesday carried German reports from Riga that General Gough of the British Army, had issued a proclamation to the people of Petrograd, declaring that an attack was about to be made on that city, adding that as soon as Petrograd had been freed from Bolsheviki, food supplies would be sent in.

A juvenile, 15 years of age and a ward of the Children's Aid Society stole the sum of $6 from William Donnelly. The Magistrate sent him to a farm and if good behaviour on his part is reported the charge of theft will be dropped. The first $6 of his money will reimburse Donnelly.

THE 57TH BAND REFUSED GRANT

Ald. Edgar's proposal that the $600 appropriated for band music be equally divided between the Salvation Army an G.W.V.A. bands, in view of the fact that the 57th regimental band did not accept its $200 share of the original division, did not meet with the approval of the Council last night.

Ald. Turner—"We made a contract with those bands and it is a business principle that we adhere to it. That $200 will pay for the Boy Scouts' trip.

Ald. Crowe opposed the idea in a speech that wended afield into the general subject of how this city might secure one good musical organization "instead of three poor ones".

SYMPATHY.

Jones — "Have you noticed that most heroes are married men?"

Green— "Every married man is a hero!"

BIG PROGRAMME FOR BOXING BOUTS

The boxing bouts at Brock Street Rink on Friday night promise an interesting programme. The main bout between Young Cattle, of Toronto, and Kid Brompton, of New York, will be a ten-round affair, and should be a lively go between two good boys.

The Toronto boy is a former member of the 18th Battalion, C.E.F., who did some great fighting overseas.

Brompton comes here with a reputation of being a very tidy ring performer.

There will be three good preliminaries, "Irish" Jordan, of Peterborough, being seen in action in one of them. In addition, there will be a wrestling bout between Frank Dunsford and J. L. Minard. It looks like a good bill.

TRADES UNION CONGRESS TO BE HELD IN GLASGOW

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Sept. 3. — The Trades Union Congress, which will assemble at Glasgow on 8th September, promises to be the largest ever held.

Already many delegates have been appointed to attend the Congress, representing more than 2,225,000 workers.

A suggestion has been made that King George, who is at Balmoral, should be invited to attend the opening session, some of the Labour leaders believing that a personal appeal from the Sovereign to the workers to make a special effort in the national interest would have a great effect.

The Parliamentary Committee of Congress yesterday considered a request for representation at the International Labour Congress in Washington in October.

It is believed that the controversy between the alternatives of direct action and constitutional agitation will be fought out during the comine fortnight in discussions by the Coal Miners' Conference and the triple alliance of Transport Workers, Miners and Railway Men, and finally by the Glasgow Congress.

The belief is expressed generally that the decision will be against direct action.

ROUMANIA UNWILLING

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, Sept. 3. — The Supreme Council to-day again considered the failure of Roumania to respond in writing to the notes of the Council, and discussed the sending of a representative of high standing to Bucharest to insist upon an immediate reply.

No agreement was reached, but it is probable that a decision will be arrived at to-morrow.

The difficulty encountered by the Council was in finding a satisfactory representative who was willing to undertake the task. Apparently it has no desire to select an American for the mission, as European members are said to feel that he should be likely to prove too outspoken.

MAKE YOUR APPLICATIONS FOR SPACE AT THE FAIR

BETTER ACCOMMODATIONS THAN EVER FOR EXHIBITORS, AND MANY MORE APPLICATIONS UP TO DATE THAN USUAL.

One of the big features of the Peterborough Central Exhibition this year will be the inside and outside exhibits of Peterborough merchants and manufacturers. The main building has been entirely remodeled and refitted and will be filled with magnificent exhibits of Peterborough merchants.

Automobile men are claiming a great deal of space and there will be a regular auto show in itself. Manufacturers are going to make big exhibits, and those who have not already arranged for space should do so at once.

There will be an annex to the main building, which will house comfortably and well a great number of exhibits under cover.

In the meantime anyone inquiring for space can get all information from W. J. Cox, Lock street. Telephone 1088J.

LOCAL POLICE OFFICERS CLOSED

FEW DEFAULTERS REMAIN IN THE DISTRICT

The local office of the Dominion Police, situated on Simcoe street, was closed for all time last night, the powers that be at Ottawa evidently of the opinion that there are very few slackers left in this district. Inspector H. F. Ward, who was in charge here, has been moved to the Halifax district, together with Constable Charles (Trooper) Lyons. Assistant Inspector Carmondy, who was located here, was moved to Halifax some time ago. Constable Archie McBride of the Dominion Police, was sworn in as special constable at the new bridge by Magistrate Dumble this morning.

DRAMA OF GAS FACTORY.

Workman Helps to Save 38,000 Soldiers, and Dies.

The thrilling story of "Bill" and "Dan," two Bermondsey war heroes who stayed at home, is told by Alderman H. F. Morris, of Bermondsey, in his account of "Bermondsey's 'bit' in the Greatest War." William Hoare and Daniel Atkinson ("Bill" and "Dan") worked at a factory at Bermondsey street, where the first neutralizer of poison gas was made. The product is authoritatively stated to have saved 38,000 soldiers from poisoning in one great gas attack. Most men employed in the manufacture of the preparation were unable to endure the fumes and burns it produced, but Bill, who was the foreman, said to his chief, "We are going to see it through, Dan and me—even if it kills us." The health of the two men became seriously affected, and long after they had ceased to make the mixture Bill's mind became deranged, and he put an end to his existance. The widow of William Hoare receives no pension from the State.

A tendency to fitted lines in coats is evident.

Fibre silk corduroy is one of the new fabrics.

WEDDING BELLS

McCLENNAN—MOWAT.

This morning, at the Manse of St. Andrew's Church, the wedding took place of Miss Georgina Mowat, daughter of Mr. George Mowat, 597 Homewood Avenue, to Mr. Bertrand Webber McClennan, son of Mr. H. McClennan, 326 Charlotte Street.

Rev. James Rollins officiated.

WHITEMORE—PROUTY.

On Aug. 27th a very pretty wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Prouty, Owenbrook, when their daughter, Helena, was united in marriage to Mr. Earl Whitmore of Apsley.

Promptly at 2.30 p.m., the wedding party entered the room to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Miss Olive Woods, of Apsley. The ceremony was performed under an arch of evergreens decorated with flowers.

The bride looked charming in pale blue silk crepe de chine and shadow lace and carried a bouquet of ferns and carnations. The bride's sister, Viola, acted as bridesmaid and also looked well in pearl grey, crepe de chine.

The groom was supported by his brother, Archie. The groom's gift to the bride was a pearl pendant; to the bridesmaid a gold signet brooch, and to the groomsman a pearl stick pin.

Rev A. C. Hie, Methodist minister of Eldorado, officiated, asisted by Rev W. Hall, of Coe Hill.

After receiving the best wishes of the many friends present a sumptuous supper was served.

The bride received many valuable and useful gifts. The happy couple will reside at Apsley.

The following evening a reception was given at the groom's home and dancing and games were indulged in away into the small hours of the morning.

THE NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

(Special to The Examiner.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 3. — Most of the leading issues, with the exception of oil shares, were fractionally higher at the stock opening to-day.

U S Steel opened at 105, 1-4 up; Crucible at 180, up 2 3-4; marine 58 up 1-8; Studebaker at 113 1-4, up 7-8; Mexican Petroleum at 142½; off 1-2, Pan American at 118 3-4, off 1-8; central Leather at 97 3-8, up 5-8. Shortly after the opening Crucible sold at 183.

With Crucible Steel as the star performer, leading issues on the Stock Market to-day continued the upward trend in prices begun early last week. Fractional increases marked the opening, and these prices were bettered before the end of the first half-hour.

Crucible was up 13 points at 108 1-4. General Motors at 240 was up 3, a new record high. At 120 1-2 Pan-American, after opening off fractionally, went into a new high for the year. Crucible was up 15 3-4 from yesterday's close, reaching a new high record.

The stock has advanced 140 7-8 points from the year's low, 52 1-8.

Around noon there were indications of profit-taking in some of the issues that had the sharpest advance during the last few days. General Motors sold down over 7 points from the morning high. The violent advance in Crucible is considered likely to unsettle the whole list.

Baldwin became the leader around 11 o'clock, advancing about 4 points. Amer Sumatra, at the day's high, was up nearly 20 points from recent.

HOT WEATHER AND DRY ERA IRRITATE

MR. A. MACNAB SAYS G.T.R. IS DOING ITS BEST TO ABATE NOISES.

The following letter was received by the Council last night from Mr. A. Macnab, local G.T.R. agent:

"Referring to your communication enclosing petition from residents of city along our right of way for an abatement of noises caused by passing trains. It is unfortunate that railways should be necessary to the life of a city, especially during the hot and trying days of July and August, when even the grasshopper is a burden. The people seem to have become more sensitive to noises in these dry times; they miss the stimulus of more moist days.

On receipt of your communication I took the matter up with our management, with certain recommendations for their consideration. As a result very strict instructions have been issued to train crews in regard to the elimination of all unnecessary noises while passing through the city, especially during the night, A city by-law forbids the blowing of whistles but engineers are required by law to ring the bell when approaching all crossings.

The placing of the water crane at Jackson park is impracticable, as passing tracks would have to be provided, and there is not sufficient room available there.

At the south part of the city, however, there is an additionl siding being installed and this is intended to help out in the passing of trains east and west, thus relieving the situation as regards shunting of trains to a considerable extent.

SHOULDER BROKEN DURING THE RACES

On Monday afternoon, at the sports at Riverside Park, Leonard Anthony, the eleven-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Anthony, 322 Water Street, had his shoulder dislocated and his collar bone broken.

The child was standing on the outside of the rope during one of the foot races, when one of the contestants broke through, knocking him to the ground. A second man, not not being able to stop in time, stepped on the boy, inflicting the injuries named. Dr. Wood was called.

INVITATION FOR LOCAL GUNNERS.

The Lakefield Gun Club are holding a shoot in Lakefield to-morrow afternoon, commencing at 2.30 o'clock.

Peterborough shooters have been invited to participate.

MARK STREET CHURCH NOTES

The largest congregations that have yet greeted the new pastor assembled at Mark Street Methodist Church last Sabbath morning and evening. The morning subject, "The Cry of a Soul in the Dark," was based on Psalms 42, 7: "Deep calleth unto deep." The service was characterised by great spiritual power, and the after meeting was well attended. In the evening the church was well filled, and many expressions of appreciation were received regarding the service. The subject, "The Honey Dew of Victory," was founded on Judges 14, 14: "Out of the eater came forth meat." We are also pleased to report a good attendance at the Sabbath School.

GILLIES LIMIT NOT OPEN

And May Not Be Accessible To Prospectors This Year.

(Special to The Examiner.)

COBALT, Aug. 30.—As a result of no general effort to induce the Ontario Goverment to make arrangements for throwing the Gillies Limit open for prospecting this year it is feared nothing will be done. he New Liskeard branch of the G.W.V.A. took up the question at a meeting not long ago at which it was decided to submit a letter to the Ho. Howard G. Ferguson, Minister of Lands, Forests and mines advocating that limit should be opened up this fall, returned soldiers to have one month's preference to stake claims therein before others are allowed to stake.

GRASSHOPPERS CHEW TOBACCO; THEORY OF SMALL BOY IS O.K.

BLENHEIM, Aug. 28. — A number of reports have come in from farmers that the grasshoppers are so numerous that they are becoming a menace. Pasture fields are being eaten off, young clover fields are being stripped, in some cases the tomatoes are being attacked and they have even taken to chewing tobacco. Some tobacco fields near pasture fields which have been overrun have suffered considerably. Experiments have been made by putting poison on plants, but the result has not been satisfatcory, and a continued dry spell, which is favorable to the pest, is viewed with alarm.

LABOURERS FAILED TO GET STRIKE MONEY DURING THE STRIKE PERIOD IN THIS CITY

MATTER WAS BROUGHT UP AT LAST NIGHT'S MEETING OF THE TRADES AND LABOUR COUNCIL---THE ORGANIZER'S EXPLANATION.

Mr. John Flett, Labour Organizer was present at the meeting of the local Trades and Labour Council last night to answer question from the Hod Carriers and Labours local union. Mr. Flett organized the local union a year ago and Mr. Blodgett, a local member declared that at the organization meeting Mr. Flett stated that seven and one half per cent. of dues was put aside as strike benefit yet when the local municipal labourers went out the headquarters promised them moral support but the only strike money they received was a reminder that their per capita tax of 15c per month was due. Mr. Thomas Toomis said it was not owing to the "moral support" of the International that the strike attained its object.

Mr. Flett in answering stated that the local labourers union was entirely mistaken, that he never made the statement credited to him regarding strike money and that strike money was obviously impossible on a 15c per month capita tax which the labourer's annual congress have refused to increase year after year. The money was used as a mortuary fund and the labourers received $100 after they were dead.

Mr. Blodgett asked of what use was their affiliation if they received only "moral support" when they go out on strike. They did not join the union thinking it was a fraternal society and for insurance. Mr. Peter McArthur thought it was time that the International take a step ahead and reorganize so that all the different unions will receive something more than "moral support" in times of strike. Mr. McArthur also moved a vote of sympathy and congratulations to the moulder's union who have been out on strike now for a period of nearly five months. The motion was seconded by Vice President Marchand and heartily endorsed.

On motion of Mr. Michael Noonan Ald. Gainey was proposed as a local delegate to the Labour Congress opening in Hamilton on September 22, but Mr. Gainey is also scheduled to attend the convention of the barbers being held in Buffalo this year and he did not know whether he could be present at both. It was decided to hold a special metting of the Council next Monday evening to select a delegate and also to receive the report of the Labour Day Committee.

TRAFFIC EXPERTS HELD CONFERENCE

CHANGES IN THE INTERNATIONAL TRAIN SERVICE.

PARIS, Sept. 4. — International train representatives of British, French, Belgian and Central European railways have been in conference in Paris for the past three weeks with the object of establishing a new service of International trains. Subject to confirmation at a final meeting of all delegates, it has been decided to run the Orient express via the Simplon tunnel with through carriages between Paris and Bucharest and between Paris and Belgrade. A portion will go to Athens. In connection with this express there will be a train from Ostend to Milan and vice versa, via Brussels. Another International express is to run between Paris, Prague and Warsaw by way of Strasbourg and Nurembourg in place of the former Nord express. The delegates have also debated a Paris convention to take the place of the former Berne convention, dealing with way-bill, tariffs and other International traffic questions.

COUNTER ATTACK IS THREATENED

(United Press.)

LONDON, Sept. 4.— The Russian Soviet government has approved a proposal that peace be offered to Esthonia, according to an official Bolshevik wireless despatch from Moscow.

Refusal of the offer, the Soviet announced, means "a Bolshevik counter attack against Reval and Helsingfors and complete destruction of Esthonian and Finnish Bourgeoisie."

FIRE BRIGADE HAD LONG RUN

Owing to the blocking of traffic at the Hunter street bridge the fire brigade had a long run via the Smith street bridge to reach a fire at the home of Mr. Loescher, 188 Hunter street, last evening at 7.10 p.m. The blaze started on the woodshed roof from an unknown cause. There was no damage.

IRON WORKER WAS INSTANTLY KILLED

(Special to The Examiner.)

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Sept. 4.—John Robinson, of New York City, an iron worker, was instantly killed this morning while at work on the lower steel arch bridge spanning the Niagara River.

He was working on a staging below the bridge deck, when a rock became dislodged from the American bank, and crashed on to the platform where the man was working, hurling Robinson to death, 150 feet below.

IN NEW HOUSE NEXT SESSION

REPORT ON THE PARLIAMENT BUILDINGS BY SENATOR NICHOLLS.

OTTAWA Sept. 4. — While the Commons chamber in the new Parliament Buildings may be ready for occupation by the time the next session of Parliament is held the Senate may be compelled to use one of the committee rooms if the session takes place in the new building. This was the report made to the Senate by Senator Nicholls.

The function of opening of Parliament had always taken place in the Senate chamber and Senator Nicholls hoped there would be no need to depart from the usual custom. However unless the work was speeded up he could see no chance of the Senate using the chamber.

Sir James Lougheed said it was not certain that the next session would be held in the new buildings. The Prime Minister did not favor Parliament meeting there until work had been completed. The work of completing the Senate chamber had been delayed he had been assured, because it was more ornate in character and the services of expert workmen were needed for it.

Senator Watson, speaking as a member of the committee on the building said that the work had been delayed also by strikes. The Senate chamber, he said, would be finished as soon as possible.

HUGE AEROPLANE WRECKED TO-DAY

NINE PASSENGERS ESCAPE WITHOUT INJURY—A NOSE DIVE.

(Special to The Examiner.)

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Sept. 4.—Alfred W. Lawson's mammoth airplane, built to carry 24 passengers, and actually carrying nine on its maiden trip from Chicago to New York, came to grief here at 10.35 this morning when it crashed into the ground at Bethka Field on attempting a landing.

None of the passengers were hurt, but the machine was damaged to such an extent that it will be some time before it can proceed.

The ship, which had made a splendid run from Buffalo, was piloted by Charles Cox, a Chicago airman. He brought the machine down to the ground in apparently perfect shape, but suddenly, when a few feet above the earth a nose dive developed, and before the 'plane could be righted a crash had occurred.

Spectators rushed to the wreck, expecting to find the passengers injured. The men on the ship, however, were able to extricate themselves from the central cabin without aid.

It will be at least a week before sufficient repairs can be made to enable the 'plane to take to the air.

WOODROW IN GOOD TRIM

RED CROSS NURSES OFFERED HIM A LUNCH—READY FOR OPENER.

APPEAL TO PEOPLE

(United Press.)
(By Hugh Baillie.)

Aboard the President's Train, Pittsburg, Pa., September 4. — President Wilson to-day embarked upon his supreme effort to force the peace treaty through the Senate, unamended by appeals made to the people.

Approaching Columbus, where his first speech was to be made, the President, in his private car, the Mayflower, roughly outlined the points he desired to emphasize in his keynote address.

Wilson manifested a gay lighthearted mood as he set out on his long journey. He waved and smiled greetings to occasional crowds gathered at the small stations to see his train go by.

At Baltimore, Red Cross Nurses who had been distributing cigarettes and chocolates to soldiers on a troop train, clustered about the observation platform of his car and offered him a lunch. The president however declined with thanks, saying that he had just finished dinner and "I am about filled up." At several stations women were on hand with flowers which they wanted to hand him.

Dr. Grayson, the president's physician, said that the President's health was excellent and that he was in good physical trim for the making of one or two speeches a day for nearly a month.

REFUSE TO SIGN PEACE TREATY

(United Press.)

PARIS, Sept. 4. — Peace delegates of both Serbia and Roumania, announced to-day that their countries probably would refuse to ratify the peace treaty on account of the character of the guarantees which it gives to racial minorities. These countries contend that the peace settlement impairs their interests in the Balkans.

DECORATED TABLES AT PETERBORO EXHIBITION

THE TABLES WILL BE PROVIDED FOR THE LADIES—ENTRIES TO BE MADE ON OR BEFORE SEPTEMBER 11TH.

Realizing the difficulty there would be for ladies who are entering the Decorated Table Competition at the Exhibition to provide their own tables, unless they are to do so themselves, the Board has arranged that tables will be placed for all entries made on or before Thursday, the 11th day of September, to Mr. F. J. A. Hall, secretary, Peterborough P.O. There is no entry fee but those entering must either be members of the Exhibition already or become one at a cost of only $1.00. Tables are to be set for four, only silver, linen, glassware and table decorations required, no dishes.

The first prize is . . . . . $10.00
The second prize is . . . . . 7.50
The third prize is . . . . . 5.00
The fourth prize is. . . . . 2.50

Care will be taken of the exhibits, and a great deal of interest is already aroused in the exhibit.

GIVE NEW LIFE TO THAT VICTROLA

Of course your Victrola is a dead thing if it remains shoved away in a corner. Keep it alive always by freshening up with the new records as they appear from month to month. The new lists contain among others the following: "Dear Little Boy of Mine"; "Sweet Hawaiian Moonlight"; "Rockin' the Boat" and "Canadian Guns," which can be obtained from Ye Olde Firme of Heintzman & Co., Limited, George and Hunter streets, Peterborough.

WILL SPEAK HERE ON SUNDAY

Mr. William Henderson, founder and superintendent of the Shantymen's Christian Association, will speak on Sunday, 9th September, morning and evening, at Bethany Tabernacle.

Mr. Henderson is much in demand on account of his great work, and this is a rare chance for Peterborough people to hear this great missionary. He will be assisted by Rev. Thomas Joplin, field secretary. Services begin at 11 a.m. and 7 p.m.

A STATEMENT

(Special to The Examiner.)

ROME, Sept. 4 — Foreign Minister Tittoni has prepared to make an important statement before the Chamber of Deputies concerning Italy's position at the Peace Conference, it was learned to-day.

The statement will be forthcoming, it is said, upon the reopening of Parliament.

King Victor Emmanuel has returned to Rome to confer with Premier Nitti with regard to the new session which will debate the question of woman suffrage, and the findings of the committee which reported on the Caporetti reverse.

THE WAR ON PROFITEERS

(United Press.)

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 4.—War on profiteering was declared in a meeting last night of Attorney-Generals, who are here for the annual meeting of the American Bar Association.

Resolutions were adopted calling on the Attorney-Generals to unite in drawing up laws which will strangle profiteering.

A committee of five was appointed to confer with Attorney-General Palmer.

PROTEST SENT TO PREMIER BORDEN

PETERBORO LABOUR MEN DECLINE INVITATION TO TAKE HOLIDAY.

A telegram was read by Secretary William Stevens at the meeting of the Trades and Labour Council last night from James Law, secretary of the Trades and Labour Defence Council, Winnipeg, to the local Council, protesting against the Government's attitude in regard to Ald. Queen and several other labour men of Winnipeg, who were arrested for their activities in the general strike in Winnipeg, and who have been refused bail.

The Defence Council requested that the men refuse to work on Wednesday, 17th September, as a protest, and that it be made a National Holiday.

President Bolwell declared for one that the printers could not take a holiday on that day, and a number of others spoke in the same strain.

Mr. Peter McArthur asked that the strongest possible protest be sent to the Premier regarding the detention of these men.

Mr. D. W. Matthews asked why thousands of letters sent individually by the labourers all over Canada to Premier Borden would not be effective.

Mr. Michael Noonon moved that a resolution be sent to Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., "who is now in No Man's Land."

Mr. John Flett, organiser of the International from headquarters, questioned the wisdom of the move, and doubted whether Mr. Borden had the power to release these men when they were placed there by a Judge, who said they were dangerous men to be at large.

Mr. Noonan's resolution received the support of the majority of the Council, and was duly passed, and will be sent to the local member and to the Premier. The Council felt that it would be almost impossible to go out on protest on the 17th of September as asked by the Defence Council, as sympathy strikes are unpopular.

GEN. PERSHING TO GO INTO BUSINESS

AMERICAN COMMANDER WILL NOT REMAIN IN ARMY TILL RETIREMENT AGE.

COBLENZ, Sept. 4.— General Pershing will leave the American army soon and go into business, according to a statement credited to a man in very close and intimate touch with the Commander-in-chief of the American Expeditionary Forces.

This man a civilian made a recent visit to Coblenz. His statement with regard to the plans of General Pershing was related to me by army officers who said he had made it to them. He is now on his way home in company with the American Commander.

General Pershing is fifty-nine years old and thus would have five years before reaching the retirement age of sixty-four.

POLICE STARTLE WEDDING PARTY

BURST IN AND ARREST THE BRIDEGROOM AS ALLEGED DRAFT EVADER.

QUEBEC, Sept. 4.—A merry wedding party was suddenly changed into a scene of awe and apprehension last night, when a posse of military police inspectors burst into the house and demanded the surrender of an alleged draft evader, Camille Bouchard, the lad whose marriage was being celebrated in the fourth range of the parish of St. Alexander, county of Kamouraska, not far from the Maine border.

Bouchard, according to the charge laid against him by the military police, evaded the draft call, and yesterday, believing he was safe from prosecution now that the war is over, he got married.

But the military were tipped off, and landed at the groom's home [illegible] wedding party.

There were about eighty people at the dance, and some of them were husky young woodsmen, who started to repel the detectives, but the older men counseled submission, which brought from the officer in charge of the posse the permit for Bouchard to stay with his bride until Saturday, when he will report at the district jail at Fraserville, Que., for sentence.

A woman and a youth fainted when the police entered the house.

SUGGESTS A FLAT REFUSAL

BERLIN, Sept. 4.—The "Taeglische Rundschau" declares to-day that the demand by the Entente that the German constitution be altered is hardly calculated to induce the German people to respect their new character and warns the Supreme Council of the danger of precipitating new internal disruption.

The "Vossische Zeitung" says a flat refusal is the only possible answer to the demand of the Entente, while the 'Kreuz Zeitung' remarks that the amateurs of Weimar must now put up with constant intervention by the Entente in Germany's international affairs.

THOUSAND PERSONS WERE EXECUTED BY BOLSHEVISTS

(Canadian Press.)

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 4.—More than a thousand persons were executed by the Bolsheviki before they evacuated the city of Yekaterinoslav, in Southern Russia, according to a despatch received here from that city, giving an account of the massacres.

The physician tells of the case of one officer who missed being struck by the firing squad's bullets, and escaped the Bolsheviki, who came along bayonetting the wounded, by simulating death.

Bolshevik organisations in the city had been headed by a workman named Valiaka, and various Chinese, the report adds, and the principal posts of the Soviet administration under them were in the hands of young men and women.

Wholesale pillaging is declared to have occurred in the town before its evacuation.

The evacuation of Yekaterinoslav by the Bolsheviki apparently occurred more than two months ago.

A Russian wireless despatch from Moscow on 1st July, which reported the capture by Cossacks of Kharkov, announced also that the Bolsheviki had lost Yekaterinoslav, 115 miles south-west of Kharkov.

BRIGHT CHILDREN OFTEN WEAR GLASSES.

Why is it that bright children so often wear glasses? The answer is that children often are retarded in their studies because they cannot see. Poor vision holds them back, while those who wear glasses forge ahead. If you are in doubt about your child's eyes, consult W. H. Lacey, Optical Specialist, 410 George street.

SAYS OUTSIDERS ARE NOT EMPLOYED ON THE HUNTER STREET BRIDGE CONTRACT

COMPANY MAKE EVERY EFFORT TO GIVE RETURNED SOLDIERS AND LOCAL MEN THE PREFERENCE.

WORK PROGRESSES

This morning Mr. Navin, a member of the Russell-Townsend firm, which is building the new bridge at Hunter Street, indignantly denied the charge that out-of-town men are being employed on the construction work of the bridge, and stated that of the 85 men at present on the job, only one is not a local man.

Contrary to employing out-of-town men, the office and operating department was all organised in the city, which is an unusual procedure, and one for which credit should be given to those in charge.

All men who seek employment are asked for their place of residence, are asked for their place of residence, and if returned men. If the latter question is answered in the affirmative, the preference is always given, and local men are also the company's choice.

"In asking for the place of residence, if the man says Peterborough, we are not mind readers, nor do we demand a birth certificate, but we are satisfied they live in the city," Mr. Navin told the Examiner.

Work Progressing.

The Russell-Townsend Company is well satisfied with the class of work their employees in the city are doing, and a member of the firm stated that on the whole the men are a good aggregation. The work is progressing very satisfactorily, and the north retaining wall on the east side of the bridge is almost completed.

The company contemplates starting work on the west side in the course of a week or so, and when the present bridge is demolished, will probably put up a pile bridge across the river lower down, or divert the traffic to the Smith Street bridge.

A PEANUT VENDOR

(Special to The Examiner.)

KINGSTON, Sept. 4.—Geo. Gitzas, the peanut vendor who suffered terrible burns yesterday afternoon when the gasoline tank he used on his waggon for roasting peanuts, exploded, died in the Hotel Dieu at midnight.

Deceased was sixty-two years old, and intended leaving for his home in Greece within a few weeks, where his wife and family are living.

MILITARY SENT TO TIPPERARY

ONE POLICEMAN KILLED AND ANOTHER WOUNDED.

(United Press.)

DUBLIN, Sept. 4.—Large military forces have arrived in the Tipperary district to-day, following further evidences of differences between the residents and the British authorities.

A constabulary sergeant was shot in [illegible] a constable critically wounded Tuesday night, by the assassins who fired from the shrubbery on the road.

PRIZES WILL BE GIVEN FOR EXHIBITION PARADE

FIFTY DOLLARS TO BE DIVIDED IN THREE CLASSES WILL BE A FEATURE.

The parade that is being organized for the Exhibition's opening on Monday, September 15th, promises to be a big event. Business houses, manufacturers and others are coming in all the time, and the Exhibition Board has decided to give the following prizes as an incentive to get the best possible results in decoration, for the floats, automobiles, and comic make-up.

A prize of $25.00 will be paid for the best gotten up Advertising Float; $15.00 for the best decorated automobile; and $10.00 for the best comic get up in any sort of a conveyance.

These are good prizes, and no doubt the contestants will make extra special efforts.

In addition to names already sent Adam Hall Limited and the Peterborough Cereal Company signified their intention this morning of putting in floats. Others are coming; send in your name. Put in a float or decorated car and make the procession a real one which it is going to be.

For Bicycle Riders.

A prize of $5.00 is to be given for the best decorated bicycle. Let the bicycle riders get busy and figure out how they will decorate their wheel.

The procession is to form at the Central Park at one o'clock with the Band and the Fire Brigade will parade to the Fair grounds where they will go round the ring once and prizes awarded from the judges stand.

PRINCE IS NOW AT THE SOO

(Canadian Press.)

SOO, Ont., Sept. 4.—Flawless weather and large crowds greeted the Prince of Wales when he reached here to-day. In his reply to the Mayor's address, the Prince said the more he travelled in Canada, the more reverence did he feel for the pioneers who laid the foundations for the Dominion.

The Prince and his party spent some time inspecting the great locks, the pulp mills, and the other features here.

VETERANS WILL PLAY HOCKEY

MEETING WAS HELD LAST EVENING DR. A. W. M'PHERSON, PRESIDENT.

A meeting of the Athletic Association of the local branch of the Great War Veterans was held last evening, and Dr. A. W. McPherson, who has been prominent in sport circles for a number of years, was elected president in place of Mr. R. E. Layfield, who wished to retire from the presidency in favour of Dr. McPherson.

The Association will draw up a schedule and make suggestions at a general meeting of the G. W. V. A. to be held on Tuesday evening.

The plan of the Association is to operate a hockey team this winter and baseball next spring, and eventually to develop all branches of sport.

PETITION WANTS MR. BURNHAM TO RESIGN

A petition is being circulated among prominent Conservative and Liberal-Unionists alike, requesting Mr. J. Hampden Burnham, M.P., to resign his seat in the House.

A few days ago Mr. Burnham went over to the cross benches, stating that he could no longer follow the Unionist party.

This petition his just been started on its way, and is reported to have met with almost unanimous approval from those to whom it has been submitted. It requests the present member to take himself from the cross benches to political oblivion, temporary or permanent.

FUNERAL TOOK PLACE TO-DAY

The funeral of the late Father D. J. McGinity was held this morning. Mass was celebrated at St. Peter's Cathedral at 9 o'clock by His Lordship Bishop O'Brien, assisted by Father McFadden as deacon, and Father Leonard as sub-deacon. Monsignor Casey was assistant priest. The sermon was delivered by Dean McColl.

The clergy of the diocese present in the sanctuary were Rev. P. Maguire, Rev. M. J. Maguire, Fathers Breatherton, McCarthy, Ferguson, F. J. O'Sullivan, J. J. O'Sullivan, and the local clergy, Fathers J. J. O'Brien, O'Gorman, Guiry and Cantillon.

The pallbearers were Fathers McAuley, McFadden, Ferguson, F. J. O'Sullivan, Leonard and Guiry. Rev. C. J. Phelan performed the service at the grave at St. Peter's cemetery.

Apparatus invented by a Chicago man is claimed to reduce the alcohol content of beverages, preferably beer, without affecting their flavor.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

Connie's Friend

By MILDRED WHITE

(Copyright, 1919, Western Newspaper Union.)

"Weridly!" scoffed Constance Dale. "I'm sure I don't know what you mean by that, but I do know that Miss Wentworth is the loveliest woman I have ever met."

"Handsome is as handsome does," her sister quoted. "I for one can't see that your Miss Wentworth does much for the good of this town.

"You say she has a beautiful voice; she cannot be persuaded to even help our poor little choir. She plays wonderfully, you tell me; yet she sat with a bored expression while we stumbled through our singing without music because Miss Hamilton was absent.

Constance turned away impatiently.

"Oh, you do not know her, Ruth," she said; "if you did—"

"What," interrupted a pleasant voice from the doorway, "is all the argument about?"

The two young girls looked eagerly toward their father. He was a handsome man, his twinkling gray eyes belying the dignity of his bearing.

"Father!" Ruth burst out, "I have been reprimanding Constance for her companionship with this fashionable woman who has come to Brenton. Constance seems to be infatuated with her personality. The example of luxury and beautiful gowns is not good for one who admires these things as much as Connie.

Smilingly the pastor advanced into the room.

"No jealousy there, I hope, Ruth," he remarked quizzically. "Who is this new friend of Connie's, of whom you disapprove?"

"She is a writer," Constance hastened to reply, "who comes from California. She has rented the Baileys' bungalow and lives there with a housekeeper. Just because she dresses prettily and amuses herself driving about or reading in her garden, Ruth chooses to call her selfish and worldly. She attended services while you were away for your vacation, and after hearing old Fairburn preach it's no wonder she did not come again."

"Where did you meet your friend, Connie?" he asked.

"I was passing the garden," she said, "and looked, I suppose admiringly, across the hedge to where the lovely lady was gathering roses. She wore the daringest white dress and her eyes glanced back at me kindly. They seemed to be young eyes, daddy, though the curls on her forehead and down close to her ears are touched with white, as she showed me yesterday; and she said:

"'Won't you come in and share my roses?' So in I went." Connie paused breathlessly. "I've been going ever since," she added.

"Connie's the only person who does go," Ruth snapped.

"I am the only person who has been invited," Constance retorted.

The fine face of the minister grew grave as he gazed at his motherless daughters, then the twinkle came back to his eyes.

"Perhaps," he suggested, "Constance may be the means of bringing the worldly lady to service. My effort might not be as discouraging as poor Fairburn's."

Connie leaned forward impulsively. "Ruth," she said, "would you believe that in her girlhood Elizabeth Wentworth was very much like you—in her views, I mean. I coaxed her the other day into telling a love story of her own. If you could have watched her as she talked—musingly, more as if she were remembering and I not there at all. Her cheeks grew pink as the roses on her dress. You would not have thought her eyes proud then, with the tears glinting upon her lashes. Years ago, when she lived in a humble little town—oh! it must have been just like this town, Ruth—she had a lover. He was the daringest boy, but you can't dislike him as she tells of his reckless college pranks—he was expelled from college—because you seem to know all the time that he really had a good heart under all his waywardness. But young Elizabeth Wentworth, who was so very much like you, could make no excuse for—well, lack of character she called it. So, right at the beginning of their engagement, she threw the young man over.

"Dad!" the girl called suddenly, and jumped to her feet. "Will you go over to church now, and direct me in placing those plants for tomorrow's services?"

As the tall minister and his young daughter entered the church with its rows of empty pews both paused abruptly before a pretty picture.

In the center of a mass of bloom stood a sweet-faced woman, over her armful of flowers she looked at them.

"Miss Wentworth," cried the girl, and rushed forward.

"I was passing the open door," the writer murmured, "and could not resist the temptation of coming in to arrange the flowers. I did not know," she added confusedly, "that—your father had returned."

With a light in his eyes which Connie had never seen there before the pastor came and looked into the face of the lovely lady.

"Elizabeth!" he said, his voice was resonant with joy. "To find you after all these years!"

"We seem to have changed places, Dick," Elizabeth Wentworth answered shakily, and Connie, smiling, moved far back among the flowers.

A Difficult Question.

One day I was getting dinner in my tent and the usual company of natives watching the performance, when there came along a couple of men who had just landed and who, evidently, had never seen an Eskimo before. I overheard their conversation, relates Rev. S. Hall Young in his book, "Adventures In Alaska." "Say, Jim," said one, "just look there. Did you ever see the like?" (A pause.) "Say, do you think them things has souls?" "We-e-ll," drawled Jim, "I reckon they must have. They're human beings. But I'll tell you this: If they do, they've all got to go to heaven, sure; for the devil'd never have them around."

Haig Is Good Golf Driver.

Field Marshal Sir Douglas Haig and Lady Haig were on the St. Andrews links recently and engaged in an interesting foursome over the Old Course. Sir Douglas and Gen. Kiggell played against Lady Haig and Andrew Kirkaldy, professional to the Royal and Ancient Club. The latter couple won by two holes after a close contest. Andrew Kirkaldy says that Lady Haig is a good golfer and that Sir Douglas' short game is not so good as his driving, which is excellent.

GREAT BOON TO WEST.

Many Returned Soldiers Are Going on the Land.

Reports from the various Soldier Settlement administration centres in the West indicate that possibly five thousand applications made by returned men have been approved. At 160 acres each this means the taking up of 800,000 acres of land. But the movement is only beginning to get under way. If the scheme is not too badly "knocked" by mistaken critics it is reasonable to suppose that between 3,000,000 and 4,000,000 acres will, in this way, be taken up. Think of what it means to have this addition to permanent settlement in Alberta, Saskatchewan and Manitoba. Twenty-five thousand such settlers getting an average loan of $4,000 would mean $100,000,000 put out in three provinces.

Speaking at Regina recently Major Ashton, of the Soldier Settlement Board, pointed out the possibilities of the scheme to Saskatchewan. Probably about 30,000 soldiers, he said, would return to that province, and the records show that 75 per cent. of them were either farmers or farm laborers. If three-fifths of them, or 18,000 took advantage of the Soldier Settlement scheme and had an average loan of $4,000 it would mean the advancing of $72,000,000 for farm development work in Saskatchewan alone. To date one-third more applications have been approved from Alberta than from Saskatchewan, so it is easy to see what the West has to gain through the successful working out of the Soldier Settlement scheme.

If the loan companies were to put out $50,000,000 this year on farm loans in the prairie provinces what a wonderful thing it would be considered. With any appreciable measure of success, the Soldier Settlement Board will do better than that. Compared with anything that the western provinces have done in the way of assisting agriculture through loans, even now the Soldier Settlement scheme is a great success. During the two years that the Saskatchewan Farm Loans Board has been in operation it has not loaned much more than $2,000,000, and Manitoba has probably not loaned more than $3,000,000. Still, both of these provinces are claiming a great deal of credit for what they have done, and rightly so. Their work in this respect goes to show that the possibilities before the Soldier Settlement Board as a means of promoting permanent settlement are wonderful.

Too Ill to Work

Scores of Women

in homes, stores, offices and factories are not fit to be at work. They toil on day after day and year after year suffering with distressing weaknesses and derangements, hoping against hope that they will soon feel better, but how can they hope to do good work or escape permanent invalidism?

Such women are in danger of derangement of women's functions. They owe it to themselves to try that good old fashioned root and herb remedy Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, which for more than forty years has been restoring Women to health and strength.

Here is a Notable Example

St. John, N.B.—"I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for bladder and kidney troubles and backache and find it the best medicine I ever took. I used many other remedies with very little result. I had two miscarriages and would have been in my grave ere this if it had not been for your medicine. I always keep a bottle of Vegetable Compound in the house, and I feel fine to do my work for five in the family. I have recommended your Compound to many people, and you may use this testimonial if you like. It may help some other woman."

MRS. ALBERT S. GILL,
17 St. Andrew St.,
St. John, N.B.

And Another

Regina, Sask.—"I was going through the Change of Life and suffered two years with headaches, nervousness, sleepless nights and general weakness. Some days I felt tired and unfit to do my work. I gave Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial and found good results. I also find it a very helpful spring tonic and useful for constipation from which I suffer much. I have recommended Vegetable Compound to several friends and am willing you should publish this."

Women as Brave As the Men

THEIR STRUGGLE SHOWS A REMARKABLE SPIRIT.

Talk of the bravery of men, but where can you find a finer spirit than among the half-sick women who are fighting and struggling to do their duty against the terrible odds of ill-health, and who will not give up.

One woman in every three is struggling against weakness. Most of them are not exactly sick, but, oh, how miserable!

The burden and misery of it all has its foundation in the blood which is thin and watery. The red cells are too few. The very stream of life is reduced in vitality. Weakness and inevitable ill-health are the certain result.

Every ailing or weak woman can quickly regain her health in this very simple way. By filling the system with the nutrition that comes from rich red blood, a quick change for the better will result. To accomplish this, take two chocolate-coated Ferrozone Tablets after each meal. You'll feel better immediately for the simple reason that Ferrozone renews the blood. It gives you vim, vigor, endurance, restores a tired, worn-out system very quickly.

You'll feel like new all over once you get Ferrozone working through your blood. It puts color into faded cheeks brightens the eye quickens the step, brings back that wonderful feeling of youth.

One of the finest things Ferrozone does is to make you eat lots and digest it as well. With keen appetite, sound sleep, strong nerves and lots of nourishing blood you're bound to regain robust health. Any sickly girl or ailing woman that Ferrozone won't make well must be incurable. There is a secret power in Ferrozone and it is worth a trial at all events. Fifty cents per box, six for $2.50. At all dealers in medicine, or by mail from The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

Codet fullness is a characteristic of many of the new tailored suits.

Add a little lemon juice to the water you cook a tough fowl in.

DOWNEYVILLE CORRESPONDENCE

DOWNEYVILLE, Aug. 31.—Mr. William Hatrick, who has been visiting in the village, has returned home.

Miss Maggie Perdue of Peterborough, spent Sunday with friends here.

Miss Maragret White of Fenelon, is visiting her friend, Miss Ida Murray.

Mr. Simon Perdue is visiting his sister, Mrs. Percy Lucas.

Miss A. O'Brien of Toronto, is spending a few days here.

Mr. S. Brazer of Lindsay, has started plastering on Downeyville Hall. Mr. George McGahey is assisting him.

Put scraps of soap in a small cloth bag and use as a soaper when washing dishes.

For use on public stairways, car steps, etc., a non-slipping tread has been invented consisting of a steel plate, with strips of lead set into channels.

Two Swedish engineers have invented a relautograph that can be used on either a short or long circuit without adjustment or even on a telephone line.

THE EAST PETERBOROUGH SITUATION.

As was expected, the Liberal-Conservative Association of East Peterborough chose the sitting member, Mr. James Thompson, M.P.P., as their standard-bearer in the coming Provincial elections. Mr. Thompson's name was the only one to go before the convention. The member for East Peterborough faces a situation that is like nothing he has encountered in the eleven years that he has represented the riding. East Peterborough is a rural constituency, the United Farmers have a good organization throughout the riding and they have a candidate already in the field, a candidate who is well known and liked. Mr. Thompson is not a farmer, he has not in fact been a continuous resident of the constituency, and he is likely to find the going far from smooth—in fact the prediction is being made that the name of James Thompson will be numbered among the missing when the votes are all counted on the evening of election day. The conditions are apparently auspicious for the U.F.O. in East Peterborough, despite Mr. Thompson's wiliness as a political campaigner.

FARMERS UNDER FIRE.

Both of the old political parties seem to have decided to declare warfare on the United Farmers of Ontario. For a while there was a tendency to regard the campaign of the farmers as a political move, instigated by the Liberals or Conservatives, according to the political views of the person diagnosing the case. Now, however, the Government and Opposition apparently see in the farmers' organization a common enemy, and the orders have gone out to open fire on the U.F.O. Mr. Hartley Dewart, the Liberal leader, did not mince words in his dealing with the subject the other day when he characterised the President of the United Farmers as a paid agitator, and yesterday at the East Peterborough Liberal-Conservative convention, Hon. G. S. Henry, the Minister of Agriculture, was equally vigorous in his attack upon the political activities and methods of the farmers. The situation is unique in the history of politics in Ontario.

THE BOARD OF TRADE.

To-night's general meeting of the Board of Trade should be a record-session, not only in point of attendance, but in interest and results as well. During the past few months the committees of the Board have been industriously and steadily at work dealing with the particular matters that were entrusted to their respective bodies. These committees are to report to-night and their findings are being awaited with great interest. There are to be reports from the Executive Board and from the Committees on Manufacture, City Planning, Civic Education, Industrial Welfare, Transportation, and last, but not least at this time, the committee on War Memorials. The recommendation of this committee, which is composed of Mr. H. R. H. Kenner, Dr. A. W. McPherson, Mr. F. D. Kerr and Mr. W. A. Logan, will be received by the members of the Board and by the citizens generally with keen interest. The question of a suitable memorial for Peterboro's sons who met death in the great war is one of the most important matters with which this city has to deal at present and if this were the only business to come before the Board of Trade to-night its importance should be enough to ensure the largest attendance in the history of the organization. Every member of the Board should be present this evening to make the occasion the most noteworthy in the annals of the Board.

THE FARMER'S POSITION

The Farmers' Sun, which is the official organ of the United Farmers of Ontario, in its current issue, deals with the question of what will happen in the next legislature if a large number of the United Farmer candidates is elected.

Here is the Sun's opinion:

"To what side would it have the farmers lend their weight in the case they held the balance of power? Whom would it make Premier of Ontario? The electors of Ontario — farmers as well as townsfolk—are asking these questions.

It is not likely that the question for which the Globe demands an answer will arise. The probability is that the farmers will have the largest representation in the next legislature. In that case, the Government will devolve upon the farmers and it cannot be in these times in better or safer hands. Neither Mr. Halbert nor Mr. Morrison pretends to say what will be done in the case that the Conservatives and Liberals are nearly equal and the farmers hold the balance of power. The decision will be with the elected representatives of the farmers influenced by those whom they represent and public opinion. Those who profess to speak how can say that a public administration will be provided and that the farm representatives will use their power to oblige entrenchment and reform in the interest of all classes in the Province. Parliamentary groups are not a novelty in English experience. The Irish, for example, have long acted as a group refusing office, and exerting what power they could to attain their ends. Mr. Asquith while dependent on them gave gave for years an excellent administration.

THE EVILS OF COLD STROAGE

Dr. Wiley, the framer of pure food laws in the United States, has just given his opinions concerning cold storage to the Agricultural Committee of that country, and we believe they are in accordance with those which most people have formed from their own experiences. He states that food obtainable from the producer every month in the year should not be put into cold storage at all, and the only reason that this was done "was to increase the price." This statement can be borne out from the revelations which have taken place in Canada, where, as we all know, tons of foods have been kept so long in he cold storage depots, waiting for higher prices, that they have rotted and had to be destroyed.

Dr. Wiley says that one year is long enough for food to be kept in the storage depots, but he by no means intends this rule to apply to every class of food. He distinctly states that certain foods such as veal, several kinds of game and fish, and poultry except spring chickens, should never be put into cold storage. Oysters, shad and some kinds of fish should be stored for months, not only on account of the "efforts of many dealers to pass off the stored articles, for the fresh products during the season of these foods." We can quite believe that beef, and though the doctor does not say so, mutton also, improves by a short period of storage for as a general rule these meats are usually eaten in Canada too soon after killing, and thus lose their "shortness" and tenderness. The doctor says that eggs must be kept in storage; but it was rather rubbing it in for him to declare that "their palatability decreases with the storage."

Cold storage invariably adds to the cost of food says the doctor, but is necessary if people want a balanced diet during the year. We doubt if many get a balanced diet. However, the report is valuable which the doctors gives, as it should show the public what they should demand that the Government should do in order that the evils of cold storage can be done away with.—Kingston Standard.

"MAKING MONEY"

For some years past Mexico has been extensively engaged in the agreeable pastime of making money. More than two billion dollars worth of engraved certificates have been issued since the revolutionary troubles set in. The notes are given the curious name "billembique," which is only a Mexican effort to pronounce the American name "William Weeks."

This William Weeks was once a paymaster who used to give orders to the peons for small sums to carry them along until next they aligned themselves before he cashier's window. The local merchants would accept the notes with the signature of the accomodating paymaster as good currency, and they were named "billumbiques." By a simple transition the term came to be applied to the revoluionary paper money.

First, it is said, Carranza manufactured paper to the nominal value of $6,000,000 pesos, and those bills were accepted for a time at about three-quarers of the value of a silver peso. Then Villa thoughtfully provided himself with a small hand press and a tramp printer and also went into the paper money industry. When his stock of materials gave out he struck off a quarter of a million notes on scrps of wrapping paper. The printer saw an opportunity to favor his own personal pocket; he struck off thousands of notes on his own account, and then loaned the apparatus to various friends, who followed his example.

The newspapers had it that Villa shot the printer; but the notes were out and the mischief had been done. Moreover, one rebel captain after another hit upon the idea of financing his companion by means of the printing press and the die, with the result that in many parts of Mexico at one time a square meal cost paper to the face value of $100. The new Secretary of the Treasury, at last accounts, had taken steps to restore the old and more stable system of monetary values.

NEIL REFUSES TO TELL BAB WHERE HE IS GOING.

CHAPTER LVII.

That night Neil came to dinner, changed his clothes, and went out without speaking, save when I asked him why he was going out.

"Because I choose to," he had said, then deliberately closed the door of his dressing room.

I was too proud to go to him and try to coax him to remain with me; too angry still to feel as hurt as I otherwise should. But after he had gone I would have given anything to have called him back and questioned him. I would now have another long, lonely evening alone. Then came a thought—a clever one, I imagined: I would assure myself that Neil was not with Blanche Orton! I would call her up, tell her I was alone and ask her if she didn't want to go over to Lorraine's and have a game of bridge. I couldn't quite make myself ask her to my own home, feeling as I did.

"Mrs. Orton is out," it was a maid who answered.

"When do you expect her in?"

"Not till late. She's gone to a dinner party. Who shall I tell her called up?"

"Never mind, it doesn't make any difference. You don't know where he went, do you?" the blood rushed to my face at the question put to a servant.

"No—I didn't hear."

I hung up. Fierce jealousy possessed me. Neil had come home, and gone out dressed for the evening and, because he was angry at me, would tell me nothing of his plans. Blanche Orton was also out for the evening. They were very likely together, having a good time while I was sitting alone twiddling my thumbs. It was unbearable. I must do something to stop it. —But what?

Blanche Orton had not loved her invalid husband—at least no one believed she did. I knew that not many women, brilliant women of her type, attractive, beautiful, rich, went through their lives without finding some man whom they loved. Perhaps she loved Neil, and that was the reason she had nothing to give poor Orton?

I had a sudden, almost uncontrollable desire to make trouble for Blanche Orton. I wanted to fight her with some weapon that would hurt and maim her in her tenderest spot. Nothing seemed then to count but that. It wasn't Neil—even though he were faithless—whom I wanted to hurt, but her, the woman who had tempted him.

Women are as a rule cruelly hard toward each other. I was no exception.

I was delighted when the telephone jangled and Lorraine said that she would run over for a chat. I bathed my swollen eyes, and tried to obviate all traces of the emotions through which I had passed in the last 24 hours. Lorraine was such a keen observer, and so apt to talk, that one had to be very careful when she was around. Yet I liked her immensely.

"What do you think Blanche Orton did to-night? she asked in her impulsive fashion.

"I am sure I don't know." I had no slightest intention of letting Lorraine know I had telephoned Blanche.

"She has gone out with the funniest looking man. Such a common looking fellow. I drove by her house at just seven o'clock and they came out and got into her car. He looked like a street car conductor dressed up for the occasion. I can't see what she finds in such creatures to interest her. Cave men, I should call them. I should imagine from his appearance and from that maid's description that it was the same sort she had at her dinner party that night. Queer taste, to say the least."

Lorraine could not know how relieved I was at her gossip. Mrs. Orton was not with Neil. He had not left the house until half past seven and Lorraine had seen Mrs. Orton go out with some man at seven.

The evening passed quickly and pleasantly after that. And when Neil came in at eleven o'clock, Lorraine was still there, so he took her home.

INFLAMED GUMS— THE CAUSE OF TOOTH-BASE DECAY

Just as the strength of a building is dependent upon its foundations, so are healthy teeth dependent upon healthy gums.

Permit the gums to become inflamed or tender and you weaken the foundation of the teeth. This condition is called Pyorrhea (Riggs' Disease). Loosening of teeth is a direct result. And spongy, receding gums invite painful tooth-base decay. They act, too, as so many doorways for disease-germs to enter the system—infecting the joints or tissue—or causing other ailments.

Pyorrhea (Riggs' Disease) attacks four out of five people who are over forty. And many under that age, also. Its first symptom is tender gums. So you should look to your gums! Use Forhan's, which positively prevents Pyorrhea if used in time and used consistently. It also scientifically cleans the teeth—keeps them white and clean. Brush your teeth with it.

If gum-shrinkage has already set in, start using Forhan's and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

ADVANTAGE OF STUTTER.

"L-l-look here," said the stutterer at the horse sale, "that's a n'nice horse, m-my m-m-man! How much d-do you want for it?" The owner looked his animal ver lovingly. "And a beauty he is, sir," he urged; "a horse I can thoroughly recommend. But you must make the offer." "Well," said the stutterer. "I'll g-g-give you f-f-f-f-f—" "Forty pounds?" "Done!" said the dealer. "O-g-good!" closed the stutterer. "I was tr-trying to say f-f-fifty."

LIVESTOCK MEN FORMULATE PROGRAMME OF RELIEF FOR THE HIGH COST OF LIVING

A PLAN TO INCREASE THE PRODUCTION OF MEAT—SERIOUS MENACE TO THE NATION

CAUSE OF UNREST

By Raymond Clapper.
(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 4.—Declaring that the steadily rising cost of living is a "serious menace," members of the American National Live Stock Association committee addressed a letter to President Wilson outlining a programme of relief.

1. The live stock men propose the placing of 200,0000,000 acres of public grazing land under Federal control, ...increase meat production.

2. Prompt completion of the Department of Agricuture's survey covering the cost of meat production from the farm to the consumer.

3. Enaction of legislation looking to Federal control of the meat industry, similar to that proposed in the Kenyon and Kendrick bills now pending.

The letter is signed by live stock men, including H. A. Jastro, E. L. Burke, Dwight B. Head and H. C. Wallace.

All data in the hands of the committee is offered to the President.

"We recognize that the steadily mounting cost of living is a most serious menace to our national welfare and largely the cause of industrial discontent," the letter stated.

WAS REMANDED FOR ONE WEEK

C. E. SPENCELY HAD ENOUGH RED HAIR TO FLAG A TRAIN.

Charles Edward Spencely, a native of Lindsay, with an enormous shock of red hair, gazed at Justices of the Peace Harry Rush and Vincent Eastwood in police court this morning, while a charge of stealing a horse and buggy from Mr. George Dennis, liveryman, of Scugogville, was read to him. He rented the outfit from the Dennis livery, according to the police, but never returned, but was captured here. The case was remanded for a week until counsel can be obtained for the defence.

SUCCESS OF THE HYDRO ELECTRIC

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, Sept. 4.—Encouraged by the success of the Hydro-Electric radial campaigns in Hamilton and Guelph, members of the Hydro-Electric Railway Union from many parts of Ontario gathered to-day at the City Hall. About 150 municipalities were present to hear Sir Adam Beck speak on the Hydro Radial situation in the province. The report of the treasurer said:

"As soon as the Ontario government lifts the ban of construction the amount of work which will be under way almost immediately will be remarkable."

NEARLY WRECKED THE C.P.R. TRAIN

TWO SMALL BOYS LAID A TIE ON THE TRACK.

Two local boys, 12 and 15 years of age nearly wrecked the 11.52 C.P.R. train near Harper's woods, the early part of this week, when they laid a tie across the railroad tracks and then left on the run. A number of sectionmen working on the track noticed the tie and pulled it off the track two minutes before the train came along. Crown Attorney Hatton hearing of two boys who appeared before County Magistrate O. A. Langley on the charge of stealing a bicycle from Harper's woods the same day put two and two together and decided that the same two boys were the authors of both. The boys at first stoutly denied the charges but after a gruelling cross-examination admitted their guilt and drew a $10.10 fine, also a severe lecture from the Magistrate.

DENIES CHARGE BY M'MILLAN

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, Sept. 4.—Brigadier-General J. G. Ross, Paymaster-General of Overseas Forces, to-day denied emphatically the statement of J. H. McMillan, of Seaforth, that 32,000 soldiers who never enlisted were on the pay list, at a cost to the country of $30,000,000.00.

The General said that the method of accounting and auditing in the Overseas Forces made it impossible for such things to occur.

LAST MINUTE DESPATCHES

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, Sept. 4.—Ontario Provincial Cabinet Ministers, interviewed this morning, deny emphatically the statement in the morning paper that October 18 was selected by the Ontario Government for general elections and referendum. They say no date has been settled on yet.

WAGE ADJUSTMENT.

(Canadian Press.)

WASHINGTON Sept. 4.— Representatives of three hundred thousand members of the United Brotherhood of Maintenance of Way and Railroad Shop Labourers met the Railway Shop Board to-day to adjust their wages in accordance with the principle laid down by President Wilson in approving adjustments last week for railroad shopmen.

RESUME RELATIONS.

(Canadian Press.)

BOSTON, Sept. 4.—Immediate resumption of business relations with Germany and Austria was advocated to-day by Elbert N. Gary, chairman of the United States' Steel Corporation, in an address before the American Bar Association. Gary prefaced his speech declaring that the majority of the people of America were in favour of the Peace Treaty and the League of Nations without material change.

WILL NOT VOTE FOR THE TREATY

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, Sept. 4.—Paul Mistral, Minority Socialist, during the debate in the Chamber of Deputies this afternoon on the ratification of the Peace Treaty with Germany, declared that he and his party of about thirty-five members would vote against the ratification of the treaty.

RENOWN WILL LEAVE CANADA

(Canadian Press.)

HALIFAX, Sept. 4.—H. M. S. Renown arrived in the harbour early this morning. She will take on fuel oil before proceeding on her southern trip. The battle cruiser will sail for St. Kitts, British West Indies, to-morrow, as originally announced.

GOMPERS WILL DEFEND POLICE

APPEARS BEFORE COMMISSION ON BEHALF OF WASHINGTON POLICEMEN.

(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, D.C., Sept. 4.—Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labour, will appear before the District of Columbia Commissioners to-day on behalf of the Washington policemen, who have been ordered to resign from their Union or leave the force.

The Commissioners declare that any affiliation between the policemen's organisation and the American Federation of Labour will injure the efficiency of the force.

Gompers appears to-day to argue the policemen's side of the controversy; and it is his aim to make the case a test one.

WILSON OPENS HIS CAMPAIGN

(Canadian Press.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 4. — The Peace Treaty undertakes to punish Germany, but has no intention of overwhelmingly crushing any great people, declared President Wilson today in opening his country-wide campaign for the adoption of the Treaty.

He spoke to four thousand people, and secured an enthusiastic reception.

In addition, said Wilson, the Treaty tore away the chains of oppression,

There Is a Perfect Corset for You

BE PROPERLY CORSETED BEFORE WEARING YOUR FALL COSTUME

It's the corset that is made for your type of figure and for yours alone. It is the corset that protects the charm and grace of your naturally good figure.

The perfect corset keeps your figure youthful, and that is the ambition of every woman who appreciates the beauty and charm of the well-poised fashionable figure.

Self-Reducing Corsets

No. 322—A very popular model for stout women of medium height, a bit too fleshy above the waist. Self-Reducing Straps support and permanently reduce the abdomen. White coutil. Sizes 20 to 36.

No. 320—Same as No. 322, but with lower bust, for evenly proportioned stout women. White coutil. Sizes 21 to 36.

SELF-REDUCING CORSET

This style is indispensable to stout women with excess flesh on lower abdomen. Underneath the Self-Reducing Straps, which take up, reduce and support the heavy abdomen, are semi-elastic Relief Bands, which relieve tired or strained abdominal muscles.

No. 403—For stout women of medium height. White Coutil. Sizes 22 to 36.

No. 402—Similar to 403, but for short, stocky figures of medium height. Sizes 22 to 36.

"Little Nemo" Corset

No. 216 is an especially good model for a slender figure. It holds the youthful grace of the body, and by proper support induces healthful, erect carriage with the utmost comfort. Low top with elastic inserts. White or pink coutil. Sizes 19 to 30.

KopService Corset

No. 212 is a comfortable corset for hard, everyday wear. For slender to medium-full figures. Medium-high bust; medium skirt, with confining bands of semi-elastic Lastikops Webbing across back. Strong white coutil. Sizes 19 to 32.

KopService Corset

No. 511 was constructed to hygienically reduce the thighs, hips and back while giving comfort and fashionable lines.

The bands and gores of semi-elastic perform this service, without constriction, and hold the corset's shape to the last.

Made of fine white and pink coutil. Sizes 22 to 36.

Goddess

Goddess, A—510—This model created for the well developed figure, but with stylishness motif of perfect naturalness. Cut away around bust. No steel over hips. Elastic inset at bottom back. Made of strong English coutil. Embroidery trimmed. Tongue under lacing. Six hose supporters. Sizes 19 to 28.

38—A modestly slim figure, and moderately priced, with nothing cheap about it. Wide elastic top, very low bust, semi-free hip. Made of coutil. Has a satin bow. Four hose supporters. Sizes 18 to 27.

Super-Bone 4000 — Designed for stout figures. High bust model, medium length front and back. Made of English coutil and embroidery trimmed. Graduate clasps. Two hooks below clasps. Sizes 19 to 30.

"I Feel Downright Dowdy Without My Model Brassiere"

It costs so little to find out why a "Model" Brassiere is better, and you gain so much in comfort of feeling, and consciousness of style, that no woman should hesitate a moment.

The "Model" Brassiere is the one perfect-fitting Brassiere. It really supports the figure, gently upholding both bust and back without a particle of binding, smoothing away the ugly "corset ridge," and moulding your figure into lines of fashionable grace.

Brassieres at 65c, 75c, 85c, $1.00, $1.25, $1.35 and $1.50

JAS. THOMPSON, M.P.P., AGAIN NOMINATED IN EAST PETERBORO

U. F. O. AGGRESSION CAUSING CONSIDERABLE UNEASINESS AMONG STANDPAT CONSERVATIVES—LEADERS REFLECT THE ALARM BY THEIR REFERENCES TO THE FARMERS' PARTY.

WOMEN AS OFFICERS

The handwriting on the wall at the Conservative Convention at Norwood yesterday afternoon was the portentous symbol U. F. O. Mr. James Thompson, M.P.P., nominated again for the coming Provincial contest, tacitly admitted by the time and attention he devoted to the Farmers' party and platform that he is not discounting their strength and the force of their appeal to the rural sentiment.

The Town Hall was well filled with both men and women from the back ridings and the nearer villages, but it was remarked that there were empty chairs in the front rows that used to be filled by the old crowds, that never heard of self-determination for farmers as well as for other groups of society. At that, Mr. Thompson couldn't have had overwhelming worries, for if some of his pikemen of other battles had gone over to the enemy their places were nearly all filled with Amazons whose eyes were bright with the zest for political contest. The women, by their presence and keen interest in the proceedings, made it clear that they intend to use their franchise, and it was also evident that they are not above the partisanship that has been decried so much of late.

Hon. G. S. Henry Present.

Hon. G. S. Henry, Minister of Agriculture in the Hearst Government, paid his first visit to Norwood, and brightened his summary of the administration's accomplishments with quips at the U. F. O. leaders. Mr. Henry met the Farmers' appeal to their class with a challenge to duty, asserting that the welfare of this Province depended upon the Conservative party. A fine type of gentleman farmer, the Minister of Agriculture displayed a gift of speech above the average in these stammering times. He has none of the cliches of the politician or even the farmer, but this remark should be qualified, for both the politician and farmers are undergoing an unconscious evolution that is removing from them the typical signs of once recognised individualities.

Hon. Mr. Henry made a favorable impression upon the Conservative farmers of East Peterborough. To the U. F. O. men he gave a benediction for their co-operative efforts, but he prophesied disaster for their venture as a third party. The roads to Parliament were strewn with wrecks of that kidd, he intimated, and if Messrs. Burnaby, Halbert, and Morrison would not heed the lesson of history, experience would make them drink of her bitter cup.

It wasn't the noisiest kind of convention. The old exuberance was somehow dampened, but it certainly was a satisfactory "meeting." Mr. Thompson has been eleven years in the Legislature, and he knows the men of the Concessions, whether they come to the Conventions or not. His U. F. O. contestants are strange at the game, but they have shown by their successes, that have worried the Government, that they learn quickly and unite for concerted action.

Officers Elected.

Mr. H. G. Fitzgerald, of Lakefield, made a genial and brisk chairman. The following officers were elected:

Hon Presidents, James Andrews, of Norwood, and Dr. Fraser of Lakefield.

President, H. G. Fitzgerald, Lakefield.

Associate President, Mrs. R. E. Birdsall.

Vice-President, Dr. Ford.

Associate Vice-President, Mrs. Samuel Spence, Lakefield.

Secretary, E. C. Squire, Havelock.

Treasurer, C. A. Ghent, Havelock.

Executive—Otonabee, Major D. W. Johnston and Mrs. Wm. Elmhurst; Havelock, C. H. Brewster and Mrs. Edward Williams; Norwood, C. E. Peckenham and Mrs. E. P. Cuffe; Lakefield, Capt. Bygott and Mrs. R. Garbutt; Methuen, Norris Whitney and Mrs. Robt. Vanwickle; Douro, Thos. Miller and Mrs. Harry Ingram; Dummer, Levi Payne and Mrs. James Graystock; Chandos, Alan Caldwell and Mrs. Aaron Post; Burleigh, Cecil Shawen and Mrs. Chas. Lauder; Belmont, James Russell and Mrs. George Smith; Asphodel, H. N. Drain and Mrs. Robert Fennell; Anstruther, John Lane and Thomas Stevens.

Mr. Thompson was the unanimous choice of the Convention as the party's representative for the Provincial contest. He was nominated by Mr. J. W. Russel, of Belmont, and seconded by F. J. Squire, of Havelock.

Mr. Thompson's Address.

"I did not look for this honour," Mr. Thompson said. "During the past two or three years I notified the executive and hundreds of farmers of this riding that if they had any other candidate in view, I was perfectly willing to step aside. However, I cannot refuse this unanimous choice. I have much to be thankful for during the past eleven years in which I have represented the good old constituency of East Peterborough, and I feel now that this is an obligation to the people who have supported me.

"It has also been said that I am opposed to Farmers' clubs. I wish to deny that emphatically," Mr. Thompson read from an address he delivered in the Legislature in 1911, in which he reported the splendid progress that had been made by the egg circles in East Peterborough. The co-operative movement in the country had received his wholehearted support, and he was delighted at the promises of success that appeared eight or nine years ago.

"But they did not follow those lines of success," Mr. Thompson continued, "and the reason was that a certain gentleman from Western Ontario came here and tried to turn these clubs into an organisation of another kind, a political organisation, if you will. Mr. Drury was that gentleman. In Prince Edward County the clubs were broken up in the same way. The one thing that reacts against the success of carrying out of this co-operative movement is that many of the members discover that they are expected to give up their freedom and independence. I am not altogether familiar with what happens, but members of the clubs have intimated that they do not feel free to do as they like. In the press you observe that some people are dictating to the Farmers' Clubs and the members are told to vote as these persons say. They are told that they must vote for the United Farmers' candidates. I am in favour of co-operation in buying and selling among farmers, but why cannot any farmer belong to a Club without being compelled to do what they don't wish to do?"

How Debt Made Up.

Referring to the U. F. O. statement, Mr. Thompson said that its preamble asserted that the Provincial debt had grown to one hundred million dollars. "They have erred by only twenty-five million. On 6th March the Provincial Treasurer showed that the debt was then seventy-five million dollars. You may think that that is a very large debt. But forty-four millions have been loaned to the Hydro-Electric Commission. Another twenty-two million represented capital in the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway. On the other hand there were liquid assets of seventy-one million that could be cashed in twenty-four hours, twenty-two million had been spent in public buildings, and the total assets were six hundred million dollars.

"The U. F. O. says we should cut out unnecessary expenditures. That may mean something or nothing. In 1904 our revenue was $4,600,000, and last year it was $19,000,000. There was two millions raised by a direct tax for war purposes. How did we raise more than seventeen millions? Certain influences had poisoned the minds of the people. The county had lost $10,000 yearly by not adopting the system. Next year Belmont Township would obtain $2,300 more to spend on its roads without increasing its taxes one dollar.

Mr. Thompson concluded with an explanation of the Prohibition Referendum. "I don't know why no Liberal candidate has been put up in this riding or why no U. F. O. man is coming forward in West Peterborough. I am not throwing any stones, but I ask the people to give me their very best support."

Hon. Mr. Henry's Address.

"It is five years since the Legislature was dissolved and the Government appealed to the country for endorsation," the Hon. Mr. Henry recalled in opening his address. "The Legislature has not yet been dissolved, but the Prohibition Referendum will be held in October. The date of the election hasn't been decided yet, but it will be held on the voters' lists now being prepared. Five weeks after the last election had been cleared away we were thrown into the great struggle from which we have just emerged victorious. Questions of finances, agriculture, and of general development had to be set back and our minds were fixed on only one thing. I am happy to say that we have got back to peace, as far as the warring nations are concerned, but we are not on a peace basis socially, industrially, or financially. There are momentous times ahead of us until we get back on to a sound and lasting peace basis, and we will get back surely and strongly only as we stand together as a people. We stood together in the war, and it is just as essential that we stand together in these days of reconstruction of doubt and misgiving. Don't allow yourselves to be driven off into camps. As a government we have been proud in the leadership of such a people as we have in Ontario, at the same time the Government has felt that it has given satisfactory leadership, and in a direction in which the people of this Province were anxious we should lead. We ask the people to be prepared for an election, to be conscious of what they may expect in the future from the Government, as judged by the past."

The New Voters' Lists.

Speaking of the new voters' lists, Hon. Mr. Henry stated that they were being brought absolutely up to date. They contained the names of everybody who had been a resident for three months, and who had a right to be on the lists. There was no intention of putting on some names and leaving others off. Every facility was being provided whereby every name should be enumerated. Mr. Henry reviewed the work of the Department of Agriculture. U. F. O. critics had referred to the increased number of officers engaged, but they failed to mention the money expended by the Department had increased from half a million dollars in 1904 to one million and one-half in 1918. The system of county representatives had been developed by the Government, and was so successful that there are many applications for representatives for other counties that are aware of the splendid results of the agricultural representatives. But J. J. Morrison would turn the hands of the clock back fifteen years. He says we had better days in the first years of this century.

The U. F. O. in Politics.

"Our U. F. O. friends will tell you the Government is antagonistic to them," Mr. Henry continued, but declared that the Government was doing everything in its power to better rural conditions, foster a healthy social spirit in the country, and improve the working conditions. "We are opposed to the introduction of politics into the co-operative movement just as we were into the Women's Institutes. We believed we could be of use to women of the country irrespective of politics. The same is true of the United Farmers. Once the U. F. O. goes into politics it means the disruption of the clubs. History bears out that fact. You can't talk to Morrison and his type, but experience will teach them better if they will ignore history.

"In South Essex there was a peculiar resolution that no U. F. O. candidate should be a man who had sat in Parliament. It looks as if they don't want successful men. We had two U. F. O. men in the last session, Members who were interested in them spoke of them as having a string tied around their necks. They appeared to be kept in their seats as if some one was pulling from behind, and they were afraid to get up and express themselves.

"Wouldn't it be a strange condition that I, as a farmer, should espouse the keeping of farmers out of the Legislature. As a matter of fact, we have more farmers than the U. F. O. Morrison and Halbert both left the farm, Burnaby has just come to the farm from other activities, and Doherty has no less than three residences, one in the city and another on the lake at Port Credit.

"In regard to highways improvement, Halbert says we don't want Provincial roads. He advises that we go back to the township roads and build them up to a Provincial system. We are building the roads that carry the bulk of the traffic, and we will soon reach out to the last side road; but Halbert says, let the main road stand till we get that mile built on the side road. The way we are working is the most comprehensive and thorough system that can be devised."

The Education Department.

Hon. Mr. Henry dealt with the Department of Education, of which Hon. Dr. Cody is at the head. By the plan of bonusing teachers of agriculture, there were more applications for the special summer course for teachers this year than could be accommodated at Guelph, and another class had to be opened at Whitby. By this means teachers were being specially trained for giving special help to the children of the rural schools. The Department was encouraging community halls in connection with consolidated schools. These and other plans in project were designed to improve the conditions in the country through the medium of the schools.

Touching upon the Referendum, Mr. Henry explained that if the first clause obtained a majority, the Temperance Act would be repealed and the Province would go back to the Local Option period. Communities that had Local Option would still be dry under that plan, but the licensed areas would automatically revert to the old conditions.

Reiterating his appeal for unity, Mr. Henry stated that there was no hope in any other party but the Conservative at the present time. "Against us there are two or three parties that have neither organisation nor leadership. The people of this Province depend on us to carry on the affairs of this country and to make us the heirs of the progress and victory we have dearly earned."

Mr. I. I. Saxsmith added a few graceful platitudes on behalf of his friend, Mr. Thompson, to the accompaniment of the shuffling of the departing crowd.

Just Try This When Hairy Growths Appear

(Modes of To-day)

A smooth, hairless skin always follows the use of a paste made by mixing some water with plain powdered delatone. This paste is applied to the hairy surface 2 or 3 minutes, then rubbed off and the skin washed, when every trace of hair will have vanished. No pain or discomfort attends the use of the delatone paste, but caution should be exercised to be sure that you get real delatone.

Wash the flaurons in soda and water before heating.

Three million eight hundred thousand impounded cents will pass from the custody of the Kansas side of Kansas City to the Metropolitan Street Railway, now that an old lawsuit has at last been decided, and that corporation will pay these to a contractor who is threatening to quit work in a viaduct. Every one involved in the matter seems to be tired of the cents, which it was a weariness to collect.

HITCHCOCK WILL CONDUCT THE TREATY FIGHT IN THE SENATE

DISCUSSION OVER THE LABOUR CLAUSE IN THE PEACE TREATY --LEAGUE OF NATIONS.

By L. C. Martin.
(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—On the eve of President Wilson's departure to urge upon the country unqualified ratification of the peace treaty, Senator Hitchcock, his chief spokesman in the Senate, was prepared to-day to begin the fight there against the amendment of the pact.

In a speech dealing with the condemnation of Senators who have been leading the fight for amendments in the Foreign Relations committee and out of it, Hitchcock plans to-day to carry the fight to the enemy. Greater latitude in attacking the treaty's foes is possible to administration speakers in the Senate than President Wilson will feel like taking on his tour. Hitchcock, for instance, can and will name Knox, Lodge and others and quote from their speeches, in an effort to show that their position is insincere out of the line with their past utterances and entirely out of harmony with the spirit of the times and the nation.

Indications were to-day that President Wilson will depart with the treaty still in committee. One of the chief reasons for this, members said to-day, is the difficulty some members are in over Senator Falls' amendment to strike out the labour section.

In view of Samuel Gompers' statement that this section was written by labour men for labour, and denying Falls' claim that it will lower American labour standards, some committee members feel that if they support the Falls' amendment they will give President Wilson a powerful weapon against them which he would use effectively on his trip in speaking to the country's workers. On the other hand, the opposition to the section has not been killed by Gompers' statement.

If the committee is perplexed by this, the anti-treaty members feel they have the treaty's supporters in a corner on the Johnston amendment to equalize the United States vote in the League of Nation Assembly with those of Great Britain.

Children Cry for Fletcher's

CASTORIA

Fletcher's Castoria is strictly a remedy for Infants and Children. Foods are specially prepared for babies. A baby's medicine is even more essential for Baby. Remedies primarily prepared for grown-ups are not interchangeable. It was the need of a remedy for the common ailments of Infants and Children that brought Castoria before the public after years of research, and no claim has been made for it that its use for over 30 years has not proven.

What is CASTORIA?

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhoea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving healthy and natural sleep. ## BUILDS AND BINDS A NATION

Truly national in character is the exhibit of the Canadian National Railways in the Railway Building at the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto. The ensemble is most striking, and the electric lighting of the great dome, combined with most artistic draperies, lends a spacious character to the whole exhibit, while the arrangement of the display in general permits of freedom of movement to view the various exhibits in detail.

The frieze decorations show typical landscape views of the nine provinces, with the coat of arms of each the connecting link bearing the highly significant reminder that this is an exhibit of "a line that builds and binds a nation."

Three sides of the octagonal building are occupied by a huge topographical map of the Dominion, on which are shown in brilliant illumination the names of the principal points reached by the Canadian National Railways, "the great steel strand that threads the land," being indicated by a broad band of red.

No better or more comprehensive plan could have been adopted to demonstrate that 14,000 miles of railway are now under Canadian National Railway management, and that the Canadian Northern, the Intercolonial and Transcontinental railways have been amalgamated into one vast system. To further demonstrate the fact that the system traverses every province of the Dominion and reaches every provincial capital, the observer by an ingenious arrangement of flashing lights, is taken in fancy right across the continent from Halifax to Vancouver and Victoria, British Columbia, stopping momentarily at the principal points en route and then brought back again. The map should prove of much educational value in telling just what the Canadian National Railways are and the territory they reach.

Beautiful Transparencies.

A rustic centrepiece and several rustic lanterns contain some really beautiful photographic transparencies which do not fail to call attention to Canada's innumerable scenic gems, while the hunter's log cabin with its sporting trophies is also utilized for the projection of dissolving views and moving pictures of scenic and sporting and industrial life.

Forestry, pulp and paper, minerals, Indian tropies and agricultural features, complete an exhibit on which there has evidently been much careful preparation and considerable forethought. Nor has the royal visit been forgotten, for on top of the pyramid devoted to a beautiful display of British Columbian Fruit, stands the Prince of Wales' crest, the three feathers worked in grain, with the motto, "Ich Dien." Altogether it is an exhibit which every visitor should see if he would learn of Canada's national system of transportation.

After Vacation Peel Your Discoloured Skin

Women returning from the seaside with browned, reddened or freckled complexions will be wise in immediately taking up the mercolized wax treatment. Weather-beaten skin had best come off, for no amount of "beautifying" will ever make such skin pretty to look at. The surest, safest, easiest way to shed the despoiled cuticle is with the treatment suggested. Put the wax on before retiring, as you would cold cream, and rinse it off the next morning with warm water. Minute particles of scarf skin will peel off day by day, gradually showing the healthy, youthful skin beneath.

One ounce of mercolized wax, obtainable at any drugstore is enough to make any discolored or spotted complexion clear, white and satiny soft. Its action is so gentle no harm is caused and the face shows no trace of its use.

GOOD BUSINESS FOR STEEL MEN

SUMMARY OF IRON, STEEL AND METAL MARKET.

United States markets should show a tendency to come down to a more settled condition shortly, greatly to the relief of the steel and machine tool industries. As far as the steel situation is concerned, the independents seem to be far more certain than the corporation that their plants will not be tied up. They have assured their agencies in this country that the chances for trouble are becoming more remote each week.

There are some concerns in Canada, especially those building boilers, that have a fine line of business just now. They are buying very heavily, and have orders that run well on into the future. In fact, in referring to one of these concerns a Toronto warehouse stated that, "We have sold more to them in the last week than in any similar time since we have known them."

There have been no prices changed during the week. There seems to be a desire on the part of many in the trade to leave prices alone as far as possible. The claim is made further that further increases simply tend to keep up and increase the agitation that is going on against the cost of materials.

United States points state that the exchange rate is hindering business there, especially anything that looks like export trade, as nations can purchase their needs to much better advantage in other markets where their money is worth more.

The scrap metal market is passing through a peculiar era, for which there seems no good reason, unless it be that there is some manipulation going on in the larger centres. There was a slight break in New York about ten days ago, and so far there has not been a corresponding recovery. Local dealers have not marked down their lists but they state that the figures they are quoting are only nominally correct and may change very suddenly.—Canadian Machinery and Manufacturing News.

LONDON COAL DEALERS SWAMPED BY ORDERS

Householders Rush to Get Supplies Laid in at Lower Prices

LONDON—Coal merchants are inundated with orders for household coal. Everyone hopes to get something in at present prices, and frantic appeals are made on the plea that the would-be buyers have not yet had their full ration for the last year.

But it is too late now to ask for coal to make up last year's ration. The year came to an end on July 1 and every ton now bought will be included in the year 1919-1920. Coal merchants are carrying on, therefore, with orders already on their books, and will fill as many as they force.

Officials of Stratton, Gentry & Co., stated "the new prices will be charged for deliveries on and after next Wednesday. We are not holding back coal. The rise will make no difference to our profits. The whole of it will be charged to us, and we must pass it on to our customers. Some people ask why we keep coal in our yards. That is because we are compelled by the coal order to keep a fortnight's supply in hand. After July 31 we must keep three may be this amount in hand for winter supplies. Coal is coming along fairly well, and we are getting out all we can handle."

AUTOING AT ESTERHAZY.

Two of the boys, Sinc and Bob Clements, accompanied by ladies, who left for the Baseball Tournament on Tuesday, had the misfortune while driving down Soloshy's hill, of breaking the steering gear and ditching the car. Fortunately, they were travelling slow at the time and no one was hurt, the scrub breaking the fall. Owing to the accident, the Esterhazy boys could not play at Whitewood, and Hazelcliffe, against whom they were drawn, got the game by default.

Driving into Churchbridge on Monday, Stanley Biley, of Dovedale, came across a stranded car, tenanted only by ladies. On inquiry he found them out of gasoline with Mr. Chauffeur off to the nearest house to telephone for a supply. Garbie sent his boy but with some, but the relief car, taking a curve on high, ditched and turned turtle. This car, a lil' ol' Ford, experienced no damage other than bending the wind shield a little too quick.—Esterhazy Observer.

HAD RELATIVES IN PETERBORO

LINDSAY VICTIM OF AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT.

The funeral of the late Stanley Lochlip McLean, brother of Mr. Bruce McLean of the Quaker Oats staff in Peterboro, who died at the Ross Memorial Hospital, Lindsay, on Tuesday as a result of injuries received in an automobile accident, will take place in Lindsay to-day.

The late Stanley L. McLean, who was in his twenty-ninth year, was born in Lindsay, and was a son of the late John McLean. For the past fifteen years deceased was employed at Gregory's drug store, save for the period spent overseas. "Dukey," as he was affectionately known by his many friends and associates, was a young man who had earned the esteem and respect of all by his genial and courteous disposition. He enlisted for military service in the 109th Battalion, going overseas with that organization. He saw service as a stretcher-bearer with a field ambulance company. On his return to Lindsay the deceased again entered the employ of Mr. Gregory, and had planned to enter the School of Pharmacy on Tuesday (the day of his death.

The passing of Stanley McLean has evoked expressions of regret from all classes of the community and all will condole with his sorrowing mother, brothers and sisters in their hour of sorrow. Left to mourn his loss is his mother, two brothers, John of Lindsay, and Bruce, of Peterboro; three sisters, Mrs. C. Blewett of Peterboro; Mrs. G. Armstrong of Toronto, and Miss Florence of Lindsay.

GEE, I'M HAPPY MY CATARRH ALL GONE

Suffered Like a Boob For Years---Got Relief in Ten Minutes.

Catarrhozone Did Cure

That's the way hundreds of the boys around town are talking since Catarrhozone got into the drug stores. Nothing on earth like Catarrhozone to really cure Catarrh, Colds or Bronchitis.

"Catarrhozone"—it isn't a drug—it is a healing vapor full of pine essences and healing balsams. It spreads over the surfaces that are weak and sore from coughing. Every spot that is congested is healed—irritation is soothed away, phlegm and secretions are cleaned out, and all symptoms of cold and catarrh are cured. Nothing so quick, so sure, so pleasant as Catarrhozone. Beware of dangerous substitutes meant to deceive you for genuine Catarrhozone. All dealers sell Catarrhozone, large size which lasts two months, price $1.00; small size 50c; sample size 25c.

POLICE KILLED IN A CHICAGO SALOON

Argument Over Alleged Liquor Violaters Precipitated Fight.

CHICAGO, Aug 30.— A policeman was killed, one man was fatally wounded and two seriously injured, in a revolver fight in a saloon late last night. An argument over activity of Government officials against alleged violaters of the wartime prohibition law is said to have precipitated the fight.

It was stated to-day that more than 25 warrants were ready to be served on saloon keepers accused of violation of the liquor law, in addition to the 26 downtown bars raided yesterday by federal officers. Disregard of the July 1 law, is said to extend to districts outside the business centre and that the raids of federal agents will be directed to these sections.

GLAD SHE TOOK SISTER'S ADVICE

MISS SELMA WILL FEELS LIKE A NEW PERSON SINCE TAKING TANLAC.

"Nothing ever helped me until I got Tanlac, and now I am just like a different person," said Miss Selma Will, residing at 799 Lawson street, St. Paul, Minn., in an interview recently.

"There were times before I began taking Tanlac," continued Miss Will, "when I had such terrific headaches that I could not do any work for several days. My stomach was in such a bad fix that I could not eat much of anything without suffering intense cramping pains afterwards. My appetite was very poor and I was so run down and weak that I would frequently have dizzy spells and was extremely nervous. My sleep seemed to do me very little good and as I always got up in the mornings feeling just as tired and worn out as on retiring at night. I have taken many kinds of medicines and doctored for a long time but nothing seemed to do me any good.

"Finally my sister persuaded me to try Tanlac, as she had gotton such splendid results from it, and by the time I had finished my second bottle I had a good appetite and felt better in every way. My stomach never bothers me now no matter what I eat and I never have a headache nor a pain of any kind. Really, I am feeling just fine, better than I have in the past nine years, and there's nothing too good for me to say for Tanlac."

There are thousands of people who complain of being nervous and rundown. They are not sick exactly, but feel tired and good for nothing most of the time. They need something to build them up and throw off the symptoms of weakened, debilitated condition.

The system, besides being purified by Tanlac, is toned up and invigorated as the medicine, aside from assisting the blood, reinvigorates the constitution, overcoming as it seems to quickly do, nervousness, indigestion, non-assimilation of the food, headaches, backache, kidney complaints and many other ailments that are so common to the thousands of half-sick, depressed men and women.

Tanlac is sold in Peterboro by W. R. Warne Drug Co., Ltd., in Havelock by A. C. Denike in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd., in Fowler's Corners by W. A. Hunter, in Gelert by A. J. Scott, in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

BRITONS SPEND "EASY MONEY" WITH UNUSUAL LAVISH HAND.

LOUDON.— More money than ever is now in circulation in English villages, and its easy expenditure is apparent even to the casual passerby. Extra wages earned by workmen, housemaids and farm labourers have brought about an astonishing social change.

One evidence of this is seen in the great increase in bicycles and motor-cycles, which has necessitated the establishment of countless garages and repair shops throughout the country. Dancing and other clubs are springing up everywhere. Whist clubs are favorites, and the costliness of the prizes for which the members play would a few years ago, have constituted almost a scandal.

There is no lesson so hard that one cannot learn it in time.

One's laugh at one's own expense are rarely melodious.

A well-painted Roof adds Distinction to the House

THE roof crowns the house—it may "make" or "mar" the whole structure. In shingle-roofed houses, shingle-stain plays a most important part in rounding out the harmonious appearance of the home exterior. We advise the use of either as a stain in which the shingles are dipped before being put on or as a stain for application to the completed roof.

B-H Anchor Shingle Stain is made by the makers of B-H "English Paint" and Brandram's Genuine B-H White Lead. Like these other famous products of a famous paint house, B-H Anchor Shingle Stain is "first choice" among people who know and appreciate good paint.

We have it in many beautiful shades—a shade for every conceivable color-scheme. The manufacturers of this stain describe it as "TOP quality for the house TOP" and that description is completely endorsed by ourselves. We know it over-tops all other similar products.

BRIGHTON EXPECTS TO WIN HERE TO-NIGHT

The game between Brighton and Peterboro at Riverside Park to-night is called for 6.16 o'clock and in view of the splendid weather conditions there will in all probability be a good crowd of fans out. It will be the last twilight game of the season.

The Brighton crew are out to add another scalp to the bunch already dangling from their belts, while the Petes have to get revenge for their 8 to 2 beating at Brighton last week. The easterners have a bunch of American players on their line-up and are a real ball team. The game promises to be one of best of the season.

DEMPSEY READY TO MEET BECKETT

CHAMPION MAY GO TO LONDON FOR A BATTLE.

(United Press.)

LONDON, Sept. 4.—Reports that Jack Dempsey has already signed to meet the French heavyweight king, Georges Carpentier, got a rise here to-day from Promoter Cochrane, who put on the recent Beckett-McGoorty bout. Cochrane claims he has the Frenchman's name on a contract for a battle with Beckett, the British champion, on two months' notice. He also said that Manager Descamps had posted a large forfeit and made himself liable to heavy damages if his fighter met Dempsey before Beckett.

A letter from Jack Kearns, Dempsey's manager, stated he was seriously considering the offer of a bout in London, Cochrane said. He quoted Kearns as saying: "I repeat that Dempsey is willing to fight the winner of the Carpentier-Beckett fight."

PETERBORO RINKS AT PORT HOPE

PORT HOPE, September 4.—A very successful tournament was held on the local green, 18 rinks taking part, three from Oshawa, three from Peterboro, three from Cobourg, two from Bowmanville, one from Whitby and four from Port Hope.

H. B. Rosevear, of Port Hope, won first prize in the primary—four electric bedroom lamps, while the second prize went to Porter of Oshawa—four electric toasters. Hayes and Middleton of Cobourg reached the finals in the consolation and they will play off in Cobourg this week. The first prizes for the consolation are electric lamps and the second are brass jardinieres.

AGLOW WITH YELLOW IS NEW YORK CITY

RAGE FOR BROWN CREATES VOGUE FOR NASTURTIUM SHADES.

The yellow peril now is near,
We're due to have a jaundiced year,
And fruity shades of citron hue
May make a lemon out of you.

New York. — What a long tail our hat has! All the new perky, little sultan turbans of crushed velvet round velvet sailor shapes with rolled up brims, and in fact almost all the early autumn millinery models have a long swishing tassel of vivid silk dangling from their midst. Whether it be of the self same tone as its parent chapeau, as is the case usually where the hat is of black, dark brown or henna, or whether it be a striking contrast, the sprouting tasest bobs about ubiquitously and also about pretty ears, and about six or eight inches long.

Under the head of the contrast class, but bound to be on the head of the classy, is a sultan turban of the vividest Chinese vermillion velvet, with a tassel of the vividest Chinese green silk. Velvet is already very much to the fore and the forehead and brighter even than the aforementioned Chinese vermillion is a new shade of orange called capsicum which brazenly rivals for very brilliance the rays of the August sun. It is one of the most popular of the new shades which run the gamut of all the yellows and browns. In fact you have to be jaundiced to be jaunty this fall. Fall fashions are fruitful and you must either be an orange or a citron to be truly chic. New York is aglow with nasturtium shades in hats and dress accessories. So pick your fruit and color your hat and your life accordingly.

Naturally these hectic orange shades are used on the suits and frocks merely as highlights in embroidered touches here and there, but for evening gowns the entire costume partakes of the vivid hue. Suits and frocks are rather of some golden tint of brown or creamy beige and in the fall Paris models it is amusing to note the multitudinous names used to designate the varying shades of tan. They vary only by a breath one from another, and yet each boasts an entirely separate and exclusive appellation. Ecru beige, mastic, putty, clay, old ivory bisque, champagne (alas, that and a new shade called boc fill only the glass of fashion nowadays) and going a bit deeper are bronze, wood brown, tobacco, a few red echoes of last season's red brown rust, henna and mahogany, and lastly the deep dark depths of tete de negre.

Black has been worn so persistently all summer in the ebony satin and gowns so dearly loved of the Parisian female heart, that a blossoming out into the vivid yellows and warm browns this fall will be a welcome chameleon change. We cannot shake black off completely however, and its sombre hues will still swathe us willy nilly in both satin and velvet lengths, just as our penchant for having the blues will always stick to us in the form of navy blue serge till the millenium. Then only will the emancipation from any clothes at all free us from the blue of serge forever surging around us.

Fine feathers also add their orange and brown tinted hues to aid our autumn millinery and the all feathered close turbans of the orangebreasted and bronze-toned pheasant is a symphony of color tone.

Voice Of The People

To the Editor of Examiner,—

Sir: Please find space in your valuable paper for a few words to our worthy Ald. Crowe.

I notice in last evening's news, where at a council meeting, Mr. Crowe would like to find out a way of having one good band in place of three poor ones. A fair question, Mr. Crowe: Have you ever attended a band concert in Peterboro? If so, I will be safe in saying that you are a very poor judge of music.

Now, Mr. Crowe, of course it is too late in the season now to start, as the concerts are all over, but next year if you are in good health try and attend a few of the G.W.V.A. band concerts, and if you are a judge of good music I think you will be convinced that we have already got a band second to none and still getting better. That is something to be proud of, is it not? A boost is better than a knock. Taking from your remarks in the paper you have not attended any concerts this past season—or did you know that there had been any going on?. Yes, there have been concerts all summer, so please don't overlook next season's concerts, and I am sure that you will not make such a blunder again.

A VET.

Peterborough, 3rd Sept., 1919.

Dear Editor,— Do you think the temperance cause is helped by leading articles in the press attacking the Citizens' Liberty League and making gross mis-statements? A leading article appears in a city newspaper in which it is stated that the Citizens' Liberty League is in favour of the return of the bar because it advises voters to mark their ballots with four times "yes," and quotes Mr. Hearst as saying that if the vote on the referendum gives a majority in favour of the repeal of the O.T.A. he will restore the bar with all its horrors. This is a grossly inaccurate statement. Mr. Hearst has neither the will nor the power to restore the bar. The country does not want it and will not have it, and Mr. Hearst knows it.

The repeal of the O.T.A. without any other legislation would not have the effect of restoring licensed bars. To restore the bars there would have to be substantive legislation, and Sir William Hearst could not pass such an Act, for it would be defeated. The statement that he has made a threat to do so is not and cannot be true, for the best of all reasons—that he is not such a fool as to make it, and I do not believe anyone is fool enough to believe it.

The answer "yes" to the question: "Do you want the O.T.A. repealed?" merely means, "I want the law as it now stands altered." It is a request for repeal and new legislation. The other three questions point out the new legislation required.

I understand all the "no's" and the all the "yes's" will be counted up, and the majority will be so ascertained so that if one puts his mark to two yes's and two no's his ballot will be spoiled, as the yes and no will neutralize each other.

The Citizens' Liberty League is opposed to the return of the bar, but is in favour of the repeal of the O.T.A. as it now stands and a new sane law put on the statute book.

Jas. Guise-Bagley,
Sec. Citizens' Liberty League.

Local Theatrical Events

What the Local Playhouses Have to Offer--News of the Movie World

"MY SOLDIER GIRL" IS COMING HERE

PLAY IS ELABORATELY STAGED AND GORGEOUSLY COSTUMED.

It will be interesting to local theatergoers to know that the forth coming production, "My Soldier Girl", a gorgeous musical spectacle coming to Grand Opera House, Saturday matinee and evening 13th, possesses every bit of stage craft known to the modern producer from the sublime to the ridiculous, from artistic stage settings to the bewildering effects by the aid of electricity, from the magnificent costumes to the decidedly diverting dancing numbers and stage pictures all combined to make this big musical show the success that the term implies.

The locale of the clever story is laid in two acts, opening at Colonel Stone's home, Miami, Fla., the scene is a lawn fete arranged in honor of friends the Colonel met while "overseas" and to whom he had extended an invitation to visit him upon their return to America. The brilliant stage setting in his act is novel in design and the electrical effect presents a bewildering picture of flower and lights with Biscayne Bay in the distance shown in the silvery moonlight.

The last act presents a gorgeous spectacle, a Follies production in its entirety, with brilliant electrical effects, gorgeous costumes, crisp and snappy comedy, tuneful musical numbers and a host of pretty girls in a dazzling array of frocks and gowns The excellent cast selected especially for their particular ability present the solos, duets, dancing and comedy in such a delightful manner that it makes "My Soldier Girl" the most pleasing offering of the late successes.

The cast includes Dorothy Garrigue, Maude Baxer, J. G. LeRoy, James Baber, Billy Moore, Leslie Jones, Billy Moore and many others There are some twenty musical numbers including "My Soldier Girl", "Just For You", "Wrap Me Up in a Bundle of Love", "Jasper's Ragtime Band," "That Dixie Wedding Tune" and "You're My Loving Sugar Baby", which have become quite the timely hits of the season.

COWBOYS RAID A LONE SALOON

William S. Hart's Latest Photo Play, "Branding Broadway," Presents Star in New and Novel Role as seen at the Allen Theatre.

A band of cowboys, headed by Bob Sands gallop into Whetstone, Ariz., and make straight for the only saloon the town boasts of. They are determined to spend every cent they have on a hilarious holiday. They take possession of the saloon, which seems somehow sadly changed, with signs of unfamiliar beverages plastered on the walls and a bartender in the last stages of melancholia. Arizona has gone dry.

Dorothy Dalton in "Quicksands" Coming to the Allen Theatre on Friday and Saturday.

From here on Big Bill Hart is seen at his best in this play of comedy, excitement and thrills. To tell the rest of the story would spoil the picture for those seeing it.

In addition to the feature the Allen Theatre is showing first chapter of the smashing serial, "The Great Gamble." In their advance notice Pathe has this to say, that it is the greatest 'stunt" serial ever produced. It was directed by Mr. Joseph A. Golden, who will be remembered for his success in directing "Wolves of Kultur," "The Libertine," "Redemption," and "Would you Forgive?"

Following the serial is a Harold Lloyd Comedy entitled, "Jazzing it Up," making up a programme of pictures that really excell.

GOOD OFFERING AT THE GRAND

TRIPLE FEATURE PROGRAMME FOR REMAINDER OF WEEK.

Commencing to-day, the Grand will offer for the next three days a special triple feature programme. A super-feature, "Daring Hearts," featuring two of the most famous people on the screen, Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne. This picture will be the talk of the town, inasmuch as it is one of the most stupendous Vitagraph features ever produced.

As an added feature, beautiful Emmy Wehlen will be seen in the five-act comedy-romance, "The Belle of the Season." Of course, any programme at this house of amusement would not be complete without the Vod-A-Vil Movies, which are making such a big hit with the many patrons.

Special music will be played by the Grand Orchestra, and the prices remain the same: Matinees, 10c, 15c; Evening, 15c, 25c. Seats reserved in advance for the evening performance.

MILITARY PLAY WAS EXCITING

"SEVEN DAY'S LEAVE" HAS BEEN GREATLY CHANGED BUT IS STILL THRILLING.

"Seven Days' Leave," the exciting military drama which scored such a hit on its previous appearance in this city, returned to the Grand last evening and delighted an audience that filled every part of the house. The play has been Americanized since it was last seen here and considerable liberties have been taken with the text and with the action. Major Terence Fielding, the hero of the story has become an American, fighting with the British, and the spies he foils are now represented as having designs upon the American transports. Incidentally a historical inaccuracy is apparent in that the programme declares that the action takes place in 1916, when there were no American transports to be in danger. A change too has been made in regard to the sinking of the German submarine. In the play as first seen by a Peterboro audience, the destruction of the undersea boat was vividly pictured; in last night's production the scene is shifted to the deck of the British cruiser, which ends the career of the pirate and there is a realistic salvo from the guns that must have been hard on shell shock cases in the audience.

In spite of the changes in the play, "Seven Days' Leave" is still a vividly exciting and entertaining production that succeeds in holding the interest of the audience from start to finish. It was acted last night by a splendid company. Walter Sherin was most successful in his presentation of the part of Major Fielding; Chas. Sharrow did admirable work as Col. Sharrow. Mart Dale's impersonation of Capt. Keys, the cook's son, promoted on the field, was realitic, and Clay Cody contributed some excellent comedy.

EXAMINER PATTERN SERVICE

A CHIC SUIT FOR THE GROWING GIRL.

2944—Cheviot, broad cloth, serge, velour or tricotine, velvet, corduroy and mixed suiting are all good for this style. The coat is loose fitting. The skirt may be finished without the cuff. Brown serge with facing of tan, or blue with white, would be nice for this design.

The pattern is cut in three sizes: 12, 14 and 16 years. Size 14 will require 6½ yards of 27 inch material.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 15c in silver or 1c and 2c stamps.

Address Examiner Pattern Service, Examiner Office, Peterboro.

OBITUARY

EDWARD T. CARR.

Edward T. Carr, 269 Rubidge street, died last evening at 6 o'clock in Nicholls Hospital, after a few days' illness. On Thursday of last week he went to his office at the Quaker Oats, where he is connected with the sales department, as usual, but in the evening became ill and was taken to the hospital and operated on for appendicitis on Friday. His condition rapidly improved until blood poisoning set in, resulting in his death.

Mr. Carr was born in Belleville 36 years ago, and later lived for a short time in Cobourg. Twenty years ago he came to Peterborough, where he has resided ever since. He was a Presbyterian in religion.

He leaves of the immediate family his wife and one son, Donald, his parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. Carr of Peterborough, two sisters, Mrs. Russell Lake of Toronto and Miss Ruby of Peterboro, also one brother, Harry, of Toronto.

The funeral will take place on Friday afternoon at 3.30 o'clock from the family residence, 269 Rubidge street. Service will be conducted at the house at 3 o'clock. Interment at the Little Lake cemetery. Rev. Mr. McKenzie and Rev. James Rollins will officiate.

MRS. P. W. PEARCE.

The death occurred in Battle Creek, Michigan, on Tuesday, 2nd September, of Mrs. G. W. Pearce (formerly Mary Ann Hewback), daughter of the late Frederick Hewback of this city.

The remains will arrive here tomorrow morning on the G. T. R. train and will be taken to the home of her cousin, Mr. Daniel Pearce, 538 Bethune Street.

The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, from 538 Bethune Street, to Little Lake Cemetery. Please omit flowers. (Private.)

CATTLE HERE READY FOR BOUT WITH BROMPTON

Young Cattle of Toronto, who is to meet Kid Brompton of New York, in a ten round boxing bout in Brock street rink to-morrow night has arrived in the city and is in good shape for the mill which promises to be a great battle. Cattle who was overseas with the 18th Battalion is now out after the Canadian title and the bout with Brompton will be a test of his ability. The soldier boy will have his work cut out to stop the New Yorker.

In the preliminaries "Irish" Jordon of Peterboro, who while overseas with the 21st Battalion made a boxing record for himself will be one of the features. The local fight fans will welcome the chance to see this boxing action. There will be two other boxing bouts and a wrestling match in addition to the 10 round main bout.

PETERBORO MAN MARRIED IN TORONTO

MISS MARY YOST OF THIS CITY WAS BRIDESMAID.

(Special to Examiner.)

TORONTO, Sept. 4. — Beneath an arch of palms, the wedding was solemnized at the home of Mrs. E. M. Bunton, Riverdale, when her eldest daughter, Ella, was united in marriage to Mr. Alexander Seymour, Peterboro. Rev. L. Bunton, uncle of the bride officiated.

The bride looked charming in a gown of navy blue crepe de chine and carried a bouquet of carnations. She entered the room on the arm of her uncle, Mr. Hugh Bunton. Miss Mary Yost of Peterboro, acted as bridesmaid and also wore navy blue crepe de chine, and carried white asters.

The groom was assisted by Mr. Jeane Bunton.

THE NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

(Special to The Examiner.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—With most leading issues showing fractional increases, the Stock Market opened firm to-day.

U.S. Steel opened at 107 5-8 up 1-4; Crucible at 192 off 2 3-8; Bethlehem B. at 96 3-8 off 1-8; Studebaker at 115 up 5-8; Marine at 58 3-8 up 7-8; Central Leather at 100 3-8 up 1-2, Pan-American at 120 1-4 up 3-4; Baldwin at 132 up 2 1-4; and Mexican Petroleum 193 up 1-4.

The early reaction soon gave way to a new upward movement which by 11 o'clock had carried many leaders into new high for the month.

Motor stocks and shipping shares were particularly active. Studebaker advanced over five points, Atlantic Gulf, four; marine common, three; marine preferred four and Amerjcan International four.

INDUSTRIAL SITUATION

CONDITIONS HAVE IMPROVED IN GREAT BRITAIN—SEVERAL SMALL STRIKES.

THE MINERS

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Sept. 5.—The industrial situation in Great Britain at the present moment appears far less grave than a few months ago, when there was the threat of a complete upheaval of labour.

Since the settlement of the Yorkshire strike, there has been no trouble of great magnitude, although small strikes in various industrial centres are still frequent, and the tramway workers are threatening a national walk-out if the wage advance is not granted.

Generally however the unrest throughout the country has been lessened since the ministerial statement of the nation's grave financial position, which seems to have had a moderating influence.

Influential labour leaders have done their utmost to impress the workers with the imperative need of speeding up the industrial output, and moreover the government has promised early legislation providing for a 48 hour week, and a minimum wage for all industries.

Much will now depend on whether the coming winter brings serious advance in the cost of living.

MAYOR DUNCAN WAS ELECTED

At the annual meeting of the Hydro-Electric Railway Association, held yesterday at the City Hall in Toronto, Mayor G. H. Duncan was elected fourth vice-president.

Municipal delegates present, who included Mayor Duncan, decided to test the bona fides of Government and Opposition assurances of support. They were vehement in their demand for action rather than talk. They confirmed their endorsement of Sir Adam Beck in this project, and unanimously passed a resolution to be forwarded to Sir William Hearst, calling for prompt administrative action. They also decided to call upon all candidates at the forthcoming Provincial elections for signed statements as to their attitude toward the policy and project of publicly-owned and operated radial railways.

MAYOR CARTER OF GUELPH TAKES ISSUE WITH BECK

DENIES CERTAIN STATEMENTS CREDITED TO THE HYDRO POWER HEAD.

VOTE ON BY-LAW

(Special to the Examiner.)

TORONTO, Sept. 5. — "That is absolutely incorrect," declared Mayor J. E. Carter, of Guelph, over the long distance telephone to-day, when asked about the statement made by Sir Adam Beck at the meeting of the Ontario Hydro Radial Association yesterday that Guelph was holding up the Toronto to London radial by its delay in signing the agreement to provide the additional amount necessitated by the defeat of the bylaw in four municipalities, and which he said, had been signed by all the remaining seven municipalities intefested.

"All others have not signed the agreement," declared Mayor Carter. "Will you tell me what right I have as mayor to sign away more of the people's money than they vote for? I don't do business in that way. The people voted on a certain amount, and they are going to vote on the additional amount required."

"Have you consulted the City Solicitor as to the legality of signing for the further amount?"

"Why should I consult the City Solicitor?" asked Mayor Carter. "He is not a financial man. I know just as much about business as he does. We engage the City Solicitor to advise us on legal, not financial, matters."

"That is all rubbish about Guelph holding up the line. Sir Adam Beck has no intention of building the road. He said so on the public platform—that we wanted the Grand Trunk Railway, and did not want to parallel the lines. He made the statement here that the Grand Thunk was going to be taken over. All he wants it signed for is to bluff the government, and we don't believe in that kind of stuff."

"Will you submit the bylaw for the additional amount to the people anyway?"

"Yes; the Railway and Manufacturers' Committee recommended it to the council and it has passed it unanimously and I have no doubt that the bylaw will carry."

FINAL PHASE OF TREATY FIGHT

FOREIGN RELATIONS COMMITTEE HAS COMPLETED WORK.

(United Press.)
(By L. C. Martin.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 5. — The Senate treaty fight entered its final phase to-day.

The Foreign Relations Committee has finished work on the pact which President Wilson submitted to the Senate on July 10th.

As soon as the treaty can be reprinted for amendments and the report on it written, Senator Lodge will lay it before the Senate. This will occupy some days and the actual consideration of the treaty, article by article, as required by the Senate rules, probably will not begin for more than a week.

TELLING SENATORS HOW TO VOTE ON PEACE TREATY

WOODROW WILSON HAS A BIG CONTRACT ON HAND—IN ST. LOUIS TO-DAY.

(United Press.)
(By Hugh Baillie.)

ST. LOUIS, Mo., Sept. 5.—President Wilson, traversing the territory of opposition Senators in a campaign for the ratification of the Peace Treaty, was in St. Louis to-day, ready to make two speeches. Wilson "has his fighting clothes on," it was stated, and is ready for a rough and tumble verbal tussle with the opponents of the Peace settlement.

This change in tactics on the President's part became noticeable last night at Indianapolis, where he told those resisting the Treaty to "Put up or shut up," and to keep quiet, unless they had a better plan than he believes his to be for preserving world peace.

Wilson, it was learned, is going to put more such lighting phrases into his discourses hereafter, using slang that the people can understand to make himself more clear in contrast with his epigrams of previous tours.

Wilson obviously is trying to make his addresses more like heart-to-heart talks than orations. What he wants to do, it was learned, is to expound his treaty. He thinks it is not generally understood that those who do not like it do not know what it is all about, and going on this theory, he intends to go into minute detail in many phases.

In effect he says to his audiences: "Your Senators do not understand it. So I am going to explain it to you, and then you can tell your Senators how to vote."

This is the object of his journey.

GRATUITIES TO CANADIANS MAY BE EXTENDED FOR ANOTHER SIX MONTHS

WILL COST THE COUNTRY ANOTHER $150,000,000—COMMENCE DECEMBER FIRST NEXT.

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, Sept. 5.—It is stated here, on what would appear to be good authority, that the Government has in contemplation an extension of the system of gratuities to soldiers and dependents for a further period of six months, starting from 1st December, when the present gratuities cease.

Gratuities granted to the above date will approximate about $150,000,000. A similar amount will be required should the Government continue the system for a further six months.

Under the system, a private receives $30.00 a month, a lieutenant $100.00, and officers above these, the pay of the rank.

"RUS" TO THE GOLD FIELDS

(Special to The Examiner.)

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 5.—The lure of gold nuggets north of the Pass Chance of striking it rich has once more crept into the veins of the westerners, and hundreds of people are writing from British Columbia, asking for details and also a number from Cobalt, Ont. The report of the enormous find in the gold fields started the wandering prospector, and trains are crowded going to the new field.

CONDEMNS THE PENITENTIARY

LACKS SANITARY CONVENIENCES—WORK WAS DISCONTINUED.

(Special to The Examiner.)

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 5.—General Hughes, after an inspection of Stoney Mountain penitentiary, stated that it was the poorest institution of its kind in the Dominion. It lacked modern equipment from a sanitary viewpoint and also from the viewpoint of cells. Work to correct these weaknesses had been commenced before the war, but had been discontinued by the Government during the war because of the large expense incurred. The old prison cell was 21 inches wide and the bed was a crude affair which folded up into the side of the wall. No sanitary conveniences were provided except a bucket, and lamps were used for lighting purposes.

GOMPERS APPEALS FOR STEEL WORKERS

BELGIUM THREATENS TO PUNISH HOLLAND

Demands Return of German Vessel Diverted by the Dutch.

(Special to the Examiner.)

BRUSSELS, Sept. 5. — The Belgian government according to "Le Soir," has sent a note to Holland threatening to place an embargo on Dutch shipping unless H. land returns a German ship which left Belgium after the armistice was signed.

The vessel was discovered later in the Rhine and returned to the German owners by he Dutch.

AN AUTOMOBILE TURNED TURTLE

A peculiar accident took place yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock in front of T. Kinnear's wholesale house when the radius rods on a motor car driven by Mr. J. Harold Fredericks, employed at the dental office of Dr. McKenty, gave way, and the car tipped on its side with the wheels revolving in the air. Mrs. Fredericks and two children were in the car at the time and a witness of the accident reported that one of the children was hurt.

BRIGHT CHILDREN OFTEN WEAR GLASSES.

Why is it that bright children so often wear glasses? The answer is that children often are retarded in their studies because they cannot see. Poor vision holds them back, while those who wear glasses forge ahead. If you are in doubt about your child's eyes, consult W. H. Lacey, Optical Specialist, 410 George street.

"GO TO IT NOW OR CRAWL," DEMANDS MR. J. H. BURNHAM OF THE PETITIONERS

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, Sept. 5.—J. H. Burnham, M.P. for Peterborough, has made a reply to the despatch sent last night from Peterborough, in which it was stated that a petition was being circulated, requesting his resignation because of his having taken his seat in the cross benches of the House of Commons.

He has wired Peterborough people as follows:

"Telegraphic despatch states that a petition is circulating in Peterborough for my retirement owing to my going to the cross benches in protest of the continuance of the new Unionist party in power without going to the people first. Since I regard it is a breach of faith with those who voted for Unionism while the war lasted, I challenge the petitioners, if there are any, to get the announced backing of the Union Government, whereupon I will immediately resign my seat and appeal to the people . . . to it now, or crawl."

PETERBORO EXPORTED ONE MILLION DOLLARS WORTH OF GOODS TO STATES

EXPORT LAST QUARTER WAS THE LARGEST IN CITY'S HISTORY—INTERESTING MEETING OF PETERBORO BOARD OF TRADE.

REPORTS READ

With a total attendance of 104, and a membership of 288 the Board of Trade at last night's meeting, the first since May, 1918, held in their rooms in the Dominion Bank building, typified to what an extent the efforts, persistence and resourcefulness of comparably a few men may reach. Almost every representative in the world of industry, whether professional or commercial, were there. President J. J. Turner's smile was contagious, and it is safe to say that every member present feels that he obtained more knowledge and education of Peterborough's commercial status, possibilities and probable future both as regards domestic relations and foreign markets than he ever knew before.

A Luncheon.

The members sat down to a luncheon, with Member Percy Hooper on the long end of the ladle and cake knife. The meeting, which was held upstairs in the Business College, resolved itself into a regular smoker, with a musical programme, including a solo by Mr. Douglas Carlisle, with Mr. John Crane presiding at the piano; a banjo solo by Mr. Frank Clarke, and the whole supplemented by the sonorous tones of Secretary G. O. Cameron reading the roll.

Ancient History.

President Turner was in a reminiscent mood and recalled the old days when twelve or fifteen men attended the first meetings of the Board of Trade. Since that time wonderful strides have been made and to further progress every man in the community should become a member and the community spirit promoted. He likened the Trade Board to the human body—each have many members having functions of its own, and various committees attached to the main committee, and if one fails the whole suffers.

Mr. Fred L. Roy, chairman of the Civic Education committee, did not present a formal report, but mentioned that the newspapers have been effectively used in the past for the education of the public regarding the objects of the Board of Trade and that more space will be used in the future. He reiterated many citizens' remarks that there are many beautiful spots in the city and many that are not beautiful. It is the intention of the committee to have lantern slides of these spots thrown on the screen for the benefit of the members, and ask them to remedy them.

Welfare Committee.

The report of the Industrial Welfare committee, presented by Mr. J. J. Hartley, was optimistic in every part. He pleaded for unity not only in the Board, but in the community. "Life is too short for classes and selfishness." He believed that the Board was composed of the best of our citi-

Committee on War Memorials Recommend a Technical School

The following report from the Committee for War Memorials was submitted to the Board of Trade last evening:

The President and Members of the Council of the Peterborough Board of Trade.

Gentlemen,

We, the members of the Committee on War Memorials beg leave to report and recommend as follows:

(1) That a Memorial Certificate be presented by the Board of Trade, as being the most representative body in the City, to the next-of-kin of each of the Peterborough soldiers who, in the Great War, offered up his life as a sacrifice upon the altar of his country.

(2) That the Board of Trade urge upon the Board of Education the erection in the immediate future of a Technical High School, to be known as the Peterborough Memorial Institute of Technology as a permanent memorial to Peterborough's "Unreturning Brave."

With reference to the former, your Committee secured a suitable design as the result of a competition open to the residents of the City. We recommend that a sufficient number of this design be lithographed, and a copy presented to those who are to receive them, at a grand patriotic rally to be held in the Opera House on November 11th next, the first anniversary of Armistice Day.

While we are not yet ready to present for your consideration and approval the details of this meeting, we may say that the following items are under consideration: Throwing on a screen the photographs of each of our brave dead; a movie film showing the Canadian troops at the Front; presentations of the Memorial Certificates; suitable musical numbers; and one or two short addresses suitable to the occasion.

With reference to the latter, your Committee are of the opinion that the permanent memorial should be one in every way worthy of the splendid heroism and undying achievements of those who went forth to battle never to return. The proposed building should be of such outstanding architectural beauty that the citizens of Peterborough would point to it with pride. The memorial should not only be beautiful, but it should be useful. What at the present time could be more useful than a Technical High School? We are of the opinion that Education is the hope of the future. The most terrible of revolutions have taken place where ignorance has been greatest; and if anything will save the world from chaos, it will be sound education. Russia is reaping the results of ignorance. France, before the Revolution, despised her common people as beasts of the field. It is not education that has made industry restless, but the spread of dangerous ideas, whose only antidote is sound education. Destructive principles are to be combated by minds trained to reject sophistry and expose fallacy. It is when national education is inadequate that society threatens to crumble. We, therefore, strongly recommend the erection of a Technical High School as the best permanent memorial to our fallen soldiers.

Signed on behalf of the Committee,

H. R. H. KENNER,
W. A. LOGAN,
A. W. McPHERSON.

WILL UNVEIL THE MEMORIAL SHIELD

INTERESTING EVENT AT ST. JOHN'S CHURCH NEXT SUNDAY.

A most important event in the history of St. John's Sunday school will take place next Sunday afternoon at 3 p.m. The memorial shield, which has been presented to the school by the M.S.C.C. in recognition of Victory Bonds subscribed for last spring, will be unveiled in the presence of the whole school. The shield is of solid oak, and the names of the scholars who gave their lives in the great war are engraved on maple leaves stamped out of gun metal. As this is also the opening session of the Sunday school after the summer holidays, officers, teachers and scholars are earnestly requested by the superintendent, Mr. R. J. Devey, to be in their places promptly at 3 o'clock.

The shield will be dedicated at the 11 a.m. communion service on Sunday, and an offertory hymn sung by the choir boys. All subscribers are cordially invited to be present at both of these services.

ADVANCE IN TOBACCO PRICES

Tobacco has taken another jump in price. Some brands of plug tobacco costs the tobacconist 9 cents a pound more than formerly. Most lines of cigars, especially the three for a quarter braud, have advanced to cents a hundred, and now there are very few three for a quarter cigars. No advance in cigarettes is yet recorded.

PAVEMENT IS NEARLY COMPLETED

THE WATER STREET SECTION IS COMPLETE, AND OPEN TO THE PUBLIC.

The stretch of pavement on Water and King Streets now under construction will be completed next Tuesday evening. The Water Street pavement is completed and open to traffic as far as the office of the Peterborough Canoe Company.

On King Street one side of the pavement to George Street and the remaining cement will be laid to-day and to-morrow.

FIRE BROKE OUT IN OIL STILL

FIRE EXTINGUISHED BY COMPANY'S FIRE FIGHTING FORCE.

(Canadian Press.)

HALIFAX, N. S., September 5. — Fire breaking out this morning in one of the stills of the Imperial Oil Co., at Woodside, across the harbour from Halifax, was extinguished without great difficulty by the company's fire fighting force.

The officials state that the loss was but slight.

MEASURE TO AVOID WARS

INTERNATIONAL JUSTICE AND AN IMPARTIAL COURT.

(United Press.)

BOSTON, Sept. 5 — International justice interpreted and applied by an impartial court can do more to prevent future wars than any agency, single or collective, operating in the sphere of diplomacy.

This was the note that was sounded repeatedly in the address of Secretary of State Robt. Lansing to members of the American Bar Association here this afternoon. International democracy exists in the sphere of legal justice, and up to the present time, in no other relations between nations," Lansing asserted.

Continuing he advocated the establishment of an International tribunal or tribunals of justice, with the Hague court as a foundation, and a concise body of legal principles.

87 Years of Service

The foundation stone of any Bank's success must be service to the public.

The 87 years of steady growth of this Bank, its steady increase in assets and resources, are a measure of the sound, consistent, friendly service it extends to its customers.

May we not serve you, too?

TORONTO'S MILLIONAIRES.

The Toronto Sunday World is responsible for a compilation which purports to give a complete list of the millionaires of that city. It is probably based largely on guesswork, but, such as it is, the list, containing 39 names, is as follows:

A. W. Austin, Sir Frank Baillie, Alfred Beardmore, Mrs. C. W. Beatty, Mrs. T. G. Blackstock, R. J. Christie, Herbert C. Cox, Sir John Eaton, Major W. E. Eaton, Mrs. Timothy Eaton, David Fasken, Sir Joseph Flavelle, H. H. Fudger, Sir William Gage, Nicholas T. Garland, A. E. Gooderham, George H. Gooderham, W. G. Gooderham, Ross Gooderham, John B. Harris, William Harris, W. G. Jaffray, Aemilius Jarvis, Z. A. Lash, Hon. A. E. Kemp, Sir Frederick Nicholls, John MacDonald, Sir William MacKenzie, Sir Donald Mann, Chester D. Massey, Sir E. B. Osler, Sir Henry Pellatt, Elias Rogers, Mr. J. F. W. Ross, Sir Edmund Walker, Mrs. H. D. Warren, E. R. Wood, Sir James Woods.— Journal of Commerce.

ARRESTING NEW YORK HOTELMEN WHOLESALE

New York, Aug. 28.—Wholesale arrests have been begun by agents of the Department of Justice in this city, of proprietors and bartenders in saloons and hotels who are charged with openly violating the War Time Prohibition Law, by selling intoxicating liquors. Thirteen arrests were made on Tuesday, including two proprietors and six bartenders, all of whom provided bail ranging from $100 to $1,000, when arraigned before Commissioner Hitchcock. The arrests were made in several of the better known Broadway establishments.

In all forty warrants were issued. The remaining twenty-seven were served in the evening, the accused not being arrested on promising to appear before the commissioner to-day.

Brilliant falsehoods dazzle more eyes than gems of truth.

Beauty has no real advantage, but it catches the floating vote.

TO THE ELECTORS OF WEST PETEEBORO

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN, That all Persons who are entitled to be entered on the Voters' List, and whose names do not appear thereon, may have the same remedied by informing the following:

Joseph Wearing, 408 Water Street. 'Phone 58.

C. R. Widdifield, Bank of Commerce Building. 'Phone 550.

Gordon & O'Brien, 395½ George Street. 'Phone 219.

GERMAN DEALERS' PRICES FOR TOYS EVEN BELOW THOSE ASKED IN 1914

JAPANESE COMPETITION IN BRITISH MARKET, HOWEVER, IS EVEN MORE DAMAGING THAN THAT OF BERLIN.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—German manufacturers of games and toys have made advances to distributors of those articles here to order them from Germany at prices even below those demanded in 1914.

The journal of the toy shop and fancy goods trade made inquiries of dealers as to the effect of their unrestricted importation into the country. "It would close us down, probably," was the gist of most of the answers.

One correspondent writes: "Japanese competition is the most vital thing ot present, and if it is not controlled, it can easily become more damaging than German competition."

Said he: "Alike are women all;
No man can tell the size they wear,
By the size for which they call."

Voice Of The People

To the Editor of the Examiner:

I see by your report that the Chief Inspector of Weights and Measures recommended our Council to pass a by-law requiring that potatoes be sold by weight, instead of by measure, which he admits is a proper subject for the Legislature to consider. Such a usurpation of the functions of the Legislature by a municipal council is not authorized by the Municipal Act. Even if such power was vested in the Municipal Council it would be unwise to pass such a measure, as it is desirable that there should be uniformity in the law throughout the Province.

To weigh potatoes instead of measuring them would be putting a premium on wet, soggy potatoes grown on wet or heavy clay soil, which are always heavier than the good, dry, mealy potatoes grown on sandy loam.

It is to be hoped that the Council will leave it in the hands of the Legislature, to where it properly belongs.—Yours truly,

Vegetarian.

September 5th, 1919.

Editor of the Examiner:

Sir: With regard to the letter in yesterday's paper from Mr. Guise-Bagley, it would be well that clearer light be thrown on the two points he takes up. The ballot paper is not an easy one to understand and his letter does not make it any more clear in the minds of the public.

Mr. Guise-Bagley says: "Mr. Hearst has not the power to restore the bar. The public does not want it. The repeal of the O.T.A. without any other legislation, would not have the effect of restoring licensed bars."

The purpose of the referendum is just to find out if the public do want the bars back again. In introducing the bill before the House Mr. Hearst said: "....if the first question is answered in the affirmative, the O.T.A. will be repealed, and the old License Law as it existed before 1916, will be revived in that event there will be no necessity for further consideration of the answers to the other questions for the greater will include the less, and liquor would be sold in bars and shops as in years gone by."

Thus no "substantive legislation" will be necessary to restore the bars as they will be legally in existence at once should the act be repealed.

In his second point, Mr. Guise-Bagley is even more misleading, and here again I would contrast his words with those of the Premier. He said yesterday, "I understand all the no's and all the yes's will be counted up, and the majority will be so ascertained so that if one puts his mark to two no's and two yes's his ballot will be spoiled as the yes and the no will neutralize each other."

Regarding this Mr. Hearts says — "You will note that the questions are submitted in such a way as not to split either the wet or the dry vote—each question stands by itself"—and at Brantford, "In the days of unrest, of turmoil and reconstruction through which we are passing, I believe the act is a source of safety and strength and that its repeal or any weakening of its provisions would be unwise."

Obviously then it is not true that all the no's and all the yes's will be added up, as our opponent suggests, and such loose statements are only an effort to becloud the issue. The Premier has definitely stated that each question stands by itself. It will also be decided by itself, and a yes and a no cannot neutralize each other.

T. M. WESLEY,
Organizer for the Referendum Committee.

To the Editor:

Dear Sir,—Is Mr. Guise-Bagley trying to confuse the issue in the referendum? Surely he knows that each question will be be decided by the number of votes cast for or against it and not all the votes lumped together as he says in his letter.

The issue is quite clear. The O.T.A. suspended for the time being the License Act, under which the bars operated, and if that Act is repealed the License Act will come into force and the bars will again open "with all their horrors" as Mr. Bagley says. I am glad even our opponents realize the truth that the drink traffic is a horrible business. The only thing I cannot understand is that, realizing this, they can support it.

The three last questions, or any one of them, will, if carried, be passed as amendments to the O.T.A. if that Act is still left in force, and Mr. Bagley need have no fear that whatever government is elected will do other than carry out the wishes of the electorate as expressed at the referendum.

Yours truly,
GEO. LEADER.

HIGHER TAXES.

Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir.—In looking over your Examiner Sept. 3 (re Ald. Crowe's letter) in regard to one good band for the city, I was more than surprised to think that we had a man in our City Council that would get up so late in the afternoon to crow about music given with our bands. I think the City Council should call a special meeting so they could raise our taxes one mill so that you could go and buy him the best pair of ear trumpets possible to buy and explain fully to him that they are not to blow with but to stick them in his ears to hear with.

I think for one that the War Veterans and Salvation Army bands have done justice to the public at large this season and earned what little they get for their playing.

I thought we were just settling down to peace and quietness until someone had to fly up and crow when the season is finished.

Thanking you Mr. Editor, for your valuable space. Signed

One in Favor of Harmony.

Dear Mr. Editor: In Thursday's issue I noticed a letter written by "A Vet," referring to Ald. Crowe's lack of knowledge that there was at least one good band in the city, inasmuch as "A Vet" seems to think Ald. Crowe has never heard a programme given by the G.W.V.A. Band, hence his remarks. I might add that the same Ald. Crowe is an old musician, an old reliable bandsman, one of the old standbys, and has heard some of the best bands in the country, so that if there was anything particularly spectacular in hearing the G.W.V.A. Band, I am sure Ald. Crowe would never miss the opportunity.

"A Vet," is I think a little premature in his remarks, as Ald Crowe's reference was to the bands in general and did not cast any stones at the Vets' Band alone.

But really it is quite a joke how quick some are to jump at conclusions. Did the cap fit after all, I wonder, when a Vet said that out of three poor bands we might have one good band. Why did we not hear from the "S. A." Band in this respect, and also the 57th Reg. Band, which is the people's band. Why did they say nothing, the rest is easy. The public understand why the Vets jump so quick to conclusions.

Does a Vet understand a good programme when he sees it? How about the following few which consists of numbers in the 57th Library, and also have been used as recently as Wednesday on the bill of the Grenadiers Guards Band:

"Minuet," Paderewski.
Selection, "The Bing Boys."
"Three Dances from the Incidental Music to Henry VIII. I. "Morris Dance," II, "Shepard's Dance," III, "Torch Dance.'
Selections from "The Yeoman of The Guard."
Overture to "William Tell."
"The Lost Chord."
"A Southern Wedding."
"Reminiscences of Wales."

I think Mr. Crowe would be tickled to death to accept "A Vet's" invitation should anything like the above programme present itself.

"A Vet" must not forget that there are "carriers" in many bands. Probably he is one of them.

However a worker and a musician of the first water would not write such an ignorant epistle as appeared in Wednesday's issue. Trusting you will give this due publication at your convenience, yours with many thanks for the same.

"Another Vet."
Also a Musician.

YOUR UNKNOWN FACE

No doubt you would readily recognize your features if you met them in the street. You see them in the glass daily and many times a day, and probably you can imagine how you look when you think you study them with peculiar care. But that is just the point. Whenever you see them you are studying them. The expression is conscious, artificial—the expression of a person who is being watched and studied. You know what the photographer's "look pleasant" produces. You know how you feel — you are aware that someone is observing you.

Think of the expressions you catch on others' faces, when they are completely unconscious, not giving a though to how they look. Some faces are sweet, kindly, sympathetic, delightful. Some faces again, often the same faces, are sad, anxious, dreary; others still are harsh, bitter angry or selfish. Remember that all those expresions are likely to come on your own face, too. When you look in the glass you do not find them there. Your mere curiosity erases them as a wet sponge erases figures on slate. But they come just the same.

The great Secretary of War, Edwin M. Stanton, once refused to be introduced to a man because he did not like the man's face. "But," urged a friend, "he is not responsible for his face." "Every man over 40 years old, is responsible for his face," answered the Secretary."—Youth's Companion.

MR. BURNHAM'S POSITION.

In announcing his decision to sit in the cross-bench section of the House of Commons, Mr. Burnham, M. P., explained that he was adopting this course because he believed that it was time to end the career of Union Government. It would be an injustice, he said, to continue the "farce of Unionism," any longer. Mr. Burnham's protest would have been much more emphatic if instead of merely moving from the Government side of the House, he had resigned as a member of Parliament. There seems to be a pretty general opinion that if Mr. Burnham was sincere in his convictions as regards the Union Government, his only logical course was to resign. It is not surprising, therefore, that a petition is being circulated among the electors of West Peterboro pointing out to the representative of the riding the advisability of his retiring to private life as soon as possible. His jump to the ranks of the cross-benchers, while gaining for Mr. Burnham that notoriety that never displeased the Federal member, left him still in a position to put his hand out for the sessional indemnity, because of course the gentlemen in "no man's land," as someone has described it, are paid the same allowance as the other members of the House. In his latest move Mr. Burnham was not jeopardizing the financial reward of his position, and it is not surprising to find that there are many who think that the member for West Peterboro has been playing a very nice little game of bluff. He can, however, convince the people of his sincerity by the simple expedient of handing in his resignation, and from present indications he will be informed of this way out in an emphatic manner before the present session has run many days.

THE WAR MEMORIAL.

There will be general interest in the report of the War Memorial Committee of the Board of Trade, as presented at last night's meeting. Peterboro is falling behind other centres in this most important question of the best manner to honour the memory of the men who will not come back, and the report of the committee is the first definite suggestion that has come forward. The principal feature of course is the recommendation that the erection in Peterboro of a memorial Technical School be urged upon the Board of Education. Such a school is a prime necessity in Peterboro—that will be admitted on every hand—and the establishment of an adequate and modern technical institute as a memorial, is a plan that will suit the opinions of those who believe that the day has gone by when statues and monuments in marble or granite form the best means of honouring the memory of fallen heroes. At the same time the Technical School, while serving a most useful purpose in the community can be made a beautiful and fitting monument by erecting a building that will be planned to combine beauty of architecture with facilities for the work to which the school would be dedicated. The committee report brings the question of war memorials once more before the people; let us hope that it will lead to definite action, either on the lines suggested by the committee of the Board of Trade, or, if that plan does not meet the views of the majority of citizens, in any other manner that is approved. The honouring of the memory of the unreturning brave is a solemn duty that must be discharged.

A NEW INTERPETATION.

"I understand all the "no's and all the "yes's" will be counted up and the majority will be so ascertained that if one puts his mark to two "yes's" and two "no's" his ballot will be spoiled, as the "yes" and "no" will neutralize each other." So writes Mr. Guise-Bagley, secretary of the Peterborough Citizens' Liberty League in a letter to the papers.

Mr. Guise-Bagley is probably attempting to live up to the name of the organization he is connected with. As secretary of the Liberty League he no doubt believes that he is at liberty to place any interpretation on the prohibition referendum he sees fit. But in the name of common sense will Mr. Guise-Bagley please tell how or where or why he arrived at the conclusion he has stated in his letter. If there is anything in the Temperance Referendum Act of 1919 or in Sir William Hearst's explanation of the measure in the Legislature on April 4, 1919, or in any of the references made by the Premier since that time that justifies Mr. Guise-Bagley's statement, the Examiner will hasten to congratulate the secretary of the Liberty League upon his shrewdness in discovering something that has escaped the notice of the people generally. In the meantime however, we must confess to a belief that Mr. Guise-Bagley's conception of the referendum, if his letter can be accepted as a criterion, is very much open to correction. He might profitably spend a half hour in reading the Premier's explanation of the referendum ballot, a copy of which no doubt many citizens will be glad to lend him, if he is without one.

A LITTLE LIGHT, PLEASE.

"The League is opposed to a return to the open bar as previously existing in Ontario."

"Vote "yes" four times on the referendum."

The two sentences quoted above are from a pamphlet issued by the Citizens' Liberty League of Ontario.

Sir William Hearst declares that if question No. one on the referendum is answered in the affirmative the old bar-room system will be restored and the answers to the other three questions will not be considered.

In view of that announcement, will the Citizens' Liberty League please enlighten the public as to any reasoning by which the two extracts at the head of this article can be reconciled?

How can any one who is opposed to the open bar vote for the repeal of the Ontario Temperance Act?

How can any one who favours the sale of light beers through government agencies vote for the repeal of the Ontario Temperance Act?

How can any one who favours the sale of light beer in standard hotels vote for the repeal of the Ontario Temperance Act?

The electors should not be deceived. The only person who should vote "yes" on the first question of the referendum is the one who wants the open bar restored. Those who say they are opposed to the old conditions and then tell the electorate to vote for the repeal of the Ontario Temperance Act are either under a delusion themselves or they are trying to delude others.

"If the first question is answered in the affirmative, the Ontario Temperance Act will be repealed and the old License Law as it existed prior to 1916 will be revived. In that event there would be no necessity for further consideration of the answers to the other questions, for the greater would include the less, and liquor would be sold in bars and shops as in years gone by." This is the statement of the Premier of Ontario. It is clear and emphatic. Why then should the Citizens' Liberty League continue to state that they are "utterly opposed to the open bar," while at the same time they advise the people to follow a course of action that, if adopted by the majority of the electors, would restore the very conditions they profess to abhor?

Mr. J. Guise-Bagley, secretary of the Peterborough branch of the Citizens' Liberty League, in a letter to the local newspapers, accuses the Examiner of making "grossly inaccurate statements" in regard to the League. Our readers can judge of the accuracy of the statements for themselves.

Sir William Hearst's explanation directly contradicts Mr. Guise-Bagley. The Premier declares that the old License Law will be revived if Question No. one is answered in the affirmative. The electors can decide whether they want to accept Sir William Hearst's statement or if they prefer Mr. Guise-Bagley's.

Easy to handle. Sold by all Druggists, Grocers and General Stores

THE COMING LOAN

It is not to seen to begin to prepare for the next Dominion loan, which is to be issued in October. Details have not been officially stated, but it seems to be understood that the amount will be not less than $300,000,000, that the rate of interest will be 5 1-2 per cent, and that the exemption from taxation granted in the case of previous loans will not apply to the new bonds.

The country will, we believe, welcome the assurances that there will be no exemption from taxation in this case. The exemptions allowed in the past have been the cause of much discontent, which is likely to increase as the bulk of the old issues pass into the hands of the wealthy classes, who will enjoy exemption while their less opulent neighbors will be obliged to pay tax on their modest incomes. The Government, therefore, have done well to make the fact known at this early day that the policy of exemptions is not to be continued.

The placing of the new loan will be a harder task than that of the previous flotations. While the war was on and the patriotic spirit of the country stirred, while the need of money to support our soldiers at the front was everywhere recognized, all classes of the people responded readily to the Government's loan proposals. Savings that had been put into other forms of investment were converted into Victory bonds. Many a stocking or other domestic savings bank gave up its treasure to be turned into an interest-bearing security. These favorable conditions are no longer present. Both rich and poor, excepting the comparatively few who are described as "profiteers," are less able to find money than when the earlier loans were placed. The high cost of living has in many cases prevented any accumulation of savings. Dominion taxation, already large and certain to be larger, tends to warn men to greater care respecting their engagements. All these things will make the atmosphere of the loan less favorable than that of former times. Then, above all, is the fact that, the war being over and most of the returning Canadian soldiers now home, the war spirit can no longer be appealed to. The days are now marked by enquiry and criticism concerning expenditure rather than by the unquestioning enthusiasm of the earlier loans. The work of selling the bonds is going to be much harder this time.

All these conditions may as well be faced frankly. Nevertheless a very large sum must be raised and probably most of it will have to be subscribed in Canada. The $300,000,000 spoken of and probably much more will be required to enable the Government to meet the obligations ahead of us. Subscription to the loan will still be a patriotic duty and all who can at all afford to do so should be prepared to assist in making the loan a success.—Journal of Commerce.

EYEBROWS, BUSHY ONES, TO ADORN MILADY AGAIN

Fashion Decrees Ban on Shaved Foreheads and "Thin Black Lines."

Milwaukee.—The girls are about to lose that inquiring look—some harsh persons call it supercilious—which has characterized the fashionable young woman of the last year.

Milady is to resume the growing of eyebrows.

Oh, yes, they have them now but to recognize in a thin pencil line of black what nature originally intended for an eyebrow portrays keen perception.

Shaved, plucked or pulled eyebrows were the style. No longer do they reign. For their day is over, or almost over, and soon to appear with a forehead of unprotected and hairless cuticle will be as unfashionable and provincial as though one apeparred in a shawl and hoopskirt.

Let the eyebrows grow, girls, for 'tis rumored on the beauty rialto that eyebrows, and plenty of 'em—real bushy ones, the bushier the more stylish—will lend expression to milady's inter rogating countenance.

Wasted are the hours spent in the painful task of pulling them out, one at a time, amid acute anguish, and lucky are the damsels to whom comfort and convenience looked better than askinny line of hair and a surface of white holes that resembled pin pricks or the shiny surface of a bald head.

Eyebrows unlike tonsils or an appendix, are useful things

A movie actress without a pair of brows to send upward, pull together or pucker along with the general facial contortion would be as bad as an emotional actor without a heaving chest.

Facial expresion needs eyebrows, and facial expression is coming back in style.

THE WORLD'S OPEN SORE.

Quivering in every nerve, and every vein
Starting, and throbbing, from the cruel strain,
Of war's grim struggle, and convulsive strife
Which to the dregs has drained her very life,
Fainting and stunned, the world exhausted lies
Prone, with scarce vital vigour, to arise;
Deep in her bosom, bleeding and unbound
Gaping, unmollified, a ghastly wound.

Ho! ye who pass, unheeding, careless by
For help an dsuccor, hark the bitter cry;
If hearts be yours of tender Christ-like mould
With sweet compassion, these direful ills, behold
He proves Himself a friend in deed,
Who mercy shows in time of human need;
And Heaven's blessing on the hands that pour
Soft soothing balm on the world's open sore.

A MARCHING SONG FOR ENGLAND IN TH EAST

From Egypt into China they have builded them a wall;
They have held the front of Eden from the Teuton and his thrall;
On the snowy stairs of Elburz you may hear the bugles
"Ye are safe! Be at ease! Ye are safe."
There are gardens in the Southland where the Tartar may not go;
There is dewy corn in Babel where the desert used to blow;
In the vineyards over Gaza you may see the grapes aglow;
"Ye are safe! Be at ease! Ye are safe."
You shall watch the ships adrifting with the Tigris underkeel;
In the crooked streets of Bagdad you shall see the camels kneel
With the good things out of Persia that the robber could not steal;
"Ye are safe! Be at ease! Ye are safe."
In the brain of wounded England lay the silence for a span;
Then she rose and wrought a marvel by the steppes of Tukestan;
O ye women-folk of Irak Ot ye chillren of Iran!
"Ye are safe! Be at ease! Ye are safe."

BAB PLANS A SOCIAL CAREER FOR HERSELF AND HER BOY

CHAPTER LVIII.

When Neil returned after taking Lorraine home, I thought I would ask him where he had been, and who he had been with. But he scarcely had taken off his coat before he said:

"I can see by your face that you want to talk, Bab, but I am in no mood for conversation. I had a very unpleasant evening, and if you don't mind I will go to immediately to bed."

My wits went wool gathering. I forgot everything I wanted to say and meekly returned:

"Very well, I won't talk if you don't want me to."

"I certainly don't—not to-night."

He had said he had spent an unpleasant evening. I was positive he had not been with Blanche Orton because of what Lorraine had said. If he were really tired and worried I did not want to add to his anxieties in any way. I had read often, in stories of married life, that when a man came home tired, the best, the only thing, a wife could do was to keep still. So I kept still.

It takes a woman a long time to "get onto" all the little kinks in her husband's nature. I had not yet become accustomed to all of them in Neil's. But one thing I had soon learned: If he were either tired or sleepy, it was of no use to try to talk to him. I might talk, surely; but he paid not the slightest attention, and would often leave me in the middle of a sentence.

I wondered what the business could have been, that it should have given him a disagreeable evening. That it was anything but business, I never dreamed because I thought I knew he had not been with Blanche Orton. Just why I should have believed her the only woman who might interest Neil, I could not have explained, but the fact remained. Aside from Blanche Orton, I had never felt the slightest twinge of jealousy of any other woman, although Neil was a great favorite with them, and was always joking and "carrying on" as mother would say. But there was a something about him, about his manner when with Mrs. Orton, that was entirely different than when with others. At least it seemed so to me.

So above and beyond everything else, I had the feeling that if I could keep Neil and Blanche Orton apart I would have no cause for anxiety.

As I have said, I had begun to plan a social career. At first it was with baby Robert's future in view. But I soon wanted it for myself. I would show them that I did not only have money, but that I had position. I urged Neil to buy a house on a fashionable street a little east of the Avenue, and hire expensive decorators to do it over. Then, when it was ready, I indulged in a perfect riot of spending, assisted by Lorraine Morton who had exquisite taste.

Nothing was too good for me. Indeed, it was a task to find things which were good enough. Lorraine who was one of the elect socially, had assured me that she would sponsor me in such a way that I would soon have a select circle of friends.

I was delighted that we were able to gratify my expensive tastes. How little I realized that money does not really get people anything! I could not have believed then, so wrapt up was I in worldly things, but I firmly believe now; that more married people are separated by wealth, especially if it be quickly acquired than by the direst poverty. As long as there is necessity for struggle, husbands and wives bear the struggle together. Their lives are so entwined by necessity, that, they never get far from each other in thought or in action. Everything that affects one also affects the other. It is a matter of mutual concern how every dollar is spent.

But with a plethora of money their interests are apt to diverge. Each make new friends, who, while not perhaps intending to, help to lead them farther afield in their lives together. Before they realize it he is going his way, she hers. They have no little problems to talk over; they neither earn, save, or spend together. They forget to consult each other over the things they do, the money they spend; it isn't necessary. So it had been with us in all the small things of life, and it was fast becoming so with the big things. For, while I planned my campaign I was so interested that I almost failed to notice when Neil remained out, or what time he came in.

HOLD ON TO BALTIC LANDS.

German Troops Refuse to Obey Orders to Withdraw, It is Asserted.

Mitau, Aug. 29.—The German Government has ordered the withdrawal of the troops from the Baltic lands. The troops, however, declared that they had resolved to remain and take advantage of the promise of the Lettish Government to grant citizenship if they settled there.

Field Marshal von de Goltz, although ordered not to return to Mitau, went back on his own responsibility, declaring that he would use his influence with the men. In the meantime disturbances between the Lettish and German troops occurred and Lettish headquarters was plundered. Von de Goltz then apologized.

Efforts are being continued to restore order and discipline among the Germans.

Cocoanut Oil Fine For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else, that contains too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.

A "WEAR-HOUSE" OF FACTS

An apron is the first article of clothing mentioned in history.

Kid gloves, with hand-painted backs, were once a great craze on the Continent.

Pins were first used in England in 1543, before which time the ladies used "skewers."

Veils were originally worn by Jewish matrons with the idea of covering up their hair.

Ten goats' fleeces are required to make a cashmere shawl, which takes three men six months to complete.

The red hat of the cardinal is said to cost him at least £500; in some cases being more than a king pays for his crown.

Millinery comes from the word "Milan," which city at one time gave the fashion to Europe in all matters of taste in woman's dress.

Two rare pearl earrings, low-necked blouses, oblong collars of gold, set with jewels, and false, red hair, were some of the things Queen Elizabeth wore in her 67th year.

Silk stockings were first worn by the French King in 1461. The steel frame for weaving them was invented by the Rev. Mr. Lee, of Cambridge, in 1589, and Queen Elizabeth was the first person to wear silk and open-work stockings in England.

Silk dresses are said to act as good as any barometer for ewather forecasting. They rustle much more loudly in dry weather, because they are almost devoid of moisture, and the friction between their folds is considerable. In damp weather, the silk is said to absorb a portion of the moisture and become more silent.

BULL SOLD FOR $65,000.

Brings Top Price in Record Sale of Jerseys for $138,500.

NEW YORK.—A record sale of Jersey cattle took place yesterday at the farm of Edmund Butler, a breeder and importer of cattle at Mount Kisco, N.Y. The total sale amounted to $138,500 for forty-eight Jerseys, an average of $2,885 for each animal. One bull, Sybyl's Gamboge, brought the record price of $65,000. Up to yesterday the top price was paid for Financial Circle, sold last year for $50,000 by the Waterloo Jersey Farm at Waterloo, Iowa. Sybyl's Gamboge was

CITY ATTRACTIONS.

The illustration of the sea-bird drawn to its doom by the glare of the beacon light finds no truer prototype than in the case of the country girl lured from her home by dreams of fortune to be realized in the great city. As ignorant of the wiles of evil as the mouse is of the mechanism of a trap, unsophisticated in the blandishments of sins; holding blankly to the belief that sheep and goats never mingle she drops into a maelstrom of a city existence as a snowflake settles into the river. "One moment white, then gone forever." There lie in wait for innocence, the wide world over, a legion of plotting devils arrayed in livery of light, honest appearing advertisements that are tent hooks with which the devil angles for souls; employers who scarcely take the pains to hide the fangs of wolves behind their smiling lips; boarding houses infested with other and more hideous vermin than the rat and the roach; companionship of more fatal effect to the soul than hydrant water to the health; counsellors who spin viewless webs and plot ruin as the spider works destruction to the stupid fly. All these, and a great many more pitfalls lie in the way of the country girl as she turns her light step from the cowslip and the green turf to take her place in the ranks of those who walk the path of daily toil.

* * *

In the ideal home the ruling principle will be love. Love to the Supreme Ruler of the universe and love for each member of the family. Here the golden rule will be followed in all the intercourse of one with another. Perfect harmony exists between the parents in regard to the management of household affairs and the training of the children. The same rules of courtesy will be observed that we expect to find in society.

* * *

Girls, listen to your mothers; you will never regret it. No matter what your advantages are above what hers were, you are no better. You can rest assured that it is no book learning or knowledge of fashion that will keep your feet away from the many pitfalls that she can warn you from, in a tender, loving fashion, that you would do well to heed. No matter how mothers may speak, you may rest assured their hearts are in the right place, and that they want their daughters to be innocent and good, rather than fashionable.

* * *

Better appreciate your mother before your appreciation of her will be no kindness to her, and the post mortem regrets will be more and more of an agony as the years pass on. Big headstones of polished Aberdeen and the best epitaphs which the family put together could compose and a garland of whitest roses from the conservatory are often the attempt to atone for the thanks we ought to have uttered in living ears and the kind words that would have done more good than all the calla lilies ever piled up on the silent mounds of the cemeteries.

* * *

The difference between good and bad mothers, is so vast and far-reaching that it is no exaggeration to say that the good mothers of this generation are building the homes of the next generation, and the bad mothers are building the prisons. For out of families nations are made; and if the father be the head and the hands of the family, the mother is the heart. No office in the world is so honorable as hers, no priesthood so holy, no influence so sweet and strong and lasting.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON FOR WEEK

The Kingdom of God. Matt. 6, 10; 13, 31-33, 44-50; 18, 2, 3. Luke 17, 20, 21. 2 Cor., 10, 3-5.

Golden text: Seek ye first his kingdom, and his righteousness. Matt 6, 33.

1. Matt. 6. 10. What is the precise thought we should have in our minds when we pray, "Thy kingdom come?"
2. When may we expect God's kingdom to be established on the earth and what sort will it be?
3. Matt. 13: 31, 32. What was the human strength or power, in the beginning, through which Christianity was established on the earth?
4. Matt. 13: 31, 32. What is the human strength or power of the Christian Church to-day?
5. What are the total forces to-day, human and Divine, engaged in establishing the kingdom of heaven on the earth?
6. Matt. 13: 33. What is the influence of the gospel upon a man and a nation?
7. What evidence is there that the righteous flavour of the gospel will permeate the world, "till the whole lump is leavened?"
8. Matt. 13: 44-46. What is the chief treasure of the gospel?
9. When a man is charmed with Christ and his gospel, what must he part with in order to be a Christian?
10. Matt. 13: 47-50. In what respects is the gospel like a drag net in the sea?
11. Matt. 13: 47-50. Why is it that some who are caught in the gospel net will not finally be saved?
12. When will the end of the world take place?
13. "Fire" is frequently used as an emblem for purifying; in what sense does Christ here use it?
14. Matt. 18: 2, 3 According to Christ's conception what relation does a child bear to the kingdom of heaven?
15. In what respects is it necessary for sinners to turn, and to become like a little child, before they can "enter into the kingdom of heaven?"
16. Luke 17: 20, 21. How can you explain the words of Jesus that, "the kingdom of God is within you?"
17. 2 Cor. 10: 3-5. What does it mean to "walk in the flesh," and not to "war after the flesh?"
18. What are the weapons with which true Christians fight their battles?
19. In what two senses does Paul here and elsewhere use the word "flesh?" (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by the members of the club).
20. How is it possible for us to think the thoughts, and speak the words exactly as God would have us do?

Lesson for Sunday, Sept. 14, 1919. The Future Life. Matt. 25: 31-46; John 14: 2, 3; 2 Cor. 5: 10; 1 Peter 1: 3-5.

Except to pay the damages. Mine is a queer position;
The Fates unite to squeeze me till I couldn't well be flatter,
But I'm only a consumer, so it really doesn't matter.

The baker tilts the price of bread upon the vaguest rumor
Of damage to the wheat crop, but I'm only a consumer,
So it really doesn't matter, for there's n olaw that compels me
To pay the added charges on the loaf of bread he sells me.
The iceman leaves a smaller piece when days are growing hotter,
But I'm only a consumer and I do not need ice water.
My business is to draw the checks and keep in a good humor,
And it really doesn't matter, for I'm only a consumer.

The milkman waters milk for me, there's garlic in my butter,
But I'm only a consumer, or it does no good to mutter.
I know that coal is going up and beef is getting higher,
But I'm only a consumer and I have no need of fire,
And beefsteak is a luxury that only wealth is needing;
I'm only a consumer and I have no need of feeding.
My business is to pay the bills and keep in a good humor,
For I have no other mission since I'm only a consumer.

The grocer sells me addled eggs, the tailor sells me shoddy,
But I'm only a consumer, and I am not anybody.
The cobbled pegs me paper soles, the dairyman shortweights me,
I'm only a consumer, and 'most everybody hates me.
There's turnip in my pumpkin pie and ashes in my pepper,
The world's my lazaretto and I'm nothing but a leper.
So lay me in my lonely grave and tread the earth down flatter—
I'm only a consumer and it really doesn't matter.

VANDERBILT GIVES MILLIONS TO DAUGHTER?

Said to be for Renovation of the Duchess's London Home, Sunderland House

Paris—Despite the income tax levy of 70 per cent. American millionaires pay, there seems to be no lack of funds among them. This is evidenced by the recent gift of $15,000,000 to the Duchess of Malborough, the former Consuelo Vanderbilt, by her father, William K. Vanderbilt, Sr.

Vanderbilt, who is now in his villa outside Deauville, sent this gift to his daughter to help renovate her London home, Sunderland House.

MUSIC IN THE HOME

HELPFUL HINTS FOR PARENTS AND STUDENTS

The teacher is the guide in the artistic development of his student and should, therefore, see to it that his pupils atend concerts and recitals and come in contact with musicians. He should have many class gatherings where the students shall play for each other, and should encourage than to appear in public whenever possible so that they may get that particular training. Furthermore, he should lay out a plan of readings, in music and the allied arts, painting, sculpture, literature, etc., for his students; should occasionally talk to them about these and point out their inter-relation and connection. And lastly should advise the parents of pupils to interest themselves in the musical education of their children, and encourage them. that they, the parents, should read up on the subject and discuss it with their children so that music may become a live factor in the home. How, indeed, can the student be expected to do anything when the parents themselves do not display the slightest interest in the subject?

PIANO PRACTICE HAS PRACTICAL VALUE

Piano lessons are of greatest benefit during childhood or youth, the opportune time for acquiring fundamental knowledge of any subject, the magic period when the senses are most alert, the brain cells most plastic and the muscles most tractable; and when awakening elemental impulses and desires can be deepened, purified, softened and dignified by daily access to the greatest music and contact with the minds which produce it, noble artists who help us build what Ruskin describes as "treasure houses of precious and restful thoughts, which care cannot disturb, nor pain make gloomy, nor poverty take away from us—houses built without hands, for our souls to live in."

Thoughtful parents, therefore, will provide piano instruction for their children (and the public school should make this possible in every case). Our children will thus acquire a valuable accomplishment as well as a pleasant occupation for hours which might otherwise be unprofitably spent. Their young minds will be disciplined, their powers of concentration augmented and their wills invigorated, their muscles will receive valuable exercise, they will acquire remarkable sense training and hand culture, and also acquaintance with our most fundamental, scientific and intimate art. Many great men of all times have considered music a profitable study. A no less eminent philosopher and educator than Plato, himself a musician, said: Musical training is a more potent instrument than any other, because rhythm and harmony find their way into the secret places of the soul, on which they mightily fasten."

Music is like a narcotic, once you get the habit you cannot give it up. But it's a good habit.

Did you ever think of it in this way? Your piano is your orchestra. It's 88 notes are the 88 pieces of the orchestra.

A family may start out with all ragtime and popular music but eventually will come to want the better music.

Every layman, who has lots of music in his home is a better prospect for attendance at concerts, recitals and the opera

Every profesional singer, pianist, violinist, 'cellist, or musician of any kind, should be thankful every time they see a piano, player piano, phonograph or stringed instrument go into a man's home. It means a greater love for music.

How music's influence for good on one's temperament acts is well illustrated by a celebrated s prano, who said: "I feel when I sing that if I could do that thing always I never could have an unkind or cross thought to anyone; the very best in me comes uppermost when I try to deliver the message whatever it may be, in the song I sing."

The numbers of pictures one sees in the papers and the incidents one reads that show the happy home life of so many of the celebrated musicians of both sexes, make the following view expresed by a woman artist seem extreme—very extreme: "I don't believe in the married state of artists, certainly not for opera singers. For see, no woman no matter what her personality may be, can do full ustice to both spheres. It is either her household, her husband or her children who will suffer if deprived of her influence on account of her operatic duties; or, on the other hand, it will be her are that is bound to be curtailed by an insufficient devotion resulting from her matrimonial obligations. Art, especially musical art, as you know, is a very jealous mistress that will brook no rivals."

THE CHILD'S MUSIC LESSON

Frim the beginsing train the child to regard the music lesson in precisely the same way as the spelling lesson. The word "receive" is much more difficult than the word "ten." The child repeats, reiterates "receive" to "ten" once. This rule applies rigidly to the music lesson. Do not play the simple measures as often as the difficult ones; pick out the stumbling measures and play them over ten, fifteen times, still perfected, then the entire phrase. Fifteen minutes of such work is worth two hours of the ordinary practice. Constantly impress upon the child the necessity for using the same common sense in practising a music lesson as in studying a spelling lesson.

TREES FOR ROADSIDE SHADE

If we insist on the practical and utilitarian side of the propaganda for the shaded road, it is not because of any lack of apreciation for trees. To the tree forester a perfect oak or pine is more beautiful than the most splendid iris, the most impasioned rose; it touches springs of feeling far tenderer and deeper. No revelation of character is more significant or more sure than when a man (or, as sometimes happens, a woman) prefers a grove to a garden. But with regard to trees it is doubly important to make sure that the result of our striving shall be beauty. Mere enthusiasm, however persuasive, will not carry one far in an endeavor the time unit of which is, at the least, a generation.

Several grains of salt may well be taken with Mr. Henry Woodward Hulbert's suggestion that our roads be shaded with nut trees. The chestnut is, for the present day, at least, hopelessly out of the question. In most districts about New York, the Japanese blight has left not a single tree untouched, and once touched the tree is doomed. In some places seedlings have sprung up after the blight has apparently passed, but in the end, they, too, succumb. It will be many years, perhaps decades, before a beechnut tree is safe. The case of the butternut is similar, though little attention is paid to the fact. In many districts most of the trees are dead, and scarcely one if them remains untouched. Of late years the virulence of the blight is apparently lessening For the present, at least, young trees, even offshoots from the roots of old trees that have died, are making a healthy growth. But, in our present state of knowledge of the causes of decay, it would be a hardy forester who planted a roadside with butternuts.

The hickory also has a mortal enemy, the black beetle. In several districts near New York every tree has died. In other districts a tree or two succumb and the beetle flies on, leaving the tree untouched. But no owner of the hickory grove sleep secure, for he knows that his only safeguard is a constant watch against the fine castings of the borer, and the immediate and merciless sacrifice of every tree infected. The black walnut is rare in these parts, requiring moist, rich soil, generally in the lowlands, but it is a handsome tree and well worth experiment. Much the same is true of the beech. In Westchester County it sometimes, though rarely, grows wild; and in artificial plantations, as in the ancient and largely abandoned estates on Pelham Bay, there are magnificent beeches, a century old and more, the branches of which touch the lawn in a wide circle about the beautiful trunk. But it is a difficult tree to establish, and the bark is always a temptation to the jack knife sentimentalist, who carves it with bleeding hearts and initials, which are beautiful, no doubt, to the carver, but to him alone.

Not only the nut tree itself, but its fruit has remorseless enemies. No bit of slang is more graphic than the word "nut" as applied to a man whose intellectuals are wormeaten. Only constant attestion and regular spraying will insure a crop—no small matter in the case of trees that often exceed 100 feet in height. We have no wish to act as kill-joy, nothing would give greater pleasure than to be assured on authority that the roadside nut tree and also the roadside fruit tree, is the most practical of possibilities. Both have elements of matchless beauty and worth. But we suggest firmly, however humbly, that the experiment is one for expert judgment to begin with and for expert control through all its early stages. Let it be tried, by all means, but with no illusions as to the care and risk involved. A bare road is better than an avenue of diseased and dying trees.

The maple and the oak, even the pine, seldom impose a burden beyond the knowledge of the local amateur, or beyond his devotion. They have alluring exercise of the golf links, comparison to the nut trees are virtually immune. The chief danger is that which strikes into the heart from decaying limbs. Throughout the land many men and some women have given over tennis, even the allurig exercise of the golf links, in order to carry an extension ladder through the woodland and minister with pruning saw, chisel and paint brush to the noblest of all things that grow, and the most beautiful.—New York Times.

STORING FOR WINTER

Valuable Hints on Canning Fruits and Vegetables.

Vegetables to Be Stored for Winter In Cellars Must Be Sound and Handled Without Bruising—Green Peas, Beans and Corn May Be Successfully Preserved by Placing In Cans and Heating Three Times.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

IN the storing of roots, tubers, cabbage and celery it is a comparatively simple matter if the materials are sound to begin with. Although the decay-producing bacteria, yeasts and molds are always on these they cannot do any injury until the materials are first damaged in some way as by bruising, beating or freezing. After such injury has been done the decay bacteria and molds are able to feed on the damaged tissue and as a result of this action, decay or rot takes place and gradually spreads until all is spoiled.

Therefore, in storing roots, tubers, cabbage or celery, it is necessary,—

1st. To have only sound, healthy specimens.

2nd. To handle with care so as not to bruise or otherwise damage the tissues.

3rd. Store in a cool, well-ventilated place where there will be no danger of either overheating or freezing.

Overheating or freezing will usually kill the living tissue of which the roots are composed, after which they will readily decay as a result of the rapid multiplication of bacteria and molds in the dead tissues.

In the preservation of such vegetables as green peas, beans, asparagus and green corn, different measures are necessary. These are green and juicy and if stored in the fresh condition they will either wilt or ferment and rot. This fermentation and rotting is due to the development in the mass of the bacteria which are present on the vegetables. There will be sufficient moisture present in the mass to enable the bacteria to multiply and feed on the material and thus induce the rot.

So in order to preserve such vegetables in the fresh condition the bacteria present have to be all killed and all other bacteria prevented from getting on the material until it is to be used. To get satisfactory results from canning vegetables it is necessary to have—

1st. Good sound, healthy vegetables.

2nd. Good clean sealers with tight-fitting tops and good rubbers.

3rd. Wash the vegetables and fill into the sealers.

4th. Cover with water salted to taste.

5th. Put on the tops and leave slightly loose.

6th. Place sealers in a steamer or boiler half filled with cold water and heat to the boiling point for half an hour.

7th. Remove sealers from boiler or steamer and tighten down the tops.

8th. After 24 hours loosen the tops and return to the boiler or steamer and give another half hour's boiling.

9th. Repeat this process after another 24 hours. Then tighten down the tops and place away.

In the storing of such fruits as apples and pears, which can be stored without canning, we have to prevent the development of molds and yeasts. These are always present on the surface of the fruit. Bacteria do not damage fruits as they do vegetables or meats on account of the sugar and acid nature of the fruits, which is not satisfactory for bacterial development but is just what is needed for molds and yeasts. But even molds and yeasts will not develop on sound apples and pears that are properly stored. If, however, the fruit is damaged in the picking, handling or packing, then the bruised spots enable the mold spores or yeast cells that are on the surface to germinate and grow and multiply, and when once they get a start they will continue to spread even through the sound healthy tissue and from fruit to fruit until the whole pack may be spoiled.

Therefore in the storing of such fruits as apples and pears it is essential:

1st. To have only sound specimens.

2nd. To pack carefully without bruising.

3rd. To store in a cool, well-ventilated place, where they will be neither overheated or frozen.

Such fruits as strawberries, raspberries, plums, peaches, currants, blueberries, etc., which are soft, cannot be kept any length of time without fermenting or moulding unless they are canned.

These fruits may be cooked in a fruit kettle, sugar added to taste, and filled hot direct from the kettle into sterilized sealers removed direct from scalding water. The covers, rings and rubbers should be put on at once direct from scalding water and screwed down tightly.

Another way to preserve such fruits is by the cold pack method. In this method the fruits are not cooked before putting into the sealer. Sound fruit not overripe should be used. This is picked over and filled directly into clean sealers. Stone fruit should be pitted.

A syrup of sugar and water sweetened to taste is then filled into sealers so as to completely cover the fruit. The tops, rubbers and rings are put on, but not screwed down tightly. The sealers are then placed in a boiler containing cold water and this is brought to a boil and kept boiling for half an hour. The sealers are then removed and the tops screwed down tightly at once. When cooled, store away.—Prof. D. H. Jones, O. A. College, Guelph.

Music In The Home

NO CHILD NATURALLY HATES MUSIC

So pressing has the cause of music grown in its relation to the general education of the children that the possibilities of class teaching are being delved into in more detail than ever before. "There is too much work done "individually" that could be done more effectively in class" asserted Professor W. A. Laver of the Melbourne University Conservatorium of Music in the course of an address lately, "for instance, ear training, the elements of music cultivation of the rhythmic sense, unfortunately a great weakness of the Australian. When the child has reached a certain point, then it could with advantage receive individual instruction."

"Many children study music who simply hate it. And why, Simply because in many cases it has not been presented to them in an interesting form. There are very few children who really naturally hate music. I have never met any myself. I consider that the appreciation classes would prove invaluable and much more important for children than the continual hum-drum drudgery of five-finger exercises. When children appreciate performances, a natural desire will arise to master the technique sufficiently to expres their own ideas of the pieces heard.

"There is another matter concerning schools on musical education on which I would like to say a few words. It is the method of examining the years work done by the school. Examinations may be very helpful, and they may be very harmful. It depends entirely on the method of examination. I fear that some colleges and private teachers do not want the knowledge of their pupils properly tested. Rather do they want results as a means of self-advertisement. This is a deplorable state of affairs, and any system which encourages such false aims should be wiped out."

A HINT FOR BENEFIT OF NEWLY ORGANIZED BANDS

A newly organized bands should meet at least twice a week for a two hour rehearsal. In order that all concerned may get the full benefit of these rehearsals with a minimum loss of time, the bandmaster should encourage the members of the band to study scales and individual band parts at home, and should endeavor to stimulate among his men a pride in the organization and its work, pointing out the necessity for each member to learn his part well, no matter how simple. It is a well-known fact that subordinate parts, such as are allotted to the second and and third cornets, second and third altos, second and third trombones, etc., must be properly played with respect to tune, evenness and balance of tone. Otherwise the ensemble is ruined and the work of the leading instruments in the band no matter how well it may be done will be ineffective.

SOME THINGS EVERY ORGANIST SHOULD KNOW

Registration should not be studied until the ground work of organ playing has been gained. If attempted too soon there will always be hesitancy, and the phrasing will be interrupted each time a change of combination is sought after. There should be symmetry and poise the same as is maintained in orchestral playing, and this is possible to acquire readily if one is prepared for it A large help is in listening to the world's greatest organists, and in becoming familiar with the best in organ music. Attendance at orchestral concerts gives an idea of tone color and should always be taken advantage of. Study the mechanism of the instrument, and know exactly what each set of pipes represents. Then the art of combining them will depend on the ability of the player and his artistic taste.

IN SIX-EIGHT TIME

One can hardly believe it of Mr. Handel, but we are told that once he threatened to throw an artist out of the window because she would not sing his music the way he wrote it.

In his later years Gounod turned almost entirely to the production of sacred music. His most famous religious piece was "Ave Maria".

It is said of Rubinstein that when he wanted a new suit he sent for the tailor and handed him a old suit with instructions to make the new one just like it.

One day Tschaikowwshy heard a plasterer, singing beneath the window, a sad and beautiful song which, try as he would, he could not forget. This song, a song beloved of the Russian peasants, became the substance of the "Andante Cantabile" of his quartette.

W. S. Gilbert, of Gilbert and Sullivan fame, in his earlier days took to law. In two years as a barrister he earned it is said almost $375. It is not to be wondered at, therefore, that he decided upon a change of employment.

"The Last Rose of Summer" got its name, from a lyric by Tom Moore set to a melody originally called "The Groves of Blarney." Beethoven was attracted to this melody and he arranged it as a song for voice with piano accompaniment Flotow made use of it in its entirety in his opera "Martha."

Bellini of "I Puritani" fame was the son of a musician and the grandson of a musician. He began to compose at the age of six. But his father could not afford to educate the boy musically, so he petitioned the municipality to send his son to Naples, which was granted when young Bellini was 17. He quickly won fame and influential friends.

"The fact is, that after a long period of careful observation of all types of teaching, I have decided that music is undoubtedly the best all-round subject for training children in quickness of perception, in rapidity of co-ordination and in a keener observation of symmetry and unity that we teach in our public schools,' says K. W. Gehrkens, educator, author and member of the faculty of the Oberlin Conservatory of music.

PROSPECT OF TEN MILLION IMMIGRANTS

That 10,000,000 people will emigrate from the continent of Europe when restrictions are removed is indicated by information said to have been gathered by the British Government.

In many quarters the common opinion has been directly to the contrary, that with the heavy war losses and the need for rebuilding Europe on solid foundations again, all the male population would be required for a long time to come. And not only so, but in the United States and Canada the tendency has been to discourage the presence and citizenship of alien Europeans, at least on this continent, even to the extent of deporting many of them.

Advices from London, Eng., are to the effect that "Living conditions all over the continent are so bad and the promise of relief in the immediate future so slight that hundreds of thousands are expected to emigrate from all the European countries.

"Shortage of food, lack of production and unsettled political and social conditions are expected to last for a long time ahead all ober Europe. Even now passenger ships are booked months ahead of sailing time, but there are not enough ships even for carrying the most important and immediate traffic."

If this is a correct summing up of the situation, it points to what may indeed prove a serious situation. The time is rapidly approaching when the United States will not be able to feed itself, through the development of the urban life at the expense of the rural life. Add to this general condition the sudden influx of middle-Europeans who would not go to the farms and work and you at once have a condition of food shortage that will mean high priced food while the labor market is at the same time depressed by an abundance of cheap labor.

And add to this the "ideals" that the newcomers would bring in vast bulk to the continent, in the way of advanced socialistic ideas or possibly a feeling of blind discontent that would be far from divine, and you have a situation that would demand solution by the best thought of the country.

And in all this it is reasonable to expect that Canada will share to a large degree—adding one more to the perplexing proplems of Canada's nationhood.

SMALL FORTUNE FOR HIS ALSIKE.

Mr. Teel carried home the handsome sum of $2,113 for his load.

COMB SAGE TEA INTO GRAY HAIR

Darkens Beautifully and Restores Its Natural Colour and Lustre at Once.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea, with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use preparation improved by the addition of other ingredients, costing about 50 cents a large bottle, at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, no one can tell, because it does it so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small stand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared. After another application or two your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant and you appear years younger. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite. It is not intended for the cure mitigation or prevention of disease.

DRINK HOT WATER IF YOU DESIRE A ROSY COMPLEXION

Says we can't help but look better and feel better after an inside bath.

To look one's best and feel one's best is to enjoy an inside bath each morning to flush from the system the previous day's waste, sour fermentations and poisonous toxins before it is absorbed into the blood. Just as coal when it burns, leaves behind a certain amount of incombustible material in the form of ashes, so the food and drink taken each day leave in the alimentary organs a certain amount of indigestible material, which if not eliminated, form toxins and poisons which are then sucked into the blood through the very ducts which are intended to such in only nourishment to sustain the body.

If you want to see the glow of healthy bloom in your cheeks, to see your skin get clearer and clearer, you are told to drink every morning upon arising, a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, which is a harmless means of washing the waste material and toxins from the stomach liver, kidneys and bowels, thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary tract, before putting more food into the stomach.

Men and women with sallow skins, liver spots, pimples or pallid complexion, also those who wake up with a coated tongue, bad taste, nasty breath, others who are bothered with headaches, bilious spells, acid stomach or constipation should begin this phosphated hot water drinking and are assured of very pronounced results in one or two weeks.

A quarter pound of limestone phosphate costs very little at the drug store but is sufficient to demonstrate that just as soap and hot water cleanses purifies and freshens the skin on the outside, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the inside organs. We must always consider that internal sanitation is vastly more important than outside cleanliness, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, while the bowel pores do

WANT ELECTRIC RAILWAY SERVICE WITH COBOURG AND KAWARTHA LAKES

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE ON TRANSPORTATION TO THE PETERBORO BOARD OF TRADE.

Last evening the Committee on Transportation submited the following report at a general meeting of the Board of Trade:

To the Council and Members of the Board of Trade:

Your committee on transportation respectfully reports that during the short time it was organized, and with the advent of the vacation period, it has not been possible to take up many problems which affect this city and county, as a whole, but we hope to deal with these in the near future in their order.

The first complaint which reached your committee was in regard to the late arrival of the C.P.R. local from Toronto. On the representations of your committee, assisted by other members of the board, Mr. W. B. Howard, D.P.A., C.P.R., consented to set this train ahead from 9.25 p.m. to 8.10 p.m. arrival at Peterborough, cutting 10 minutes off the running time.

Next was the application of the Express Traffic Association of Canada to the Board of Railway Commissioners for approval of Sup. 13 to express classification No. 3. The important feature of this supplement was that the express companies proposed to refuse to carry any piece of freight in excess of 500 lbs. Your committee made representations to the Board of Railway Commissioners objecting to this arbitrary rule, and, as a result, this restriction was modified to the extent that the shipper and consignee of such pieces of freight may do their own carting and then the express companies must not refuse to accept such articles.

Car Service Rules.

The third proposition was an application to the Board of Railway Commissioners for a modification of Rule 9 of the Canadian Car Service rules. This Board, in conjunction with Toronto Board of Trade, Canadian Manufacturers' Association and Dominion Millers' Association, made personal representation at Ottawa before the Chief Commissioner, but in view of the fact that the United States Railroad Administration had embargoed Canadian grain through American ports this year, it, therefore, resulted that the Commissioners did not feel justified at this time in making any reduction in car service charges. Normally 6 per cent. of our gran crop passes to the ocean transport through American ports and a severe car shortage may soon be expected in Canada, resulting from the action of American railroads.

Fourth, your committee urged an improvement of the freight seservice on the C.P.R. to and out of Peterborough between Montreal and Toronto. A conference was held with Mr. Humphries, superintendent, C.P.R., Mr. Girouard, assistant superintendent, and Mr. W. S. Dodd, local agent. The results of this conference are that Mr. Humphrey is endeavouring to settle this matter favourably for Peterborough and will advise us the results of his investigation and suggested improvement later.

Fifth, your committee recently wrote the Board of Railway Commissioners, asking that they give consideration to the matter of average car demurrage, the evidence in connection with which has been placed before them.

In addition, your committee has registered its address with the Board of Railway Commissioners, and in future will receive notices of sittings on transportation matters affecting the public. We have also filed our address with the chairman of the Canadian Freight Association and, in future, supplements and re-issues of the Canadian freight classification will be submitted to us in proof form, which will enable your committee to examine and register any objections with the Board of Railway Commissioners or with the Canadian Freight Association, and appear before either bodies when necessity demands it.

Recommendations.

First: Your committee feels that the council of this Board should consider making representations to the Government, urging them to vigorously prosecute the building of our Canadian Merchant Marine. The embargo instituted by the United States Railroad Administration has the effect of limiting our possibilities of a world market as our tide water ports have not enough elevator accommodation for our entire crop on a prompt movement basis. The Government should also be pressed to extend their activity to establishing a Merchant Marine connecting Port Arthur and Fort William with the British Isles and other world markets, by all water routes.

Second: Your committee recommend prompt action, in conjunction with our municipal officials and those of the other municipalities affected, in pressing our claims on the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario for electric railway service with Cobourg and north from this city into as a part of the Kawartha Regional Plan, thereby giving us a direct connection from our unrivalled chain of lakes and rivers, with the States of New York, Pennsylvania, and New England. This offers a shorter and quicker route than the Buffalo gateway and would prove exceedingly popular.

Third: In the matter of good roads your committee understands that it is the intention of the Ontario Highways Department to vigorously push the laying of a permanent highway from Toronto east, next spring; we, therefore, recommend to the Council of this Board, a newspaper propaganda setting forth our claims for a place on the Provincial Highway and back this up by energetic influence and with a representative deputation to Toronto, accompanied by the local Motor League officers, municipal authorities, County Council officials and representatives of adjacent municipalities that would benefit from good roads.

All of which is respectfully submitted for the committee.

W. S. Campbell, Chairman.

TORONTO DETECTIVE VISITS LINDSAY.

LINDSAY, September 4. — A detective from Toronto has been in Lindsay on his way to the north country in search of a party wanted in the city for theft and who it was believed was holidaying in a northern hamlet.

The accused and his wife had been carrying on systematic thieving on a large scale for some time, their loot consisting of an automobile, bonds, etc. The woman was arrested in Toronto.

Quite a few of the hats turn up in the back.

Gowns of thin fabrics continue to be sleeveless.

Some new sports skirts are even gored.

All refuse matter should be either buried or burned. When it lies about exposed it breeds flies.

RESOLUTIONS AT LABOUR CONGRESS

POLICY OF DIRECT ACTION WILL LIKELY BE REJECTED.

LONDON, Sept. 5.—Among the scores of resolutions which will be submitted before the Glasgow Congress of Trades Unions, which will open next Monday, there will be two outstanding subjects, which have been topics of the liveliest debate at all labour gatherings in recent months. They are the nationalisation of industries, like coal mines and railways, and the policy of "direct action," or employment of national strike as a weapon to enforce demands.

It is now virtually certain that the policy of "direct action" will be rejected. It was originally advocated to compel the Government to abolish Conscription, withdraw from Russian military enterprises, liberate conscientious objectors, and abstain from employing troops in industrial disputes.

The Government has already promised these reforms.

At yesterday's meeting of the Triple Alliance of Railway Employees, Transport Workers, and Miners, the majority of railwaymen supported the proposal to postpone the vote on the question of direct action.

Arthur Henderson, leader of the Labour Party in the House of Commons, speaking at London last night, characterised it as a "wise, commendable decision." He admitted that the workers must retain the right to strike for industrial purposes until the society is better organised, but they must not "set a bad example by substituting direct action for constitutional measures which are provided."

Mr. Henderson said they had to "envisage the possibility of organised labour being called to form a Government, and ask themselves whether in that case they would allow a minority in opposition to Labour's programme for social and economic betterment to defeat that policy by unconstitutional means."

BRITIAN DISCOVERED THE GEDDES FAMILY THROUGH THE WAR

Eric and Auckland Geddes Both Lived and Worked in Canada.

LONDON.—One of the useful discoveries which the war has given the British nation is the Geddes family. Sir Eric Geddes, as minister of ways and communications, and Sir Auckland Geddes, as president of the board of trade, are at the head of the two foremost departments engaged in the great work of reconstruction, while their sister is commandant of the woman's royal air force with a semi-military organization of several hundred under her control

The Geddes brothers come from Scotland, which is apt to be a guarantee of success, and before the war they were almost unknown beyond the circles of their own professions. Sir Eric Geddes was a railroad manager, and railroad magnates do not hold so large a place in the public eye in England as they do in America; smaller than a bishop or a master of foxhounds, which last is about the most purple pinnacle of distinction.

Professor at McGill.

Sir Auckland Geddes was professor of anatomy at McGill University in Montreal. Both of them acknowledging a debt to the invigorating atmosphere of the North American continent, where Eric first worked as a lumberman and later had his first railroading lessons on the Baltimore and Ohio.

Sir Eric's first billet in the Government service was for the organization and management of the hundreds of miles of railroad lines behind the British army in France, which he pulled out of something like chaos when regular staff officers had left it. Then he succeeded Arthur Balfour at the head of the admiralty, at a time when there were complaints that the navy was in the hands of a rather hidebound board of admirals and needed more ginger—which it got.

Sir Auckland entered public life in the uniform of a private soldier, but he soon graduated to the war office to be Lord Derby's right hand man in the direction of the Derby recruiting scheme. Step by step he became minister of national service, president of the local government board, minister of reconstruction and finally president of the board of trade which roughly corresponds to the department of the interior at Washington.

Two Tough Problems.

Just now the two brothers have charge of the two toughest problems of Lloyd George's administration, the reconstruction and the nationalization—or otherwise, as the issue may be decided—of the transport and mining systems of the United Kingdom, a large order.

There is little family resemblance between the brothers at first glance. Sir Eric is tall and broad of the type called massive, and looks every inch a man of big business who is used to have his own way, and when he puts his hand to the plow to drive a deep and straight furrow, but his pink smooth shaven face suggests an outdoor life more than the office. Sir Auckland also is tall and smooth shaven, but he is thin, with spectacles and a dome-like forehead, and looks very molecule a professor. Neither of them is an orator, and their parliamentary tactics display none of the subtleties of the politician, and, like President Wilson, they sit at their desks in Whitehall clad in business suits instead of ministerial livery of frock coat. Sir Eric reads his speeches in the House of Commons and reads them without a flourish of elocution, and while they are packed full of meat it is evident that, unlike Winson Churchill and Austen Chamberlain, he burns no midnight oil polishing his sentences.

It is significant of the new times that the British Government for the two most serious works of reconstruction goes outside of "the governing class" of the old nobility and the ranks of the professional politicians and selects a railroad manager and a college professor both schooled in the practical life of North America.

BOY THREW STICK, MAN LOSES EYE.

DESERONTO, September 4. — While standing on the station platform, Mr. Chas. Reid, agent of the Canadian National Railways, was the victim of a most painful accident. A number of children were playing on the platform when a fight between two dogs was started. One of the boys threw a piece of walking cane at the dogs but instead of hitting them the stick struck Mr. Reid in the eye, laying it out. First aid was rendered by Mr. Vandervort, but owing to the seriousness of the case, Mr. Reid was removed to Kingston, where the injured member was removed.

An Exposition of Modish Coats Whose Huge Collars and Snug Materials Are Particularly Inviting on Bleak Days

AN ADVANCE FALL SHOWING OF NEW MERCHANDISE

The cold cannot penetrate these smart coats of wool with their huge collars of seal or cloth. They are made to fit snugly around the neck. Comfort has sacrificed nothing to style nor has style to comfort. They embody the maximum of both. If you were to visit the exclusive shops of the worlds style centres you would find duplicate of these, for it was there that they were designed.

The popularity of Silver-tone Velour is indisputable and Delphina Blue is one of the most desirable shades in which it is produced. The back is formed of a deep yoke, from which fall graceful folds that get their fullness from the Dolman sleeves. There is a snug fitting, large collar of the material itself, a string belt, jutted pockets, and large bone buttons contribute to its charm. Price ..... $55.00

If one is partial to Brown, you will find this new shade "Elk" to be doubly enticing. This garment has a high yoke, from which fall three box pleats at the back, and is trimmed with two rows of five self-covered buttons. The Dolman sleeves contribute plenty of fullness under the arms and across the back, which is gathered in with a string belt. The collar is large and square, and of Black Seal. The entire garment is lined and interlined. The outer lining is of flowered Nippon Silk ..... Price ..... $120.00

This Coat is of Liberia Brown English Velour, and is made on the slightly bloused Russian effect. At the back and just above the belt, on either side, are a row of five Velour-covered buttons. The cuffs are five inches deep and finished with a row of four buttons. The collar is of Black Baltic Seal, and can be buttoned to fit closely. The pockets are jetted. The entire garment is lined with a floral Nippon Silk ..... Price ..... $100.00

This garment is not only stylish, but serviceable. The material (Velour) is a rich shade of Dark Green—"Cathedral" it is called. The back is formed of a wide panel, with a yoke, high up to the collar, which is Black Seal. Both panel and yoke are trimmed with clock stitching. The pockets are cut in with flaps, and the cuffs are set on with button trimming; string belt. Half lined with Grey Floral Poplin ..... Price ..... $59.00

The straight lines, full back, and Raglan sleeve of this model will captivate you straightway. The material is Burgundy Velour. Beneath the pockets on both sides is a row of ten pin tucks, running crosswise, and at the end of each is a cloth-covered button. There is a large square, convertible collar of Mole and a belt that encircles the waist and crosses in front. Price ..... $59.00

PORK PACKERS ARE NOW MAKING ROLLED OATS

BLAMES PACKERS FOR EXORBITANT PRICE OF FOOD.

(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Attributing the "exorbitant price of food to the packers in part," Mrs. Florence Kelley, secretary of the National Consumers' League to-day appeared before the Senate Agriculture committee in support of the Kenyon Packer Regulation Bill.

"For instance, we learn that the Armour Co. is now producing rolled oats," Mrs. Kelly said. Does any person believe it is in the end cheaper for oatmeal to travel from Chicago to Maine than it was to eat Maine oats there as my grandmother did?" Mrs. Kelley told the committee that centralized producers had made virtually extinct the Rhode Island oatmeal industry.

WILL COMPLY WITH DEMAND OF THE ALLIES

(United Press.)

LONDON, Sept. 5.— A News Agency despatch from Berlin reported to-day that the German government has forwarded a note to Premier Clemenceau stating that Germany will not maintain her present attitude with regard to Austrian representation in the Reichstag and that she will alter her constitution to the Allied demands.

The Allies in a recent note sent to Berlin by Premier Clemenceau demanded the elimination of the clause in the German constitution providing for Austrian delegates to the Reichstag. It was declared this clause was in violation of the peace treaty.

Was Accompanied by Ald. Phelan on Trip to Provincial Board of Health.

A very satisfactory answer from Dr. McCullough, Provincial Medical Officer of Health was reported by Alderman H. Phelan, who, with Mayor Duncan, interviewed the Doctor yesterday in connection with the proposed outfall sewer. The deputation explained the plans in view and Dr. McCullough stated that he is quite satisfied with what is being done and said that he thought the officials have taken the proper course toward starting the work.

FEW FLOWERS AT BERLIN FUNERALS

Erzberger's War Taxation Bill Hits Berlin Florists Bad.

BERLIN, Sept. 5.—Herr Hoersing, the State Commissioner for Upper Silesia, was in Berlin last week, and offered his resignation, which he withdrew on strong representations, especially from the Prussian Minister of the Interior Heine.

Erzberger's War Taxation Bill hits the florists, who will have to pay fifteen per cent. on the turnover. It is expected that the price of flowers will rise twenty-five to thirty per cent.

In consequence of this taxation a great falling off in flowers for funerals is expected.

FRENCH WASTING BREAD AND WHEAT

Fowls and Animals Fed Highly Because of Maximum Price.

PARIS, Sept. 5.— The Depeche de Eure-et-Loir, the most widely-circulated journal of La Beauce, which is the greatest corn-growing region in France, calls attention to the waste of bread and wheat that is now going on. It declares that France will be entirely without corn in April, May and June next year if such waste goes on. At present, animals from fowls to horses are fed on bread and even on wheat in preference to oats, barley and rye, on which there is no a maximum price, and which are therefore dearer than wheat. France's corn yield is one-third less this year than last.

He is still at large.

ROTTEN EGGS FOR SPEAKER

(Canadian Press.)

Pretoria, Sept. 5. — General Hertzog, South African Nationalist leader, who recently visited Europe to obtain sympathy for a project to cut off the South African Dominion from the British Empire and make it an Independent Republic, was given a discouraging reception recently in Pietermaritzburg, where he was to have been banqueted. The banquet was called off and a crowd of workmen and others rotten-egged the Hertzog party, afterwards making quite a demonstration of loyalty to Britain, singing the National Anthem, etc.

NUXATED IRON

"Nuxated Iron helps put astonishing strength and energy into the veins of men and bring roses to the cheeks of pale, nervous, run-down women," says Dr. James Francis Sullivan, formerly physician of Bellevue Hospital (Outdoor Dept.), N. Y., and Westchester County Hospital. "I prescribe it regularly in cases of depleted energy, anaemia and lack of strength and endurance. In my opinion, there is nothing like organic iron—Nuxated Iron—to quickly enrich the blood, make beautiful, healthy women and strong, vigorous, iron men." Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

SOLICIT AID FOR RETURNED MEN

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, Sept. 5.—With the view to obtaining for returned soldiers of Canada considerably more financial aid than already given, Lieut.-Colonel W. P. Purney, president of the Dominion Great War Veterans' Association, will start immediately on a speaking tour in Ontario, and then to the other provinces.

He will address meetings of citizens, and roundly criticise the Government for delay in settling the re-establishment problems, etc.

Concerted action will then follow by the G. W. V. A., if the Government does not shortly remedy things, said Purney to-day.

An Exposition of Modish Coats Whose Huge Collars and Snug Materials Are Particularly Inviting on Bleak Days

AN ADVANCE FALL SHOWING OF NEW MERCHANDISE

The cold cannot penetrate these smart coats of wool with their huge collars of seal or cloth. They are made to fit snugly around the neck. Comfort has sacrificed nothing to style nor has style to comfort. They embody the maximum of both. If you were to visit the exclusive shops of the worlds style centres you would find duplicate of these, for it was there that they were designed.

The popularity of Silver-tone Velour is indisputable and Delphina Blue is one of the most desirable shades in which it is produced. The back is formed of a deep yoke, from which fall graceful folds that get their fullness from the Dolman sleeves. There is a snug fitting, large collar of the material itself, a string belt, jutted pockets, and large bone buttons contribute to its charm. Price .... .... .... .... .... .... $55.00

If one is partial to Brown, you will find this new shade "Elk" to be doubly enticing. This garment has a high yoke, from which fall three box pleats at the back, and is trimmed with two rows of five self-covered buttons. The Dolman sleeves contribute plenty of fullness under the arms and across the back, which is gathered in with a string belt. The collar is large and square, and of Black Seal. The entire garment is lined and interlined. The outer lining is of flowered Nippon Silk .... .... .... .... Price .... .... .... .... .... .... .... .... .... .... .... .... .... .... .... .... .... $120.00

This Coat is of Liberia Brown English Velour, and is made on the slightly bloused Russian effect. At the back and just above the belt, on either side, are a row of five Velour-covered buttons. The cuffs are five inches deep and finished with a row of four buttons. The collar is of Black Baltic Seal, and can be buttoned to fit closely. The pockets are jetted. The entire garment is lined with a floral Nippon Silk ..... ..... Price ..... ..... ..... ..... ..... ..... ..... ..... ..... ..... ..... ..... $100.00

This garment is not only stylish, but serviceable. The material (Velour) is a rich shade of Dark Green—"Cathedral," it is called. The back is formed of a wide panel, with a yoke, high up to the collar, which is Black Seal. Both panel and yoke are trimmed with clock stitching. The pockets are cut in with flaps, and the cuffs are set on with button trimming; string belt. Half lined with Grey Floral Poplin ..... ..... ..... ..... ..... Price ..... ..... ..... ..... ..... ..... ..... ..... ..... ..... ..... ..... $59.00

The straight lines, full back, and Raglan sleeve of this model will captivate you straightway. The material is Burgundy Velour. Beneath the pockets on both sides is a row of ten pin tucks, running crosswise, and at the end of each is a cloth-covered button. There is a large square, convertible collar of Mole and a belt that encircles the waist and crosses in front. Price ..... ..... ..... ..... ..... ..... ..... ..... ..... $59.00

PORK PACKERS ARE NOW MAKING ROLLED OATS

BLAMES PACKERS FOR EXORBITANT PRICE OF FOOD.

(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 5.—Attributing the "exorbitant price of food to the packers in part," Mrs. Florence Kelley, secretary of the National Consumers' League to-day appeared before the Senate Agriculture committee in support of the Kenyon Packer Regulation Bill.

"For instance, we learn that the Armour Co. is now producing rolled oats," Mrs. Kelly said. Does any person believe it is in the end cheaper for oatmeal to travel from Chicago to Maine than it was to eat Maine oats there as my grandmother did?" Mrs. Kelley told the committee that centralized producers had made virtually extinct the Rhode Island oatmeal industry.

WILL COMPLY WITH DEMAND OF THE ALLIES

(United Press.)

LONDON, Sept. 5.— A News Agency despatch from Berlin reported to-day that the German government has forwarded a note to Premier Clemenceau stating that Germany will not maintain her present attitude with regard to Austrian representation in the Reichstag and that she will alter her constitution to the Allied demands.

The Allies in a recent note sent to Berlin by Premier Clemenceau demanded the elimination of the clause in the German constitution providing for Austrian delegates to the Reichstag. It was declared this clause was in violation of the peace treaty.

MAYOR BACK FROM TORONTO

Was Accompanied by Ald. Phelan on Trip to Provincial Board of Health.

A very satisfactory answer from Dr. McCullough, Provincial Medical Officer of Health was reported by Alderman H. Phelan, who, with Mayor Duncan, interviewed the Doctor yesterday in connection with the proposed outfall sewer. The deputation explained the plans in view and Dr. McCullough stated that he is quite satisfied with what is being done and said that he thought the officials have taken the proper course toward starting the work.

FEW FLOWERS AT BERLIN FUNERALS

Erzberger's War Taxation Bill Hits Berlin Florists Bad.

BERLIN, Sept. 5.—Herr Hoersing, the State Commissioner for Upper Silesia, was in Berlin last week, and offered his resignation, which he withdrew on strong representations, especially from the Prussian Minister of the Interior Heine.

Erzberger's War Taxation Bill hits the florists, who will have to pay fifteen per cent. on the turnover. It is expected that the price of flowers will rise twenty-five to thirty per cent.

In consequence of this taxation a great falling off in flowers for funerals is expected.

FRENCH WASTING BREAD AND WHEAT

Fowls and Animals Fed Highly Because of Maximum Price.

PARIS, Sept. 5.— The Depeche de Eure-et-Loir, the most widely-circulated journal of La Beauce, which is the greatest corn-growing region in France, calls attention to the waste of bread and wheat that is now going on. It declares that France will be entirely without corn in April, May and June next year if such waste goes on. At present, animals from fowls to horses are fed on bread and even on wheat in preference to oats, barley and rye, on which there is no a maximum price, and which are therefore dearer than wheat. France's corn yield is one-third less this year than last.

ROTTEN EGGS FOR SPEAKER

(Canadian Press.)

Pretoria, Sept. 5. — General Hertzog, South African Nationalist leader, who recently visited Europe to obtain sympathy for a project to cut off the South African Dominion from the British Empire and make it an Independent Republic, was given a discouraging reception recently in Pietermaritzburg, where he was to have been banqueted. The banquet was called off and a crowd of workmen and others rotten-egged the Hertzog party, afterwards making quite a demontration of loyalty to Britain, singing the National Anthem, etc.

SOLICIT AID FOR RETURNED MEN

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, Sept. 5.—With the view to obtaining for returned soldiers of Canada considerably more financial aid than already given, Lieut.-Colonel W. P. Purney, president of the Dominion Great War Veterans' Association, will start immediately on a speaking tour in Ontario, and then to the other provinces.

He will address meetings of citizens, and roundly criticise the Government for delay in settling the re-establishment problems, etc.

Concerted action will then follow by the G. W. V. A., if the Government does not shortly remedy things, said Purney to-day.

Brevity is said to be the soul of wit, but the man who is short doesn't feel funny.

BRITISH NOVELIST ASKS KNIGHTHOOD FOR WAR INVENTION

LONDON.—Charles Hannan, novelist and playwright, has demanded knighthood and a pension from the Government for himself and his wife, on the ground that he suggested to the British admiralty the advisability of using smoke boxes or smoke screens which were extensively used for the protection of British naval and merchant vessels during the latter part of the war.

He claims that he proposed this plan to Winston Churchill and the admiralty on February 6, 1915, on condition that he was to receive knighthood and a pension. Mr. Hannan says the admiralty informed him it was not prepared to adopt his proposals.

Six months later, says Mr. Hannan, he joined the admiralty, and for the first time discovered that experiments on the line suggested by him had been secretly conducted in the Mediterranean.

Mr. Hannan asserts that the first recorded use of smoke boxes in naval warfare occurred in the Battle of Jutland, May 31, 1916.

For nearly two years Mr. Hannan has been writing to Premier Lloyd George and Sir Eric Geddes, formerly first lord of the admiralty, claiming his reward. Failing he has made his claims public through London newspapers.

Nature and the Indian

The Indian never liked work but he wanted his squaw to get well as soon as possible so that she could do the work and let him hunt, therefore he dug papoose root for her, for that was their great remedy for female weaknesses.

Dr. Pierce uses the same root—called Blue Cohosh—in his "Favorite Prescription" skillfully combined with other agents that make it more effective.

Women who are worn out, who suffer from pain at regular or irregular intervals, who are nervous or dizzy at times, should take that reliable, temperance, herbal tonic which a doctor in active practice prescribed many years ago. Now sold by druggists, in tablets and liquid, as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription.

Send 10c. to Dr Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., for trial package.

Westminster, Ont.—"I cannot say enough in praise of Dr. Pierce's Medicines. ... nervous prostration and was completely ... I was so bad the doctors considered ... a hopeless case. I was much discouraged and was ready to give up when I began taking the 'Favorite Prescription' and the 'Golden Medical Discovery.' These medicines put me on my feet again and gave me the only real relief. Many a nerve I have recommended Dr. Pierce's Medicines to many, especially the 'Favorite Prescription.' I know of many a young mother to whom I have recommended 'Favorite Prescription' that has been wonderfully helped.

sens and was willing that every citizen become a member. He confessed that he never took much interest in the Board of Trade before the annual meeting last May.

The Manufacturers.

A most exhaustive report from the manufacturers' branch of the Board of Trade was presented by Chairman W. R. Breyfogle. He stated they had several problems to meet, but nothing serious and everything terminated satisfactorily. One statement that provoked applause was that one hundred per cent. of the manufacturers of the city are members of the Board of Trade, an attainment which cannot be reached by any other branch of the Board. One of the greatest problems which confronted the manufacturers was the difficulty of keeping the wheels of industry turning during this reconstruction period. It was no sinecure. There were considerable sacrifices in taking on employment and only justifiable in some cases to keep on the old, reliable men. Most of the disturbing forces came from outside the city. Their own men in a large measure have been entirely loyal. Speaking with United States' Consul Leonard he was informed that Peterborough during last quarter exported $1,000,000 worth of goods to the United States, the largest in the history of the city, and which promises to continue. It is particularly gratifying in view of the adverse rate of exchange between the United States and Canada, but it is necessary to remember that Canada is the most favoured of all "foreign" countries in United States regarding money discount. German funds are discounted at seventy-four per cent. and even the English pound at ten per cent.

Export Trade.

Mr. Breyfogle exhorted the members to the development of export trade. It provides steady employment and takes care of overhead and there is also a little extra profit. It is a favorable factor in trade development, and best of all it will eventually make the trade balance favourable. Amidst others he stated that the De Laval Company are sending their machinery to Siberia, the different countries of South America, England, France, and even Bombay, India, all developed simply through correspondence. Board Trade No 2

A Great Civic Need.

One great need for Peterborough to-day is industrial sites, and Mr. Breyfogle suggested that part, at least, of the City Trust fund be invested in industrial sites. "I know several companies in the last three weeks with millions of dollars capital, who had representatives here but could not obtain convenient sites."

Beyond the Grave.

"Two industrial sites controlled by the city are just beyond St. Peter's cemetery and Little Lake cemetery, and one manufacturer said that if he should choose here it would be like selecting a home beyond the grave."

Peterborough's Conveniences.

He also spoke of the city railroad connections, and mentioned that reliable power was greatly needed here and that sometimes the factories came to a full stop. Strangers visiting the city ask why the lights are kept burning all day. Mr. H. O. Fiske, manager of the Utilities, later in the evening explained these "thoughts electrical" to the Board and said that Peterborough notices when the power is shut off because it is so seldom, and if they lived in Western Ontario no comment would be heard, as they would be used to it.

Reasonable Taxes.

"Now, I come to taxes," continued Mr. Breyfogle. He asked that the city get what they spend their money for. "Let's do our public works free from any restraint as far as the City Engineer is concerned, free from politics or restraint. Let the business of the city be carried on in a business-like way. We need better housing; we have a fine new school, although some think it is pretty near Toronto." He complimented the School Board on their placing a three-storey fire escape on King Edward school, which was greatly needed. "We should see that the industries of the city and everything else are harmonizing for the general interests of the city of Peterborough."

The Membership.

Mr. John Crane, of the Membership committee, stated that at the inception of the Board the membership aimed at was 500, but are as yet only half way. He advocated a membership campaign and also that the Board should go beyond the city. The plan of the committee now is to list every profession and class to find out who are absentees from the membership and then go after them.

The Kawartha Plan.

An item that commanded considerable interest was one calle Kawartha plan by which the Kawartha system and Trent Canal should be advertised and boom Peterborough. A large and black map showing the waterways surrounding Peterborough showed this city's splendid water transportation facilities. Mr. Fraser the new assistant secretary of the Board of Trade, stated that the Trent Canal should be finished in one year. The region of Burleigh Falls should be advertised to get the tourists and the railroads interested so that lines might be built in that region and a good railroad hotel be built. President Turner suggested that a conference of representatives of the municipalities touching the Trent canal and the Kawartha system be called to have common action in advertising. One of the best ways would be to hold races of all sorts of motor launches, etc., with large cash prizes, which would tempt the Americans who could cross Lake Ontario and come to Peterborough via the Trent Canal.

Financial Report.

Vice-President James Barrie's report on finances was of considerable interest and urged that the present mode of fees be changed to some extent. At present a sustaining membership of $25 includes memberships for all members of the firm, and thus if there are five members they are all members of the Board of Trade for $5 each, whereas a membership fee is $10. President Turner was of the opinion that the sustaining membership should be in addition to a membership ticket of $10 from each partner in an industry. Mr. J. W. Worth strongly urged this.

Votes of appreciation were tendered the entertainers, excluding Mr. G. O. Cameron and one which was especially pleasing was a vote of thanks to the President, moved by Mr. J. J. Hartley and heartily seconded by Mr. Ryerson Ritchie, followed by "For He's a Jolly Good Fellow," and the evening was concluded by the singing of the National Anthem.

WITTY TOASTS.

Here are a few witty and amusing toasts given at banquets:

One rather cynical toast ran thus: "Woman—she requires no eulogy: she speaks for herself."

At the weddig breakfast of a deaf and dumb couple, the guest, in the speech of the evening, wished them "unspeakable bliss."

At another gathering were toasted: "The Bench and the Bar; if it were not for the bar, there would be little use for the Bench.

The following was proposed at a shoemakers' dinner: May we have all the women in the country to shoe, ad all the men to boot."

A young man referred to one member of the sex he eulogised as "a detective dear: so sweet that honey would blush in her presence, and treacle stand appalled."

FINE ARTS

DIRECTORS IN CHARGE,

Messrs. Glover, Hall, Mrs. A. Stevenson, Miss Davidson, Miss Elliott, Mrs. E. B. Clegg, and Miss Simons.

No picture previously exhibited at the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition will be accepted.

Every work must be the production of the exhibitor.

Those entering work in the "Original List" must give data as evidence of originality whenever required by the Judges.

All pictures must be framed or mounted on cardboard.

By "original work" is meant work from life, or from the object.

It does not follow that because a prize is offered for any particular article that it must be awarded, unless the exhibit is really of sufficient merit to warrant the award being made. The Judges are particularly requested to note this fact.

THE WHEAT OF WESTERN CANADA

Upper Picture.—In Western Canada it is common to see six teams of four horses each, yoked to wheat-reaping machines. Lower Picture is C. P. R. grain elevator at Fort William, Ontario.

It is a busy and a happy time when the grain is golden in the fields and prairies of Western Canada and farm labourers are employed in hundreds on many farms and the reaper and binding machines are making music amongst the ears of the crop. Fifteen thousand farm labourers are going out there this year from the Eastern Provinces to work in the Western harvest fields. Reaping time is the time of the farmers' victory. The emblem is the golden banner of the grain; it is waved by joyous hands, and even the buzzing threshing machines seem delighted to handle it.

Wheat growing has built up the West more than any other industry. Wheat production was brought there by a few settlers, and many settlers came afterwards, and civilisation and human population were brought into districts where the buffalo used to reign. Wheat has been responsible for the building of thousands of miles of railways, and towns have sprung up, quickly as the verdure of springtime, in places where the lure of the wheat is supreme. In the West wheat called for the building of three thousand elevators and they have been built. It is wheat that keeps big fleets of vessels busy on our inland waterways. Our wheat brings us into gigantic commercial enterprises, and in feeding far off peoples gives publicity to the beautiful and fertile country that is our homeland.

Canada has always pursued an active policy in the promotion of the development of the agricultural lands of the West. Each succeeding year sees additional acreage upturned by the plough. Almost every harvest witnesses a greater plentitude of wheat than the preceding one. The Canadian method of grading the grain is considered equal to any in the world. An excellent system is followed in the marketing, buying, selling, weighing and transportation of the grain. One of the biggest items in the annual budget of the Canadian Pacific Railway has been for procuring the best grain moving equipment, promoting the best organisation and building branch lines in newly developed grain growing territory. And no railway has a better record for handling any products better than the C.P.R. has for handling the grain crop. Numerous trucks for conveying the wheat to the box cars, tens of thousands of box cars, scores of great engines, speedy and regular trains, huge elevators, adequate freight yards, fleets of transport steamers, and skilful labour give the C.P.R. a premier place amongst the grain carrying railways of the world.

CITY PLAN COMMITTEE REPORTS THAT FEW CITIES IN CANADA HAVE GREATER NATURAL ADVANTAGES THAN PETERBORO

INTERESTING REPORT SUBMITTED AT LAST NIGHT'S MEETING OF THE BOARD OF TRADE---SCENIC DRIVE TO LAKEFIELD---IMPROVEMENTS TO EXHIBITION PARK.

Appended is the report of the "City Plan Committee of the Board of Trade which was presented at last night's meeting.

To the President, Council and Members of the Peterborough Board of Trade.

Gentlemen:

In presenting this, the report of your City Plan Commitee we beg to say, at the outset, that any comprehensive plan suggesting certain lines along which our city should be developed, must embrace a period—not of one year; but of one hundred,—not of one generation but of three or four consequently in this —our first report—we will enunciate general considerations only, trusting in later ones to deal fully with technique, variation and multiplicity —the modus operandi, the estimations of cost, the methods of procedure, the delineation of advantages aesthetic or utilitarian and all matters of infinite detail—but of infinite importance.

Our task is rendered the more difficult, as well as the more delightful, by the fact that scarcely any city in Canada has more beauty of situation, or greater natural advantages. Bounded on the west, the north, and the east by lofty hills at whose feet the city nestles—a scene of cyclonaic beauty—its southern aspect is enclosed by the windings of a magnificent river. Every variety of landscape combine in a riot of natural beauty—needing only artistic development to make of city one of the most delightful and attractive in the land. And as a climax is aesthetic delight the river expands into a lake, one whose beach, when properly prepared, the people of a city ten times our size might enjoy the advantages and pleasures of summer bathing, while their little children disported themselves in clean and healthy sand.

Well Planned Campaign

At the outset we submit that one of the most essential things is a persistent, carefully planned campaign to cultivate the aesthetic sense of all our citizens. Unless the people learn to appreciate and delight in civic [illegible] our efforts will be fruitless. Unless the civic soul is educated, until the citizen becomes proud of his city; unless the eyes of the citizen are opened to the wonderful possibilities of development in his city, he will not be willing to undergo the necessary sacrifices to ensure such development; but once he realizes these possibilities, once he can see in his mind's eye the cultural structural achievements of physical and architectural effort—his city made beautiful; a most pleasant place in which to live; once he becomes proud of his city, he will become not only willing but eager to help to his utmost. Men find their greatest pleasure in contributing to a cause or project of which they are proud —one in which they are most greatly interested through sympathy, or affection,—or sentimental interest.

Surpassing everything else in importance to Peterborough is the enhancement of the scenic value and preservation of our water-fronts.

Scenic Driveways

With regards to scenic driveways, the riverside road to Lakefield ought probably to be first mentioned as being the one of greatest magnitude and yet of easiest accomplishment. It may be taken up immediately and still fit into any plan that may be evolved. The road belongs to the government that co-operation of the government surely is attainable. Secondly, the Boards of Education of Peterborough, Lakefield and the townships intervening may cooperate through the schoolchildren who could plan trees as mementoes and as designated along this parkway. The government will doubtless be willing to supply the striplings for such purpose.

A scenic driveway of rare beauty is also practical along the north side of the creek from Jackson Park to Park St. It is believed that the owner of land will be more willing to give land for such a driveway because of the material benefits that would accrue to them from such an undertaking: but the whole city will benefit.

Improvements might soon to be made in the accessibility of Jackson Park, to those who do not or cannot conveniently travel by electric car. The walking along Monaghan Road during the Spring is decidedly bad. This should of course be taken into consideration in connection with the proposed drive way along the creek from McDonnell St. to the Park. A bathing pond may be constructed on the creek through the park. This is needed in this locality and with a running, delightfully clean creek and natural valley at our disposal such a pond could readily be produced.

Natural Advantage

Too many towns have lost sight of the natural advantages which they possessed, and when they did realize what had been lost; the expense for recovery has been excessive, with a corresponding increase in the rates. It will probably save thousands of dollars to future generations of some arrangement can be made with the county council to preserve the river fronts for boulevards along that portion of the river outside of the city limits. It will mean money in the city's coffers if, as soon as possible, possession is acquired of both sides of the river front, particularly that portion of land known as Burnham's Point. On the east side of the river the boulevard could merge into the Riverside Road to Lakefield. The present bridges across the canal, crooks, etc., will probably have to be utilized and several diversions made to pass around manufacturing sites and the Hunter street bridge. On the west side the boulevard may begin below the Auburn Power House and there continue to London street. As the river forms part of the canal system and there is a possibility that the Quaker Oats my load into barges, etc., the boulevrd should be diverted round their plant and back to the river at some convenient point below Hunter street. The banks at Water street and Crescent street should be filled in to permit of a continuous boulevard.

Crescent Street

At present the street known as Crescent, is prevented from falling into Little Lake by means of timber work. It is only a question of time when this will decay, and at best, it is an unsightly and dangerous piece of work. There is, by filling in room here for a broad and beautiful driveway or parkway.

If the city authorities would dump ashes at this point to make the foundation of a long sloping beach, and then cover it with sand and gravel, four objects would be gained—a saving in maintenance of walls, a dumping place for ashes, an improvement in property conditions in that neighborhood and a wide bathing beach for the children and citizens. The expense, outside of the sand and gravel, should be slight but the value of such a beach as a source of enjoyment and as a "thing of beauty" in the city cannot be overestimated.

With reference to the proposed street from Isolation Hospital to Old Folks' Home, there is apparently small benefit to be gained in running a street between those two institutions. The employees use the street cars and follow the sidewalk along Water street to the cinder path. A street running across the property will apparently waste a strip about 50 ft. wide, with little benefit to anyone.

Material Affairs.

In our efforts on behalf of the development of our city we are inclined to think only of material affairs. Parks do not appear to contribute directly to the material welfare of the municipality and consequently on account of short sightedness with which many of us are afflicted, they are given little consideration. As a matter of fact, the most substantial factor in the healthy growth and and substantial improvement of the city makes it desirable as a place in which to live, and there is no more important factor contributing to this end than the city's parks and parkways, its water fronts and beaches.

They afford an agreeable break—in the unusully over congested building areas, enhance the general appearance of the locality, afford breathing and resting spaces, provide for play grounds and accommodation for large gatherings; they contributing to the health, happiness and better living of the whole people.

They should be well distributed in order that all may be able to make use of them and located so that better use may be made of the natural advantages with which Peterborough has been endowed. They should be accessible and so placed and planned as to provide accommodation for all of our people.

Let us view our situation. Thanks to the generosity of a few of our public spirited citizens, now deceased, in addition to what the city possessed we have some attractive parks, fairly well located. We have three parks in the north, two in the centre and one in the south. It will at once appear that sections not well provided for are the south end of the city on the east of the river and the rapidly growing west and what will be the south west sections. To overcome this condition we would strongly recommend that the city council be asked to take steps to acquire Riverside Park to be used as an athletic field and to form part of a driveway long the east side of the river continuing around the north and east shores of the Little Lake.

We readily recall the feeling of general and keen regret openly expressed when all the property between King and Charlotte Streets was divided and built upon without providing for any park space whatever. This part of the city is rapidly filling up, and no doubt before very long the property west of Monaghan Road will be built upon. Steps ought to be taken before it is too late to acquire space for a park, somewhere in the vicinity of the new public school. We should also keep in mind that that district now called Brownton will probably, before long, become part of the city. We are pleased to note the substantial improvements being made in the property now leased by the Exhibition Board, and trust that eventually it may be rescued permanently by the city to be used both for the purpose for which it is now used, and also as a park and recreation ground for which it is so admirably adapted.

We regret very much to note the discreditable condition in which the King Edward Park now finds itself. A dilapitated wire fence still skirts the east and west ends, giving one the impression that the grounds are not yet open to the public. When trees were first planted, after the property was decided upon as a park, it would appear that the guiding principle was that no space should be left large enough to permit of any games being placed thereon. Nature attempted to remedy the defect by killing off about half of the trees, which have never been removed or replaced. The ground was not properly levelled for the furrows, and in many places the individual scores of the last ploughman are quite noticeable. The whole park has grown up with milkweed, goldenrod and sweet clover, so that it presents the appearance of an abandoned meadow. The condition of King Edward Park is such as not to command respect, hence everyone makes a path wherever he or she finds it convenient, so we now have as many paths through that park as there are houses on the south side of Princess Street, opposite it.

"Keep Off Signs."

Nor is the condition of King Edward School grounds any better. There, with the exception of a small plot directly in front of the school, which has the usual "Keep off" sign in evidence, are anything but what we imagine they should be, grounds intended for children to enjoy and grow strong and healthy on, to have a love of the beautiful engrained in their beings. The conditions referred to is doubly regrettable, since it spoils the very favourable impression made upon one by the well-cared-for grounds of the De Laval Company, below the school grounds on Park Street.

We would call attention to the possibilities afforded by the small triangular plots, too small for building, which afford excellent opportunities of being made into beauty spots and creating pleasing open spaces. Many of these are found along Park Street, for instance, created by the angle at which Park Street meets a number of these east of it running north and south. Up to the present, with the exception of the corner of Park and Hunter Streets, these spots have been absolutely neglected; they are capable of being greatly improved at little outlay. After being put into shape and seeded by the city, it would not be difficult to secure volunteers for keeping them in condition or distributed among the schools for care.

A very decided improvement can be effected by proper care and use of trees along the street. We would advocate the adoption of a systematic method of planting, cutting and caring for trees. The city should be much more interested in the proper care, culture, spacing and varieties of street trees than they are in their removal.

We would recommend to the generous consideration of philanthropic citizens the donation of small spaces to be used as squares or parks. There is no better way in which to contribute to the general welfare of their fellow-men, and perpetrate their memory through future generations.

The very rapid strides being made in aerial transportation commands our attention; we ought now to make proper provision for the safety, landing and flying of the flying machine. Immediate steps should be taken to provide an airdrome for Peterborough. This will of course require considerable space for a safe landing and "hop off" as well as providing for hangers and accommodation of mechanics, pilots, etc., and also electric car service to and from the airdrome.

In conclusion we may say that while it will take many years before fruition of these plans can be expected, they are all feasible, and, in our opinion, of the utmost importance.

We are glad to be able to state, also, that Mr. Thomas Adams, the Government City Plan Specialist, has promised to go over the whole situation with your committee, and give the Board and the City Council the benefit of the valuable information he possesses and the much more valuable advice he can render concerning our own situation.

Respectfully submitted,

N. H. Crawford, $200.00 garage at 308 Margaret Avenue.

COULD HARDLY DRESS HIMSELF

TANLAC ENDS TEN YEARS RHEUMATISM FOR FARMER CLARK---GAINS 18 POUNDS.

"There! That's the stuff that set my stomach and kidneys right and drove the rheumatism out of my arms and legs, after I had suffered torture for over ten years," said L. H. Clark, a well known farmer of Brimfield, Illinois, as he pointed to the Tanlac display in the Sutliff and Case store at Peoria, recently.

"My neighbors will tell you," he continued, just any time you ask them, that they never saw a man come out like I have. Why, I have gained eighteen pounds in weight and can do more work now than at any time in ten years. Before I started on Tanlac my stomach just seemed to be almost completely played out. Every bite I would eat would get as sour as vinegar and pretty soon gas would form and cause such awful cramping pains that I could hardly stand it. Then I would get so dizzy that everything seemed to be whirling around. The minute I would lie down at night and close my eyes, everything seemed to start turning over. I finally got so I couldn't eat much of anything and I was so run down and weak that I couldn't work regular. I always managed to drag around and do the little work about the barn until my kidneys got out of order and I got the rheumatism, and then I was laid up for weeks at a time. I've seen the time when I couldn't have walked from the house to the barn to save the best horse I've got. I was so crippled up with rheumatism. My legs were swollen up to twice their natural size and I couldn't take a step without just suffering like 'blue blazes.'

"My back was in such a bad shape with rheumatism that if I stooped over to pick up anything I would just see stars, and there were weeks at a time when I had to be perfectly quiet. I could hardly dress myself and went down so fast that no one thought I would ever be well again. Well, I was just about ready to give up the fight, when I at last ran across this Tanlac. After I commenced taking this medicine I soon started gaining ground, and it wasn't long until I was well on the road to recovery. I found that it was just what I needed and I never allowed myself to miss a dose. Well, the results are that I am now perfectly sound and well, and know what good health is for the first time in ten years. I can eat just anything and my stomach feels just like a new one. My kidneys don't bother me any more and I never feel a sign of rheumatism, and I sleep so sound that the horses might kick the barn down, and I don't believe I would hear them. Yes, Sir, it's Tanlac and nothing else that put me on my feet, and I appreciate it enough to tell the world what I think about it."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Wayne Drug Co., Ltd.; in Havelock by A. C. Denike; in Lakefield, by the Tanner Drug Co., Ltd.; in Fowler's Corners by W. A. Hunter; in Gelert by A. J. Scott; in Westwood by G. Pringle and Son.

INFECTED TEETH MENACE HEATLH

DR. HENRY A. COTTON OF TRENTON, N J, ADVISES THE TAKING OF X-RAYS OF TEETH—SAYS DEVITALIZED TEETH SHOULD BE REMOVED.

(From Electrical Experiments)

Investigations in the last few years, by both dentists and physicians, have show conclusively that the greatest menace to the health of the human race to-day is to be found in the bad condition of the teeth of a large majority of the populace. The instinct of the individual is directed toward saving the teeth, and, unfortuately, a large proportion of the dentists foster this instinct, and in consequence, teeth are capt and otherwise repaired by expensive bridgework in order to save the teeth, when from the standpoint of the subsequent ill-health, these teeth should be extracted. Happily, the best dentists have realized for some years that serious results frequently follow such procedures and have warned the profession against this danger. This subject has received special attention by Dr. Henry A. Cotton, Medical Director New Jersey State Hospital, Trenton, N.J., who in a recent statement on the importance of X-raying the teeth, has the following to say:

"Unfortunately for the patient, infected teeth may not and often do not cause any symptoms which would lead one to believe that anything is wrong with his teeth. This type of infection is what is known as chronic in cotradistiction to an acute infection and does not cause pain, pus or swelling, and frequently no rise in temperature. Hence, there are no symptoms which direct the patient's attention to this condition, and often they are amazed when they are told that they have infected teeth and that they must have a certain number extracted if they wish to recover from their particular illness. The question is often asked 'How are we to know that teeth which give no evidence to the patient of serious and often dangerous infection, and externally give no evidence to the dentist of such condition, are infected? The answer to this is the X-ray, and a more general use of this very simple and harmless procedure will reveal to the dentist as well as to the patient the existence of infected roots, when to casual inspection the teeth may seem to be healthy and worthy of saving! Naturally, these should immediately be extracted.

"Each individual should know wheher or not he is harboring dangerous infection, which may not only undermine his general health but may endager his life if it be not eradicated. With this knowledge of the danger of infected teeth, all persons should insist upon a third examination of their teeth by means of the X-Ray and not take the word of a dentist to recognize the existence of root infection and practice of putting the pivots, gold crowns and bridge work, without first taking radiographs of these teeth to be sure that there are no infected roots, has sounded the death knell of many people, for when the infection has invaded other organs it is often too late for extraction of the teeth to be of any benefit. No matter if the teeth give no trouble or if one feels perfectly healthy at the present time if he has had any dental work done at any time, he should insist upon his dentist radiographing his teeth so that he will not be the victim of a false security and finally succumb to a fatal disease, which might have been prevented if he had taken the precaution mentioned.

The Cause of Infected Teeth

"The public naturally inquires: 'Why do we have such bad teeth today when our parents and grandparents did not have these conditions, or, at least, did not have these fatal diseases?' There are several reasons for this. In the first place, our forefathers did not bother with dentist except to have an offending tooth extracted. In the second place, moder dentistry had not developed to the teeth as we known it to-ay. It has been estimated that 80 per cent. of the people who have had repair work done, even in the most expensive and latest manner, have infected teeth which may become a menace to their health at any time.

"Tooth infection is undoubtedly transmitted from person to person in the same family, from parents to children, by means of kissing, the use of common drinking and eating utensils, and many other ways. So, if one has infected teeth, he is not only dangerous to himself, but many transmit this infection to other members of his family, especially his children and produce serious conditions which are difficult to explain. One is appalled at the condition of the first teeth of children, many of whom have to have their first teeth filled. Often the second teeth become infected from the first set and the child carries through life the result of the neglect of the teeth, on the one hand, and the transmission of the parent's infection, in addition.

"Consequently, we feel justified in advocating radical measures in eliminating the infection from children as well as adults, and that means extracting all infected teeth, whether in children or adults, as soon as there is evidence of infection.

Conditions Resulting From Infected Teeth.

"As we give further attention to the subject of chronic infection of the teeth, we are finding more and more conditions resulting therefrom. At first, the relation of infected teeth to rheumatism was demonstrated by Hastings in 1914. This was a very important discovery, for this disease had baffled physicians who could find no definite cause for it and many fanciful theories were put forward to explain the cause. Not only can rheumatism be prevented by intelligent care of the teeth, as outlined above but in many cases it can be cured by the simple method of extracting infected teeth. Possibly the most common ailment of people in general today is summed up in the general term 'stomach trouble,' and often this condition resists all attempts at eradication by the ordinary methods and may persist for years, causing the patient to drag out a miserable existence. In the majority of cases, infected teeth are at the root of the trouble, and if the condition has not progressed too far, extraction of those teeth, so fondly cherished for years, may clear up the chronic stomach trouble.

"We have proven conclusively that the infection of the teeth, after years, may spread to other organs of the body and cause disease in these remote regions, which disease has apparently no relation to the teeth, but, nevertheless, the infected teeth are directly responsible for the condition. The bacteria which grow and propagate at the roots of infected teeth, must have an outlet, especially if the tooth has been crowned and all means of drainage from the upper part of the tooth is thereby cut off. Then the bacteria filter through the bone in which the teeth are embedded, which bone is microscopically porous, and from the organisms or bacteria gain access to the lympathic system and migrate to other organs and set up a secondary focus of infection. When this condition occurs, it is easy to understand that the mere extraction of the offending tooth will not clear up the condition but the infection must then be eradicated from this new focus.

"We have various methods of locating these secondary foci of infection. If the tonsils are infected as a result of infected teeth, the tooth should first be extracted and then the tonsils removed. If the stomach is infected, an examination of the contents will show the presence of this infection and it can be treated by means of vaccine, but always after the infected teeth are extracted. In the more serious conditions the intestinal tract may be the seat of the secondary infection and, by means of the X-ray certain things relating to the function of the intestines may be found and intelligent surgical aid may have to be invoked.

"There can be no doubt that many unexplained diseases have their origin in infected teeth. Thus Barker, at the Johns Hopkins Hospital, has shown that many cases of pernicious anemia have recovered when the infected teeth are extracted. It has also been shown that serious heart conditions, disease of the kidneys—commonly known as 'Bright's Disease'—diseases of the gall bladder and may other diseases may be the result, directly or indirectly, of a focus of infection originating in the teeth.

Nervous and Mental Diseases Due To Infection.

"Finally the most serious result of infected teeth is to be found in the relation of this infection to nervous and mental conditions. We have been for years groping in the dark, trying to find a cause for these unexplainable condtions. We have considered mental diseases as something apart from general diseases where such things as worry, grief, fear, overwork and many other elements are usually given as the cause of disease of the mind. Since we have found at the State Hospital at Trenton that may of the patients suffering from mental disease had also very serious chronic infections of the teeth, tonsils and gastro-intestinal tract, and that by eliminating these infections our patients recovered, we are justified in concluding that these chronis infections play a very important role in the causation of the mental condition. Of course, other factors, such as we have mentioned, have a profound effect in lowering the vitality and allowing a latent infection to become active.

"By recognizing the fact that mental diseases may be the result of infection and the toxemia or poisoning due to this infection, we have been able to restore many patients who with our former methods of treatment, became chronic patients and remained in the hospital until the time of their death. Thus we have been able to discharge 87 per cent. of the patients admitted to the hospital in the last nine months, whereas for a period of ten years, the proportion of discharges to admissions was only 43 per cent. In other words, we have doubled the number of patients, who leave the hospital as a direct result of our reserchaes.

"As a prevention of mental diseases then, it would seem that the proper care of the teeth is of the utmost importance, and we would emphasize the fact that the proper care is entirely different from what the usual dental examination reveals, and that only by refusing to have devitalized teeth (teeth in which the nerve has been destroyed,) crowned, or otherwise preserved, and insisting upon having these teeth extracted, can we hope for better teeth and prevent infection, which later will have serious consequences. This is a matter which can be controlled by the individual and it is the public in general who can bring about a better state of affairs by insisting upon good dentistry in the sense we have explained, and by not allowing the kind of dental work which preserves the teeth to the detriment of the patient's health. Such results as we are trying to obtain can only be brought about by educating the public in these matters, as well as the medical and dental profession. For this reason we believe that the widest publicity should be given to these facts and their importance emphasized both from the standpoint of prevention and cure.

Summary.

"We feel justified in summing up the results of modern scientific medical and dental investigations as follows:

1. That bad or infected teeth are extremely prevalent and because they cause no symptoms to the patient are often unrecognized.

2. That these same infected teeth may be the source of many serious and often fatal diseases, including nervous and mental diseases.

3. That the only known prevention of the effects of this infection is to have all devitalized teeth removed as well as the teeth known to be infected.

4. That one should not allow devitalized teeth to be capped or crowned nor pivot teeth to be placed on old roots but insist that these teeth be extracted.

5. That all persons should keep in mind the danger of transmitting this infection to other members of their families, especially children, and thus prevent serious trouble in after days.

6. That while the infection may originate in the teeth, in the course of years this infection will travel through the lymphatic system and invade other organs, and eventually set up seconrady foci of infection, which become more dangerous than the original focus in the teeth."

Finally Made Well by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Emmitsburg, Md.—"I suffered for twelve or fifteen years, and was treated by a physician, but got little relief. I saw an advertisement of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in my newspaper, so thought I would try it, and it did me more good than all the doctor's medicine. I am a farmer's wife and do my housework all the time, and I am better now than I have been for years. I am never without Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the house and have recommended it to several of my friends. You are perfectly welcome to publish my letter for the good it may do other women."—Mrs. ETTIE WARREN, Emmitsburg, Md.

Backache and nervousness are symptoms or nature's warnings, which indicate a functional disturbance or an unhealthy condition which often develops into a more serious ailment.

Women in this condition should not continue to drag along without help, but profit by Mrs. Warren's experience, and try this famous root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—and for special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Med. Co., Lynn, Mass.

$10,000 OFFERED CARUSO

City Of Mexico Makes Big Bid To Famous Tenor

New York, Aug. 25.—Friends of Enrico Caruso said yesterday that the Metropolitan Tenor, who will arrive the latter part of this week from Naples, returning earlier than ever before in the sixteen years he has sung in America, would be met on landing here with an offer of ten appearances in the City of Mexico at the new record salary of $10,000 a night. His highest pay before this was $6,000 nightly fee for a season at Buenos Ayres, and $2,500 in New York.

The Mexican offer has been nending for some time but under present political conditions at the border, Caruso's decision is still in doubt. If he refuses the $10,000 engagement in Carranza's capital, he may spend the time before the Metropolitan Opera season open s inocmipett', shrdluh season opens in completing a concert tour here in the States

Caruso and his wife sailed August 17 from Naples on the Guiseppe Verdi, which is due here about next Thursday.

BRIGHTON AND PETES PLAY A TIE GAME

SCORE WAS 2-2 AT THE END OF THE EIGHTH, DARKNESS PREVENTING A DECISION BEING REACHED—VISITORS SHOWED A SNAPPY FIELDING TEAM—PITCHERS HAD A BIG EDGE ON THE HITTERS—ROSE FANNED FOURTEEN.

The Brighton team lived up to advance notices in their game with the Peterborough Central League team at Riverside Park last evening, when they succeeded in holding the Petes to a 2-2 tie in eight innings, and incidentally revealed themselves as a snappy aggregation.

It was a pitching duel between Lornie Rose for the Petes, and "Lefty" Allen, the Brighton team's good left-hander, and the twirlers had the edge on the batters, so much so that only one of the six outfielders handled a fly. Rose only allowed five singles and fattened his strike-out record in great style, fanning fourteen of the visitors in eight innings, while he only gave one complimentary. Allen did not whiff as many as Rose, but the Petes could only collect four hits off him. Rose got two of these, and one of them drove in the Petes' two runs so that the little twirler carried off a large share of the honours of the evening.

The game was a good exhibition, marked by some fine fielding on both sides. Bullock, the visitors' third baseman, and Hanks, the shortstop, both pulled off splendid plays, and Langdon, the first baseman, was decidedly smooth in his work. Cherrett supplied the fielding stunt for the Petes by a one-handed pick-up of a grass cutter from Langdon's bat in the seventh.

Brighton were the first to score, sending a counter across in the second. The Petes came back with two in their half and held the lead until the fourth when two singles and a stolen base gave the visitors the tieing counter. From then on until darkness made it impossible to continue, neither team scored.

First Innings.

Brighton.—Hanks fanned. Whittier singled over second. Bullock struck out and Whittier was doubled at second, Swanston to Cherrett when he tried to steal on the third strike. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Peterborough.—Cherrett hoisted to Bullock. Holyman struck out. Swanston lined into Hanks' hands. No runs, hits or errors.

Second Innings.

Brighton.— McKee was safe on Holyman's low throw and stole second. Allen popped to Holyman and Hartt fanned. Langdon singled to centre to score McKee, going to second on the throw to the plate. Hartt died, Swanston to Holyman in an attempt to steal third. One run, one hit, one error.

Peterborough. — Kirn singled through short and went to second on Murray's sacrifice, Bullock making a great play on the bunt. Jackson hit to Hanks, who tried for Kirn at third, but Bullock dropped the ball. Jackson stole second. Kirn was out at the plate on Solomon's bunt, which was smartly handled by Allen. Solomon stole second. Rose singled down the first base line, scoring Jackson and Solomon. McCarney was safe on Hartt's fumble. Cherrett grounded to Allen. Two runs, two hits, two errors.

Third Innings.

Brighton.— Walt fanned. Roblin rolled to Rose. Hanks flied out to Holyman. No runs, hits or errors.

Peterborough. — Holyman walked and stole second, but was doubled up on Swanston's fly to Bullock, the latter making the double killing unassisted. Kirn walked. Murray grounded to Langdon. No runs, hits or errors.

Fourth Innings.

Brighton.—Whittier struck out. Bullock singled and stole second. McKee fanned, but Allen singled to centre, scoring Bullock. Allen went out Swanston to Cherrett, trying to go to second on the throw to the plate. One run, two hits, no errors.

Peterborough.— Jackson's long fly was captured by Walt. Solomon was thrown out by Hartt. Rose singled to left, Hanks nearly making a spectacular catch. McCarney fouled out to Langdon. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Fifth Innings.

Brighton.—Hartt struck out. Langdon got a life on Murray's fumble and stole second, but was picked off that base, Rose to Cherrett. Walt was safe on Holyman's fumble. Roblin fanned. No runs or hits two errors.

Peterborough.—Cherrett died, bunting foul on the third strike. Holyman singled to third and stole second, but was doubled on Swanston's liner to Hanks. No runs, one hit, no errors.

Sixth Innings.

Brighton.—Hanks fanned. Whittier was safe on Murray's miss. Bullock singled to right, sending Whittier to third, and stole second. McKee and Allen died on strikes. No runs, one hit, one error.

Peterborough.— Kirn and Murray fanned and Jackson rolled to Hanks. No runs, hits or errors.

Seventh Innings.

Brighton.—Hartt struck out. Cherrett nailed Langdon's roller with one hand and threw out the batter. Walt rolled to Rose. No runs, hits or errors.

Peterborough.—Solomon died, Bullock to Langdon, a great play at both ends. Rose missed three. Allen tossed out McCarney. No runs, hits or errors.

Eighth Innings.

Brighton.— Roblin lined to Rose. Hanks walked, Rose's first charity, and stole second. Whittier and Bullock fanned. No runs, hits or errors.

Peterborough. —Cherrett grounded to Langdon. Holyman and Swanston missed three. No runs, hits or errors.

NIECE OF NEWLY ELECTED PRESIDENT

DOROTHY GARRIGUE PLAYS LEADING ROLE IN "MY SOLDIER GIRL."

Dorothy Garrigue, playing a leading role in the musical comedy, "My Soldier Girl" coming to the Grand Opera House, Saturday, matinee and night, September 13th, is a niece of Thomas Garrigue Massaryk, president of the new Republic Czecho-Slovakia. Long before the war Mr. Massaryk was President of the University of Prague, he was a believer of free speech and when the war broke out he made many fiery speeches in behalf of the Allies' cause. This so enraged the Central Powers that he was ordered arrested, cast into prison and an order went forth to behead him, and only avoided this death penalty by a remarkable escape and with his younger daughter Olga, reached England. Revenge was so strong in the hearts of the officers that they seized his older daughter Alice, who had devoted much time to social settlement work with Jane Adams, of Hull House, Chicago, Ill., and who at the time was putting forth her efforts in this welfare in Europe, and cast her into prison with the death penalty as well, and only through Washington, owing to the States being neutral at that time, was her life saved.

The following year Mr. Massaryk came to the States and put forth his greatest efforts in Washington to aid in winning the war. It was while on this business trip to Washington that he visited his relatives in Chicago, an this was the first time Miss Garrigue had ever met her uncle and she is now called his favourite niece.

Miss Garrigue heard only recently that the entire family are united, now living at the capital in the city of Prague, with the exception of two boys, who were sacrificed in the war.

It seems that Miss Garrigue's family was well represented in the war, for her brother, Fred Garrigue, enlisted with the Canadians, drilled with the infantry at Vancouver and was later transferred to the Flying Corps and finished his training at Toronto. It was the signing of the armistice that robbed him, like thousands of others who were trained and ready to enter actual hostilities.

Miss Garrigue is a clever little Miss, gifted as a dancer and comedienne. She rose above the ranks almost immediately and her success is just her ability to do things. She has no hard luck stories to tell of her rise, and theatre-goers who enjoy clever comedy and good dancing will see her cast as "Dixie Hartis" in "My Soldier Girl," the leading soubrette role. In a recent interview Miss Garrigue said: "Just this one year and I shall visit my Uncle's family in Europe, after all the hardships they have gone through it will seem a real treat to be all together. My mother and I shall make the tour."

PAULINE FREDERICK STARS IN "WOMAN OF THE INDEX"

A modern drama which contradicts all familiar formulas is "The Woman on the Index," first of the Goldwyn Pictures in which brilliant Pauline Frederick appears.

When Miss Frederick as the heroine, happily married to a diplomat, is introduced to a friend of her husband she imagines that all is lost. This man she recognizes as a former detective. Now he is chief of the Secret Service. At once she knows he will reveal to her husband the fact that she is "the woman on the index"—that her name appears in the police records. But he does nothing of the kind. He is truly her friend.

He only asks that she encourage the attentions of a distinguished foreigner who is suspected of a connection with a threatened Bolshevik movement. The woman must carry on an intrigue with him, must deceive her husband—must lose his love, if need be. He appeals to her patriotism. What he asks is for America and only she can do it, for the suspect already is at her feet. The woman consents. What she endured while carrying out her promise, how she suffers and what it costs her, and what the amazing climax is, will be seen when the drama comes to the Grand Theatre, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

PICTURES AT THE ALLEN THEATRE

Dorothy Dalton has Strong Role in her new Photoplay, "Quicksands" at the Allen.

John Lynch has written an exceedingly interesting story for Dorothy Dalton's new Thomas H. Ince Paramount picture, in "Quicksands," which will be presented at the Allen Theatre on Friday and Saturday. In this picture Miss Dalton returns to the emotional in a drama of the city, showing the trials of a young wife whose husband is falsely accused of forging a check on his firm and is sent to prison for five years.

To provide a livelihood for herself and the little girl, the wife gets work in a cabaret conducted by a ward boss who admires her. To this place comes the junior member of the firm for which her husband worked and is smitten with her charms. Believing that she may find out something to advantage she leads the young rounder on, and on the very night that her husband escapes from prison the former follows her to her apartment. There too comes the ward boss and in a fight he is struck down by the younger man. The wife makes him believe he has killed the man and extorts a confession of the forgery for which the husband is being punished. Then the cafe proprietor comes to and orders the arrest of the profligate and promises to exert his influence in behalf of the wrongly accused man.

The story is said to afford Miss Dalton abundant opportunities for splendid emotional acting, while the happy ending will send the spectators away in a comfortable frame of mind. A good caste supports the star, with Ed. Coxen as the leading man.

The Allen's policy of continued performance allows the audience to come at any time and always see a full show.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

"DARING HEARTS."

In the role of an American citizen whose convictions led him into casting his lot with the French in the earliest days of 1914, Francis X. Bushman, the famous movie star, charmed a large audience at the Grand last evening when he appeared in the splendid production, "Daring Hearts." The play is a romance and a tale of daring adventure in which Francis Bushman, as an American tourist, finds himself, after a tour of Germany, in Alsace Lorraine. By chance he meets Mademoiselle de Villars (Beverly Bayne), and while at the Villars Chateau, where he has been invited to stay, the formal declaration of war is made. Horrified by the treatment of the French people in Alsace, he hastens through Holland to join up with the French air service, and soon, through his daring exploits, wins high distinction. After bringing down several German aeroplanes, he is at last brought down himself inside the German lines, but makes, with four fellow-prisoners, a daring escape, and with the help of a road map smuggled to him by Mademoiselle de Villars, finds his way back to the Villars Chateau. His subsequent encounter with his pursuers are full of thrilling incidents, which throw a new light upon the horrors inflicted upon the French by the Hun. The play ends very happily with the signing of the armistice, at which moment the hero is found near the German lines in a German uniform, which he has worn since escaping from the German prison camp. His nationality is, however, proved by a friend, and he is married immediately on the field by the army chaplain, who happened to be conveniently near at hand.

Another splendid picture, "The Belle of the Season," featuring Emmy Whelan, is also included on the programme, and a splendid instalment of Ve-de-Vil pictures.

Women think no more of stealing hatpins than men do of stealing umbrellas.

SONG OF A HUMBLE CITIZEN.

With temples throbbing and hot,
With temper ruffled and red,
A citizen sat in his rent-raised flat,
Wearily propping his head;
"I'm a man of peace," he moaned,
As he fingered the grocer's bill,
"Yet self-control is leaving my soul
And I'm nursing a longing to kill."

It's strike, strike, strike,
From dawn to evening glow;
And strike, strike, strike,
Wherever I chance to go,
The slogan, wherever I pass,
In our land-of-do-as-you-like
Is "Get to a man as much as you can,
Then ask for more—and strike!"

It's strike, strike strike,
From actor to engineer;
And strike, strike, strike,
For cheese or decimal beer;
I'm a lover of justice and peace,
But, whoever may happen to win,
I stand no show; what I'd like to know
Is, Where do I come in?

It's strike, strike, strike,
From window cleaner to clerk,
And strike, strike strike,
With never a thought ofwork;
I'm strong for order and law,
But I have nothing to say,
For first and last I am lashed to the mast;
Whoever may win, I pay.

With temples throbbing and hot,
With temper ragged and red,
A citizen sat in his rent-raised flat,
Wearily propping his head;
"I'm a man of peace," he moaned,
"But all this makes me sick;
Upon my soul I've lost control;
I'm turning a Bolshevik."

WEDDING BELLS

SMITH—O'DONOGHUE.

A quiet but pretty wedding was celebrated at the Holy Rosary Cathedral on Monday morning when Miss Louise O'Donoghue of Regina, Sask., became the bride of Frank M. Smith, also of Regina. The Reverend Father MacDonald officiated. Miss Mary O'Donoghue sister of the bride acted as bridesmaid, while the groom was assisted by T. J. Clarke, of Moose Jaw. Immediately after the ceremony wedding breakfast was served at the King's Hotel. Mr. and Mrs. Smith, after spending some time at Banff and Lake Louise will take up their residence at 2980 Rae street, Regina, Sask.

DETCHER—AGER.

The marriage of Rose Delilah, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Ager, of Owen Sound, to Mr. Joseph Detcher, son of the late Joseph Detcher, of Peterborough, was quietly solemnized in St. George's Anglican Church, Owen Sound, on Tuesday, 2nd September, at 1.30 o'clock. Canon Ardill officiated. The bride, who was unattended, was given away by her mother, and wore a tailored suit of African brown broadcloth, with hat to match, trimmed with burnt orange. She carried a white Prayer Book, with a shower of pink sweet peas and asparagus fern. Immediately after the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Detcher left for a trip to Toronto and Buffalo. They will reside in Peterborough.

PETERBORO MAN WAS MARRIED IN ROCHESTER

(Special to The Examiner.)

ROCHESTER, N.Y., Sept. 5.—Miss Grace Deer, of Rochester, and Henry H. Beacham, of Campbellford, Ont., near Peterborough, were married on Wednesday afternoon, 20th August, by the Rev. Noyes O. Bartholomew, at his home here, 523 Meigs Street.

The couple were unattended.

Mr. Beacham enlisted in the Canadian forces at Peterborough in 1914, and was soon promoted to the rank of sergeant. He had many exciting experiences overseas, and was one of only six of his company to return home. He was severely wounded, and was discharged from the Army in December, 1918, having served three years overseas.

Mr. and Mrs. Beacham will make their home in Rochester for the present.

A very little glycerine smeared around the glass stoppers of bottles will keep them from sticking.

INCREASE IN TARIFF

GRAIN TERMINALS PROVIDE FOR REVENUE INCREASE OF MILLION DOLLARS.

WHEAT BOARD MEETS

WINNIPEG, Sept. 6. — Advances in charges permitted terminal elevators are announced in the revised tariff made by the Board of Grain and Commerce which goes into effect to-day.

The charge for elevating is increased from 3-4 of a cent to 1 1-2 cents bushel on the former charges. The advanced prices on elevating alone on 2 million bushels of grain will net the terminals an increased revenue of $1,000,000.

STRIKE AND LOCKOUT IN PARIS THEATRES

(United Press.)

PARIS, September 6. — Following a general strike of organized entertainers and theatre employers, a general lock out in the Paris Music Halls began to-day.

(Canadian Press.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—The actors' strike, which started nearly four weeks ago in New York, and resulted in the closing of nearly two hundred theatres in this and other cities, was called off early this morning, under an agreement, which was virtually a complete victory for the Actors' Equity Association.

Augustus Thomas, playwright, who arranged the conference, announced that the actors had agreed to an "open shop," and that all the other differences had been adjusted.

Francis Wilson, president of the Equity, stated that the settlement was satisfactory to both sides.

It is expected that the theatres will re-open to-day.

It was the action of the stage hands late last night in ordering its members out of the theatres throughout the country where Shubert shows are playing, it was said, that broke the back of the managers' opposition.

TELEGRAPH BRIEFS

(Canadian Press)

BASLE, Sept. 6. — Two former members of the Hungarian government, Dr. Lokas and Ernest Seidler, have been arested in Austria, according to a despatch from Vienna.

Seidler was formerly commander of the Hungarian Red Army. Both men have been interned by the Austrian authorities.

(Canadian Press.)

COLOGNE, September 6. — Serious disturbances between the Germans and the British troops at Euskirchen, 20 miles southwest of this city, resulted in a soldier being seriously injured. The leader of the Germans, a man named Kupper, was court martialed and sentenced to death, and the town was fined one hundred thousand marks.

Summer motoring is in full swing, and the wise driver will chalk up mentally the proved fact that the most economical speed is from 20 to 25 miles per hour. Not that fast driving on tours means wasted fuel consumption, greater strain on car and occupant, but it actually results in less mileage.

SENATORS PLAN COUNTER CAMPAIGN

(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 6.—With Senatorial opponents of the Treaty and League of Nations planning a tour over the ground now being covered by President Wilson, the leaders of the various Senate factions to-day were "Counting Noses" in an effort to determine their voting strength.

A leading Democrat Senator to-day declared that twenty Democrats will urge for resolutions in the Treaty, while twenty-five will vote for ratification. That this predicament was plain is based on the assumption that there will be no more changes of position. Meanwhile, the "Mild Resolntionists" and the Lodge group were trying to compromise their differences over the wording of the resolution on Article Ten of the League Covenant.

Senator Lodge's proposal, adopted by the Foreign Relations Committee, assumes that the United States will stay out of foreign wars over territorial invasions and the like, except upon the most extreme provisions.

Senator McCumber's plan of presenting the views of the "Mild Resolutionists," assumes that the United States will be willing to get into such wars if a plain case of unlawful aggression can be made out.

Both proposals leave the United States free to decide through Congress when it will go in and to what extent.

BIG DEMAND FOR WILD GRAPES

MAKE SPLENDID WINE — TO-DAY'S MARKET PRICES.

The principal attraction at market this morning for those who have ay doubt as to the result of the Referendum was wild grapes which were brought in in very large quantities and were of an unusually splendid grade.

One woman who brought in eight pails sold her entire crop in a few minutes and her neighbour who had also several pails immediately perceiving the popularity of the fruit raised his price to 75 cents a pail and disposal of all he had without any trouble.

Butter sold at 58 to 60 cents a pound.

Eggs sold at 50 and 52 cents a dozen.

Chicken sold at 30 to 35 cents a pound.

Ducks sold at 33 cents a pound and $1.00 each.

Apples sold at 40 cents a peck and $2.40 a bag.

Potatoes sold at 75 cents a peck (and nobody dared ask the price a bag).

Corn sold at 10 cents a dozen.

NEW ORGANIST FOR ST. PAUL'S

MR. FRANK TATTERSALL APPOINTED LAST NIGHT.

At a largely attended meeting of the Session last night, Mr. Frank Tattersall was engaged as organist and choirmaster of St. Paul's church. Mr. Tattersall is a musician of the highest gifts. He played with great acceptance in the church in the early summer, and then gave a piano and organ recital on the Monday evening, which revealed to all who heard him his wonderful mastery of these two great instruments. St. Paul's is to be congratulated on having secured his services. He will commence his duties to-morrow and will play both morning and evening.

TO-DAY'S POLICE COURT NEWS

Albert Stenson, of Omemee, was fined $8.40 in police court this morning for blocking the right of way on the 28th of August.

F. Bayliss working on the new Hunter street bridge, charged Daniel O'Leary, a foreman, with assault. Bayliss was tramping down the cement, but O'Leary sent more cement down the chute than Bayliss could conveniently handle. Words followed and O'Leary took a jump from the top of the chute on to Bayliss' shoulders, removing some of the epidermus. O'Leary paid $8.20.

THE TREATY DISCUSSION

WILL NOT LIKELY HAVE ANY DIFFICULTY GETTING IT THROUGH DOMINION HOUSE.

FRENCH TREATY

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 6.—Ottawa is interested in the reservations to the Peace Treaty proposed by the Foreign Relations Committee of the American Senate, but it is not considered likely that any such reservations will be suggested here. It is understood that the Government itself favours and will insist on ratification without reservations.

It is thought also that the Opposition, although raising verbal objections, will not press their points, but, like the Opposition in the Senate, will allow the Treaty to pass without any amendments.

Joseph Demars, however, said yesterday that he was inclined to vote against the Treaty, but most people believe that the Opposition will not be carried to this point.

As for the American Senate Committee reservations, the opinion here is that if the changes proposed are really reservations, and if they negative the printed terms of the Peace Treaty, they will not be accepted either by Wilson or by the Senate.

If on the other hand they are merely interpretations, it is conceived that they might be incorporated in the American ratification.

On a first reading, some of the proposals, especially the one dealing with Clause Ten of the League Covenant, looks like a negative reservation, but if it merely means that the objections will not be assumed except by the action of Congress, it may be only an interpretation. The Munroe Doctrine clause has already been fully discussed, and is likely to be read as an interpretation.

There is another very important treaty that has not been laid before the Canadian Parliament, and that is the special treaty between Great Britain, the United States, and France to protect France against assault from Germany. It is specifically stated in this treaty that it does not apply to the overseas Dominions, unless their local Parliaments declare that it does. Canada, therefore, will definitely, have no legal objections in this connection unless our Parliament wishes us a party to the treaty.

There has been no intimation thus far that the Government will lay this matter before the House.

MR. GEORGE N. GRAHAM SUGGESTS A SPECIAL ATTRACTION FOR FAIR

ISSUES A CHALLENGE TO THE PRESIDENT, MR. ROLAND DENNE, TO SHOW THEIR HORSES IN CHALLENGE COMPETITION.

To The Editor of The Examiner,—

I saw the program of the Peterborough Central Exhibition advertised last night and I wish to congratulate the Board on the three days program they have prepared for the Fair. Now I am going to make a proposition which if accepted, I think will be just as good a drawing card as the Board has on their list. It is a Challenge from one sport to another and should be acceptable to both parties. I hereby challenge Mr. Roland Denne to show his Carriage Horse Robin and equipment against my Carriage Horse Rainstorm and equipment for a special Cup to be competed for between the two horses only, for action, speed, conformation and quality of a carriage horse. The loser to pay for the trip. The judges to be either one, two or three judges to be named but must be judges of Carriage horses.

I am interested in the success of the Fair and a lover of good horses and as Mr. Denne has already beaten me once in competition I am again willing to take a chance and the loser pay all the expenses of the Cup and Special Judges.. If this challenge is accepted, I would like to be advised either personally or through the press on Monday.

Yours truly,
Geo. N. Graham.

BRIGHT CHILDREN OFTEN WEAR GLASSES.

Why is it that bright children so often wear glasses? The answer is that children often are retarded in their studies because they cannot see. Poor vision holds them back, while those who wear glasses forge ahead. If you are in doubt about your child's eyes, consult W. H. Lacey, Optical Specialist, 410 George street.

AFTER THE PROMOTERS

ATTORNEY-GENERAL INVESTIGATING THE RECORDS OF NEW COMPANIES.

STOCK OFFERINGS

TORONTO, Sept. 6.—Pending the return of Mr. J. S. Lundy from conferences with the Board of Commerce at Ottawa, Hon. I. B. Lucas, Attorney-General is withholding information as to the course to be taken by his department in co-operating with the Commerce Board in its campaign against profiteering and food bearing. The Attorney-General is also subjecting to a close scrutiny the activities of all companies placing stock on the market at the present time. This scrutiny is not restricted to all mining companies, against several of which prosecutions have already been launched, but applies with equal force to concerns of other nature. All and sundry promoters of companies and individuals who have bond and stock offerings must comply with the provisions of the Ontario Companies Act, particularly in the matter of giving the required information in the prosecutions" said Mr. Lucas.

CHEERING CONFIDENCE IN A LOCAL UTILITY

SPIRITED DEMAND FOR SHARES IN THE DOMINION DUSTLESS SWEEPER CO.

Someone has said that "the best investment on earth is earth itself." A little study, however., might lead one to remark that "it depends what "sort of earth it is"; and this truth applies, not only to earth, but to investments of every character. There must be guarantees of good values.

From recent enquiry it is gratifying to learn that the guarantees offered by the Dominion Dustless Sweeper Company are creating such confidence in the value of this utility that the enquiry and booking of shares is steadily increasing.

In a short interview with Mr. Bishop, manager of the Company, most encouraging proof was recently given of brisk enquiries by intending investors, not only in Peterborough, but from outside points, including London, Hamilton, Windsor and other western cities. Mr. Bishop, inadvertently remarking on the amount of new business flowing in, stated that he "had had no time this summer for "holidaying," and had to cure himself of the vacation habit in order to give constant attention to his active work. The confidence manifested has put sunshine into the work, and the outlook becomes so good that the task of construction of sweepers has been engaging the attention of the directors with a view to preparing the way for securing a permanent location for the plant.

Peterborough needs industries, but Peterborough must give some practical evidences of encouragement to new industries before they can be secured. Citizens have still an opportunity of investing in Dustless Sweeper shares if they would like to see Peterborough become the permanent home of this utility.

Why is it that industrial stock, such as the Dominion Dustless Sweeper Company, is developing so greatly in Canada? Is it not because people are taking a broader view of industrial investments of the future, and desire to participate in that growth of business by investing their money in wage-earning stocks?

Why let a live local enterprise like stocks, similar to the Dominion Dustless Sweeper Company, sufficient to leave quotations from 1 to 4 points higher at the close of business than the day before? The money received from industries is spent in wages, which are welcomed at the grocery store, instead of being hoarded.

Why let a live local enterprise like the Dominion Dustless Sweeper Company go begging out of Peterborough for a suitable location to enhance the interests of outside cities? The call from outside is strong.

SEPTEMBER SHOE SALE

To-day and all next week the Model Electric Shoe Store is starting the September buying with a shopful of striking bargains in footwear. Read the particulars on another page today and see how true it is that the Model has not raised prices yet. It will be a pleasure to look at the window and see the low-priced samples of what the store can offer. This early September sale is strictly genuine and well worth the attention of buyers. Buy all you need now for fall and save money.

THREE CORNERED FIGHTS WILL BE NUMEROUS AT NEXT ONTARIO ELECTION

UNITED FARMERS WILL HAVE CANDIDATES IN NEARLY EVERY CONSTITUENCY—NUMBER NOMINATED TO DATE.

250 CANDIDATES

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, Sept. 6.—Fifty candidates have been nominated for the Provincial field by the Liberals, Conservatives and United Farmers. Neither the U.F.O., nor the Liberals can complain that the government has stolen a march on them, for the farmers have nominated thirty-five candidates and the Libreals 21 to the 14 places in the field of the half of the government. The fact that the government has a large majority in the Legislature makes the situation less serious for the Conservatives than otherwise might appear, for most of the members will be renominated as a matter of course. There are 111 ridings in Ontario and the odds are that the U. F. O. will put a candidate in most of these. Three-cornered fights are sure to develop. The number will be reduced by the Liberals and Conservatives pulling out many of their candidates. They do not want to take this course only where the intervention of the independent makes probable the election of the candidate of the other old line party. The campaign managers regretfully will try to pull out their own man. In some cases the candidate will fool them by insisting on fighting it out.

Since the last general elections the U.F.O. has elected three men to the Legislature. Notwithstanding the elimination of many party candidates on nomination day one should count on not fewer than 280 candidates in the 111 ridings.

BAVARIANS ARE BEING TRIED FOR KILLING HOSTAGES

NEWS FROM MUNICH AND VIENNA—BULGARIA BANS LUXURIES

(Canadian Press.)

MUNICH, Sept. 6.—The examination of Bavarian Communist leaders, charged with killing of hostages during the uprising last February, ended with the taking of testimony of the last two of the defendants, Voelkel and a student named Peter Neier. The last named evoked great interest on account of his relations with Lillian Cramer, well known Communist. She sat beside the defendant and openly flirted with him during the trial. He admitted that he received his order to shoot hostages from Fritzie Seidl, former Bolshevik commander of Luitpold High school, and transferred it to Iglhofer, with his counter signature. Initial witnesses testified again to-day as to the alleged participation of Levine Nissen and Dr. Max Levien, Bavarian Communist leaders, and M. Axelrod, Russian radical, in every crime.

Has Been Arrested.

(Canadian Press.)

VIENNA, Sept. 6.—Kurt Rade, described as a German Sparticist, has been arrested by the police here, it being charged that he has been active in Communist circles in this city and was organizer of several recent demonstrations here.

Issued Decree.

(Canadian Press.)

VIENNA, Sept. 6.— Bulgaria has issued a decree forbidding importations of all luxuries, including liquors and furniture and permitting export only of tobacco, attar of roses, lamb and goat skins and wool.

Will Retain Office.

(Canadian Press.)

VIENNA, Sept. 6.— J. J. C. Bratiano, Roumanian Premier, declared that in spite of the desire to retire before coming elections, he has decided to retain office in order to take personal responsibility for not signing the Treaty of Peace for Rumania, according to special telegrams from Bucharest.

AUSTRIA WILL SIGN TREATY

(Canadian Press.)

VIENNA, Sept. 6.—Dr. Karl Renner, head of the Austrian Peace delegation, has informed newspaper correspondents here that he would return to St. Germain on Sunday and sign the Peace Treaty handed to Austria this week.

CONTRACT CLOSED WITH THE B'SHOP-BARKER AVIATION CO. PETERBORO MAN TO FLY

Mr. Webber Turner has just closed a contract with the Bishop-Barker Aviation Company, which has done all the flying at the Toronto Exhibition and whose fliers have created such a sensation there. In this Company is the famous Canadian Ace Lieut.-Col. Bishop and other well known aviators.

In the contract it stipulated the appearance here of Lieut. Vic Dallin, a Peterborough boy, whose flying overseas and since coming back to Canada is sensational to say the least

Two machines will come to Peterborough and will give the fair goers such an exhibition as they have never seen in Peterborough before.

BOARD OF TRADE REPORT CONCERNING ACTIVITIES OF EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

MEMBERSHIP HAS NOW REACHED A TOTAL OF 288—INDUSTRIAL GROWTH.

The following report from Mr. Thomas Barrie, chairman of the Executive committee of the Board of Trade, covers the activities of the Board since the last meeting, May 9th, which included the fact that sixty-four meetings had been held in the Council room by various committees.

The report was presented at Thursday night's meeting of the Board. In his report Mr. Barrie stated that the committee felt that a well devised and satisfactory plan of organization and action has been evolved to guide the course of the Board for the future. He then touched on finances of the Board. He stated that the Board has now a membership of two hundred and eighty-eight, but there was no reason whatever why this should not be increased to one thousand, this number including memberships from surrounding districts.

Industrial Growth.

Incorporation of the said administration much attention had been given to manufacturing industries, chiefly American, seeking location in Canada. Negotiations are now in progress and every facility of the Board has been used in analyzing the adaptability of Peterborough and specifying its advantages as a centre of specialized industry before inquiring corporations. The growth of industrial Peterborough is not dependent upon the competency of our Board of Trade or its staff of workers; it is upon the competency of our Board of Trade or its staff of workers; it is dependent upon our collective concern and help. Much may be accomplished by united sympathy and practical helpfulness backed by the intelligence and business like management of those we employ for actual negotiations. Without the former the latter is helpless.

Policies and Procedure.

He remarked that one spontaneous burst of enthusiasm could possibly have a lasting effect to attain the ideal, aggressive, purposeful and persistent Board of Trade, but that the activities of the Board should be based on the best principles concerning the industrial and civic development of Peterborough, on a line that will gradually make the citizens of Peterborough feel their responsibility in their city and support any organization which has this object in view.

Public Work.

It is hoped in the future that each week may see the assembly of our members and their associations at luncheon or in meeting to discuss the many problems that have to do not only with our moral and industrial welfare but with the many problems touching the government and administration of our affairs as a city.

LIFT OFF CORNS!

Doesn't hurt at all and costs only a few cents

Magic! Just drop a little Freezone on that touchy corn, instantly it stops aching, then you lift the corn off with the fingers. Truly! No humbug!

Try Freezone! Your druggist sells a tiny bottle for a few cents, sufficient to rid your feet of every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and calluses, without one particle of pain, soreness or irritation. Freezone is the discovery of a noted Cincinnati genius.

THRIFT IN HATS

A poor but thrifty Scots woman had been promised a gift of a new bonnet by a wealthy summer resident.

One morning, as the woman was about to motor to the city for some shopping, she stopped at the home of the Scots woman and asked: "Would you rather have a felt or a straw hat, Mrs. MacVean?"

"Weel," said Mrs. MacVean, "I think I'll tak' a straw one, if you please, ma'am. It'll maybe make a good mouthful to the cow when I'm done wi' it!"

WILLIAMS

NEW SCALE PIANO

YOU would be very much interested if you could see the wood being scientifically prepared for the Williams New Scale Piano. Every inch of it goes through a special process which removes all sap and sugar. When this wood is being cut up, there is a great deal of waste, because only absolutely flawless pieces can measure up to the standard that we have maintained during many years for Williams Pianos. The woodwork on this famous Canadian piano—not only the case, but on all the unseen parts also—will never shrink, warp or decay. The Williams is built to last a lifetime.

MUSIC IN THE HOME

USING MUSIC TO MAKE FARM LIFE ATTRACTIVE.

The problem of the population of the rural districts has been and still is receiving much atention in the press. Its importance justifies all the space given. But the question is not yet solved. "Back to the Land" or "Stay on the Farm" are still the slogans widely used by our writers and economic advisors. The use of music in the farm home has never yet had the serious consideration it is entitled to as a means of making farm life more attractive.

Much can be accomplished through the country choirs meeting in one another's homes for the weekly practices. But the greatest need is music in each home, every day—music that all the members of the family and their friends will enjoy. Wherever possible it is fine to see different members of the family playing the piano, organ, fiddle or perhaps in the local band. Yet the limited number equipped musically to do this makes instruments that play automatically a necessity.

It being in the interests of the nation to maintain the farming communities at their best, it is in the nation's interests that it should be made as easy as possible for farmers to have music in their homes. To that end it directly helps our national welfare to increase the use of phonographs and player pianos in rural Canada.

Music readily available during the noon hour where there is a half hour or so for rest after dinner is a boon to those that work in the fields. Music in the evening when friends call is a great entertainer. In fact music in a home attracts visitors to share its cheer. Music on Saturdays is a great need in many farm homes. Music will help keep the farmer's sons and daughters on the farm. Music in the farm home will help keep the hired girl and the hired man from wanting to make a change. Music stands ready to help solve the whole problem of keeping up the rural districts.

HOW TO MAKE USE OF TWO PIANOS

"There is only one thing we in business have any right to charge for—and that is service" said a merchant not long since. A piano teacher who is making a success of his work by adopting this same principle of service has added a second piano in his studio. The second piano was installed purely as a matter of better service to his pupils. When the teacher plays for his pupil the inconvenience and lost time in changing places are avoided. Then again when illustrating the position and movements of the arm, hands, wrist and fingers the teacher can do that on one piano while the pupil imitates him on the other instrument.

Still a further advantage is the opportunity, that should be appreciated by many, of two-piano playing. It is a great incentive to maintain interest in piano study. The playing of the violin, 'cello, cornet, flute or almost any of the orchestra instruments calls for the companion spirit which adds very materially to the pleasure of piano study. These players require an accompaniment or they join with others in ensemble work. In contrast to this the piano student is inclined to be doomedmore to isolation which tends to narrowness and discouragement. Dual playing or two-piano playing are good antidotes for that sort of thing. Two piano playing opens up a new world of music. It jacks up the student. It keeps him or her interested almost without effort. There is a sort of adventure about embarking on a two-piano composition. It would be a surprise to many to find how many very fine works are available for two-piano playing.

THE PENALTY OF ABSENTEES FROM CHOIR PRACTICE.

Should choir members who have not been out to practice on the Friday night be allowed to take their places at the Sunday services? This is a much discussed question by parties responsible for choirs. It is not a new problem. And probaly like the poor it will be always with us—at least for a long time. The difficulty is that some persons who absent themselves from the weekly practice turn up on Sunday without knowing the anthems, the result being that they either bawl out at the top of their voices in a pianissimo passage, or feel around for the right notes, or hang on to a note too long or commit some other vocal sin that goes a long way toward spoiling what others have carefully prepared.

In one choir that comes to mind, the rule is that persons missing practice do not take their places at the Sunday morning service, but by attending a short rehearsal after the morning service, they may take their places in the evening. Other choirs are even stricter. In one the missing of three consecutive practices or too frequent absence without an adequate reason means "get out."

Many organizations again have no rule at all. At times when it is difficult to maintain the choir at full or nearly full strength it is hard to enforce any strict rule. The matter is one tha teach individual choir must decide for themselves. But it is the duty of every member to take the matter of regularity and punctuality seriously. The one way to get real personal benefit from the musical training, to play square with the leader and to render any service to the great cause of church music is to put the demands of the choir on one's time first.

WHERE "LISTENING" COMES IN

To the mind of a man high up on one of our university staffs an important development in school music that is conspicuous in recent years to work in what is called "Music Appreciation" or "Listening Lessons in Music." It is well understood that only a limited number of people can ever expect to be real artists in performances and that by far the larger people may expect to enjoy their contract with music through listening to it. The art of listening to music may be cultivated just as truly as the art of performing music. To this end systematized courses of study in listening to music are now in operation in many cities, beginning with the first grade of the public school and extending through the high school course. The importance of this is further forcibly emphasized by a statement from the United States Commission of Education who not long ago said: "Among a practical, industrial and commercial people like ourselves, good music is necessary not only for enjoyment and recreation, but also for inspiration and for salvation from death in the din and dust of trade; and this music, not recognized in the cours eof study of our earliest public school, has, within the last twenty-five or thirty years, been introduced to some extent into the schools of many towns, villages and country communities, though by many it is still considered unessential and a fad. Sooner or later we shall not only recognize the culture value of music; we shall also begin to understand that, after the beginnings or reading, writing and arithmatic, and geometry, music has greater value than any other subject taught in the school.

THE REASON FOR A NOTABLE CHANGE.

A woman who recently had occasion to visit several of the main centres in Canada remarked upon her return that it had been a revelation to her to see how good music was being brought within reach of the ordinary every-day man and woman by means of phonograph recitals. It fell to this woman's lot to meet many persons who had betn introduced to and favorably impressed with grand opera selections in this way. They had also made the acquaintance of much of the standard classics which appealed to them when they learned that classical music is simply the music that lives.

This observation set the writer thinking and to making observations for himself. One finds that in all the towns of any size phonograph recitals are given periodically and without charge. At one recital attended there were between three and four hundred of an audience all intent on listening to some of the greatest selections known in the musical world by singers, pianists, violinists, 'cellists, choruses and orchestras of international fame. A prominent tenor touched on this very point in the course of a recent interview when he said: "Your people are now 'up' in classical music; they really prefer it, I believe, to the cheap or rather the vulgar kind."

"To what do you attribute that change" he was asked.

"To the spread of the talking machine mostly," he answered. "Every woman goes to the opera as a child, and also to concerts; every Parisian hears the best music for a few sous. Every Berliner goes to the Thiergarten where he hears the finest orchestras in his country for an infinitesimal sum. But music was for a long time on this continent, or so it seemed to me, a possession of the privileged classes. Now the advantages of the talking machine are very evident in their results. People who would not have known a note years ago are exchanging criticisms on the different ways in which singers of varying styles sing the same aria, for instance; a thing which is not only good for the hearers, but for the singers of the said arias."

CANADIANIZE THE ITALIAN THROUGH MUSIC.

A naturalized Italian down in Washington has come forward with the suggestion to use music to make good citizens out of the Italians who come to our shores. His ideas on the question applied to our Dominoin run along this line. The chief requisite of good citizenship is happiness and few things are more conducive to happiness than music. But that music must be what one likes and knows. The Italian is a born lover of music, and especially of opera, as that is the form of music he knows best. Therefore give him his own opera if you would make him happy in Canada—give him what he left behind him in his native land and what he naturally misses in this country; give him the music he understands—'I Pagliacci,' 'Cavalleria Rusticana,' 'Traviata' and 'Tosca.' This will make him contented in his new home.

"I am speaking," says the party referred to, "of the Italian working men, the greater number of whom come to this country as labor, to do a certain amount of work in a day at a certain salary. They find no place in society for them because they find nothing here in common with them—they come alone in a strange land and so they think always of their native land and its beauty and arts. Their bodies are in Canada but their hearts are in Italy.

"So if you would win the hearts of these people give them a little bit of Italy—give them Italian music. And if you would win them more let them take part in the music themselves. Make them feel that they are a part of Canada and that they want to become its citizens.

"Then there are a great many people of this class who have come to this country expecting to find substantial positions here, but being disappointed in that and having to earn a living were compelled to become waiters, shoemakers and venders. I have discovered many such Italians who were in the grand opera choruses there and expected to get similar positions in this country. Some were good instumnetalists. Give these people their bit of their beloved Italy in music."

BUTTERFLY WITHOUT WINGS.

"Remember constable," said the portly Mayor mayor to the policeman who stood on duty a tthe Town Hall on the night of the children's fancy dress ball, "no adults can be admitted."

"Right yer Mayership," Dooly as he set about regulating the crowd.

Everything was in full swing when Dooly felt himself clutched by an excited looking woman. "My little girl is in there," she said, pointing to the ballroom, "and she's forgotten part of her costume."

"Can't help it, ma'am. No adults is to go in."

"Nonsense," cried the woman." My little girl has gone as a butterfly, and has forgotten her wings. I want to put them on her."

Dooly wrinkled his forehead and tried to think if any of the official regulations prescribed for a case like that.

THE BOARD OF TRADE.

The growth of the Peterborough Board of Trade and the transformation that has been made in the organisation were unmistakably evidenced by the splendid meeting held on Thursday evening, when over one hundred members attended. The contrast between the size of the gathering and the attendance at some of the meetings of the Board a few years ago is proof in itself of the progress that has been accomplished. The possibilities before the Barod were revealed in the thoughtful and carefully prepared reports of the various committees, whose recommendations indicated many lines in which the Board can do useful and profitable work for Peterborough. The members of the committee are to be commended for the evident interest and pains they have taken in considering the subjects that were entrusted to them, and in the preparing of the reports they submitted. It is manifestly impossible, of course, that all the suggestions that were made can be carried out at once; but the reports point the way, and intelligent, earnest work on the part of the members, backed by the co-operation of the citizens, will make some of them, at least, a reality.

MR. BURNHAM'S CHALLENGE.

Mr. Burnham's wire to the local newspapers in regard to a statement that a petition was being circulated in Peterborough asking for his resignation is, like most of Mr. Burnham's messages, rathe difficult to understand. The member for West Peterborough begins by stating that he went over to the cross bench section as a protest against the continuance of the new Unionist party in power without going to the people, and in the next breath declares that if the petitioners will get the backing of the Union Government he will immediately resign.

If Mr. Burnham believes that the time has come to end the Unionist administration, why should the backing of that organisation be necessary in connection with his resignation? The Federal member could have avoided any reflection upon the sincerity of his motives by resigning instead of merely shifting seats in the House.

WHAT REPEAL MEANS.

(Hamilton Herald.)

In its advertisements the Citizens' Liberty League makes these statements:

The Citizen's Liberty League is absolutely opposed to a return of the open bar as it previously existed in Ontario under the old license act. The League believes that the Ontario Temperance Act should be repealed and so enable the Government to enact a law in accord with the sentiment of the people, permitting the general sale of non-intoxicating beer and light wines and the sale of pure spirituous liquors only through Government agencies under proper restrictions.

Clearly it is the opinion of the League that it is necessary to repeal the O. T. A. in order that the Government may enact a law permitting the sale of alcoholic beverages through Government agencies under proper restrictions.

We think the League is in error.

The repeal of the O. T. A. would mean the restoration of the license system, open bar and all, as it was before the O. T. A. came into force. Of course the Government and Legislature would even then be at liberty to make such new restrictions as they might deem desirable. But it is not necessary to repeal the O. T. A. in order that this may be done. And if a majority of the electors were to vote for repeal, would not the Government be justified in accepting that vote as a mandate to restore the license system as it was?

The sale of liquor through Government agencies and under proper restrictions can be brought about by amendment of the O. T. A. Those who desire such an amendment should vote against the repeal of the O. T. A. and should also vote Yes to the fourth question on the Referendum ballot.

EXCHANGE.

What is exchange? Technically speaking, Exchange is the term applied to transactions in the purchase or sale of money of one country paid for in money of another country, as when, for example, American dollars are bought with Canadian dollars, or Pounds Sterling with American dollars. Exchange transactions differ entirely from other commercial transactions in that, while in commercial transactions money buys wheat, steel or any other of a thousand and one commodities, in Exchange money buys money.

Everyone understands, for example, that when wheat is quoted in Canada at "$2.00 a bushel" it means that a bushel of wheat sells at two Canadian dollars; but when the American dollar is quoted at "104 cents Canadian money" or, what is equivalent, at a "4% premium" in Canadian money, the meaning is not quite so clear and a few words of explanation are perhaps necessary.

The ordinary commercial transaction is expressed in terms of a fixed unit of the comodity bought and a varying amount of money. Thus, oil is sold at so many cents a gallon; land, at so many dollars an acre.

But when the articles in the transaction are moneys of different countries, it is obvious that either of these moneys must provide the fixed unit of the transaction, and that either may provide the varying one. Thus, for example, volume of trade and usage have determined that in any Exchange transaction in which the Pound Sterling of Great Britain is involved, the Pound Sterling shall always be measured in terms of money of other countries. In practically all transactions, therefore, between Great Britain and other countries, Exchange is quoted at so much of the other country's money for One Pound Sterling. Thus, the Pound Sterling is quoted in the Exchange market as being worth so many dollars American, so many dollars Canadian, or so many French francs. When, therefore, we read in our newspapers the other day that "Sterling Exchange in New York is $4.13," it meant that One Pound Sterling could be bought for $4.13, American money. When, on the same day it was stated that "Sterling Exchange in Montreal is $4.30," it meant that One Pound Sterling could be bought for $4.30, Canadian money.

As between Canada and the United States, the fixed unit is naturally that of the larger country—the American dollar is usually quoted as being worth so many cents of Canadian money. For we must remember that the Canadian "dollar" and the American "dollar," though bearig the same name, are in reality two entirely different kinds of money. They are two distinct monetary units of two different countries. If, therefore, "New York funds" (American money in New York) are quoted in Montreal at "4% premium", as is at present approximately the case, it means that the American dollar is worth $1.04, or 104 cents, in Canadian money in Montreal. If they were quoted "at par," the American dollar would be worth $1.00, or 100 cents, in Canadian money in Montreal; in other words, the value of the Canadian dollar in Exchange would be exactly equal to the American dollar. If "New York funds" were quoted in Montreal at "4% discount," the American dollar would be worth 96 cents in Canadian money in Montreal.

When New York funds are at a premium in Montreal, as has been the case for some months, the Rate of Exchange is said to be "unfavourable" or "adverse" to Canada; if they were at a discount, the rate would be "favourable" to Canada.—Investment Items.

Such is the statement of Mr. A. O. Norton, of Boston, the largest Jack Manufacturer in the world. His voluntary testimonial regarding ZUTOO follows:

386 Congress St., Boston, Mass.

"I have been a sufferer from Headache since childhood and have used all, or nearly all the so-called 'cures' on the market. Some months since my attention was called to Zutoo Tablets and I have been using them ever since with the most gratifying results. I find they cure a 'sick' or 'nervous' headache in a few minutes and leave no bad effects. My family use them whenever needed with equally good results. I have frequently given them to friends who were suffering from Headache and they never failed to give quick relief. I always carry Zutoo Tablets in my grip on the road and WOULD NOT BE WITHOUT THEM AT ANY COST."

Voice Of The People

Peterborough, 4th Sept., 1919.

Sir,—On looking down your evening paper of 3rd September, I was surprised at the suggestion of Ald. Crowe to have one good band instead of three poor ones. It puts me in mind of the man that walked into the piano store and asked the price of the piano, and was told $400.00, and, in looking around, he saw a piano stool and asked what that was. He was told it was a piano stool. "What is the price of that?" "One dollar and fifty cents." He asked how it worked, and was told when he wanted to go high, turn to the right, and when he wanted to go low, turn to the left. So the piano stool was delivered to the house, and when he was about to give a tune to the family, he turned to the left, then to the right, but no tune came. I was surprised to find that we had such a man in our council with such musical ability as the man referred to. Thanking you, Mr. Editor, for your space,—I remain, A Bandsman.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir, — The Prohibitionists have given up the "moral and religious" argument in favour of Prohibition it seems. They now urge that they rely only upon a majority just as in any other ordinary economic question, such as the Hunter Street bridge or sewerage, garbage-collecting, etc. They contend that in these cases the minority abides by the will of the majority, and why not in other matters? Well! First of all, let it be known that these measures only apply locally and there is no objection to Local Option in liquor. But they say other matters of a national character, like railways, etc., are opposed by some, but they have to pay their share if in the minority. Fine, but when they have paid their share, they are at liberty to use the railways or not, as they see fit. That is where the difference comes in. For example—a law says that your cow shall not run the streets, or your hens, and that you shall not do certain things of a like nature—in the streets. But you may have them at home. A law may say that the wealth of the community requires that you shall not do certain things in your own home. That is, on the ground of the general health and well being. But that is not a national or general Prohibition law. If you are in the wilds or removed from centres of population, you may do those things with impunity. You see, after all Prohibition (total) does not really rely upon its economic features either. If used to rely upon its moral and religious character. But that had to be abandoned because a greater than they was not and is not a Prohibitionist. Prohibition of a non-regulative but total character is contrary to the divine plan. But you say, if it is permissible in one place, why not in all?

Why the great popularity of the AutoStrop Razor? Mainly, because the AutoStrop Razor sharpens its own blades and doesn't need to be taken apart for cleaning.

Razor — Strop — 12 blades — $5

AutoStrop SAFETY RAZOR

It is permissible in all places, because in one, but not on moral or religious grounds. But under all circumstances what you must prohibit is not the thing itself, but the thing done under certain circumstances or conditions. You cannot condemn the offices of nature by total Prohibition only by regulation. And so is it with liquor. Alcohol is not bad in itself, only in the wrong use of it, and laws should prohibit not alcohol but the wrong use of it. And they cannot prohibit alcohol. It is in nature and God makes it. Why be silly then? Why not go to the root of the matter, which is not alcohol any more than it is any other means of evil and sin, but the human heart. God does so. Christ does so. How do we come to know better? Let our motto be: "No bars!" Just plain commonsense. The bootlegger is working like a beaver for Prohibition. All error has its devil. He is the devil of Prohibition.—Yours, J. H. Burnham.

P.S.—Who would care to face another epidemic without alcoholic liquor at hand?—J. H. B..

REMOVE ALL TEMPTATION.

Toronto 3rd September, 1919.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—I want to make an earnest appeal to everyone, both drinkers and non-drinkers to remove all temptation to drink out of the way of men and boys in the coming Referendum.

I have seen sickly, trembling wrecks of men become healthy and strong under total abstinence, only to fall back to the old condition in a few weeks or months owing to some fool urging them to drink. I have personally known a clever young man who went to an asylum and begged them to take him in for a year that he might escape temptation.

I know all bar rooms are legally closed against the sale of intoxicants and the vicious treating custom. But it is only supposition. Go into any bar room and you will see men drinking half-strength beer and tempting one another to drink. While you do not see men beastly drunk as before, yet many are distinctly fuddled. When a man comes in during cold weather and drinks four glasses of this beer in quick succession, you know it is not because he is thirsty, but for its alcoholic effect.

This beer, which is supposed to be not intoxicating, as as strong as English small beer, which is only 1 1-4 per cent. Judge Steeves, of Moncton, N.B., recently gave his decision that beer much weaker than our temperance beer is intoxicating. The "stagger test" and the "silly talk test" are no good, because many men can be very drunk, especially on beer, and not show it. Men who are never known to be drunk have died of some alcoholic disease; and men who have never been known to be drunk during their lives have left behind in their families many consumptives, drunkards, nervous weaklings, ruined for life.

But why keep up the temptation at all? Several States of the Union will not permit anything containing the smallest quantity of alcohol to be sold in public bar rooms, and at least three States will not allow even an imitation beer to be sold to tempt men and remind them of their drinking days. There must be a reason. Then let all unite in urging the Government to perfect the work they have so well begun by removing all forms of temptation to drink, that peace, prosperity, and happiness may rule in the land.—Yours faithfully,

H. Arnott, M.B., M.C.P.S.,

Clever, isn't it?

No one thought it possible to design a cuff that would fold as neat and flat when turned in as when turned out.

But it has been done.

Now when the cuff of your W. G. & R. shirt gets soiled, you turn the other side of the Double Wear Cuff. This enables a man to wear his shirt twice as long before sending it to the laundry. It cuts your laundry bills on shirts clean in two.

It adds months to the life of your shirt, because everyone knows that laundering a shirt is harder on it than wearing it.

And remember—

These shirts cost no more than good shirts should.

HOME CIRCLE COLUMN

SPOTLESS REPUTATION.

You have probably been more or less ill used by the world. If not it is because you are not old enough or do not amount to much. You may expect to have your reputation hauled and overhauled by the gossips, and those will not all be women either. While we would not like to be held responsible for all that is said at sewing circles and ladies' tea-parties, neither would we be willing to answer for all the conversation at banks, groceries and other places where men congregate. What post-mortem examination of dead characters! What sumptuous dishes of tittle-tattle are concocted here! What fires of martyrdom are here kindled about innocent victims! How quickly and beautiful the seeds fall beneath the axe of the self-appointed executioners. Talk of gossip as something light and airy, too feathery almost to grasp! It is a serpent, with its head held high in market places and public meetings, its folds coiling on every side.

* * *

Did you ever stop to think that all the best things in life come without cost to ourselves? They are given freely. The things that in their value are without money and beyond price are also in the method of their acquisition without money and without price. Every life is rich in the measure that it has discovered and possessed these treasures. A man may pay many thousands of dollars for the painting of a sunrise, and yet it never will be nearly so beautiful, so inspiring, so valuable as the sunrise itself, a spectacle which the poorest may enjoy without the expenditure of so much as a cent. All our works of art, costly as they may be, are but imitations of the originals, which, while far exceeding them in beauty, may be ours for the taking.

* * *

Right here is the secret of awkwardness. It is self-consciousness. A girl who thinks about how she is going to look when she extends her hand will hold it out as stiff as a pump handle. If she is worried about the appearanace of her walk she will stalk over the landscape lige a wooden dummy. What a person does gracefully is done unconsciously. So if a person would learn grace she must first learn how to do things unconsciously and she can only learn to do things unconsciously by doing them often.

* * *

Some men respond more slowly to the touch of a woman's hand displayed in their homes and upon their surroundings. The task may seem hopeless to the wife at times. But sooner or later the effect will show itself. There is something in every man which responds to a higher and gentler influence. Let his home be rough and he will be rough. But infuse into that home a softening touch, be it ever so simple, and the man feels it even though he may not directly notice it. He imbibes it unconsciously and its effect is sure upon him.

* * *

We fear many good housewives make a serious mistake in giving too much time to Sunday cooking. Others perhaps are equally in error by overworking on Saturday, so that they cannot properly rest or enjoy the Sabbath day. Parents and children ought to be more to each other. A day of uplift and delight it ought to be made in every home.

* * *

Two persons will not be friends long if they cannot forgive each other's failings.

* * *

The social neighbor is not always the useful neighbor, yet each in her place has special influences to exert of equally beneficial consequences. The sympathetic neighbor is also a popular one, but she has to exercise continuous tact, lest her solacing influence may occasionally be overdone or utilized at untimely periods. The inquisitive neighbor is always a dread to everybody within the reach of her inquisitive curiosity, as she does not seem to have any intuitive respect for others' feelings as regards their divulgence of personal affairs to an outsider.

* * *

One reason why so many girls and boys, men and women, too, are uninteresting, is because they try so hard to be like somebody else rather than be content to remain himself or herself in life. In nature you don't see an oak posing as a willow, or a black duck as a yellow leg, or a lilac as a peony, or a dog as a cat. Be natural and you'll be alright.

* * *

Mothers, train your boys to be neat in the house. They should be taught to look after themselves, and to keep their hats and coats in their proper places. Teach them this habit and you will also do a kindness to the boys by teaching them neatness and self-respect.

* * *

Men give up a great deal for their families—their time, their strength, the knowledge they have gained in life's experience—they spend everything freely for their homes sake, and the home should pay its debt in much outspoken love.

* * *

Boys as well as girls, should be taught to help in the house. How often we have been disgusted to see that the girls are made to help with the housework while the boys are allowed to play checkers, or sit at the fire toasting their toes.

* * *

Home should be—
"A world of strife shut out;
A world of love shut in."

* * *

Oh, gather all charms into your house! If you can afford it, bring books and pictures and cheerful entertainments to the household. But above all, teach those children, not by half an hour twice a year on the Sabbath day, but day after day and every day teach them that religion is a great gladness, that it throws chains of gold about the neck, and it takes no spring from the food, no blitheness from the heart, no sparkle from the eye, no ring from the laughter, but that "her ways are ways of pleasantness, and all her paths are peace."

* * *

Sorrow came to you yesterday and emptied your home. Your first impulse now is to give up and sit down in despair amid the wrecks of your hopes. But you dare not do it. You are in the line of battle and the crisis is at hand. To falter a moment would be to imperil some holy interest. Other lives would be harmed by your pausing. You must not linger even to indulge in your grief. Sorrows are but incidents in life and must not interrupt us. We must leave them behind while we press on to the things that are before. Then God has so ordered that in pressing on in duty we shall find the truest, noblest comfort for ourselves. Sitting down to brood over our sorrows, the darkness deepened, creeps into our heart and our strength changes to weakness. But, if we turn away from the gloom and take up the duties and tasks to which God calls us, the light will come again and we will grow.

When all our hopes are gone,
'Tis well our hands must still keep toiling on for other's sake.
For strength to bear is found in duty done,
And he is blest who learns to make
The joy of others cure his own heartache.

* * *

A touch of kindness in this busy rush,
A proffered hand to help us fight the crush.
A cheerful word that smooths a heavy heart—
Have you these small things assumed your part?

* * *

The virtues grow about the home. They cluster, bloom and shed their perfume around the fireside. Love, husband, wife, father, mother, child and home—without those words the world would be a barren wilderness, and men and women but brutish beasts.

* * *

When a man in search of a home or business location goes to a town and finds everybody full of hope and enthusiasm over the prospects of the place he, too, soon becomes imbued with the same spirit, drives down his stakes and goes to work with equal interest.

* * *

A great helper to gladness is a happy home. Many of us would never be able, day after day, to face life with its struggles, its duties, its antagonisms, were it not for the renewal of strength, which we get in our home.

* * *

A hovel is often more a home than a palace. If the spirit of congenial friendship links not the hearts of the inmates of a dwelling it is not a home.

* * *

There are too many fathers who will tie up the dog at night and let the boy run loose.

The Promoter's Wife

BY JANE PHELPS

THE INTERIOR DECORATOR TAKES CHARGE OF THE HOUSE.

CHAPTER LVIX

Lorraine Morton, of course, knew nothing of Neil's business matters. She had said to me:

"You must make use of that handsome husband of yours to help you socially. Many of the men he must know in a business way are probably also prominent in a social way. It isn't easy to get into the set in which I happened to be born, but you are clever and educated, and so is your husband. It will perhaps take time, but you will get there in the end if you are persistent."

Lorraine, as she said, had been "born" into the set in which she moved. She hadn't much money, not nearly as much as we had, or rather as we spent; but she lived in an old mansion on Washington Square which had been in the family for years—"forever," she said—and was received nearly everywhere.

I had no desire to be one of the so-called "four hundred." But I did wish to belong to the select coterie of people whom Lorraine knew, a few of whom I had met. In my new house I would entertain, in a way I could not think of in a apartment. So while I shopped Lorraine and I jubilated together over what we should do in the way of entertaining when all should be ready.

Neil had gasped when I told him the decorator's price for making over the interior, but had said:

"Go as far as you like! I just sold a big block of stock the other day. There's no need to economize. Just give me the figures so I can have some idea of what this thing will total."

Neil's generosity delighted me, and made Lorraine gape.

"Mr. Forbes must have slathers of money to give you carte blanche like this," she remarked. For all that she was one of the elect, Lorraine was dreadfully slangy times. But she could do as she pleased in that, as in other things. Her position was secure.

I really wanted people to find me worth while. I longed to be a sort of leader—which I knew I could not be for a long time, if ever. The idea had rather gone to my head. I was so exercised over my new house, I shopped so indefatigably, that I was worn out. For the first time since our marriage I began taking my breakfasts in bed. My conscience pricked me at first. Often the morning was the only time I had to talk with Neil. But after a while that ceased to trouble me. I wasn't thinking where all this would lead; I only thought of what I, myself, wanted to accomplish. I did not even see where my domestic life was going, because I did not think of domestic things. And all the time I rarely saw Neil. I mean saw him to talk to him or to ask the questions which I used to ask about where he had spent his time and with whom.

Then one day I received quite the greatest shock I had had since the day I had listened at the door when Mr. Frederick and that Mr. Black were in the library with Neil.

It was Lorraine who dealt the blow.

"What is your husband's business, Bab?" she asked one day, "I thought he was a broker. I have heard him mention stocks, and you have also talked of them. Isn't he on the exchange?"

"No—he is a mining and oil promoter—or perhaps they are sometimes called brokers; I know nothing about business, Lorraine. Neil doesn't believe in talking of his affairs at home."

"But Bab—a promoter! That accounts for it."

"Accounts for what?" It had been a long time since I had given Neil's business any thought, so taken up was I with my new idea.

"Why—I—heard—that he had many undesirable acquaintances." I knew by the way she hesitated that she had more to tell me.

"Undesirable—"

"Yes, men of shady character and vulgar habits. I hate to say such things to you, Bab, but it will be no use for you to try to do anything in a social way if this is so."

Queerly, there came into my mind the whispered expression I had caught when dear father talked to me:

"A house of cards."

To-morrow—Lorraine Dashes Bab's Hopes of Social Success.

ALBION KNITTING COMPANY WILL COMMENCE OPERATIONS ON MONDAY

EXPENSIVE MACHINERY HAS BEEN INSTALLED—EXPERT WORKERS WILL BE EMPLOYED.

On Monday next the Albion Knitting Company will commence work in earnest in their new plant in the old West Ward school building, which the company recently leased from the Board of Education with the ultimate object of buying it. While orders for the product of the plant have already come in from Toronto and Montreal and inquiries about the firm's ability to fill future orders flock in daily from all points in Canada, Peterborough generally does not appreciate just what the new factory means to the city.

To begin with the factory will at the outset employ 12 hands and will, as new machinery arrives, employ three times that number within the year. As orders become heavier the staff and building will, Mr. R. Paul Parker, the proprietor, told the Examiner, be enlarged. The factory was located here, he said, first because he believes in the city, and secondly because it was handy to get the raw material from the Bonner-Worth factory which alone is used; hence two large and important factories will co-operate with one another with the result of probably bringing down prices.

Main Product.

The main products of the mill are boys' and men's jerseys, ladies' and men's bathing suits and children's jersey suits, the latter which have heretofore, been manufactured solely in England. Presently Mr. Parker anticipates supplying jersey cloth for ladies' suits, which is a very popular material at present, very article manufactured in the mill is pure worsted.

Expensive Machinery.

The machinery which has been installed is very expensive and the most up-to-date models alone have been chosen. The cloth manufactured is done on the round system and is later cut and sewn in the factory into the garments desired. Each machine is fitted with the stop motion which immediately detects any irregularity in the knitting and stops the machine automatically. The stop motion fixture is manufactured in New Brunswick, New Jersey, and the special machine for making collar and cuffs, which is the first to be brought into the country, is made in Little Falls, New York, by the Staff Holt Company. The sewing machines, which are of special make for double sewing, which is necessary in sewing the cloth, are made in St. John and Quebec. All machinery is run by electric power.

Expert Workers.

Mr. Parker made a careful choice of his chief workers and secured the services of J. Kierman, who is known as the best circle machine knitter in Canada and who learned his trade in England, where, as Mr. Parker remarked, they learn to be thorough. Mrs. Leach, also an expert in her line of work, will superintend the woman's part of the work. Mr. Parker himself has had wide and lifelong experience in woollen manufacturing and only recently left a very important firm to start his own business with a thorough knowledge of the best methods.

There has been no trouble in securing workers for the fatcory and on Monday the opening day a full staff will commence operations.

All Wholesale.

The factory is absolutely wholesale and no individual orders have been taken by the management.

Cuffs are very tight.

REV. W. HENDERSON HERE TO-MORROW

To-morrow the Rev. W. Henderson of Toronto, founder of the Shantymen's Christian Association, will give several addresses in this city in the isterests of the Association. With him wil be associated Mr. Jopling. Mr. Henderson will address meetings in Bethany Tabernacle both morning and evening and in the afternoon will give a srort address in both St. Paul's and Murray street Sunday schools.

Evil of Substitution

A dealer substitutes because he makes more profit on an inferior article. A local citizen was induced to take a substitute for Putnam's Corn Extractor, with the result that the substitute burnt his toes and failed to cure. Putnam's contains no acid and is guaranteed. Always get Putnam's Extractor, 25c, at all dealers.

A MISSION AT THE CATHEDRAL

Rev. Fathers McLaughlin, McBrearty and Cloran, Redemptionist Fathers of Toronto, will renew the mission at St. Peter's Cathedral at the 10.30 o'clock mass to-morrow morning and will continue for two weeks. The first week is for women and the second for men with each evening devoted to a explanation of Catholic doctrine.

HER LITTLE GIRL HAD DYSENTERY

Bowels Moved as Many as 25 Times a Day.

Dysentery manifests itself with varying degrees of intensity, but in well marked cases the attack is commonly preceded by some amount of diarrhoea, which gradually increases in severity, and is accompanied with griping pains in the abdomen. The discharges from the bowels succeed each other with great frequency, and the matter passed from the bowels, which at first resembles those of ordinary diarrhoea soon change their character, becoming scanty, mucuous or slimy, and subsequently mixed with, or consisting wholly of blood. Never neglect what at first appears to be a slight attack of diarrhoea or dysentery may set in.

Cure the first symptoms by the use of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry.

Mrs. Jno. V. Tanton, R.R. No. 8, Watford, Ont., writes:—"My daughter was taken down, two years ago, with dysentery, and I could find no help for her until I got a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. She was only two years old, and ate something different to what she was used to. She had as many as twenty-five movements a day, and mostly blood. We had the doctor several times, but no relief came until we used 'Dr. Fowler's.' I would not be without it in the house for a good bit."

Be sure and get "Dr. Fowler's" when you ask for it. Price, 35c. a bottle, put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Purina Chicken Chowder Helps Hens Moult

Few hens can produce feathers and eggs at the same time. Feathers are mostly protein. Purina Chicken Chowder helps hens moult because it runs high in protein. It is not a tonic, but a wholesome, scientific, balanced feed, to be fed with Purina Scratch Feed. These two form a perfect ration for moulting and laying hens. Grain feeds are not suitable for moulting, and unless Purina Chicken Chowder is fed, moulting will be slow, recovery slow, and the chances of winter egg laying considerably reduced. # PETERBORO IS SUFFERING FROM A DEARTH OF CHURCH ORGANISTS

THE HIGH COST OF LIVING HAS CAUSED A FEW OF THEM TO SEEK MORE REMUNERATIVE POSITIONS.

Churches in the city will have to wake up to the fact pretty soon that they must either pay their organists more salaries or lose them, a prominent musician told the Examiner today. The unrest which has reached every class of people has not overlooked the church organists although as proverbial with artists, they deferred action till the last moment.

In Peterboro during the past year, practically every church has either lost or narrowly escaped losing an organist. St. Paul's started the movement when Mr. John Allan left for Brantford and Mr. Frank Tattersall has been appointed.

Since leaving Peterborough Mr. Allan had a very flattering offer of the best church in Vancouver, with an advance over his Peterboro salary of several hundred dollars. Mr. H. Treneer left his organ in St. Andrew's to take an Arts course and his place has not yet been filled. Mr. John Crane will officiate at St. Andrew's for three Sundays in this month. Mrs. W. A. Greenslade has resigned St. Luke's church organ. Mr. George Kenyon resigned from Knox church, and has been succeeded by Mr. Walden, who has been in charge of the Methodist church organ in Lakefield.

Raised Salary.

In other churches organists have signified their intention of leaving their organs if their salaries were not raised in keeping with the high cost of living and in leaving would have no trouble in finding positions, as calls from other cities have been received for each of them.

Movies Responsible.

The scarcity of church organists is laid largely at the doors of the movies which are installing expensive organs and are offering tempting salaries to qualified men. One organist in speaking of the scarcity of musicians said that a boy he had trained himself, and who is a beginner in the musical world, is being paid a much higher salary than himself although possessing nothing like his instructor's qualifications. The organist himself has recently refused three tempting offers to go to American churches where his salary would be practically doubled. Good music, he said, is an essential item in the church service and yet the organist furnishing it is at best poorly paid.

WHY BEAUTY FADES

A Condition Due Entirely to Poor, Watery Blood.

The girl who returns home from school or from work thoroughly tired out will be fortunate if she escapes a physical breakdown, because this getting tired so easily is probably the first warning symptom of a thinning blood that must not be disregarded if her health is to be preserved.

When the blood becomes thin and impure the patient becomes thin, pale, haggard and angular. She not only tires out easily but suffers from headaches, palpitation of the heart, dizzy spells and a loss of appetite. This condition will go from bad to worse, until perhaps fatal consumption sets in, if prompt steps are not taken to increase and enrich the blood supply. To make the rich, red blood that brings the glow of health, no medicine yet discovered can equal Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. If given a fair trial their use brings rosy cheeks, bright eyes, a good appetite and good spirits. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have made thousands of pale, languid girls active and strong. On the first sign of poor, thin blood mothers should insist upon their daughters taking a fair course of these pills. They will not only restore health, but will save further doctor bills.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can be obtained from any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50c a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

UNCONQUERABLE FAITH.

The North Battleford Optimist, commenting on the faith displayed by the Indians in their god as shown by their incantations to bring rain, compares it with the apparent lack of faith on the part of Christians. Apparently, the Optimist man has not seen us of late, working in our garden, which still resembles a small corner of the Sahara desert. He hasn't seen us planting our stringless beans and spineless cucumbers, or cultivating our hardy annual crop of cutworms, in the face of conditions which would make a Lloyd-George throw up his hands in utter discouragement. He doesn't know that our first planting was blown out, our second dried out, and our third frozen (except what was eaten by the cutworms). And yet, we are now planting late potatoes in our radish bed and Swede turnips where we had fondly hoped to raise the makings of squash pie (of which we are passionately fond). If that isn't an evidence of faith, Brother Shelldrake, what would you call it? It's more—it's faith and works combined.—Battleford Press.

A motorist wascharked with obstructing the traffic along the Toronto-Hamilton Highway last week. He was mending a tire, but the magistrate considered it highly dangerous practise to his own life as well as to other motorists, and imposed a fine. This is a timely warning to others to mend your tires off the highway.

ACTORS' STRIKE NEARLY OVER

OPEN SHOP HAS BEEN AGREED UPON.

(United Press.)

NEW YORK, September 6. — The theatrical strike is ending. After a representative of the managers and the Equity Association had concluded a seven hour session, which lasted until 12 o'clock this morning, it was announced that an agreement had been reached and the Broadway Theatres would begin re-opening tonight.

Augustus Thomas, the playwright, whose efforts were largely responsible for the settlement, said that the open shop had been agreed upon. Francis Wilson, the President of the Actors' Equity, said the settlement was satisfactory to both sides.

KEEPING DOWN PRICES

MR. B. CHESLER MADE A VERY SUCCESSFUL BUYING TRIP TO THE LARGE FASHION MARKETS.

Mr. B. Chesler is to be congratulated on the success he has met with in his efforts to provide higher grade merchandise at moderate prices. Knowing the power of cash buying on the spot, he has personally visited the largest American markets, and obtained not only a personally selected stock, but the very last discount it was possible to worry out of the manufacturers by his cash purchasing. He naturally feels elated in this day of rising prices, to be able to give his customers the benefit of lower prices than they expected to pay this season. He is quite satisfied that he can save any buyer money on any lady's ready-to-wear they need, especially in coats, suits, dresses and blouses. In his large advertisement in yesterday's paper he gave full particulars which will doubtless be good news to hundreds of his old and new customers. A visit to his store in the New Lundy Block, at 289 George street, will show an overflowing stock and an unexpectedly large selection in all lines of ladies' wear.

A Home Recipe for Wrinkled, Soggy Skin

The famous saxolite lotion recommended by beauty specialists for removing wrinkles and for reducing distended pores, can easily be made at home. Ask your druggist for saxolite in powdered form, one ounce, and a half-pint of witch hazel. Dissolve the powder in the witch hazel and bathe the face, neck, and hands in the solution. Results are remarkable and instantaneous. The skin tightens, and this naturally reduces the wrinkles, as well as creases or folds about the neck, cheeks, or hands. The tissue beneath the skin also becomes firmer and more solid.

One feels much refreshed and exhilarated after using this truly wonderful preparation. Many women look five or ten years younger after using this only a short time.

When is A Fellow Past his Prime

Somebody is always taking the joy out of life,

By asking—

At what age a man outlives his usefulness.

Once a wise old doctor said it was forty.

But the chaps who ought to have quit,

Just kept on running things—

Being presidents of banks, and factories, and countries—

And winning wars.

Just like Goodrich Tires!

You never can tell when they're through—

For they keep on grinding out mileage—

After you haven't a right to expect more miles.

That's because Goodrich makes them husky of body — with thick, wide BLACK SAFETY TREADS.

And puts so much durability into them—

That when they start,

They go on piling up Goodrich service value.

LETTER FROM MR. J. H. BURNHAM

(DOES GOD PROHIBIT?)

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—The Rev. John Galt undertakes to say in his letters that God does prohibit. If the Creator does prohibit or has prohibited anything in the sense that total prohibition is used by the prohibitionists let the reverend gentleman name it.

He says, "how about disease germs. Do we permit or prohibit them? To ask the question is to answer it." Well! Since Mr. Galt asks the question but fails to answer it because he cannot answer it as he would wish, I will answer it for him. Health is defined by scientists to be a perfect balance of all that affects the system. Life is the struggle to keep that balance. No one would pass a law prohibiting disease. To keep us clear of disease nature would apply an antidote or counter agent continually. But neither God nor His nature prohibits the cause of disease, nor is man able to do more than preserve himself from attacks of it. Disease and drunkenness are parallel cases. They are a condition and that condition must be decided. The means of it cannot be "prohibited." That is the answer to Mr. Galt's question. Mr. Galt must stick fairly to the true meaning and intent of the words "Total Prohibition." It aims to extinguish the cause. God makes the yeast germ and the sugar granule, and if He did not there would not be one drop of alcohol in the whole world. It is the Creator and He alone, who furnishes the means for making alcohol. It is for us to use those means legitimately or stand condemned by Him. The man who brands then with loathing and contempt affirms that God should not have made them. Morally, no religiously, Mr. Galt and "the totals" have not a leg to stand on. Economically they can prohibit the result as in the case of unsanitary premises or actions, but they cannot prohibit the cause when properly and naturally used. I will be glad to debate the question "publicly" with Mr. Galt at any time between 7 and 10 days of the referendum if he cares to do so. No one wants the bar, but the 'Flu' showed how necessary whiskey is for the people.

J. H. BURNHAM.

GREEK ART IN PIANO BUILDING

When one speaks of Ionic in architecture one's thoughts are of Greek art in the sixteenth century.

Take a

in Ionic style, as shown in our illustration to-day. Here we have a happy illustration of one of the three orders of architecture invented by the Greeks—celebrated through all the ages—and one of the five recognized by Italian writers of the sixteenth century.

It will not surprise anyone to to be told that this Boudoir Upright in Ionic style is one of the most popular pianos made by "Ye Olde Firme"—and has been through all the years.

It contains all the special and exclusive features of these famous Canadian-made pianos, and is manufactured in fancy walnut and mahogany.

Above all else, it stands peer of pianos in beauty of tone, and possesses a delightfully flexible and finely adjusted touch.

COURT DISPENSED JUSTICE, LAW OF LESS CONSEQUENCE

A Few of Many Characters Who Lived and Throve in the Town.

(By F. H. Dobbin.)

From the time a community is able to stand on its feet and feed itself, so to speak, there is a demand for a meeting place for the men of the place. Where they can gather and make friendly and intimate discussion of local affairs, swap stories more or less antique and many a trifle off colour, exchange opinions and lay down principles and proclaim practice. That is what democracy in its freest sense stands for. The meeting place may be homely, afforded without money and without price, but it is none the less availed. The cross roads country store is an example. Often as not in the small town the business place of some fairly prominent man is selected. So following, and in line with the best traditions, Peterborough had such facility both offered and provided.

In the first few years following on incorporation as a town weighty matters were to be settled. The men handling public affairs were of the most virile and resourceful of the inhabitants. Municipal affairs, while directly affecting the welfare of the town site had previously been handled through representation by one or two men on the township council of the township of North Monaghan, so situated that there was not much opportunity for action, even if the interests involved seemed important. All this was changed when the town came to handle its own affairs, and the men, good and true, selected for the successive councils, found as was to be expected, that plenty of advice would be available, that there were others who knew better how to run the municipality, who made prolific suggestion, all just as we now have it and probably will continue for all time to come.

Either by consent, or survival of the fittest, or by some uannounced process of selection the store of James Stevenson came to be a civic rendezvous, especially of fall and winter nights. In the store the wisdom of the town congregated. As the business included the selling of stoves and heaters and as such appliances were of about the right height to form convenient seats, of an evening men would gather and discuss, yarn, proclaim, dispute, wrangle and argue and do anything but make speeches. Speeches and eloquence were both strictly frowned on. Men have been reproved for attempting the thing by the application of a stove lid judiciously applied.

Absence of Discussion.

There was little use for committees of Council, except as a perfunctory mode of assent to what would be proposed, for the whole thing had been settled in the store previously. It really amounted to having a sub-committee of twenty or thirty to pass on given propositions, and when threshed out by the volunteer advice givers there was little left to say. So reading reports of council, for the first ten years after incorporation one is struck with the absence of discussion. With the almost unanimous decisions reached. With the almost general assent to what was proposed. The reason being that it had all been settled in Stevenson's store.

Into this store, in particular, flocked the town characters. The locality seemed to breed such. Men of odd dispositions and equally queer convictions. Being busy in the day time the store formed a sort of club and debating society. If a man had a hobby he brought it forward especially if some newcomer could be corralled off in a corner and forced to stand for the explanation. The old hands at the bellows grew wary and doged the pleadings. And as the stores never closed at night as long as a sixpence was in sight from ten to eleven was the hour at which to put up the shutters. These were kept, under the window, in a sort of bin, closed with a door. The junior clerk hauled the shutters forth, erected them to cover the window and fastened securely in place with a flat iron bar, secured by a bolt from the inside.

A man conspicuous in the life of the town, and who had settled in Peterboorugh about the year 1882 and passed away in 1076, was James T. Henthorn. Acquired considerable property which increased in value as the town progressed, and from his business dealings built several business blocks. A member of the town council and in other ways identified with the activities of the locality.

Town Character.

If the town developed characters, he was one. Tall, dignified, important and pompous, he proclaimed himself on introduction is James Trotter Henthorn, Esq., J.P. begad. Always that identical form of identification. Nothing ambiguous, clearly decisive. As possibly the best known of all the Justices of the Peace, at a time when the function carried authority and position and 83 of these officials scattered through the town and vicinity he made the most of his title and perogative. Always attired in solemn black, frock coat and gigantic white collar and the old-fashioned black stock, his was a personality to strike awe into the spirit of the culprit brought before him. He wore as a head piece, winter and summer, a white plug hat with a black hat band, at once the insigna of a gentleman and a person. The majesty of the law found in him a most worthy representative.

His was the case to which most of the cases that deserved strokes of the arm of the law were hailed. He had it clearly understood that he dispensed justice, not law. Woe betide the lawyer who grew canny in pleading a case before him. He defied the Statues. Ruthlessly waded through argument, took incredibly short cuts to a conclusion and Oliver Cromwell himself was not more arrogant on occasion. He held court in a room adjoining his office, in the block now occupied by Kent's drug store, at the corner of George and Hunter streets. At that time the building included the fruit store, next door to the drug store, and the office and court room were reached by an outside staircase, side of the building.

He at times frankly claimed that he gained his knowledge of jurisprudence, as he put it, from a careful perusal of the Wisdom of Solomon, which cheerful admission is hereby tendered to consideration of all and singular. At times he swore like the army in Flanders, (that is the old army, not the recent.) And be it said, that his justice was not always, but nearly so, tempered with mercy.

Cases in Point.

As samples of his operations two may be retailed. Two out of possible hundreds, for the the court was a popular resort. A lawyer, now one of our most mature and respected residents of the city, was pleading a case, and undertook to quote from the statute in such cases made and provided. He offered to read the section if the Squire would hand to him the volume. Wrath sprang to the eyes of the Justice and indignation to his voice. "G'lang you pettifoger, what'd you come here for. To teach your father to suck eggs. Sit down, d'ye hear, sit down. Think I buy statutes for you to peruse. Go, buy your own. Don't poach on my preserves." Before the pleader could return to court fortified with the text, the case had been dismissed, on the plea of a lame argument. Little wonder that he was proclaimed a bulwark of the people against the machinations of the law.

On Harvey street, second lot north of the corner of McDonnel street, stood Britton's cooper shop. Mr. Britton had a dog which he much cherished. His boys also championed this dog. Whatever the breed it was most insufferably ugly though as is generally the case with such dogs, quiet and affectionate. Along the south side of McDonnel street was the fence of the school yard, the school just completed and opened. Boys were playing in the yard, among them young Roger, now Judge G. M. Roger, of Cobourg. The dog crawled through the fence and came under the view of the boys, one of whom wacked the dog with a stick. It left for home howling, and aroused John Britton. After some personal inquiry he settled on Roger as the culprit. Said he would have justice and knew where to get it. The case before Squire Henthorn, T. M. Fairbairn for the defence of Roger. With summary promptness the court heard the prosecution., Mr. Britton was a respected citizen, the dog a friend of the prosecutor. Both were in court. Mr. Britton did not ,he said, see Roger strike the dog, but he was sure that he looked like a boy that would do so did opportunity offer. Closed the case for the prosecution, and the defence undertook to plead. Before Mr. Fairbairn could produce evidence from the other boys that it was not Roger who committed the assault, (for being the son of a clergyman, he would not be gifted in such action) the Squire closed Mr. Fairbairn up by roaring at him that he'd have Mr. Fairbairn understand that the court would have no prevaracation or chincanery, the solicitor stood not in a court of law but a court of equality (meaning a court of equity). And a summary fine of ten shillings was inflicted and paid.

A Set-Back.

The Squire suffered a set back in his self-esteem when the popularity and significance of the white plug hat with the black hat band was hopelessly ruined. William Eastland, on occasion, thinking to further introduce the brand of hat, imported from England a consignment of ten dozen. On the way over the ship had much stormy weather, and when the hats were unpacked they were damaged by sea water. At the moment a river man, one of the crib-running fraternity, stepped in to buy him a pair of socks. Seeing the hats, and finding that they were to be reduced in price, and Eastland seeing some commercial advantage, instead of total loss, sold one to the man for a trifle. On wearing it to the cookery crib, others were fired with ambition to be so arrayed, and within the week the entire assortment of one hundred and twenty hats was worn to and fro on the streets and up and down the river by men, otherwise clad in red shirts, yellow duck trousers, socks of doubtful colour and paternity and leather shoe packs, the latter a sort of glorified moccasin, and much in favor and so the popularity and significance of the white plug hat passed away.

A Specialty.

As the old Squire specialized in austerity, his two sons excelled in another attribute. Both were incorrigible jokers and waggish. At a time when the practical jokes took the place now filled by the movie and other forms of entertainment. Bill Henthorn and his brother-accomplice, Dave. Bill kept a saloon, the resort of bucolic spirits and fellow jokers. On one occasion, being at a public dinner, and the toast of "The Bar" being proposed, Bill Henthorn got to his feet and gravely went on to make response, despite the consternation of chairman, who had some big gun selected for the operation. Bill claimed that he had the very best of right to make a speech. Had not he been practising at the bar for fifteen years. Had not his practise been approved. You bet it had. Were not, he might ask, nearly the entire congreagtion before him his personal clients. Some of them he averred, couldn't be driven away with a clothes pole. And amidst laughter and cheers he rambled on while the audience encouraged him to elocutionary effort.

At another dinner, tendered to an arriving or departing citizen, and served and eaten in the banquet room of the old Caisse Hotel. (the building now juts out into the yard behind the C.P.R. up-town office), Dr. Kincaid was set down to respond to a certain toast. The doctor considered himself something of a speiler when he had been given a fair start and had secured his second wind. Bill Henthorn knew and appreciated, and came to the function provided with a good-sized placard, which during the course of dinner being served, managed to pin to the back of the Doctor's dress coat. When the speaker stood up to address the chairman and gathering he was greeted with uproarious applause, long and continued. He pitched in and excelled his record, being inspired by the wealth of popular appreciation, and did not find out, until after the close of the evening that the card his back had displayed, carried the printed legend, "I'm Something of a Liar, Myself."

A Calamity.

Near the corner of Aylmer and Sherbrooke, (west side of Aylmer, and on the ground to be presently covered by the new building for the Utilities Commission). can be found the remains of a big stone chimney. Woven into the life of the house that stood there and the chimney that served it, hangs a story.

Among the men of eccentric habit of life that infested the town in its pre-incorporation days was a Capt. Bagot an officer from the British service retired on half-pay. He had come into the district, with others, and for a time ventured in farming on lands in Harvey along the shore of Buckhorn Lake. The upper lakes townships had many such men, who came in with the idea of a life of some farming and plenty of fishing and hunting. In lapse of time the farming end of the proposition suffered. There was much of isolation and the winters were severe.

Capt. Bagot drifted down to Peterborough and built for his residence a house on the lot as indicated. With a hewn frame covered with clap-boards. A conspicuous feature was the large stone fire-place, the usual means of heating. At the time Canadian barley was coming into favour in the American market, as hard barley, of Canadian growth, was esteemed to be the very best in the brewing of beer. Capt. Bagot bought some barley, and sent it out and further on was given a tip that peas would be a very good buy, and that they were likely to be very scarce across the lakes and in New York state.

He decided that he would switch from the avocation of collecting grists of barley and turn his attention to peas. He had some money, his credit was excellent, and he interested others in the venture, causing it to be known that he was ready to buy all that came along. He decided that for convenience of handling he would store the peace as acquired, on his own premises. There was little of public storage available and what there was seemed not desirable. The first arrivals were deposited in the woodshed, it having been prepared for use. As he had caused it to be known with great fluency that he was paying the highest prices and would accept all that was offered he had a rush of sellers. This attention filled the shed and the accumulation overflowed into the back kitchen. In a time that reservoir was nicely filled and then he took thought. Upstairs at the east end of the house a couple of bed rooms were practically unused. And a river of peas still coming on.

He boarded up the windows, also the doors and poured the peas on the floor, hauling the bags up by a rope to a window that gave on to the hall. Presently additional boards were strapped across the doors and when about six feet in depth of peas had accumulated the unexpected happened. The reader may now pause and reflect how speedily adversity may trample on the heels of prosperity. It sure did.

As was the habit of the time, and not unreasonable also, he had economized in his house construction. The rafters of the ceiling and of the roof were made out of small pines or cedars, roughly hewn and flatted on both sides, to hold the split lath, (board lath it was called), and the floor. Likewise the boarding of the roof. Such construction had little strength. On a certain day in November of the year, there came a heavy fall of wet snow and sleet and afterward rain, followed by a very strong wind. The roof gave way under the weight, and as it cracked the stone chimney dislodged about four feet of its height bang on the roof. Any reluctance the roof had to let go vanished and the chimney and roof boards with the wet snow came down into the rooms. All this added to the weight of the cargo of peas, proved to be more than the floor of the bedrooms could stand. The floor let go and the whole assortment of chimney, roof and peas descended to the living room below, almost filling up the space available. The rain continued to fall during the night and a part of the day following, and poured through the breach in the roof. The peas swelled to an extent that the side of the house was burst out and the contents of the room poured out into the garden.

Small pieces of camphor scattered in the cupboards keep away mice.

CARNEGIE EPIGRAMS

The following is a collection of epigrams uttered by the late Andrew Carnegie, and they let a flood of light into the inner recesses of the great millionaire's character. They may, however, throw some doubt on the question of whether he consistently lived up to his convictions on certain matters:

"It is a low and vulgar ambition to amass money."

"Wealth confers no fame. Nor are the memories of millionaires, as a class, fondly cherished."

"Where wealth is left free, as a rule it passes in three generations from shirt sleeves to shirt sleeves."

"We may safely trust those who have not made the money to prove adepts in squandering it."

"To keep a fortune is scarcely less difficult than to acquire it."

"We must all learn the great truth, that only competence is desirable."

"Gigantic fortunes in the nature of things must be fewer and harder to build up in the future than in the past."

"The instinct which led the slave-holder to keep his slave in ignorance, was a true one. Educate man and his shackles fall."

"Labour, capital, and business ability are the three legs of a three-legged stool; neither is first, neither is second, neither is third; there is no precedence, all being equally necessary. He who would sow discord among the three, is an enemy to all."

TALKING IN THE HOUSE

NO BUSINESS READY FOR COMMONS WITH TREATY STANDING TILL MONDAY.

SO TO SPEECH-MAKING

OPPOSITION LEADER, PREMIER, AND MEMBERS CARRY ON TO SLIM HOUSE.

OTTAWA, Sept. 5.—Consideration of the Treaty of Peace has been postponed until Monday on the understanding that the debate will be concluded by next Thursday. It is already apparent that the critics will concentrate their fire on Article Ten of the Covenant of the League of Nations, which has met with strong opposition in the United States.

The Speaker saved Premier Borden from an embarrassing situation yesterday afternoon when Mr. Arthur Trahan, of Nicolet, asked Sir Robert point blank if it was true that the Canadian delegates to the Versailles Conference made a strongly-worded protest against the provisions of Article Ten as originally drafted.

A Confidential Document.

The Premier hesitated and finally said that he had really nothing to add to his speech of Tuesday, when he discussed some of the points of the Treaty, but failed to touch at any length on the contentious Article Ten, which guarantees the territorial integrity of thirty-two nations. He admitted that there were some provisions respecting which the Canadian delegates made certain representations in a confidential document, and added that many of the objections raised were covered by the modifications made in the revised covenant.

"What about Article Ten?" pressed Mr. Trahan.

The Premier was saved by Mr. Speaker, who held that such questions could not properly be submitted on the orders of the day.

CHARGES THAT TWO ALDERMEN BLOCKED HOUSING PROPOSITION

CLAIMS KITCHENER COUNCILLOR LEFT MEETING WITHOUT QUORUM.

KITCHENER, Sept. 5. — Ald. H. M. Bowman and W. T. Iler, came in for severe criticism from Ald. Uttley at a meeting of the city council. The propositoin was to be dealt with and Ald. Uttley claimed that the two aldermen when they came to the lobby of the chamber and ascertained that there were only seven councillors present left and remained absent from the meeting which as a result lacked the nine members necessary for a quorum.

Secretary Ellis of the Provincial Housing Commission was present to explain the bylaw, and Managers N. M. Davidson and Martin of the Dominion Rubber System were also on hand, but nothing was done.

Mr. Davidson promised to hold the offer of the company open until Monday at midnight. The mayor has already arranged to call a special meeting for Monday night to deal with it. The offer of the company is to build 200 houses under the housing act, and to guarantee the city to the full amount of the money necessary.

Ald. Uttley declared that the two aldermen had committed a grave injustice against the ratepayers by their failure to represent them when an issue was to be discussed in which the highest interests of the city were involved.

Eight of the aldermen were absent from the meeting, one of whom was out of the city.

UNANIMOUS FOR STRIKE

DETROIT, Mich.—Of 175,000 ballots counted up to-day, only 2,000 are against a strike of maintenance-of-way employees and railroad shopmen of the United States and Canada, according to officers here.

William Robson, assistant to Grand President A. E. Barker, of the organization, says 600,000 votes will be taken and will be almost unanimous in favour of a walkout. Action will be considered by the grand heads at the brotherhood's convention, to open here September 9.

The claim is made that a strike of maintenance-of-way men would completely tie up all the railroads on the

VALUE OF REST.

Your physician will tell you that whenever possible you should lie down for a little rest each day. To do so will take some of the load off that faithful heart of yours which keeps pumping away without cessation day and night. Your physician will explain that when sitting down, as compared with standing, you save your heart nine beats a minute, and that when you lie down you take off an additional six beats. So merely lying down means less pumping to be done, and less wear and tear on the body's most vital organ. — Thrift Magazine.

It was washing-day, and John had been kept from school to look after the baby. Mother sent them into the garden to play, but it was not long before cries disturbed her.

"John, what is the matter with baby now," she enquired from her wash-tub.

"I don't know what to do with him, mother," replied John. "He's dug a hole and waits to bring it into the house."

An inspector of Irish schools was recently examining a class in geography. He had given a question in logitude and received a correct answer.

"Ah, now, what is latitude; can any boy tell me?"

After brief silence a bright youngster, with a merry twinkle in his eye said:

Please, sir, we have no latitude in Ireland."

QUIT MEAT WHEN KIDNEYS BOTHER

TAKE A GLASS OF SALTS BEFORE BREAKFAST IF YOUR BACK HURTS OR BLADDER IS TROUBLING YOU.

No man or woman who eats meat regularly can make a mistake by flushing the kidneys occasionally, says a well known authority. Meat forms uric acid which excites the kidneys, they become overworked from the strain, get sluggish and fail to filter the waste and poisons from the blood, then we get sick. Nearly all rheumatism, headaches, liver troubles, nervousness, dizziness, sleeplessness and urinary disorders come from sluggish kidneys.

The moment you feel a dull ache in the kidneys or your back hurts, or if the urine is cloudy, offensive, full of sediment, irregular of passage or attended by a sensation of scalding, stop eating meat, and get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and in a few days your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate the kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer causes irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep the kidneys clean and active and the blood pure, thereby avoiding serious kidney complications.

IT PAYS TO PATRONIZE THE HOME TOWN

BY E. H. TROWERN, SECRETARY DOMINION EXECUTIVE COUNCIL, THE RETAIL MERCHANTS' ASSOCIATION OF CANADA, OTTAWA.

The great pivot upon which the affairs of the world swing is individual responsibility. Millions upon millions of tons of literature are being spread throughout the world in all languages every year, calling attention to the wrongs of society as a whole, but in the final analysis these wrongs can never be entirely righted until every individual in every community takes an individual responsibility upon himself or herself to see that they are righted. Pure unadulterated selfishness is at the root of all the trouble. Strange as it may seem, no person can do a selfish thing or commit an unfair act without having to pay the price themselves, or in other words, "there is a price ticket on everything."

Take for instance, a group of persons who are employed in a manufacturing plant, or in any other institution, who conceive the idea that if they bought certain lines of staple goods in bulk at wholesale prices and divided them up among themselves, that they would save money and thereby benefit themselves or in other words they would be adding to their earning power. If the plant or institution in which they were working was located in a prosperous village or town their action would affect the legitimate retail merchants who were endeavoring to serve them in the town and the result would be that the retail merchants who formerly handled the lines which were purchased by these persons at wholesale prices would cease handling those lines and in order to pay their would have to increase the cost of the would have to inrease the cost of the other lines which they carried and which these employers required. What benefit therefore would be gained by transactions of that character? If you want to do your fellow citizens, the retail merchants an injustice, by interfering with their trade for the purpose of endeavoring to benefit yourself for selfish purposes, you have to pay the price in the end, either in money or in loss of service. This rule applies to every walk in life and you cannot evade it.

The more retail stores we have in the community the better the community will be served. Competition is the most sacred method in the world and it should never be interfered with. Retail merchants open stores in various locations because they believe that they can do business in those locations, or in other words they take the individual responsibility and consequently the risk. Is this not as it should be? Would any sane person suggest that the government should decide as to where and when stores should be opened, as was attempted in Germany? We think not. The basic foundation upon which every community is built is the action and decision of the individual. They locate where they themselves decide is the best for them, and around them others associate and in this way our community life is built up.

We therefore repeat again that the great pivot upon which the affairs of the world swing is individual responsibility. Each individual in every community is there because in their opinion it suits them best, otherwise they would leave and go to some other place.

To build a healthy and a prosperous community as well as a contented community, money must circulate freely. It can only circuate according to the desires of each individual. If the stores were full of goods and no one wanted to purchase them because a large number of people sent their money out of town the stores would soon close and be "out at the knees." If those who sent their money out of town to mail order houses owned property in the town, or were employed by the town in any capacity their property would soon depreciate in value and, as we stated before, they would be "paying the price" for their selfishness, which would again prove that "there is a price ticket for everything." You cannot do a mean trick to anyone without having to pay the price, and this is just as true of every city, town or village.

Twenty-five men sat at a table and it was discovered that they all owed one another ten dollars apiece. The first man handed his neighbour ten dollars and it was passed around thus paying debts amounting to two hundred and fifty dollars, and the first man received it back again. Let us suppose that money was short in that town and the first man sent the ten dollar bill away to a mail order house—how long do you think those debts would be outstanding. The more that money is kept circulating in the home town the better chance every*one has to float his or her services*, or their merchandise, and they both mean the same thing in the end. Money is only accumulated industry, and everyone can get some if they only work for it, and the chief thing is to see that it does not get cornered by one or two huge monopolies who can then control labour.

If Canada had five hundred thousand prosperous towns she would be immensely better off than if she had only half a dozen large cities. There are no slum sections in the towns. To their credit it can be said that the townspeople look after their poor. No man, woman or child need starve while the townspeople have bread. They know one another better than do the people of the large cities, as they are nearer to each other. It has been stated that Canada to-day could accommodate itself to ten million farmers and then have room for many more. Does that not mean much for the towns? The first question that a prospective purchaser of a farm asks is, "How near is it to a town?" Is that not a proper question to ask? The town is the heart blood of the community; it is the bright social spot in the life of every farming district; it is the one thing that binds the boys and the girls to the old home. Kill your towns by sending your money away to the mail order houses, and you are thrusting the knife into the very heart of Canada. Build up your towns by keeping your money in local circulation and you are building up production and helping your manufacturing interests, and making the people more contented and happy, and by spending your money in the home town you are creating better stores, a greater variety of stocks, better service to the community, and you are securing lower prices through having local competition.

Buy in your home town and be a booster for it.

MORALITY EAST AND WEST

Japan and America Differ Respecting Kisses in Moving Pictures.

"Is America more moral than Japan?" asks an American church publication, and then goes on to prove, by implication at any rate, that she isn't, chiefly because Japanese moving pictures are kissless—and ours aren't.

The publication quotes this from the Japanese Society Bulletin: "The police of Japan do not like to see kissing in public, therefore film stars are not permitted to osculate on the screen. From November 1 last to March 1 the police censor removed 2,350 kisses from films. Only one kiss was allowed to remain. It was a kiss granted to Columbus by Queen Isabella, and was shown in Tokio only. Then the censors wiped it out before permitting the photo-play to be exhibited in the Japanese provinces."

Mind you, there is no suggestion in the Japanese Society Bulletin that the police do not like to see kissing in public because they have any fault to find with a kiss as a kiss. The American church publication is responsible for that inference. For all we know, the conduct of the Japanese police may be due to an unconquerable envy, or to the attitude that a kiss is too enjoyable to be shared with the public. As a matter of fact, however, to be quite serious, the Japanese do not kiss at all, whether in public or private. It isn't because they consider it immoral— or unsanitary, either—but because it isn't the custom, that's all.

If a lover's kiss is prima facie evidence of immorality, America is rotten to the core, for it is to be doubted whether there is any other place on the face of the broad green earth where a kiss is so much enjoyed as it is in these good old United States. And, recalling the unsurpassed beauty of American girlhood and womanhood, with such sufficient reason. What with the goings to and comings from war, an incalculably larger number of persons than in a normal period have qualified to speak with authority on the subject—and no great wave of crime has so far swept the country. Instead there has been merely an abnormal increase in the activities of clergymen and an unprecedented rush of business on the part of household furnishing stores.

All of which is very good for America—now and hereafter.—Newark News.

"An' how long are you sentenced for?" persisted the other.

"From now on," the murderer answered sourly.

BROMPTON AND CATTLE FOUGHT A DRAW IN LIVELY TEN ROUNDS

Judging by the attendance at the boxing bouts in the Brock street rink last night, Peterborough's sporting fraternity are not very much interested in the ring game. The fight fans who stayed away were the sufferers, however, for they missed a rattling good bout between Young Cattle of Toronto and Kid Brompton of New York. It was a ten round affair, and Referee George Graham gave his decision as a draw, a verdict that pleased the crowd.

Cattle, who was overseas with the 16th Battalion, is a rangy, red-headed individual, who is a battler all the way, and in Brompton he met another mixer of the same sort, with the result that the fans were given a lively mill. The pair mixed it freely, and each was willing to take a punch any time for the chance of handing one back. Half a dozen times they traded four or five wallops, and it looked for a while as if the bout would not go ten rounds.

Brompton seemed to be in the better shape of the two and lasted better than his gingery-haired opponent, but the latter was game as a pebble and won the crowd by his willingness to mix things, even when he was manifestly tired. It was a clever, hard-hitting bout, with none of the lady-like tactics that sometimes characterize clashes of this kind, and the ten-round mill was ample return for the admission money.

A number of local boys were seen in action in the preliminaries. The first bout brought together John Jordan, who was overseas with the 21st Battalion, and Albert Legros, who fought in France with the 4th Battery, C.F.A. They went three rounds without hurting each other much.

Two "kid,s" Lavery and Campbell, clashed in a three round go and the youngsters mixed it up in lively fashion.

The last preliminary was between two local boys, Dugan and Anthony, and the pair put on a good exhibition, both showing much promise. The decision was a draw, as in the other bouts.

A wrestling match between Fred Dunsford and J. L. Minard, two Peterborough mat artists, was an interesting feature of the programme. Both did some clever work and it took eight minutes of hard wrestling before Minard succeeded in pinning Dunsford's shoulders to the mat.

OKE WON THE M'KONE CUP

FINAL GAME WAS PLAYED LAST EVENING ON LOCAL GREEN.

The destination of the McKone Cup was definitely decided last night when Walter Oke defeated Arthur Gilliam in the final game, by one shot, after playing an extra end. For the first eight ends, Gilliam, who received a handicap of 6 points, held his opponent down to an even score, retaining his handicap, and it looked as if he would win out. From that point, however, the veteran gradually overhauled the younger player, and at the fifteenth end the score was a tie, Oke winning in the extra end by one shot, after one of the most exciting and best games seen on the local greens this year.

On Monday night the contest in the Doubles for the Clarke Trophy will commence. The draw will be made to-day and announced in the daily papers on Monday.

Owing to the season being so far advanced it is necessary that the games be played as scheduled, and no postponements will be allowed.

For the first round, which will occupy two nights, it will be necessary to play two games each night, commencing at 7.15 and 8.30. Full announcements will be made in Monday's papers.

TY COBB IS LEADING RACE

(Canadian Press.)

Chicago, Sept. 6—As the clubs of the American League swung into the final months of the pennant race, Ty Cobb is leading for batting championship, which, with the exception of two seasons, has been in his possession for twelve years.

The unofficial average realised today shows the Georgian hitting 371.21 points ahead of Oscar Veach, his team mate and closest batting rival.

In 104 games Cobb has knocked out 155 safe hits, for a total of 210 bases. The average includes the games of Wednesday.

Ed. Roush, Cincinnati star, suffered a setback in his attack for National League batting honours, dropping to third place with an average of 323.

Cravath of Philadelphia clung to the leadership with 340.

THE ENEMY WILL BE BARRED FROM OLYMPIC MEET

(United Press.)

NEW YORK, N.Y., Sept. 6.—German and Austrian athletes have been barred from the Olympic Games in 1920, and may be perpetually disfranchised from participating in all International sports.

This announcement was made last night at the dinner at the University Club by Elwood S. Johnson, director of "Y" athletics in the American Expeditionary Force, who has just returned from a conference with the Belgian Olympic Committee.

Germany will be denied admission next year, and France and Belgium will propose to make them ineligible people, said Johnson.

The Games will be held next year in an immense stadium outside of Antwerp that was used by the Germans during their occupation, and used for training soldiers and their "Turnvereins."

LOCKHART WILL VISIT PETERBORO

AUGMENTED PERFORMANCE AT THE GRAND OPERA HOUSE

The Grand Theatre start their augmented autumn programme with an act that has taken the American continent by storm, and next Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday will see Eugene Lockhart here, not one of his understudys or his many impersonators, but he himself, to present an act at once unique and new to a Peterborough audience. Eugene Lockhart as everyone knows, is the prince of drawing room entertainers and America's greatest pianologuist. Lockhart has appeared before the local public before when he was the leading man with the Pierrot Players, and he was a star in that aggregation of stars who toured the continent in that tremendous musical comedy success, "The Red Widow." Raymond Hitchcock, one of the foremost actors on the North American stage, also played in this Charles Dillingham production. Lockhart is an all-round player. He was the greatest half-back that Varsity ever produced, but his fame in sports is completely eclipsed by his notable stage career. In order that the photoplays may not be put entirely in the shade by Mr. Lockhart's expensive act, Manager Harry Dahn has made a special effort and Pauline Frederick in "The Woman on the Index," Charlie Chaplin starring in "The Busted Johnny," wherein a dress suit plays a conspicuous part, and another great attraction which has been promised Mr. Dahn, but which has not yet arrived but is well worth the extra effort in obtaining it, will complete a performance which will be at once interesting and instructive to local theatre-goers.

DOROTHY DALTON AT THE ALLEN

PICTURE SHOW MOVIE STAR IN A SPLENDID ROLE.

Dorothy Dalton, beautiful and charming as ever, scored a decisive hit in her new photoplay "Quicksand", a superb Thomas H. Ince, Paramount production. Speaking recently of her new photoplay, Miss Dalton said to an interviewer in California:—

"Mary Bowen, the character I have tried to make real in "Quicksand", is the very sort of courageous girl who is proving every day in these stressful times, that a woman is capable of doing whatever is necessary if put to the test. Her devotion to her husband, and her struggles in his behalf were quite real and I found myself living Mary Bowen's life and experiencing with the greatest poignancy the feelings she would naturally have had under the circumstances.

"The cast, I think, is excellent and the story one that cannot fail to appeal. I really believe this will be one of my best pictures for Paramount and I hope the public will feel the same about it."

Miss Dalton is correct regarding the cast and story of "Quicksands." The cast s excellent and the story has a charm of its own which will be appreciated by all who see the picture.

BUSINESS GIRLS HELD A PICNIC

PORK AND BEANS A FEATURE ON THE PROGRAMME.

Twenty-three members of the Business Girls Club enjoyed a most successful picnic yesterday at Dam 5. The girls, who assembled at Mr. J. E. A. Fitzgerald's office at 6 o'clock, were driven to the picnic ground in a truck very kindly furnished by Mr. Fitzgerald, who also supplied not only the chauffeur but buffalo robes, flags and pennants. On arrival at dam 5 the gay picnickers built a bonfire and had a splendid hot supper of pork and beans, pie and all other items of a picnic menu which go to making such an occasion a gastronomical success. At ten o'clock they returned to the city.

"MY SOLDIER GIRL" AT GRAND NEXT SATURDAY

When the brilliant musical spectacle "My Soldier Girl," makes its initial bow before the local theatre goers at the Grand, Saturday, September 13th, matinee and evening, the reason for the success of this popular musical play will impress itself upon the auditor at once. There is action both in music and dialogue from the rise to the fall of the final curtain. Scenic beauty and gorgeous costumes delight the eye and tuneful melodies are abundant. It requires more than money or hard work or experience to prepare such a production as is to be seen in "My Soldier Girl." The excellent cast and bewitching beauty chorus help to make the performance complete while the tuneful music is a tower of strength, since it is of the sort that makes the head "nod" and the foot "tap."

There are two acts—the first opens at Miami, Florida, during a lawn fete given at Colonel Stone's home in honor of "overseas" boys and girls, whom he had the pleasure of meeting during his own personal service while "over there" with the Red Cross. The last act is an elaborate stage setting for the Follies, which is in its final dress rehearsal and presents a shower of gold and silver. Nothing prettier has geen produced than "My Soldier Girl" presents in its little story.

FLOOD OF THRILLS MAKES PAULINE FREDERICK GASP

It is not at the end of "The Woman in the Index," Pauline Frederick's first Goldwyn Picture, that surprising events take place. So liberally is the George Broadhurst play supplied with climaxes that the spectator is kept wondering what will happen next.

The first episode carries more material than is often found in an entire production. Indeed, so rich a field did the adaptation of the piece offer to Willard Mack that his greatest problem was how to use it all without neglecting anything. And its many thrills even made thrill-proof Pauline Frederick gasp.

Shortly after "The Woman on the Index" begins we see Sylvia Martin fainting from hunger, being carried into a crook's den. She is revived, and is grateful to her new found friends, whose evil calling she does not suspect. It is successfully concealed from her and eventually she responds to the wooing of one of them and marries him. He is eager to live up to his wife's ideals and it is only with the understanding that it shall be his last job that he consents to join his pals in a robbery.

Accidentally Sylvia overhears their conversation when they return, successful. Tempestuously she dashes aside the curtain of the alcove and confronts them. Her heart is breaking with the pain of disillusionment and humiliation. Miss Frederick portrays this graphically. Her extraordinary eyes flash fire, then fill with tears. It is a poignant moment, and coming so soon in the play, causes the spectator to ask what more can be done to supply a thrill.

"The Woman on the Index," with all its twists and turns, comes to the Grand Theatre on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

A RUNNING ACCOUNT

Cartoons Magazine:—A New Yorker with a country place on Long Island has a quaint old neighbor who owned a good many pigs.

One day the quaint old neighbor had been away to the pasture counting his potential ham and bacon. He is not particularly bright old fellow, but is able, with some difficulty to count his possesions.

The New Yorker asked him:—"Well, Mr. Jones, how many pigs have you?"

"I dunno ,exactly," said Mr. Jones, "I counted 'em all except one little run, and he kept running around so I couldn't count him."

IRRITABLE-NERVES RESTORED AND HEALTH REGAINED IN A SIMPLE WAY

The man or woman who is run-down, not feeling up to the mark, perhaps irritable, nervous, or sleepless, can well afford to learn about the wonderful results the newly discovered blood-food is giving to folks that use it.

There is wonderful power in this new blood-food, and every weak, pallid person can be quickly nourished back to health that uses it as directed.

After each meal, with a sip or two of water, you simply take two little chocolate-coated tablets, sold in all drug stores under the name of "FERROZONE."

The effect is noticeable at once. You feel happier, brighter, more contented. That old-time feeling of weariness departs—you forget your "nerves," and no longer get irritable or cross over trifling annoyances.

There is a reason for this change, and that reason consists of the fact that Ferrozone contains blood-making materials you can get in no other way.

Ferrozone makes the blood tingle and sing with new vitality. This ensures lots of nourishment and strength being supplied to every part of the body.

No wonder the eyes brighten and the cheeks radiate colour and happiness: With abundance of strength, a keen appetite, good digestion, and plenty of sound sleep—all the result of Ferrozone—you quickly feel as if life held new charms and pleasures.

THE NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 6. — Opening prices on the Stock market were irregular to-day. U. S. Steel opened at 104 off 7-8; Crucible at 169 1-2 up 1-2; Sinclair at 50 3-4 up 1-4; Pan-American at 118 3-4 up 1-2; Mexican Petroleum at 195 up 1-2; Studebaker at 116 off 3-4; Baldwin at 119 1-4 up 1-4; Marine at 59 3-4 up 1-8; and Southern Pacific at 100 3-8 off 5-8.

The market showed little distinct trend during the first hour of the session to-day. It was reported there is a marked inclination to await the announcement of the contents of the President's reply to Samuel Gompers.

Anaemic Paleness Quickly Changed To Rosy Cheeks

Chlorosis or anaemia is simply thinness of blood.

If confined too much indoors, anaemia develops, because the lungs are insufficiently supplied with oxygen, and the blood is consequently ill-nourished and half-starved.

But there is a cure!

Dr. Hamilton has solved the problem in his famous pills of Mandrake and Butternut; as a blood enricher their equal is not known.

All the functions upon which life depends are helped by Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Richness and purity are instilled with wonderful promptness into the vital fluid.

Healthy colour supplants the pallid, ashen face.

Better appetite, strong digestion, and dreamless sleep are sure to follow because of the increased blood supply furnished by Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Think it over.

Will it pay you to look and feel half-dead, to lack colour and spirit, when all can be changed by Dr. Hamilton's Pills?

Better act at once.

Your case is more curable now than later on.

Dr. Hamilton personally guarantees his pills of Mandrake and Butternut.

Their merit is unquestioned.

Thousands of anaemics they have cured and kept well.

They will do just the same for you. Try Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c per box.

TO MEMORY DEAR

The absence of those little prairie canaries—the frogs—has been a remarkable feature of this springtime. We have missed their little chirping exceedingly—and feel sorry for it. When there's abundance of water in the spring, these never-failing aquatic songsters fill the air incessantly with their music (?). Nevertheless, we like to hear them, as it augurs well for the farmer. Guess there will be but few 'skeeters this summer, too. Plenty of 'skeeters is another good omen for the husbandman. The old saying, "No mosquitoes, no crop," may have a lot of truth in it. But they are absent this year—in large numbers—for the same reason that the frogs are—no wet sloughs. If we had only our selfishness to think of, we should be glad of it, but we cannot have good and prosperous times for the farmers without the frogs and those little winged devils.—Lloydminster Times.

HIGH COST OF LIVING

BLAMES SHORTAGE IN PRODUCTION FOR HIGH COST OF LIVING

ASSIST BOARD

(Special to The Examiner.)

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 8.—"No reduction in the cost of living can be expected to result from the decision of the Board of Commerce to fix the prices of necessities."

This is the unanimous opinion of retailers and wholesalers interviewed about W. F. O'Connor's announcement in Ottawa that prices are to be fixed so that all dealers will be allowed only a fair margin of profit.

"The whole thing is a farce," said A. Macdonald, a wholesale grocer.

"If prices are fixed justly they will be higher than they are now," declared another merchant.

"Government regulations of prices is an impossibility," asserted a third.

"Shortage in production, not retail prices, is to blame for the present cost of living," said a fourth.

All retailers and wholesalers interviewed said they would assist Judge Robson and his Board as much as possible, of course, but they declared their belief that the Board was attacking the cost of living question from the wrong end.

POPULATION IS ON INCREASE

TORONTO STILL SHORT OF HALF MILLION MARK

(Special to Examiner.)

TORONTO, September 8. — Toronto's population as shown by the assessment rolls completed to-day, is 499,278. It falls short of the expected 500,000, despite an increase of 1,117 in Ward 3, the last to report.

No. 3 ward, which includes the business section, but which also stretches up to the top of North Toronto, west of Yonge street, shows an increase in population in every division, the first time that this has happened in years, as the lower portions of the ward are gradually being turned to business uses. The growth of population in these lower districts means increased overcrowding and is not regarded as a healthy sign.

A VICTROLA IN EVERY HOME

The easy way in which that prince of talking machines, the Victrola, is obtainable, makes it possible for the sweet persuasive influence of good music to be a part of any home. A Victrola can be purchased for so small a sum as $34.00, or something more elaborate for $76.00, or a mahogany Cabinet Victrola for $136.00. Why not a Victrola at once? The assortment in the handsome Victrola Parlours of Ye Olde Firme of Heintzman & Co., Limited, George and Hunter Streets, Peterborough, gives you an almost endless choice.

THE WEATHER

Ninety degrees in the shade is not common in the month of September, but such was the temperature that we were favored with yesterday. It was one of the hot days of the present year. Last night moreover holds the record for heat for this year. The lowest figure reached last night was 73 degrees. The warmest previous hot night was July 21st. The lowest the thermometer went that night was 70 degrees, so last night was three degrees the warmest of the year.—W.P.

"BLACK JACK" IS HOME

GEN. PERSHING RECEIVED A WARM WELCOME IN NEW YORK—A PUBLIC RECEPTION

THE PROGRAMME

(United Press.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Pershing came home to-day, the nation's idol. The Commander-in-Chief, symbolising the greatest of American armies, arrived on the giant transport Leviathan shortly after 8 o'clock.

Every State in the Union was represented in the crowds that massed along the water front in Manhattan, on Staten Island, and in New Jersey. Tens of thousands of visitors had been flocking to America's gate way for several days to greet the returning hero. There were delegations from El Paso, where he was stationed during Mexican border troubles; from Cheyenne, where his late wife lived before the marriage, from Laclede, the little Missouri town where he was born, and from nearly every city, village, and hamlet identified with him or with the great armed force he commanded.

Triumphal Entry.

From the moment the Leviathan reached Ambrose Light, a score of miles from the city, before five o'clock, her progress through the lower and upper bays and up the North River was a veritable "triumphal entry." The waters were dotted with gaily caparisoned craft of all descriptions, darting here and there or following importantly in the wake of their colossal sister. Their tooting whistles and bellowing syrens vied with the roaring cheers from their deckloads of passengers and the huge crowds on shore.

As the Leviathan slipped past Forts Hamilton and Wadsworth, the sharp barking of saluting guns echoed over the narrows. Overhead a group of airplanes which had met the Leviathan far out at sea, circled and dipped like huge dragonflies, the hum of their motors deadened by the confusion below.

Reception Committee.

In addition to this committee, there was a Congressional party. Following a brief interchange of greetings by Baker and Pershing on the pier, the entire party proceeded on the steamer patrol to Pier A, at the Battery, from which they sped in an automobile up Broadway to the City Hall. There they were tendered a reception by Mayor Hyland and other city officials in the Aldermanic Chamber.

From that moment until he leaves for Washington on Thursday evening, General Pershing will be the guest of the city.

The public reception at the City Hall was followed by a private reception at the Waldorf Hotel, which will be his headquarters while here. Hundreds of thousands massed in the streets along the route from the Battery to the City Hall, and from there to the hotel.

In the evening Pershing will be the guest of honour at a dinner by the Mayor's Reception Committee in the Ritz-Carlton Hotel.

Pershing Day.

To-morrow the schools will be dismissed at noon, and fifty thousand children will greet the General in Central Park. A reception will be given him in the evening in the Elks Club. From there he will go to another reception by the George Washington Memorial Association at Carnegie Hall.

Wednesday is Pershing Day. It has been decreed an official holiday. Pershing will lead the famous First Division up Fifth Avenue in what will probably be the most spectacular of the many parades held on that thoroughfare.

But to-day the nation's interest centres in the simple fact of his arrival. "Black Jack" Pershing is home.

PERSHING'S HEADQUARTERS TRAIN.

(United Press.)

PARIS, Sept. 8.—The presentation to the United States of the entire train in which General Pershing maintained his headquarters in 1918, is being considered by the French Government, it was learned to-day.

CATTLE MARKET

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, Sept. 8.—Receipts at the Union Stock Yards to-day were: 4,799 cattle, 565 calves, 2,180 hogs, 3,700 sheep and lambs.

Hogs continued on the decline, the packers bidding 50 cents lower for all grades, including to-morrow's loading. There were no actual price changes in other lines.

Choice export cattle, $13 to $14; choice butchers, $12 to $12.50; medium, $10.50 to $11; common, $8.50 to $10; bulls, $9 to $10; feeders, $10 to $11; choice stockers, $8.50 to $9.50; light, $7.50 to $8.50.

Ewes, $8 to $9; lambs, $14 to $14.50.

Hogs, fed and watered $19.25 to $19.75; fres on board $18.25 to $18.75.

Calves $18 to $19.

Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., Seeks The Backing of The Union Government

"THE MAN WHO UNDERTAKES TO THROW THE BONES OF THE CONSERVATIVE PARTY TO THE UNIONIST DOG WILL FIND HE HAS UNDERTAKEN TOO MUCH," DECLARES THE FEDERAL MEMBER

OTTAWA, Sept. 8.—The despatch from Peterborough stating that a petition is being circulated there for my recall on the ground of disapproval of my ceasing to pledge my support to the Unionist party "works out very peculiarly," Mr. Burnham told The Examiner in an interview here. "It is the first I have heard of the petition, and I don't believe any considerable body of electors are signing it. Up to my coming to Ottawa, I can say in truth that not one single human being in West Peterborough criticised my action toward Union Government. Everybody absolutely disapproves of a continuance of the Unionist party. Those who were Conservative demanded that the Conservative party be revived with its policy. Those who were Liberals were anxious to be freed from their obligation, which was only for the period of the war. My conduct was considered to be one of common good faith and was thoroughly approved of. I have wired to Peterborough that if there are any petitioners, as alleged, and if they get the backing of the Unionist Government, I will resign my seat and go to the mat with them in an election in an appeal to the people immediately. If the new Unionist party doesn't get a first-class licking, I'll miss my guess. The man who undertakes to throw the bones of the Conservative party to the Unionist dog will find he has undertaken too much, not to mention the betrayal of those Liberals who expected their trust to be returned to them after the war."

FIRE DEPARTMENT LOSE ENGINEER

ENGINEER P. PAMMETT DIED YESTERDAY MORNING—CONTRACTED BLOOD POISONING

Percy B. Pammett, 271 McDonnell street, engineer for the past two years on the Peterboro Fire Department, died yesterday morning at 9 o'clock at Nicholl's Hospital. He had been in perfect health until about six weeks ago when he took charge of the electrical display at the Polack Shows at the Exhibition Grounds and from that time complained of feeling ill. He, however, continued his duties at the Fire Hall until a week ago Sunday but gradually became worse until Saturday night when he was taken to the hospital. All that medical aid could do failed and although five physicians were called it was found impossible to save him and he finally succumbed to intestinal blood poisoning.

He was born at Young's Point thirty years ago and had held many responsible positions previous to joining the local fire department numbering amongst these engineer on the steamer "Empress" and on the Bob Hall". He also worked on the "Segina" on the Great Lakes a year before the "Regina" disaster. He moved to the city three years ago. In religion he was an Anglican and was a mason. There are left of his immediate family besides his wife and 9 year old daughter Bertha, his parents who reside on Stewart street, and four brothers, Robert, James, Melville and Norman all of Peterboro.

The funeral from the family residence will take place on Tuesday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock to Rae's Cemetery Lakefield. Canon Davidson will conduct the services and the funeral will be under Masonic auspices.

Mr. Pammett was a member of Clementi Lodge A.F. & A.M.

In respect to their dead comrade the late Engineer Percy Pammett, the members of the Fire Department draped the Fire Hall in black and purple to-day and hoisted the flag at half mast. The chief's car and the hose waggon suitably draped will take part in the funeral.

HONOURED BY FRENCH GOVT.

CAPTAIN DALTON, FAMOUS AVIATOR, AND LIEUT. VICTOR DALLIN, OF PETERBORO TO FLY AT THE FAIR

The Exhibition Board is fortunate in being able to bring to Peterboro for the three days of the Fair such an eminent aviator as Captain Salter, who holds the Legion of Honor, and the French Military Medal, from the French Government. Capt. Salter and Lieut. Victor Dallin, of Peterboro, who have been stunt flying at the Toronto Exhibition, will do their stunts in Peterboro at two o'clock each day of the fair and at 7.30 each evening and in addition will take up passengers regularly throughout the day and evening.

Applications for tickets may be handed to Weber F. Turner, R. M. Glover or T. H. Hooper.

SENATORS ARE ON THE WARPATH

WILL ANSWER WILSON'S ARGUMENTS ON THE PEACE TREATY

(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 8. — That President Wilson is arguing on the basis of what he sought to attain in the Versailles Peace Treaty, not what he got, is the reply of the Republican opponents of the Treaty are preparing to make.

Senators Johnson, Boras and Broderick were making final preparations to-day for their trip, upon which they will carry their arguments "to the country."

Johnson is preparing to answer every point by the President on his tour.

Johnson declared the President was entirely right when he said the covenant was greater than the government.

"And the question our people want to decide," he continued, "is whether they want to substitute this super government of a League of Nations for our Republic."

The Senator said he considered that giving Great Britain six votes in the League Assembly to one for the United States was a challenge to "our self respect and patriotic" disposition of this question would be a real issue.

CHANGES IN THE LOCAL "Y" STAFF

MISS CHARLOTTE LAYTON AND MISS EDITH PRYCE COMING HERE

Important changes have taken place recently on the staff of the Young Women's Christian Association. Miss Winnifred Parker, who for the past two years has occupied the position of general secretary, has left to spend a year at the National Training School of the Young Women's Christian Association in New York City. Miss Parker is well known in Peterborough as a leader of girls and has done much to bring the Association to its present position of usefulness in the city.

Miss Charlotte Layton, who succeeds Miss Parker, was formerly membership secretary of the Montreal Association and more lately in charge of the Activities Building in the north end. Miss Layton comes to Peterborough with a wide experience in Association work, and the Peterborough Y.M.C.A. is fortunate in securing her as general secretary.

Another change is in the Physical Department. Miss Littlefield, who during the past four years has been a most popular and successful teacher, has accepted the position as physical director of the Association in Quebec city, and will be succeeded in the work here by Miss Edith Pryce. Miss Pryce has recently returned from Chautauqua, N.Y., where she has been taking a summer normal course in physical work.

Y.W.C.A. Notes.

On Friday evening, Sept.12, a campers' re-union will be held at the Young Women's Christian Association. All girls who were at the Y.W.C.A. camp at Stoney Lake are invited to come.

The gymnasium classes will commence the last of September. It is hoped that girls intending to take these classes will register as soon as possible.

BRIGHT CHILDREN OFTEN WEAR GLASSES.

Why is it that bright children so often wear glasses? The answer is that children often are retarded in their studies because they cannot see. Poor vision holds them back, while those who wear glasses forge ahead. If you are in doubt about your child's eyes, consult W. H. Lacey, Optical Specialist, 410 George street.

A WHITE ELEPHANT

HARTLEY DEWART TAKES A RAP AT THE TRAPPINGS OF GOVERNMENT HOUSE

A BARRAGE

(Special to The Examiner.)

LANARK, Sept. 8.—Only recently at Durham, W. L. Smith, of the Farmers' Sun, branded Lieut.-Governor Sir John Hendrie as the "most useless official in the Province," and on Saturday afternoon, at the South Lanark Liberal Convention here, Hartley Dewart, K.C., M.P.P., Liberal Leader for the Province, threw over a barrage at his residence.

"Just fancy," he said, touching on the question of Governmental extravagance and negligence, "during war time, having a Government House erected as useless a white elephant as could be imagined, at a cost of $1,250,000, which is so expensive to maintain that hardly any Lieutenant-Governor can be found who can afford to live in it."

CHEERING CONFIDENCE IN A LOCAL UTILITY

SPIRITED DEMAND FOR SHARES IN THE DOMINION DUSTLESS SWEEPER CO.

Someone has said that "the best investment on earth is earth itself." A little study, however, might lead one to remark that "it depends what "sort of earth it is"; and this truth applies, not only to earth, but to investments of every character. There must be guarantees of good values.

From recent enquiry it is gratifying to learn that the guarantees offered by the Dominion Dustless Sweeper Company are creating such confidence in the value of this utility that the enquiry and booking of shares is steadily increasing.

In a short interview with Mr. Bishop, manager of the Company, most encouraging proof was recently given of brisk enquiries by intending investors, not only in Peterborough, but from outside points, including London, Hamilton, Windsor and other western cities. Mr. Bishop, inadvertently remarking on the amount of new business flowing in, stated that he "had had no time this summer for "holidaying," and had to cure himself of the vacation habit in order to give constant attention to his active work. The confidence manifested has put sunshine into the work, and the outlook becomes so good that the task of construction of sweepers has been engaging the attention of the directors with a view to preparing the way for securing a permanent location for the plant.

Peterborough needs industries, but Peterborough must give some practical evidences of encouragement to new industries before they can be secured. Citizens have still an opportunity of investing in Dustless Sweeper shares if they would like to see Peterborough become the permanent home of this utility.

Why is it that industrial stock, such as the Dominion Dustless Sweeper Company, is developing so greatly in Canada? Is it not because people are taking a broader view of industrial investments of the future, and desire to participate in that growth of business by investing their money in wage-earning stocks?

Why let a live local enterprise like stocks, similar to the Dominion Dustless Sweeper Company, sufficient to leave quotations from 1 to 6 points higher at the close of business than the day before? The money received from industries is spent in wages, which are welcomed at the grocery store, instead of being hoarded.

Why let a live local enterprise like the Dominion Dustless Sweeper Company go begging out of Peterborough for a suitable location to enhance the interests of outside cities? The call from outside is strong.

PREMIER BORDEN TAKES A CHILL

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, Sept. 8. — Sir Robt. Borden is ill at his home this morning, and will be unable to be present at the resumption of the debate on the peace resolution in the House this afternoon On Saturday last he was at his office in the morning, but in the afternoon was forced to take his bed with a chill. This morning he has a temperature.

THE POLICE COMMISSION INVESTIGATION ADJOURNED UNTIL MONDAY, SEPT. 15

PLACE OF MEETING WAS FILLED TO OVERFLOWING— MATERIAL WITNESSES ABSENT.

COUNSEL PRESENT

The much-talked-of police commission investigation which has been discussed on the street corners for the last two days in none too gentle a manner, and with many personal opinions interspersed, was opened on Saturday afternoon in the Council Chamber with His Honour Judge Huycke and Mayor Duncan on the Chief Magistrate's dais.

The crowd present cannot be any better compared, in point of numbers, than to the legions that attend championship boxing bouts or the world's series. They filled the old slat seats in the council chamber to capacity, and when the town clock struck three standing room was at a premium and the line-up outside the door resembled a soup kitchen queue. The brass rail enclosing the aldermanic benches kept the crowd from overflowing into rest of the room where sat the counsels for both parties, City Solicitor C. R. Widdifield, Chief Daniel Thompson, City Clerk S. R. Armstrong, and Mr. E. Saunders for the Board of License Commissioners, who as he stated was present not to take any part in the proceedings, but to keep a watchful eye on the proceedings in order that a detailed description of the investigation could be given to the Commissioners, first hand.

WAS ADJOURNED.

A difficulty which proved insurmountable and which eventually led to the adjournment of the investigation until Monday, September 15th, at the Court House, was the absence of Mr. William H. Hamilton, of the King George Hotel, and the fact that Mr. Dan O'Connell, who was present for License Inspector Stewart, had no time to prepare his case as he was only engaged by Mr. Stewart last Friday.

Mr. William Hamilton, who will be one of the principal witnesses, is visiting in the City of Guelph, and Chief Thompson phoned to that city to have him present at the investigation, but a mistake was made and his father arrived instead.

WITNESSED WANTED.

As no direct plan of conducting the investigation had been made, the Judge asked that City Solicitor Widdifield, who will conduct the investigation for the Board of Police Commissioners, Mr. R. R. Hall, representing Detective Newhall, and who will likely represent P. C. Wigg, and Mr. Dan O'Connell, retire to another room and agree upon a plan of conducting the case, which they did They later submitted to His Honour for approval a plan which calls for an examination of the witnesses by Mr. Widdifield and then a cross-examination by the counsels, unless the witnesses are called by the counsels, in which case they will be cross-examined only by the opposing counsels The counsel will then submit their cases, concluding with Mr. R. R. Hall.

Judge Huycke instructed Mr. Widdifield to search diligently for material witnesses so that the whole truth of the case could be arrived at by the Commissioners.

The Court was then adjourned and His Honour asked if it would not be advisable to hold subsequent meetings in the Grand Opera House, and charge an admission fee. Judge Huycke stated that he would subpoena whatever witnesses the counsels or Mr. Widdifield deemed it advisable to call upon.

HOUSE WILL REMAIN IN PARIS

(United Press.)

LONDON, Sept. 8.—At the urgent request of President Wilson, it was learned to-day that Col. E. M. House is postponing his return to America indefinitely. Instead, he will go to Paris, where the sittings of the Allied Mandate Commission will be resumed.

Owing to the uncertain position of the United States Senate with regard to American acceptance of the Mandates under the League of Nations, the work of the Commission is progressing with difficulty.

LARGEST CONGRESS EVER HELD IN GREAT BRITAIN

FIVE AND A QUARTER MILLION WORKERS REPRESENTED

(Canadian Press.)

GLASGOW, September 8. — The great question before the Trade Union Congress is the nationalization of the coal mines and the method for bringing it about. Direct action which is being urged by a powerful group of mine workers, was not pre-judged by the President of the Congress in his address before the opening session of that body to-day.

G. H. Stuart Bunning secretary of the Postmen's Confederation, who is acting as presiding officer, indicated that the parliamentary committee had resolved to leave the decision entirely to the Congress.

He charged the government ministers with responsibility for the agitation in favor of direct action, declaring that their conduct, especially that of Premier Lloyd George, "had destroyed confidence and provoked suspicion that the premier to tide over a temporary difficulty was ready to make promises without any intention of performing them."

President Bunning declared that it was urgently necessary that labor increase its productivity, but he denied that "war weariness" was reflected in the situation, even in a lower industrial output. He exhorted the trade unionists not to impair public confidence in them by calling unofficial strikes, and repudiating agreements. He expressed confidence in the speedy advent of a labor government and said that it was necessary to earn the nation's respect.

The present congress is considered the greatest ever held in Great Britain with numerous problems vitally affecting labor to be threshed out in debate. It comprises 85 delegates representing approximately five and a quarter million workers.

MARK STREET CHURCH NOTES

DELEGATES PRESENTED REPORTS AT THE AFTERNOON SERVICE

Notwithstanding the intense heat the congregation was fairly large in the morning but larger in the evening, and the after meeting which was the first of the month took the form of a class meeting and was well attended.

The morning subject "The Great High Priest of the Ages", was based on Hebrews 4:15, and the evening subject, " God's David, the Inspired Singer", was founded on 1 Samuel 17:45. Both services were deeply spiritual.

In the afternoon a Sunday School re-opening was held at which service Mrs. Morton and Miss F. Sargent, delegates to Bay of Quinte Summer School held in Albert College, Belleville, gave excellent papers.

The Epworth League re-opens tonight with Mrs. Morton as President and we are looking forward to a year of blessing and prosperity.

AUBURN SUNDAY SCHOOL SOCIAL

The Social held at Auburn Sunday School last Thursday evening, was an unqualified success. The program was placed in hands of Rev. Mr. Ross, who acted as chairman. The school has been renovated and beautified and the work reflects great credit on all concerned. The Superintendent and his staff are to be congratulated on this splendid work in North Peterboro and Mrs. Elliott desires to thank all who so generously contributed to the splendid enterprise.

DOES ADVERTISING PAY?

Many advertisers, and particularly retail advertisers, never get the full cumulative power of advertising behind their business because they lack patience. They demand direct returns. They run a one-time announcement in the local paper to-day and look for sales enough—sales directly traceable to the little one-time advertisement—before next week to pay for the cost of the space.

Of course they are disappointed. Retail advertising seldom works out that way. But they are impatient for results. They are not prepared to invest money in advertising as they would in new goods, in store fixtures, in stocks or in real estate—and wait for profits to be earned. No. The returns of to-day's advertising must ring in cash profits to-morrow, or, in the estimation of too many retail dealers, the advertising is not worth what it costs.

Hand-to-mouth advetising is not worth what it costs. It yields only hand-to-mouth returns. To show the best results as a business building power, the advertising of the retail merchant must be persistent. Its chief purpose should be to build up permanent trade; to make the people of your community turn to your store in preference to other stores; to make them think of you and of your place of business; to convince them that they cannot get better quality and price and service anywhere.

"Would you advise a sixty-inch advertisement in the newspaper once a week or six ads. covering ten inches of space each week?" was one of the questions asked.

"I would advise six ads., one each day, or, better still, three twenty-inch ads. each week," replied the advertiser.

"Anything that is desirable is advertisable," he said, and pointed out that the desirability of an article depends much on the consistency with which it is advertised.

"One of the best ways to advertise is to cultivate the customers you have acquired and they will assist you in your advertising."

His final message was: "Advertise and get out and prosper."

MUNICIPALITY OF DOURO

VOTERS' LIST, 1919, MUNICIPALITY OF DOURO, COUNTY OF PETERBOROUGH

Notice is hereby given, That I have transmitted or delivered to the persons mentioned in Section 9 of The Ontario Voters' Lists Act the Copies required by said Sections to be so transmitted or delivered of the List, made pursuant to said Act, of all Persons appearing by the last revised Assessment Roll of the said Municipality to be entitled to vote in the said Municipality at Elections for Members of the Legislative Assembly and at Municipal Elections, and that the said List was first posted up up at my office at Douro on the Thirteenth Day of August, 1919, and remains there for inspection.

And I hereby call upon all Voters to take immediate proceedings to have any errors or omissions corrected according to law.

F. D. LEAHY,
Clerk of Douro.

Dated 9th Sept., 1919.

THE JOY OF MOTHERHOOD

Mrs. Phillips Sends an Encouraging Letter to Expectant Mothers

West Philadelphia, Pa.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for five months before my baby was born and it has made me much better in health. I was always very ill when my other children were born, but with this one I had a much easier time. He is a big healthy boy now, three years old, and I believe it was Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that made me so well. It is certainly a good medicine for every woman. I cannot say too much in its favor, and you may publish my testimonial."—Mrs. W. PHILLIPS, 5400 Kingsessing Avenue, West Phila., Pa.

The reason that thousands of women from all parts of the country write such letters is that this famous old root and herb remedy, Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, has brought health and happiness into their lives, once burdened with pain and illness.

For special advice in regard to such ailments write Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass. The result of its many years experience is at your service.

MOULDERS GET EIGHT HOUR DAY

REST OF SHOPS IN THE CITY AGREE TO NEW SCALE

The moulders' strike has been settled so far as Peterborough is concerned. A few weeks ago the Peterborough Lock Works made an agreement with the men which was accepted. To-day the other shops in the city settled with the men on a forty-five hour week basis and seventy-five cents an hour. The old scale was a straight nine hour-day for six days in the week and sixty cents an hour. This is practically the same kind of a settlement that has been made in other cities throughout Canada.

Sound Investment

As one of the essential elements of Safety, it is readily recognised that the street dust nuisance is one of the most pressing problems of the day, and one of the most necessary to overcome.

There is only one known system which will positively clean a paved street and will remove both the coarse and the fine dust completely. That is the Blaney Sweepers, as manufactured by the Dominion Dustless Sweeper Co., Limited.

Sanitation of city streets is so costly under the present system that the demand for an efficient street sweeper is most insistent, not only in Canada, but in all the large cities of the world.

The Motor-driven Street Cleaning Machine of the Dominion Dustless Sweeper Co. has been designated by expert engineers to be as near perfection mechanically as human ingenuity could invent.

The greatest advantages consist first, in the fact that the machine replaces, in other words does away with, the work of a large number of labourers; and second, that on smooth pavements it removes practically every bit of the fine dust, as well as the coarse material which is picked up and deposited in the hopper.

The Company are holders of patent rights in Canada, United States, Great Britain, France, and Australia.

"FEELING BETTER EVERY DAY I LIVE"

MRS. GOSSAGE GAINS TWENTY POUNDS TAKING TANLAC —TROUBLES ENDED

"I've gained twenty pounds since I began taking Tanac and I'm feeling better every day I live," said Mrs. J. A. Gossage, of 440 North Lawndale street, Kansas City, Mo.

"For two long years I suffered from stomach trouble and nervous indigestion," she continued. "Everything I ate soured on my stomach. Gas would form and press against my heart until it would flutter and beat so fast I felt like I was going to smother. I had severe pains arouund my stomach and there was a gnawing feeling there, too. I was so dizzy that if I stood up suddenly I would stagger and had to hold on to something to keep from falling.

"I had tried all sorts of medicines hoping to get relief, but nothing did me any good until my brother-in-law persuaded me to try Tanlac. He had been greatly helped by it and I hadn't taken half a bottle before I noticed gas didn't form and make me sick any more. Of course I kept right on taking Tanlac after that and now I can eat anything I want without any trouble and I feel so fine I can now do all my housework without getting tired. From the way I'm gaining in strength all the time I am convinced that I'll soon be as well as I ever was in my life and I'm glad to tell others what I think of Tanlac. It's done me more good than everything else put together."

Tanlac is sold in Peterborough by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Limited; in Havelock by A. C. Denike; in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd.; in Fowler's Corners by W. A. Hunter; in Gelert by A. J. Scott; in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

The Red Flag In Hamburg.

Over the Rathaus in Hamburg you may see the red flag flying—you cannot help seeing it, for every richer man among the residents will take an opportunity awesomely to point it out to you as a sample of how Germany is going to the dogs, says Samuel Crowther in the World's Work. At the big gateway of the building you will find half a dozen soldiers and sailors standing—or to be more exact—leaning guard. They have fixed bayonets and bulging cartridge belts, and to that extent they are militant. But also they are democratic in that they seldom shave never clean or brush their threadbare uniforms, and they smoke cigarettes and cigars while on duty. They have none of the smartness and "pep" that a sentry as representing the army is supposed to have. They remind one of the descriptions of the Russian soldiers, once the revolution had gotten under way, and I think they remind themselves of the same thing

Had Many Portraits.

Guzman Blanco, late President of Venezuela, whose daughter married the Duc de Morny, and who died a few years ago in Paris, not only had his portrait painted about 300 times, but erected about a dozen statues to himself, writing with his own hand their fulsome inscriptions and invariably called himself in gigantic capitals "The Illustrious American, Pacificator and Regenerator of the United States of Venezuela."

PILES Do not suffer another day with itching, blind, bleeding or protruding Piles. No surgical operation required. ## For Every Occasion on the Fall Social Calendar

FOR the morning hours, simple frocks of thin tissues, cool tub ginghams and crisp, fresh voiles. When you visit the afternoon tea gatherings comes the occasion for a delicate lace or lingerie frock, a frock of exquisitely embroidered or beaded georgette or one of the vari-hued printed chiffons. For the informal evening dances frocks of pastel colored net and lace and lovely taffetas. And for the decorous stately events---then comes the dignified evening gowns of veiled decolletage in materials and colors not often exploited.

Charming Frocks Which Reflect the Essence of Fall, at $39 and $46

Reproductions and copies of high-class models at double the cost, and so carefully reproduced that it is impossible to tell the copy from the original without close inspection. ..Some have individualising touches of decoration, some have little adaptations to the good taste of the Canadian woman. ..All have unusual beauty known as Smartness.

New Fall Silk Dresses for Women and Misses at $27.50 and $36

Presenting an unusually interesting assortment of styles for early Fall wear, including straight line, tunic and coat effects, handsomely embroidered, button trimmed, and having either strap or draped girdles and sashes of self material.

The materials are plain and drop-stitch Tricolette and Poulette in Black, White, Rose, Taupe, Henna, Quaker Grey, Sand, and Bark.

Women's Serge Dresses for Fall Wear at $20 and $23.75

These models could not be purchased elsewhere for the small price of $23.75. They follow the straight and narrow path, these Serge Dresses, which explains their modishness. The lines are unbroken from neck to hem, save by a belt, which does not confine the waist-line. A simple trimming of Black Silk Braid gives the smart tailored touch, while the round neck, finished without a collar, is one of the many reasons for their becomingness.

Early Fall Millinery in Smart and Distinguished Styles

Paris in everything but the Price. The best models of the world's famous artistes reproduced so cleverly that the originators themselves could scarce distinguish one from the other. These charming Hats are priced much lower than the directly imported models — sometimes as low as Half, sometimes even Less.

But one gets all the smartness, all the coveted air of Paris, all the charm, beauty, and becomingness of the genuine imported model at OUR Price. Have you seen them?

They are in Velvet or Velvet and Plush, in semi-soft, hand-made or hand-blocked, smartly draped little Turbans, with cocardes and bows of grosgrain ribbon. Others are soft-brim Sailor styles or Mushroom effects, with ribbon bands. One design particularly we would like you to see is the new Side-roll Hat, with stitched French edges. # NOVITIATE ENQUIRY OPENS AT OTTAWA

General Ashton Takes the Stand.

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, Sept. 8.—General Ashton, Adjutant-General, was on the stand practically all morning in the Guelph Novitiate inquiry. He told Mr. Ferguson that Hon. Charles Doherty, Minister of Justice, was highly incensed when he called him on the telephone the night of the raid. The Minister asked General Ashton to have the proceedings suspended. He spoke as the Minister of Justice and not as the father of an inmate of the Novitiate and told the General that the official of the militia department who had thrown a cordon round the institution and arrested three inmates had no proposition for such action. Gen. Ashton said the department of militia had not tried to find out if the young men in the Novitiate had certificates. He was not aware that four months prior to Captain McAuley's visit efforts had been made to get information as to young men in the institution. A witness told Sir Sam Hughes that during the operation of the Military Service Act, he frequently got legal advice from the Justice Department.

AN OMINOUS CHOICE.

Nothing will increase the purchasing power of money but plenty of goods, points out the London Daily Mail. The man, of whatever class, who does not put his back into his work injures himself and everybody else. His wages may not suffer for the moment, but his slackness has this effect: that it means the production of less, which again means that there is less to buy and that prices rise, so what he earns buys less.

There is no remedy for this process except by obeying the old rule — "Whatsoever thy hand findeth to do, do it with thy might." If that rule were obeyed by all, we should escape from the present vicious circle, in which each rise in prices, and each increase in prices by a fresh demand for higher wages. We must escape from that circle or prepare for bankruptcy.

THE VETERANS IGNORED.

The decision of the Ottawa Government in refusing to meet a committee of the Great War Veterans of Canada on the question of re-establishment bonus for the returned soldiers o fthe Dominion has resulted, as might be expected, in the immediate launching of a campaign by the Veterans to secure their object in spite of the refusal of the Government.

The Veterans' indignation at the Government is not surprising. They have, for no apparent reason, been rebuffed by the Premier and his associates. Their request was a reasonable one—merely that the Government appoint a commission to meet three representatives of the returned men to discuss the question of gratuities. The Government would not have committed themselves by holding such a conference, and as Secretary W. E. Turley points out, they have not hesitated to consult the manufacturers or the W. C. T. U. or the Labour interests when litigation affecting any of these classes was to the fore. And the objection cannot be to appointing a commission, for the present Government has broken all records in the appointing of such bodies.

A NEW ASSOCIATION.

The forming of an association by the former members of the 93rd Peterborough County Battalion is a step that will help to keep alive the splendid comradeship engendered in the battalion. It is fitting, indeed, that this fraternal spirit should be maintained by the meeting together of those ex-members of the 93rd who have been spared to come home. The association will permit of this being done, and the choosing of the anniversary of the sailing of the battalion from Canada for the date of an annual picnic will keep 16th July always fresh in the minds of the officers and men of the Peterborough unit.

There was a wonderful brotherhood created by the linking together of men from all walks of life into the communal relationships that must necessarily be found in a military unit. Probably on no other occasion in the history of Peterborough County were hundreds of citizens in the County brought into such close contact with each other as during the months of training gone through by the 93rd Battalion; and it is a happy thought that the friendships made in this way are to be kept fresh through the instrumentality of a battalion association. The new body will not in any way interfere with or be in conflict with the work of the Great War Veterans' Association, of which the majority of the 93rd men are members.

GOING TOO FAR.

The cause of temperance is helped as little by some of the letters of Mr. H. Arnott, of the Department of Social Service, as it is hurt by the writings of Mr. J. H. Burnham. Mr. Arnott, in a letter published in The Examiner on Saturday, makes a plea for the abolition of the "two per cent." beer that the Ontario Temperance Act allows to be sold in the Province. It reminds men of their drinking days, says the zealous Prohibitionist, and some of them are "distinctly fuddled" after drinking a quantity of it.

The Examiner's position in regard to the coming Referendum has been frequently stated, and therefore we are not in danger of being considered friendly to those who are opposed to the Ontario Temperance Act when we express the opinion that an objection to the non-intoxicating beverages that are being sold at present, because they resemble in appearance, at least, the drinks of the wide-open days, is carrying Prohibition to the limit. The ultra reformer, in his zeal, sometimes goes too far, and men are driven into organisations like the Citizens' Liberty League out of sheer disgust and against their own better judgment, because of letters such as the one from Mr. Arnott's pen, from which we have quoted.

If men who used to indulge in stronger beverages have learned to be satisfied with the temperance beer of the present day, even the most zealous Prohibitionist in the country should be satisfied. It is doubtful if they are imbibing anything that is more harmful to their systems than do those who drink freely of tea or coffee.

LABOUR DEFEATING ITSELF.

Organised labour should, and doubtless does, desire to guard against the evil of unemployment. To obtain for its members a fair wage and steady employment must be its very highest aim, and one that should have the hearty sympathy of all classes. Yet one of the facts most clearly seen in the industrial situation in Canada to-day is that the evil of unemployment is being increased by the extreme action of some of the leaders of organised labour. In our large cities, even in this midsummer time, there is considerable unemployment. That it will increase as we approach and enter upon the winter season is beyond question. The returned soldiers, with the gratuity of six months' pay to assist them, have been able to make themselves fairly comfortable, even when they failed to obtain employment. With the coming of winter, and the exhaustion of the gratuity, they will have increased cause for anxiety. Thoughtful men who appreciate the serious character of this situation are calling on employers to make extra efforts to furnish work for the unemployed. But many employers who are heartily in sympathy with these appeals find their good intentions frustrated by the attitude of labour leaders. The higher wages demanded make impossible some enterprises that under other conditions might be undertaken. Manufacturers hesitate about expanding their business when increased cost of labour and materials may leave no margin of profit. But high wages are not the most serious difficulty. Many employers realise that wages have to be high to enable the workman to live decently, and are willing to meet that condition. But more than of the wage question employers are afraid of the uncertainty of the service of their workmen in these days of sympathetic strikes. The attitude of organised labour to many places leads employers to fear that unreasonable conditions may at any time be demanded, and that after difficulties have been adjusted there is no guarantee that labour will fulfill its agreements. The existence of these impressions, not entirely without reason, has a paralysing effect upon the operations of employers who are anxious to do their part in the work of reconstruction. Thus the attitude of some branches of organised labour affects the whole industrial atmosphere and prevents the carrying on of business operations that would give employment to the men who are at present idle.—Journal of Commerce.

93RD BATTALION HAS ORGANIZED AN ASSOCIATION

OFFICERS ELECTED AT ENJOYABLE PICNIC AT SOUTH BEACH—LIEUT.-COL JOHNSTON IS PRESIDENT OF NEW ORGANIZATION—WILL KEEP ALIVE SPIRIT OF COMRADESHIP

One of the outstanding features of the picnic at South Beach on Saturday under the auspices of the 93rd Battalion was the organization of a 93rd Battalion Association with which all former members of the unit are asked to identify themselves. The objects of the Association are to keep alive the spirit of comradeship engendered in the battalion and to administer the battalion fund, a large proportion of which is still available for such use as the Association decides.

After dinner had been partaken of on Saturday a meeting of the 93rd officers and men was held and the following officers were chosen for the Association:

President—Lieut.-Col. Johnston.

Vice-Presidents —Capt. T. W. B. Marling, Geo. Lockington.

Secretary-treasurer—Pay Sergeant J. Abraham.

Committee—Capt. Marling, Lakefield, Messrs. Shorter, Havelock, D. Miller, Warsaw, Davidson, Keene.

Representatives from Peterborough —The secretary, Capt. Widdifield, Bandmaster Hughes, D. Loomis, F. Dunsford, R. Irwin.

Representatives for Norwood, Apsley, Chemong, Millbrook and Hastings will be appointed later.

It was decided to hold an annual picnic on July 16th, the anniversary of the sailing of the 93rd from Canada. A smoker will likely be held during the winter.

The Picnic.

Although the rain early Saturday morning interfered considerably with the attendance, the weather soon cleared and the conditions were ideal for those who braved the wet start. The steamers Empress and Stone Lake carried the excursionists to Lakefield, and there the crowd embarked on the latter steamer for the sail to South Beach, which was reached at 11.30 o'clock. Dinner was the first order of business, after which the organization of the Battalion Association was completed.

Following this an interesting programme of sports was run off, with the winners as follows:

Boys' race, eight years and under—1 E. Burton, 2 G. Miller.

Girls' race, six years and under—1 Mary Evans, 2 Beatrice O'Grady.

Boys' race, ten and under —1 D. Miller, 2 L. Dyer.

Girls' race, eight and under—1 E. O'Grady, 2 E. Miller.

Boys' race, 12 and under— 1 M. Murray, 2 D. Miller.

Girls race, 10 and under—1 Hilda Evans, 2 L. O'Grady.

Boys' race, 16 and under— 1 M. Murray, 2 D. Miller.

Girls' race, 16 and under—1 M. Miller, 2 Isabel Calberry.

Young ladies' race—1 M. Miller, 2 H. Evans.

Single men's race—1 W. A. Barker, 2 E. Rowe.

Married women's race — 1 Mrs. Clarke, 2 Mrs. Rowe.

Married men's race—1 R Dyer 2 D. Loomis.

Bandsmen's race— 1 F. Walno, 2 W. Dyer.

Officers' race—1 Capt. J. E. R. Munro, 2 Capt. Marling.

Veterans' race— 1 F. Walno, 2 R. Dyer.

After the sports the Great War Veterans' Band, under the direction of Bandmaster Hughes, played an enjoyable programme. The band also played on the return trip and their music was thoroughly enjoyed.

The crowd in the afternoon was augmented by a number who motored to South Beach. Among the officers of the battalion present were Lieut.-Col. Johnston, Major K. G. Loch, Major J. C. Davidson, Capt. J. E. R. Munro, Capt. James Rollins, Capt. Gordon Hall, Capt. Marlin, Lakefield, Capt. Bygott, Lakefield, Lieut. A. P. Stock, Lieut. L. J. Stuart, Lieut. Jesse Ketchum, Ottawa.

PETERBORO' COUNTY NURSING SISTER WRITES DESCRIPTION OF OVERSEAS TRIP

ING SISTER IRENE CONDON VISITED SOME OF THE BATTLE AREAS OF FRANCE AND BELGIUM

A letter received from Nursing Sister Irene Condon, whose home is in Douro, and who is at present stationed at No. 16 Canadian General Hospital, Orpington, England, contains a graphic description of a journey she took recently through the war areas of Europe and of the conditions she encountered while in France and Belgium. The letter follows:

It was just 10.30 a.m. as the telegraph bell rang and the ship that was to take us to France steamed slowly out of Folkestone harbor. The weather was splendid and the sea as calm as one could expect of the channel. At half past one the engines had ceased to throb and we were at Boulogne. Our stay in this old world fishing town was of short duration, for the same night saw us on our way to Etaples. This had been an important base throughout the war. We were sadly impressed by the countless number of graves—side by side lay our Canadian boys with their English cousins, men who died that we might live. Our next destination was Amiens, in anti-bellum days one of the most beautiful cities in France. Now, on every side were scenes of devastation, wrought by the cowardly Hun, the cathedral a mass of ruins, houses crumbled to dust, while here and there dotted shell holes like basins, gouged out of the soil and lines of deep dug trenches running through. I passed through the battlefields of Le Treport and Abbeville, arriving in Paris in time for the peace celebrations where land, sea and air forces of the Allied armies marched in the triumphant victory parade to mark the return of peace; several millions watched this gorgeous spectacle. While here I visited Montemarte, the Latin quarter. Being in uniform we were accorded the great privilege of being allowed to pass under the Arc de Triomphe. This magnificent structure has a special historic significance. After the war of 1870 the Arc was closed and remained so until the victorious Allied troops marched under it at the conclusion of peace. I visited Versailles and saw the wonderful Trianon Palace, the home of the Louis, where peace was signed and went into the actual room, the hall of mirrors, and saw the historic table. The following day I left Paris for Brussels, Belgium.

French Trains.

The journey there, though fraught with interest, was rather a tiresome one. French trains are not all that is perfect. Stopping in St. Quentin for a short time I got into conversation with some French Poilus who told us when the Germans had possession of the town they threw their dead into the wells and to this day the water cannot be used. I reached Brussels 11.30 p.m. and spent three very interesting days in this city shopping and sightseeing, and visited the Palace of Justice, an immense building containing twenty-two law courts. Here the Boche were stationed when in possession of Belgium. They took all the leather, brass and copper from the city, but did not destroy the buildings. I was shown through King Albert's palace and nearby the tribunal where Edith Cavell was tried for her life.

Typical Towns.

Leaving Brussels I passed through several of the most typical towns of Flanders, Alost, Termonde, Ghent, Bruges, alas now no more. At the last named place I visited the German submarine base and was shown the oil basin where the subs were fed, also some captured British vessels lying in the canal. I then continued my journey to Zeebrugge and walked the length of the mole, to which a great deal of damage had been done by the British when they caused the explosion in April, 1918, that destroyed the German submarine base shelter. The funnels of Capt. Fryatt's boat the "Brussels" could be seen just above the water at the end of the mole.

Historic Ypres.

From this place we journeyed to Ostend then on the following day by motor to the battlefields of St. Jean, Dixmude, St. Julian, Ypres. At the latter place were to be seen large numbers of captured enemy guns and other implements of war, left behind by Fritz in his hasty leave-taking. Hardly a thing of historic Ypres survives. The Germans, unable to capture the town, were content to destroy its lovely buildings by long range bombardment. Not a house remains whole, and refugees are flocking back and living in the basements.

Military Centres.

There are miles of barbed wire entanglements, roads have been torn up by great shells, the pits which the high explosive shells dig are like craters which stud the side of an active volcano, dug-outs are to be seen on every side, and the poppies spoken of by the late Col. John McCrae's poem, "Flanders Fields," really grow all over the battle fields and add a touch of beauty to a land of desolation, but saddest of all were the three Canadian military cemeteries, beautifully tended by the hands of French women, and here and there a solitary grave strewn with wreaths. As we stood there with the moonlight playing on the scene, visions of the horrors that had been enacted on that spot were conjured up before our eyes. The following day we visited the battle fields of St. Omar, Lille, Armentiers, Estaminet, and there began our journey home by way of Calais. What struck us most upon arrival in England was the contrasting peace and quiet of English villages and towns with the shell-torn areas of France and Belgium.

CHAUFFEURS KILLED 150 CIVILIANS

AMERICANS HAD A GOOD CASUALTY RECORD WHILE IN FRANCE

(United Press.)

PARIS, September 8. — American army chauffeurs accidentally killed 150 civilians during the A. E. F. stay in France, it was stated to-day in testimony by Colonel Winship before the Congressional committee from Washington.

Testimony was also given showing that the United States has paid fifteen million dollars to the French as the cost of billetting American soldiers.

TABLET UNVEILED AT ST. JOHN'S CHURCH

IN MEMORY OF FORMER SCHOLARS OF THE CHURCH

The first Sunday in September marks the opening of the sessions of St. John's Sunday school. Yesterday's session was of particular interest for the oak shield, upon which is engraved the names of the Sunday school scholars who gave thier lives in the great war, was unveiled by Mrs. B. T. Cuffe, mother of Trever Cuffe, whose name appears on the shield. The hymn, "When He Cometh," was sung. Then the Rev. Canon Davidson gave an address and concluded as follows: "We receive this shield to the glory of God, and in memory of past members of this Sunday school, who gave their lives for their country. May they, with all the departed rest in peace.

"I heard a voice from heaven saying, "Blessed are the dead which die in the Lord, even so saith the Spirit, for they rest from their labours."

Addresses were also given by Mr. Rush, for many years a teacher, and Mr. R. J. Devey, the superintendent. The ceremony concluded with the National Anthem.

At the 11 a.m. service the shield was presented at the offertory. Driver Harold J. Devey, in service uniform, bore the shield and flag through the congregation to the chancel steps, where it was received by soldier boys, Masters Woodgate, Batchelor and Long, and finally by Canon Davidson, chaplain in the C.E.F., who offered dedicatory prayers, placing the memorial in front of the altar where it remained all through the communion service, and was afterwards placed in its final position in the school.

NEW ELECTRICAL FIRM

Mr. P. Alexander having retired from the firm of Alexander and Miller, Electrical Contractors, necessitates a change in this well known firm's name. Mr. J. H. Miller, junior member of the old firm, who so successfully conducted the interests of this firm for the past eighteen years, remains with the business, and will have associated with him in partnership Mr. G. R. Powell, and Mr. G. H. Watson, both expert electricians, having been connected with Messrs. Alexander and Miller for many years, and who will now take an active part with Mr. Miller in conducting the business of this reliable firm.

Strict personal service will be given to every contract and the reliable work executed by the old firm for so many years will be maintained, and the users of electricity are assured of unequalled service by the varied and extensive experience of these three experts. The store in the future will be known as The Electric Shop, and the firm, Miller, Powell and Watson.

THE PROHIBITION QUESTION

(BY J. H. BURNHAM, M.P.)

Further Reply to Rev. John Galt

To the Editor of the Examiner,—

Sir: In the United States the leading denominational newspapers regret the lack of condidates for the pulpit. In fact, an immense number of pulpits have become vacant Why? The owners have abandoned the low salaries of the pulpit for the high salaries of social reform. Instead of relying upon a Redeemer they now put their trust in social reform. The logical result of the movement of course is that they have taken their salvation into their own hands. If sin can be so easily abolished, as the social reformer says, then the long agony and death of Jesus Christ was a mistake. But, you will say, "But the people of the U. S. have through their representatives actually placed prohibition upon themselves." Yes; and let me tell you how it has come about. Fines and penalties are left to the discretion of the judges in the new prohibition law and the judges are elected by the people! I wondered why there was no counter-agitation in the U.S. of any importance and Americans told me that whiskey sellers preferred the fine levied by the judge to the fine levied in the form of license and other fees, not to mention the rake-offs of the go-betweens. They told me that the total prohibitionist, the soft drink manufacturers and the bootleggers (who were almost unknown until prohibition came in) had staggered the ordinary citizen, but only for the moment. As in all extremes reaction has set in.

But to recur to the pulpit. It is only the best of the preaching clergy who are now retained or who now get "called," and indeed they frequently have trouble with rebellious congregations. Force and business methods have just about displaced that old form of religion that pervaded the very nature of the true convert and showed beyond even cavil of the critic that it was indeed from Heaven. The bar was the invention of man. Alcohol was not. Abolish the bar and put alcohol under strict and honest government control and you have what you have not now — peace and order without however the remorseless hardship inflicted on the sick poor and without the callous defiance of the principles of liberty in the Ontario Temperance Act. A people who will support the O.T.A. in peace times would enforce the laws of the Inquisition.

But let me finish by asking again for a good straight answer to the question, "Does God prohibit?" Remember that "prohibit" means the removal of the means of sin not forbidding excess with permission to use in moderation. If God prohibits alcohol I will vote for Prohibition. If He does not I take it for granted that he knows best and I will not insult Him by trying to improve upon His ways, which are not our ways.

I would also ask Mr. Galt if He thinks that tobacco should never have been created and if he is in favor of prohibiting it? Is he in favor of the prohibition of cards, dancing etc.? Is he aware that the U. S. Prohibition Act prohibits all over one half of one per cent. of alcoholic content, and that our law permitting two and a half per cent. is condemned by the U. S. prohibitionists as the bait that lures the unwary to destruction? Is he in favor of two and a half per cent.?

Let me say that I am very much pleased that a man so highly thought of by both sides as the Rev. John Galt has entered into the public discussion of these matters.

J. H. BURNHAM.

BOLSHEVISM IS RAMPANT IN THE CAMPS OE BRITISH COLUMBIA, SAYS REV. WILLIAM HENDERSON

INTERESTING ADDRESSES AT BETHANY TABERNACLE--SPEAKER IS SUPERINTENDENT OF SHANTYMEN'S CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION---LIFE IN THE SHANTIES

"When the petition for prohibition was sent to the Ontario government, it was signed by 90 per cent. of the lumber jacks of the province. This was the result of the work of the Shantymen's Christian Association," stated the Rev. Wm. Henderson yesterday morning at the Bethany Tabernacle. The speaker is founder and superintendent of the Association.

The service was in charge of the Rev. Thomas Joplin, one of Mr. Henderson's assistants, who introduced Mr. Henderson as "a man with a marvellous story, who has done a marvellous work. The work cannot be measured by Canada alone, for it extends to the uttermost parts of the earth. The Association's missionaries are the most self-sacrificing body of men in the world."

The Text.

Mr. Henderson took as his text, St. Luke 14:23:

"And the Lord said unto the servant go out into the highways and hedges, and compel them to come in, that my house may be filled."

Mr. Henderson said that we are the servants of the Lord. Our eyes should be turned toward him for commands. Personally, he had heard the call of God to enter the work of preaching to the men of the lumber camps of the north woods and he had answered. He believed that the Lord had blessed him in the work and that the work had been a success because he had always been ready to obey the commands of God.. Continuing, he thought the proper qualifications for God's work should not be first considered. When he heard the call he was unqualified in every way for the hardships of life in the back woods and for public speaking, but he had not let this debar him. He believed that the realization of our weakness caused us to lean on God for support.

The Lumber Camps.

When he first heard of the conditions in the lumber camps he was shocked. In Algonquin Park alone there were 5,000 lumbermen, with not a single preacher of the Gospel among them. It was the same throughout all the north country. In all there were 50,000 men in the camps who lived year in and year out with no religious teaching. When he first went among them he could hardly believe that the English language could lend itself to such profanity and obscenity as was embodied in the men's ordinary conversation. The highest ambition of the lumber jacks was to "blow their winter's stake" when they came out of the camps in the spring in the shortest possible period.

Hotel Earnings.

The hotel keepers of the district estimated their earnings by the size of the men's pay. At one camp the men came out in the spring with $38,000. Inside of two weeks the three hotel keepers of the district had deposited $32,000 in the bank. Thus the thousands of men returned to their families with only $6,000 between them.

This money was not spent on liquor entirely, but was lost through systematic robbery on the part of the hotelmen. As soon as a man was unconscious from liquor he was taken from the bar and his pockets emptied. Mr. Henderson knew of one man who went down to North Bay on a Saturday with $800. He returned to the camp Monday morning with his pockets empty. Such were the conditions eleven and twelve years ago.

Work of the Association.

In 1908 Mr. Henderson was instrumental in organizing the Shantymen's Christian Association. Little was done the first year, but in 1909 he travelled in company with his assistant from Toronto to Lake Nipissing, the French river, and the Webwood district, visiting all the camps on the way.

On entering the camps in the fall of the third year he was amazed to hear that a great change had taken place in the habits of the men. The preceding spring, instead of spending their money as usual, they had cashed their checks and taken the train for home without indulging in their usual "sprees." This was two years before the passing of the Ontario Temperance Act.

The Association had not preached temperance or the evils of liquor, but the Gospel. Mr. Henderson believed that the men had decided that because the Association had taken such an interest in them they should take an interest in themselves.

Concluding Remarks.

In closing Mr. Henderson made the statement that 90 per cent. of the men had signed the petition for prohibition, and that therefore the congregation had the Shantymen's Association to thank for helping to bring about Prohibition.

Bolshevism on the Coast.

In the evening Mr. Henderson discussed conditions among the foreigners of the Pacific Coast. He declared that Bolshevism was fast gaining a hold on them and that after his last visit to the camps of British Columbia he had been advised not to return as the feeling against missionaries was bitter in the camps under Bolshevist influence.

Continuing, he stated that Christianity was the only antidote for Bolshevism. In the camps of Central Ontario where the men had religious teaching Bolshevist principles could not gain a foothold, but in the west where there have been no missionaries in the camps the tendency toward Bolshevism was strong. The Bolshevists were opposed to Christianity and all its teachings.

Extent of the Work.

Turning to the extent of the Associations's work he said that missions had been established in Canada from coast to coast as well as in the States of Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin. The work in the United States was under his direction with headquarters at Chicago.

Is Interdenominational.

The Association was interdenominational and its meetings were attended by Roman Catholics, Greek Catholics and Protestants. In fact many of the French-Canadian Roman Catholic priests advised their parishioners to attend meetings of the Association.

In conclusion Mr. Henderson stated that it was his wish to establish 300 missions among the shantymen of Canada and the United States. It was a great work and God had blessed it ,but there was still much to be done.

TECHNICAL SCHOOLS ARE AN ASSET TO THE COMMUNITY, SAYS REV. J. R. WEBB

INTERESTING SERMON IN MURRAY STREET BAPTIST CHURCH--THE AGE OF LEARNING

Choosing as his text, Isaiah, 50:4, "The Lord God hath given me the tongue of the learned, that I should know how to speak a word in season to him that is weary," the Rev. J. R. Webb preached an interesting sermon at Murray street Baptist church last evening.

In opening Mr. Webb stated that every conscientious man since Isaiah must have had some such thought as that expressed in the text. When we make any such testimony we must guard it. The responsibility rests with us. Every man should ask himself, "Has He given this to me? Am I described as the recipient of this?"

Meaning of "Learned."

Mr. Webb went on to explain that there was a time when a "learned" man was a master of the language, one who could make his way into the marshes of metaphysics leaving his pupil far behind. But it is not so today. The "learned" man to-day is in the midst of the problems of the busy world.

"I see a host of learned men in this world whom I never thought were learned before. The learned man to-day does not keep his nose between the pages of a book," Mr. Webb continued.

Technical Schools.

The speaker expressed himself as pleased with this age of technical schools and new methods of teaching, and with the coming into their own of the common people. To-day it is an ordinary thing to see men who have occupied "the seats of the mighty," because of their name, stepping down for the poor man.

Returning to his discussion of the meaning of "learned" Mr. Webb asked, "Who says a learned man is one who has gone through a university?"

"Tongue of the Learned."

He then declared that whatever a person's task in life, his witness is the witness of his tongue. Some have the gift of the mastery of men, some are able to win the adoration of the young. But these are given that their possessors may be able to speak a word in season to him who is weary, not that they may be able to speak to the great or the good.

It is easy to fall into the habit of denunciation, but one's gifts are not to be used to speak cuttingly. The fact that the burden is heavy on someone's shoulders or that someone's life is longely enough to justify "a word in season." Such is the ideal, though many fall short of it.

"Christ saw our fall, yet He loved us. Let us go and do likewise, let us sacrifice and serve," Mr. Webb concluded.

FAIRBANKS AT ALLEN THATRE FOR TWO DAYS

Popular Athletic Star has part of Lieutenant in Powerful Story of Life on the Mexican Border—Delicious Comedy of the Fairbanksian Order.

When the history of the screen in America is finally written the name of Douglas Fairbanks unquestionably will rank high as that of a man whose personality and smile contributed very largely to the popularization of the motion picture in this country.

The story of "Arizona" is familiar to most playgoers. Lieutenant Denton of a detachment of the Seventh United States Cavalry, stationed in Arizona, loves Bonita, the daughter of Mr. Canby, the owner of the Canby Ranch, and sister of Estrella, the wife of Colonel Bonham, commander of the detachment. Estrella secretely loves Captain Hodgeman, a man whose record is dubious. Colonel Bonham is 30 years older than his wife, but he lives in the hope that she will one day return his love for her in like manner. The detachment comes to the ranch and Denton is amazed the same evening to find Estrella in Hodgeman's arms.

At a dance given the cavalrymen Denton overhears Hodgeman and Estrella discussing their proposed elopement just as Colonel Bonham leaves for Los Angeles on military business. Denton threatens to kill Hodgeman for his rascality and after forcing him to give up Estrella's jewels which he had appropriated, he kicks him off the place. Estrella goes sobbing to her room followed by Denton and he is pleading with her to give up Hodgeman when Colonel Bonham appears unexpectedly. Unable to explain his presence to his commanding officer, Denton resigns his lieutenancy, he refusing to tell how Estrella's gems came into his possession.

Mr. Fairbank's support is exceedingly strong. The leading women's parts are in the hands of Marjorie Daw and Kathleen Kirkham. Theodore Roberts, Frank Campeau and Frederick Burton, have strong roles, while others in the cast include Kate Price, Marguerite de la Matte, Robt. Boulder, Raymond Hatton and Harry Northrup.

The story is a splendid adaptation of the famous play by Augustus Thomas and was written around the state of "Arizona." Mr. Thomas' knowledge of western life makes his play virile. It will be shown at the Allen to-day and to-morrow.

TWO NEGROES WERE LYNCHED

FIFTY MEN STORMED JAIL AND RELEASED PRISONERS

(Canadian Press.)

JACKSONVILLE, Florida, Sept 8.—Two negroes, charged with murder, were taken from the city jail here shortly after midnight and lynched. A mob of fifty men stormed the jail in search of a negro who was being held for assaulting a little white girl, but who had been secretly sent to St. Augustine by court officers early last night following threats of violence. Finding their intended victim gone, the crowd seized two negroes charged with the murder recently of George Dubose, a white man, took them to the outskirts of the city in automobiles and shot them to death. They then placed ropes about the necks of the negroes and dragged them through the city streets.

SMILE

Above the shadows the sky is blue.
Then why be downcast the whole day through?
The gloomy clouds will soon drift apart,
So go to work with a cheerful heart.
Stop your worrying,
And do not fret,
The sun will scatter
The storm clouds yet.

Why should you murmur along life's way?
The Lord sends that which is best each day,
If you would grow to be good and true,
Training in patience is good for you.
So cease repining,
And look above,
The days grow brighter,
For God is love.

Then smile and laugh, you've no time to whine,
From behind a smile the world looks fine;
This old world wasn't made in a day.
So don't get discouraged in the fray.
Then look for Sunshine
Along the way,
And far behind you
The clouds will stay.

HOME CIRCLE COLUMN

THE GRADUATE.

We all love the young graduate who comes home and takes her right place in her family and seeks in a pleasant and unaffected manner to improve the home life and teach and guide the younger ones in that home; better is she now able to fill her place in the church and among her young friends who have not had her advantages; where can she find a broader field for good work? Commonplace though it may appear, this doing of one's duty embodies the highest ideal of life and character. The doing of the commonplace work achieves the welfare of the world. We love the young that does not claim to know more than other people; it is not right and then it is not wise; for it is such a good way of cheating yourself. Someone other people who have been schooled in the university of the world, could teach the new graduates many things which are valuable, of which she has never heard. All great truths are not always grammatically spoken, and everything that can be known is not found in books. It is right for the young people to have opinions about everything that comes before them; but it would be well to remember that the great achivements of life have been accomplished by men and women in the gray of life not in the downy years of youth. Let them look for the best in everything and everybody and "do all the good you can in all the ways you can to all the people you can," in whatsoever place circumstances beyond your control place you. A college education is a valuable education and greatly to be desired, but if it fails to broaden the heart as well as the mind, it is a failure.

People who have been bolstered up and liveried all their lives are seldom good for anything in a crises. When misfortune comes they look arund for something to cling to or lean upon. If the prop is not there, down they go. Once down they are as helpless as capsized turtles, or unhorsed men in armor, and they cannot find their feet without assistance. They are like summer vines which never grow even ligneous but stretch out a thousand little hands to grasp the stronger shrubs; and if they cannot reach them they lie dihevelled in the grass, hoof-trodden and beaten of every storm. It will be found that the first real movement upward will not take place until, in a spirit of resolute self-denial indolence so natural to almost every one is mastered. Necessity is usually the spur that sets the sluggish energies in motion. Poverty is therefore oftener a blessing to a young man than prosperity; for, while one needs to stimulate his powers, the other inclines them to longer disuse.

We believe there would be more frugality in the homes if men would give their wives a reasonable amount of money for household expenses and let them have all they can save out of it for their own use; and men, too, would be better off than in the unmethodical and haphazard way in which most homes are run. Women would be more apt to study kitchen economy if they could see a reward ahead. A nation of thrifty men cannot be born of thriftless mothers. Women have need to know more of business and think more of means to ends than is usual among them.

WHAT A WOMAN CAN DO.

She can come to a decision without the slighest trouble of reasoning on it; and no sane man can do that.

Six of them can talk at once and get along first rate, and no two men can do that.

She can safely stick fifty pins in her dress while he is getting one under his thumbnail.

She is as cool as a cucumber in half a dozen tight dresses and skirts, while a man will fret and fume and growl in one loose shirt.

She can talk sweet as peaches and cream to the woman she hates, while two men would be punching each other's head before they had exchanged ten words.

She can appreciate a kiss from her husband seventy-five years after the marriage ceremony is performed.

She can go to church and afterwards tell you what every woman had on, and in some rare instances can give you some faint idea what the text was.

She can walk half the night with a colicky infant in her arms without once expressing the desire of murdering the infant.

She can— but what's the use? A woman can do anything or everything and do it well.

She can do more in a minute than a man can do in an hour and do it better.

She can drive a man crazy for twenty-four hours and then bring him to a paradise in two seconds by simply tickling him under the chin, and there does not live that mortal son of Adam's misery who can do it.

Don't judge a man by his clothes. God made one and the tailor made the other. Don't judge a man by his family, for Cain belonged to a good family. Don't judge a man by the house he lives in, for the lizard and the rat often inhabit the grander structure. When a man dies they who survive him ask what property there is left behind; the angel who bends over the dying man asks what good deeds he has sent before him.

* * *

In a world where God lets the sun shine, the birds sing and the flowers make happy love to each other, man should not be the only saddened object.

There is often a common sense reason underlying what, at first sight, seems merely a superstition. Take, for instance, the old belief amongst colliers, that a mine much frequented by mice is a luck mine. We know now that mice are peculiarly susceptible to foul gases, and the presence of unusually large numbers of these little animals, therefore, is proof positive of the absence of any danger. Hence the alleged "luck."

Then, again, there is the "third-to-use-a-match" superstition. This originated during the Boer war. By the time the lighted match had been passed to the third man, some watchful enemy sniper would be pretty sure to spot it and let drive at it. And that was where the "bad luck" came in.

Our grandmothers used to hang a red flannel petticoat over the window of a smallpox patient's room, asserting that it hastened the cure, and also prevented "pitting." Scientists have now discovered that the red rays do actually exert a bad effect on the bacteria of the disease, and a correspondingly good effect on the patient.

Dr. J. M. Buckley, the Methodist divine was asked one day to conduct an "experience meeting" at a colored church in the south.

A colored woman arose and bore witness to the preciousness of her religion as light-bringer and comfort-giver.

"That's good, sister," commented Dr. Buckley. "But how about the practical side. Does your religion make you strive to prepare your husband a good dinner? Does it make you look after him in every way?"

Just then Dr. Buckley felt a yank at his coat-tails by a colored preacher, who whispered ardently:—"Press dem questions, doctor; press dem questions. Dat's my wife."

Answers:—That tireless war worker, Lady Victor Paget, tells an amusing story of an enthusiastic V.A.D. nurse who, in past days, was an equally asonatoffiv bilinaore d'aiMia shrdlun enthusiastic suffragette.

At a base hospital "Somewhere in France," she was bandaging a staff-wart private, whose right arm had been mangled by a fragment of a German shell.

"Do you know," she said presently, "your face seems strangely familiar to me. I've been trying to remember where we've met before."

"Well, nurse," said the wounded man, "perhaps we had better let bygones be by-gones. I was a policeman."

"Bobby," said the minister to a little fellow aged six. "I hear you are going to school now."

"Yes, sir," was the reply.

"What part of it do you like best?"

"Comin' home," was the prompt answer.

A politician who was running for Parliament thought it worth while to make mention of his humble origin and early struggles.

"I got my start in life by serving in a grocery at $8 a week, and yet I have managed to save," he announced.

Whereupon a voice from the audience queried:

"Was that before the invention of cash registers?"

An amusing story was told at a Highland gathering recently by Andrew Carnegie concerning two Scotsmen.

"They were sitting at ease in their favorite hostelry," said Mr. Carnegie "and their conversation turned on the subject of pleasure.

"'I dinna ken just what real pleasure may be,' said one gloomily. 'There's always summit to spoil things for you.'

"'How do you mak' that out?' asked the other.

"'Well, ta' smokin,' for instance. If yer smokin' yer ain baccy, ye're thinking of the awfu' expease, and if ye're smokin' some ither body's, yer pipe is rammit so tight it winna draw.'"

IS ICE-COLD WATER BAD FOR RHEUMATISM?

A DOCTOR'S EXPERIENCE

This story of Wm. Rogers, a seaman in the Mine Sweeping Branch of the Royal Navy, is absolutely true and can be readily verified.

At Niagara Camp, in 1914, Rogers contracted Rheumatism. He was sent to the Toronto General Hospital, where for over 19 months he was a patient, finally being discharged as incurable. In despair he took a friend's advice and tried Templeton's Rheumatic Capsules. The results were astounding—in a short time he was able to pass the stiff examination set by the Navy, and became an A.B. in the Mine Sweeping Branch.

For 17½ months he did service in the North Sea. On three occasions he was blown into the sea and remained in the ice-cold water as long as eleven hours at a stretch. Despite these hardships Rogers had no return of his previous trouble. Think about it. If T.R.C.'S did so much for Rogers—will they not do the same for you?

WHEN MIKE WAS PAT

Pat and Mike were twins and in great financial difficulty. The problem of paying a year's rent was under discussion and Pat trudged over to the landlord for a month's grace. The landlord bellowed that he would give him that time to guess this riddle. If they got the correct answer they could have the house. The riddle was: How many stars are there in the sky? What was he thinking of? Sad of heart Pat returned home to tell his twin brother Mike and Mike said "leave it to me."

When the appointed day came Mike went on over to the landlord with these answers "The moon is 1,000,000,000, etc., and if you don't believe that, go and weigh it. There are 1,000,000,000, etc. stars in the skies and if you don't believe that go and count them. And you are thinking that I'm Pat and I'm Mike. They won.

The Promoter's Wife

BY JANE PHELPS

LORRAINE DASHES BAB'S HOPES OF SOCIAL SUCCESS

CHAPTER LX.

With an onrush almost staggering, all my doubts which had so long lain quiescent came back to me.

"Shady characters, undesirable acquaintances," Lorraine had called them. I could not very well refute her when I, his wife, had refused to receive them. How ignorant I was of society is apparent in the fact that I had never thought that Neil's peculiar business methods might frustrate my social ambitions. He had money. That was all that was required of him, so I imagined. I would do the rest. And now this!

"You must know if this is so, Bab, even if you do not know much of his affairs. Does he ever bring such men home with him?"

"No—not now."

"Why—'not now'?"

"Because I refused to receive them."

"I see—then it is true—all of it, I am afraid."

"For heaven's sake, Lorraine, say what you have to say and be done with it!" I cried in desperation. I felt as if a hand had clutched my heart. Yet I would not believe it as bad as Lorraine had hinted. She was a natural gossip—she exaggerated.

"Well Bab, I will! It is the only way. I am more sorry for you than I can say, more than sorry that I encouraged you to think you could make a social success. I am sure, however, that it is of no use for you to go on. You have a lovely home, but the people you have planned to entertain will not visit you—I am afraid," she stopped. I waited in silence. Finally I could stand it no longer.

"Don't be afraid of hurting me, Lorraine. Go on, tell me all you have heard."

"I want you to know it will make no slightest difference in me, in our friendship. You do know that, don't you, Bab?"

I nodded.

"But it is a common rumor. A friend of my father's came to him about it because I have been with you so much. This man said that your husband's business methods are 'unsound'—that's father's word. This friend feared your husband would try to get my father interested in some of his schemes, and came to warn him. Father is getting old"—she said apologetically "and is easily influenced. We haven't any money to spare you know. Then he also told father that Mr. Forbes was constantly seen with men of no standing; and that Mr. Forbes himself was suspected of being—well—not—strictly honest; that no man could make money as fast as he made it, live at the rate you lived, and do it honestly — without misrepresenting things, and promoting schemes which would not stand daylight." She stopped a minute. Then: "Most of what I have said, Bab, is quoted. You wanted to know, so I told you. The man who told father is Mr. Powers."

I almost groaned. Mrs. Powers had been the woman whom I most desired to know.

"There is one other thing I am going to tell you," she went on; "Perhaps I shouldn't — but I think you ought to know it: Mr. Forbes makes a rendezvous of Blanche Orton's home. He takes men there—perhaps the very ones you have refused to receive. They gamble and drink, and incidentally put over those big deals by which your husband makes so much money. Blanche has been so terribly snubbed because of it—although she never cut any ice socially. I liked her, and enjoyed her unconventionality. But since Orton died she has become almost too unconventional even for me."

"And you think it is no use to go on as we had planned?" I spoke now of an entertainment for charity with which we had decided to make my first plunge into society. I was to throw open my lovely new home for the purpose.

"Absolutely no! You would only be humiliated. Enjoy your home with your family and those whom you already know, and who are not critical. But, under the circumstances ,do not attempt the impossible."

We were interrupted by the butler. He brought me a telegram from Neil: "Have been called out of town. Back Friday." It was Monday.

(To Be Continued.)

SHARPS AND FLATS.

The origin of music is inseparable from the origin of language.

Schubert has to his credit besides other works, about 650 solo songs.

Rhythm has been defined as the dance of sound as dancing is the rhythm of movement.

The centre of Bach's art was organ music. But Bach was first trained as a violinist.

Learn to listen to music. Every family should form themselves into a class to study musical appreciation.

The dull pupil is the school teachers' problem. But the teacher's are finding out that music is a good encourager — it makes pupils more alert, responsive and alive.

As soon as the children can understand we tell them the finest stories in all literature. Why not pursue the same course and give the little tots the opportunity to hear the best music from their earliest years.

In Bible times music played an important part in the social life of the people. Laban is said to have regretted the suddenness of Jacob's departure because it deprived him of the opportunity of sending him away with music.

Beethoven was again and again desperately in love, in two or three cases, with women of a higher social standing than himself. But all came to naught because of his low origin, having no official position and no settled income and his unhappy temperament.

BACK TO THE EASIER JOB

A professor of history met one of his class who had returned from fighting on the western front, and asked if he had learned any particular lesson from the war.

"Yes, I have, professor," replied the young man. "I discovered that it is a great deal easier studying history than it is making it."

An arrangement has been made with the Chief of Police of Buffalo whereby the members of the Buffalo Motor Club are each given an identification card. In the event of any member causing a breach of traffic rules, which subjects him to arrest, on presentation of this card, he is not detained, but the card is filed with the court and the appearance of the member at the trial is guaranteed by the club. Whether or not this method will lead to abuse is difficult to say.

MUSIC IN THE HOME

ONE WAY OF GETTING OVER THE DIFFICULTY.

There are choirs who would very much like to give a service of praise, a choir concert or some similar event but feel unable to undertake it owing to having too small a band of singers. The numerous advantages in preparing for such an event are great but the handicap of too few singers is a very real difficulty and it is an unsurmountable one from within. But two or more choirs in a community can unite for the purpose. Instances come to hand these days showing that this is being done with more frequency than was the custom in the past. For example, in a city two choirs in extreme sections and perhaps of different denominations can join in a service of praise giving the program at one church one evening and at the other perhaps a week later.

Thus the singers in both churches get the advantages of the training. It may be that each choir is strong where the other is weak and in that case by uniting a good balance of the four parts would be secured. It Provides the incentive of something extra to come out to practice for Each choir profits to some extent by observing the methods of the other. The giving of two well prepared programmes stimulates an interest in choir music in the community. Minor difficulties may present themselves when it comes to working out the plan but the possibility of two choirs uniting in this way is well worth consideration.

THE REASON GIVEN THAT DOES NOT PASS

The young woman when asked to join the choir of the church her family attended declined because her voice, she said, was not strong enough. It was one of those light, sweet voices of pure quality but was not very strong. This reason is however not a good one. A prominent choral conductor of international reputation is on record as saying that choir leaders should have from fifteen to twenty-five per cent. of their singers, particularly sopranos and tenors, voices that are pure in quality and light in quantity. The idea of this is to give carrying power to the music. The light pure tone cuts through the heavier voices giving a good clear outline to the melody.

The effect of the carrying power of the light pure tones is splendidly illustrated by a musician who was visiting in the country. Walking along the road on a fine, clear day he heard the sound of a man whistling off in the distance. Shortly he saw coming aronnd the corner of the road a man driving a heavy wagon. Soon the noise of the wagon rattling along the road overpowered the sound of the whistling. The man passed and then as he got a distance away again the sound of the whistling came back ,sounding above the rattle of the wagon.

It is hardly a correct inference that voices in a choir may be likened to wagons rumbling along the road and men whistling and yet the principle holds good. Fine pure voices, even if they are not strong, therefore, have their place.

In Pennsylcania a real law for motor thieves is being considered. It would provide a penalty of a $500 fine or ten years' imprisonment. An accessory to the theft is to be considered as guilty as the principal. Joy-riders, as well as professional thieves, are included.

Whips Splendidly!

YOU can have whipped cream for that extra-delicious, extra-appetizing dish—whipped cream—whenever you wish, for any unexpected occasion!

Carnation Milk "from Contented Cows" comes to you doubly richer than ordinary milk. It whips splendidly—of course, you must chill it first.

You can keep a supply of Carnation Milk handy on your pantry shelf. It will stay fresh and sweet for months. It is "whole" milk, sealed safe in air-tight cans and sterilized. So it "keeps" several days even when the can is opened.

For whipping or as cream for tea, coffee, fruit or cereals, use Carnation Milk just as it comes to you. For the children's drink—dilute it with an equal quantity of water. For cooking—add still more water.

Carnation Milk, you see, can be used in every way you use ordinary milk and cream. It is the only milk supply your home needs.

Another convenience—you buy it with your groceries. Your grocer is the Carnation Milkman. Order three or four trial cans (16 oz. tall size). Directions on every can. Begin to enjoy this economy and convenience—to-day.

Our Recipe Booklet contains recipes for whipping, making desserts, general cooking, creamed dishes, etc. Write our Aylmer office for a free copy.

BE SUSPICIOUS OF TENDER GUMS

Be suspicious of any tenderness or bleeding of the gums. This is usually the first stage of Pyorrhea—an insidious disease of the gums that destroys the teeth and undermines bodily health.

Gradually the gums become spongy. They inflame, then shrink, thus exposing the unenameled tooth-base to the ravages of decay. Tiny openings in the gums form gateways for disease germs to enter the system. Medical science has traced many ills to these infecting germs in the gums weakened by Pyorrhea.

They are now known to be a frequent cause of indigestion, anaemia, rheumatism and other serious conditions.

So watch carefully for that first tenderness or bleeding of the gums. Try Forhan's immediately. It positively prevents Pyorrhea (Riggs' Disease) if used in time and used consistently.

And in preventing Pyorrhea—it guards against other ills.

Forhan's (For the Gums) cleans teeth scientifically as well. Brush your teeth with it. It keeps the teeth white and clean.

If gum-shrinkage has already set in start using Forhan's and consult a dentist immediately for special treatment.

LINDSAY BEAT PETERBORO' TEAM

(Lindsay Warder)

Lindsay is still on the baseball map. At any rate the Hustlers administered a defeat to the Bohonks of Peterboro Thursday, the score being 8—7.

The weather was a little cool for the game, but nevertheless many brilliant plays were made. For the Hustlers Houzer pitched the first three innings, but gave way to Chambers, who finished the game in championship style. For the visitors Shimmie settled down to business after the first innings, and pitched really good ball. One of the features of the game was the catching of McConnechie at the plate. Norman Mark was the referee. The lineup:

Bohonks—Guard c., Shimmie p., White 1b., Tudhope 2b, Dugan s.s., Shean 3b., Thunbeck l.f., Anderson c.f., Herkison r.f.

Hustlers—MacConnachie c., Houzer and Chambers p., McElroy 1b., B. Brawn 2b, Mills s.s., Stark 3b., Davis l.f., Chambers c.f., Stewart r.f.

PITCHER'S ARM WAS BROKEN ON SATURDAY

SECOND ACCIDENT OF ITS KIND AT RIVERSIDE PARK

For the second time this baseball season a pitcher has had the misfortune to break his arm. Mr. Meredith Huycke had his "wing" broken at Riverside park while pitching a City League game, and Pete Long, 338 Sherbrooke street, son of Mr. Rupert S. Long, had his right arm broken Saturday afternoon while pitching for the C.G.E. tool room team against the 'Test' nine at Nicholls Oval.

It was in the fifth innings, and when about to deliver a drop to the plate his arm made a noise like a pistol shot, but not suspecting that his arm was broken, he attempted to pick up the ball which had fallen on the ground. Then the truth dawned upon him, and escorted by Jack Pilling, they reached Dr. Moir's office, and the arm, which had been broken between the elbow and shoulder, was set. Joe Vinette took the mound for the tool room with the scre 16-1 in favour of his team and won his game handily 20-2.

"Pete" expects to have his arm in a sling for at least five weeks, and it will be some time before he is back at work.

SENT LETTERS TO PETERBOROUGH

HUNS REACHING OUT FOR GERMAN TRADE

Typical of German business acumen is a letter in English, copies of which have been sent to every bank in the city, from the "Berliner Borsen Courier," of Berlin, Germany, evidently a financial newspaper from the contents of the letter:

THE LETTER.

"Gentlemen: As business connecnections between England and Germany are about to be taken up again we may hope to restablish also the old friendly relations. Therefore it is necessary for all merchats, for all those interested in the stock and money market, for all bankers, to possess a source of rich and reliable information regarding Germany's trade and industries.

"The chief end of the 'Berliner Borsen-Courier" has always consisted in promoting the business relatinos between these two countries.

"You must read the Berliner Borsen-Courier' if you want to be furnished with hte best information as to the state of the German Commonwealth, her trade, industry and economic administration.

"Under newspaper wrapper, the price of subscription on the "Berliner Borsen-Courier' amount to M. 25—quarterly. (By postal order.)

"We should feel very much obliged if you were kind enough to let us know whether you have the intention to figure among our readers.

"Looking forwar dto your reply we remain,

"Very respectfully yours
"Berliner Borsen-Courier."

"Considerable Nerve."

"They have considerable nerve," is the way Mr. J. Wells Fraser, manager of the local branch of the bank of Nova Scotia, greeted the epistle.

"Enclosed is a ready addressed envelope, the kind which mail order houses send out written in both English and German.

Of considerable interest is the fact that the German stamp affixed is of the old Kaiser regime. It is of a green shade valued at 5 pfennings and carries the figure of a beautiful woman wearing the royal crown of Prussia. Printed below in German is "The German Empire."

TURTLES NEXT AT LAKEFIELD

When the steamer Manita docked at Lakefield this morning the passengers were greeted by a large nest of turtles which were gathered up by the cottagers and brought to the city A large number of eggs still remained in the nest awaiting the action of the warm sun to bring them to life. The nest was located right on the wharf among the cinders.

"MY SOLDIER GIRL" AT THE GRAND

BRIGHT, TUNEFUL AND PICTURESQUE —A MUSICAL PLAY

When the musical spectacle, "My Soldier Girl," comes to the Grand, Saturday matinee and evening, theatregoers will be treated to gorgeous costumes, elaborate stage settings, novelties that are new and effective and an excellent cast supported by a and an excellent cast supported by a sent the many stage pictures that make a show a success.

One of the many novel features in the tuneful musical play is a gorgeous stage setting which presents a brilliant Follies production on the roof of a New York theatre with a grand illumination of the city in the distance. In rapid succession follows "Flirtation Walk," an illuminated run-board extending out over the heads of the audience on which the clever dances are introduced by bewitching beauties. A lawn fete, at Colonel Stone's home, Miami, Fla., with banks of flowers and lights. Novel drills and dance ensembles The famous "pony" ballet from the roof of a New York Theatre and a brilliant musical spectacle in all its merry making. There are fully some twenty musical numbers including "My Soldier Girl," "Just for You," "Wrap me in a Bundle of Love," "That Dixie Wedding Tune," and "Won't you be my Beau," are among the real favorites.

VAUDEVILLE AT GRAND THEATRE

ADDED ATTRACTIONS FOR FIRST THREE DAYS OF THIS WEEK

Eugene Lockhart, one of the most widely known musical comedy stars and composer of many musical numbers, will be seen at the Grand as an added attraction to-day, Tuesday and Wednesday, in a special pianologue creation of his own. His act is one of the snappiest ever offered before the public and several times he has had to repeat the performance in the various cities visited in response to the numerous encores.

Mr. Lockhart visited the city several months ago with his own English company of Pierrot Players and those who see him this time will admit that he is just as funny now as he was then. He has a wonderful personality and the comedy he springs is both original and refreshing.

This star composes his own songs and those who visit this popular Theatre will hear him singing some of these from his own pen: "The Land of the Ukelele." "A Modest Little Thing." "Swish." "The World is Waiting for the Sunrise," "In your Wedding Gown," and "When Uncle Sam Gets Back to Alabam."

The prices remain the same for this added attraction. Seats can be reserved in advance for all evening performances.

FELL OUT OF TREE AND BROKE ARM

By accident Master Gordon Dobbin, the twelve year old son of Mr. L. G. Dobbin, of the firm of Adamson & Dobbin, broke his arm by falling out of a tree in the village of Lakefield, Saturday afternoon. He was brought to his home in the city and a doctor summoned.

FAIRBANKS AT ALLEN THATRE FOR TWO DAYS

Popular Athletic Star has part of Lieutenant in Powerful Story of Life on the Mexican Border— Delicious Comedy of the Fairbanksian Order.

When the history of the screen in America is finally written the name of Douglas Fairbanks unquestionably will rank high as that of a man whose personality and smile contributed very largely to the popularization of the motion picture in this country.

The story of "Arizona" is familiar to most playgoers. Lieutenant Denton of a detachment of the Eleventh United States Cavalry, stationed in Arizona, loves Bonita, the daughter of Mr. Canby, the owner of the Canby Ranch, and sister of Estrella, the wife of Colonel Bonham, commander of the detachment. Estrella secretely loves Captain Hodgeman, a man whose record is dubious. Colonel Bonham is 30 years older than his wife, but he lives in the hope that she will one day return his love for her in like manner. The detachment comes to the ranch and Denton is amazed the same evening to find Estrella in Hodgeman's arms.

At a dance given to the cavalrymen Denton overhears Hodgeman and Estrella discussing their proposed elopement just as Colonel Bonham leaves for Los Angeles on military business. Denton threatens to kill Hodgeman for his rascality and after forcing him to give up Estrella's jewels which he had appropriated, he kicks him off the place. Estrella goes sobbing to her room followed by Denton and he is pleading with her to give up Hodgeman when Colonel Bonham appears unexpectedly. Unable to explain his presence to his commanding officer, Denton resigns his lieutenancy, he refusing to tell how Estrella's gems came into his possession.

Mr. Fairbank's support is exceedingly strong. The leading women's parts are in the hands of Marjorie Daw and Kathleen Kirkham. Theodore Roberts, Frank Campeau and Frederick Burton, have strong roles, while others in the cast include Kate Price, Marguerite de la Matte, Robt. Boulder, Raymond Hatton and Harry Northrup.

The story is a splendid adaptation of the famous play by Augustus Thomas and was written around the state of "Arizona." Mr. Thomas' knowledge of western life makes his play virile. It will be shown at the Allen to-day and to-morrow.

THINK MILLERS ARE DISHONEST

ONTARIO FARMERS TAKE EXCEPTION TO WHEAT PRICES FIXED BY BOARD.

(Canadian Press.)

TORONTO, Sept. 8.—Dissatisfaction with wheat prices as fixed by the National Wheat Board recently was expressed at the initial session of the Board this morning by representatives of the United Farmers of Ontario, who claimed that Ontario farmers had not been given a fair deal.

Among the speakers were M. W. Doherty, C. W. Guerin, Paris, E. H. Stonehouse, president of the National Dairy Council, and Wellington Hay, M.P.P., of Listowel.

Messrs. Doherty and Stonehouse spoke of the fear entertained by Ontario farmers that there would be a scarcity of wheat offal. They had been unable in the past to get a sufficient supply of bran and middlings, and feared too great a proportion of offal would still be taken out of the Province.

Mr. Hay said the Ontario farmers were interested in some solution of the problem which would compel some millers to be honest. Some millers were paying too much attention to the prices fixed by the Wheat Board

All the speakers pointed out that wheat threshings in Ontario was a diffenert proposition to what it was in other Provinces, and is becoming more difficult each year.

TRAIN DERAILED; WOMAN INJURED

PORT ARTHUR WOMAN WAS SLIGHTLY INJURED.

CHIEF GRANGE STOOD SECOND

Fire Chief George Grange is enthusiastic over the results of his recent visit to the 11th annual Fire Chief's Convention held in Calgary and said to-day that it was the best convention ever held in the Dominion. He told the Examiner this morning that with the hints he received on fire fighting and on uses of the fire equipment which he will put into practice in the near future his trip will be worth while. "Any money spent on the trip was well spent", he said. Though reluctant to admit the fact in a competition on the handsomest man at the convention Chief Grange stood second.

COMMON SENSE.

"My Word! isn't that a beautiful letter?
Rarely have I ever seen anything better;"
We nearly always lead, that, I must admit.
But our letters, to this, shows a misfit.
Let me see, why our help is quite near,

WEDDING BELLS

The following is from a Thompsonville (Connecticut) exchange:

O'CONNOR—MAHONEY.

THOMPSONVILLE, Ct., Sept. 3. —Miss Elizabeth Veronica O'Connor, daughter of John O'Connor, of 52 Pleasant Street, and Sergeant Joseph Philip Mahoney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Mahoney, of Peterborough, Ont., were married at 9 this morning at St. Patrick's Church by Rev. William F. O'Brien, in the presence of an unusually large number of relatives and friends. The wedding march from "Lohengrin" was played by Miss Dorilda Castonguay, organist.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Mary Isabelle O'Connor, and the best man was Vincent O'Keefe. The bride wore white Georgette crepe with beaded trimming. Her tulle veil was caught up with lilies of the valley and she carried bridal roses. Her attendant wore grey Georgette crepe and a large black picture hat, and carried an arm bouquet of chrysanthemums. Nuptial high mass was celebrated by Father O'Brien. The choir sang, the soloists being Mrs. Frederick R. Furey and Miss Eleanor Sullivan. Following the mass there was a reception and breakfast at the home of the bride, some 75 guests attending. The couple left on a trip to Canada, and on their return they will reside temporarily with the bride's parents.

The groom returned from France three weeks ago.

RUMANIANS WILL NOT SIGN

HAVE NOTIFIED THE SUPREME COUNCIL AT THE PEACE COUNCIL THAT THE TERMS OF AUSTRIAN TREATY DO NOT MEET THEIR APPROVAL

TIME FOR SERBIA

Special to the Examiner:

PARIS, Sept. 9.—The Roumanian peace delegation has notified the Supreme Council of the Peace Conference that Roumania will not sign the Austrian Treaty, it was announced officially to-day.

The Peace Conference granted the Serbians an extension of three days to await new instructions from Belgrade with regard to their signing of the treaty.

PARIS, Sept. 9.—Roumanian delegates to the Peace Conference announced to-day that it would not sign the Austrian peace treaty which Austria and other powers are to sign at ten o'clock to-morrow morning.

Before the Roumanian announcement was made it had been indicated by members of the Supreme Council that Roumania was expected to take this course because of the Council's flat refusal to grant her privileges of making reservations in connection with the rights of minorities in territories detached from the former Austrian Empire as provided for in the Peace Treaty. It is also considered as improbable that the Jugo-Slav delegation will sign the treaty. It will be granted several days' delay, however, to communicate with its home government. Jugo-Slav objections are similar to those of Roumania.

HOT WEATHER BOOMS INVERLEA

LAST TWO DAYS SEES BATHING SUITS AGAIN IN VOGUE —J. GATES, O.K.I.P., ON DUTY.

The last two days of hot weather brought the surf fans back to Inverlea Park, and swimming came into its own again for a brief spell.

James Gates, D.C., O.K.I.P. (Official Keeper of Inverlea Park), was again on duty, with his long cane, which has played more than one tune on youthful would-be destroyers of civic property.

GEN. CURRIE IN LONDON

Says He Has Names of Bolshevik Agents in London, Ont.

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 8.—General Sir Arthur Currie, welcomed to London to-day to officiate at the opening ceremonies of the Western Fair, furnished members of the Canadian Club with a thought to ponder, when he told them at a luncheon in his honour that there are German Bolshevik agents in London, and that he knows their names and addresses.

The General had stated that while the war is over, the Germans have not been given a death blow, and they are still unrepentent.

"I believe," he said, "that there is still a German menace. Ninety per cent. of the heads of the Russian Soviet Government are Germans, and their agents are active everywhere. There are agents in London, Ont., whose names I know."

THE JOSEPH SCRIVEN MEMORIAL

752 Markham Street,
Toronto, 7th August, 1919.

Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—A letter appeared in your paper some time ago, re a monument to the memory of the late Joseph Scriven, stating that he was lying in an unmarked grave, and regretted there was no Baptist on the committee, whereupon her voice from the Baptist body. If you will give me space in your valuable paper, I would like to speak, not only as a Baptist, but one who knew Mr. Scriven from childhood, he being a frequent visitor at our home up to the time of his death.

Mr. Scriven was a very humble Christian, and nothing would have grieved him more. He was buried, at his own request, in the quiet little graveyard known as the Forest Chapel on the shore of Rice Lake, the property of the late Captain Pengelly, who, with his wife, is buried there, together with the Sackvilles and my own grandparents—all old friends of the late Mr. Scriven; and to make such a display, especially when he has been buried for nearly half a century, would not only be taking advantage of his silence, but a worshipping of the creature instead of the Creator.

He was a servant of the living God, and is only waiting for the voice from Heaven, when the dead in Christ will rise first.

Thy word, our comfort, in this hour
Assures us, since he sleeps in Thee,
Thy mighty resurrection power
Shall wake him,
Like Thyself to be;
And till that hour, tis little while,
He is where nothing can defile.

Thanking you, Mr. Editor.—I remain, yours truly, "Maranatha."

A CARLOAD OF HORSES WILL BE SHIPPED HERE FOR PETERBORO' FAIR

SOME OF THE BEST RUNNERS FROM THE TORONTO TRACKS WILL TAKE PART IN LOCAL EVENTS.

THE RACES

Patrons of Peterborough's Fair next week have a real treat in store for them, when races for thoroughbred horses will be featured for the first time. The local management of the Fair, after witnessing the intense interest displayed in the running events at the Cobourg Horse Show, realized the value of this sport and, at considerable expense, have added to their already extensive racing programme, three events for the runners.

One race of two heats will be given on each of the three days during the Fair. On Monday the conditions call for 3 year olds and up, to race 4 1-2 furlongs. On Tuesday the distance will be 5 furlongs and on Wednesday (closing day) the gallopers will be seen in action over the 6 1-2 furlong route. Entries to the events will close at 10 a.m. on the day of each race with the secretary on the grounds. There will be no starting fee and liberal purses have been provided.

Car of Horses.

A car load of horses, including the majority of the best runners in training around the tracks at Toronto will be shipped here for the events, which will guarantee some spirited and high-class racing. Jockeys Acton, Gibson, Chappell, Cummings, Little and Davidson, all experienced riders, will be among those on hand to accept mounts. They will ride in silks the same as on the larger tracks of Canada, which makes it simple for the spectators to distinguish the horses while the races are in progress.

Among the horsemen who will ship to Peterborough for the running events are: J. Lewis' "Little Pete," a winner at Galt recently. H. Gibson with "Ella Jenning" a winner on many of the Canadian tracks, J. Montgomery's "Mimico" which raced creditably in colors of Amos Turney as a 2 and 3 year old, Stuart MacFarlane's "Gold Galore," winner of the Coronation Stakes at Woodbine Park, Toronto and winner of three straight races at the Cobourg Horse Show, W. J. Cross' "Meissen," another product of the Waterloo Farm of the late Jos. E. Seagram, H. Hewer's "John Thompson," a product of Messrs. Dyment's Brookdale Farm at Barrie, P. Mulhall's Thomas G., a son of "Live Wire," while Mike Carlin's "Mona G. Van Guard," and "Sandy McNaughton" will be included in the shipment from Toronto.

The fact that there will be no racing on the Canadian Circuit tracks this fall has made it possible for the Peterborough Fair Association to secure these high class thoroughbreds to race here and the management have every confidence that their efforts will be appreciated by the patrons of the Fair.

BREEDERS HELD ANNUAL MEETIEG

SHORTHORN CATTLE SALE IN JANUARY NEXT

The annual meeting of the Peterborough County Shorthorn Breeders' Association was held on Saturday afternoon in the City Council Chamber. Mr. J. Andrew Knox, of Ashodel, president of the Association, presided.

About eighteen members were present, and arrangements were made for a sale of Shorthorn cattle to be held the last week in January next.

The sale will be limited to fifty animals. Thirty-six have already been entered.

The old officers of the Association were re-elected for another year.

CONGRATULATIONS FOR GEN. PERSHING

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Sept. 9. — British congratulations on the return of General Pershing were extended to the United States to-day in a statement made through the United Press by Premier Lloyd George.

"Great Britain congratulates America on the safe return of General Pershing," said the Premier, "and is confident that his magnificent services in the interest of the Allied and Associated Powers will be acclaimed by the great American people throughout the land."

Field Marshal Haig personally cabled his appreciation to Pershing.

SEA SUPREMACY VITAL TO EMPIRE

PEOPLE OF BRITISH ISLES AND DOMINIONS MUST PUT THEIR HANDS IN THEIR POCKETS

Special to the Examiner:

WELLINGTON, N.Z., Sept. 8.—Admiral Jellicoe, former Commander of the British Grand Fleet, declared in a speech here to-day that unless the people of the British Isles and the Dominions were prepared to "put their hands in their pockets" immediately, it would be impossible for Britain to retain her sea supremacy. This supremacy, he said, was vital to the existence of the Empire.

CONCORD AND NIAGARA GRAPES FORTY CENTS

Season Price Set by Growers For These Varieties, But Not Others.

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 8.—The Niagara Grape Growers' Association decided that the price of Concords and Niagaras should be 40 cents a basket to all dealers. This is a season price and all local associations will be asked to hold to it. The price of other varieties of grapes was not set, the association leaving it to the grower to secure as good prices as he could. It was pointed out that E. D. Smith of Winona, one of the largest dealers in grapes in Ontario, had not quoted a price on Concords and Niagaras; further, that Mr. Smith was not a firm believer in the American market. Grapes are now being sold to the American trade at $200 a ton, the grower paying the duty of about $11 a ton.

DEMAND SUPPRESSION OF PART OF THE GERMAN CONSTITUTION

Provides For Austrian Representation.

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, Sept. 9. — The Supreme Council of the Peace Conference will to-day draft a note to be sent to Germany demanding the suppression of article 61 of the German constitution providing for Austrian representation in the German Parliament, according to newspapers here. It is said the Council considers the German answer to the Council's note relative to Article 61 as insufficient.

IRISH TOWN TERRORIZED BY MOB LAST NIGHT

Several Thousand Pounds Damage.

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Sept. 9. — Fermoy, 19 miles north-east of Cork, was terrorized by a mob for an hour last evening, according to an Exchange Telegraph Co. Fifty shops were damaged, one jewelry store being completely demolished. The loss is estimated at several thousand pounds.

THE WEATHER

Yesterday was very warm, and 92 degrees in the shade was reached, but a sudden and decided drop in temperature occurred in the evening, after a slight shower. Last night's figures were the usual autumn ones, 52 degrees.—W.P.

YEAR AGO TO-DAY

A long list of local casualties as a result of the British drive reach the city.

Rev. J. A. Mackenzie elected president of Ministerial Association.

The Government refuses amnesty to deserters who may surrender.

French troops only four miles from St. Quentin.

Winnipeg Streets Were Massaged For Visit of Prince of Wales

PRINCE WAS GIVEN A RECORD WELCOME ON HIS ARRIVAL IN WINNIPEG THIS MORNING—HALF HOLIDAY WAS PROCLAIMED

WINNIPEG, Man., Sept. 9.—No individual, born to purple or of common stock, ever was accorded such a welcome as was given the Prince of Wales this morning on his arrival in Winnipeg from the East. A hundred thousand people greeted him along the crowded thoroughfares, which were lavishly decorated for the event.

The day was proclaimed a half-holiday, and the school children massed at the convenient points, sang patriotic songs as the Prince passed along to the various functions. The cheering was hearty and continuous. It never has been so spontaneous on previous visits of loyalty, but the kindly face of the Prince, his evident enjoyment of the scene, and his hearty response gave zest to the people's natural freedom of expression.

Flags and bunting were displayed with riotous generosity, and everywhere there were signs of joyous festivities. The Prince looked healthy and brown from his three days' fishing trip, and the tour has no doubt, judging from his appearance, been of great benefit to him.

Winnipeg greeted the Prince with bright and shining face and clean behind the ears. Gangs of men employed by the City Street Commissioner, massaged the streets with brooms and flushing machines last night, and Winnipeg was a second edition of the justly famous spotless town when His Royal Highness stepped from the train this morning.

FIVE STRIKERS KILLED IN RIOT

FIFTEEN OTHERS ARE WOUNDED —CLASH BETWEEN POLICE AND ONE THOUSAND STRIKING WORKMEN

Canadian Press:

HAMMOND, Ind., Sept. 9.—Five strikers were killed and fifteen wounded to-day in a battle between the police and one thousand striking workmen of the Standard Steel Car Company, who were threatening to mob two hundred workmen of the company who had returned to work. The police suffered no injuries.

ACCIDENT TO BICYCLE RIDER

AUTOMOBILE DEMOLISHED WHEEL AND PASSES ON

An accident last night at the corner of Charlotte and Park Streets will result in a Police Court case.

Horace Blake, 639 Chamberlain Street, was riding west on Charlotte Street, when a car driven by a woman, and owned by Mr. John Crowe, of Mount Pleasant, and coming north on Park Street, crashed into the bicycle, smashing it beyond repair.

The rider escaped with a few minor injuries.

It is said the motor car did not stop as required by law, to give assistance and to hand in her name and address to the injured party or a policeman, if one is present.

DIRECT ACTION WORKERS WIN

GLASGOW, Sept. 9.—Supporters of direct action for the enforcement of Labour's demands won a victory on the first vote relating to the subject which was taken by the Trades Union Congress here at to-day's session. The Parliamentary Committee's report was referred back to it because it did not express the opinion on direct action, the vote being 3,598,000 for motion to refer and 1,870,000 against. The motion to refer the report back to the committee was made by Robert Smillie, the miners' leader.

The vote is regarded as tantamount to a vote of venture of the committee.

IS PICKED UP AT SEA CLINGING TO A RAFT.

NEW YORK, Sept. 8.—Aboard the United Fruit Company's steamship Carrillo, which arrived to-day from Cristobal, was a member of the crew of the steamship Chetopa, who was picked up at sea clinging to a raft. The man's leg was broken, and he was delirous when rescued.

According to the fragments of the story he told he was making repairs to the rudder of the Chetopa, which left here last Saturday for Mobile, when the rigging gave way and he fell into the sea.

He was not missed, and the Chetopa continued on her way. Some hours later the Carillo rescued him.

TO-DAY'S MARKET

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 9. — Receipts, 861 cattle, 189 calves, 779 hogs, 1,088 sheep. Although trade in cattle was slow, prices were generally steady. Small meats were firmer but hogs sold at yesterday's lowest price. Choice export cattle $13 to $14; choice butchers $12 to $12.50; medium $10.50 to $11; common $8.50 to $9.50; bulls $9 to $10; feeders $10 to $11; stockers, choice, $8.50 to $9.50; light $7.50 to $8.50; ewes $8 to $9; lambs $14.50 to $15; hogs, fed and watered $19.25; f.o.b $18.25; calves $18 to $19.50.

MILLBROOK'S RATE 37 MILLS.

MILLBROOK, Sept. 8.—Millbrook Village Council has fixed the rate for the current year at 37 mills on the dollar.

BADLY HURT WHEN CAR IS OVERTURNED

GENERAL MANAGER OF GOVERNMENT LIQUOR AGENCIES PINNED BENEATH STEERING WHEEL

Special to the Examiner:

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 9.—Mr. W. B. Clelland, general manager of the Government Liquor Agencies, was seriously injured in an automobile accident on the Hamilton highway last night, according to information received by the Ontario License Commission. Full particulars are not received yet, but Mr. Clelland's car is reported to have overturned, pinning its owner beneath the steering wheel and badly crushing his chest. Mr. Clelland is undergoing X-ray examination at his home in Hamilton to-day.

STRIKE RIOT ENDS FATALLY

Special to the Examiner:

HAMMOND, Ind., Sept. 9.—Three foreigners are dead, two are dying and twenty-five injured as the result of rioting here early to-day by workers of the Standard Steel Car Co. who have been on strike six weeks.

CHOIR LEADER IS GIVING UP POSITION

The choir of Murray St. Baptist church has suffered a very great loss in the resignation of Mr. Asa Huycke as choir leader, who finds that the increase of work in the business with the Peterborough Music Co., prevents him from further devoting his time to choir leadership. Mr. Huycke has been the successful leader of Murray St. choir for over three years and under his leadership it has become one of the best choirs in the city. The new choir leader will be Mr. Douglas Carlisle, the well known baritone whose experience in St. Paul's choir under the tuition of Mr. John Allan should fit him to be a first class choir conductor. The organ will be retained by Miss Ida Sanderson, who has given splendid service for the last three years and who is generally recognized as one of the most talented organists in the city.

CHEAPER CHEESE IS NOT LOOKED FOR

PROVISION MEN DO NOT THINK BRITISH ACTION WILL LOWER PRICE

The decision of the British Food Controller to purchase only 20,000 tons of Canadian cheese is not likely to make cheese any cheaper here, in the opinion of local wholesale provision merchants. The interpretation of the action of the British Ministry of Food by Montreal dealers seems to be that it will make cheaper cheese, but local men do not agree with that opinion. They point out that the making of cheese will soon be over, and the Western Provinces are taking a good deal of the Eastern make.

"At the present time cheese is cheaper in the East than in Western Canada," said Mr. H. B. Clemes, manager for Gunns, Ltd. He does not look for cheaper cheese, as there are still orders awaiting to be filled for Western Canada, and the make will soon be over for this season. It is getting difficult to purchase cheese now, Mr. Clemes pointed out, and he does not anticipate any surplus.

The make for this season will be over about the end of September or early in October. Wholesalers point out that the British Commission is not getting very much of Western Ontario's cheese. The British action, according to some of the dealers, may tend to make for open trading for cheese again.

OCTOBER 20TH DATE CHOSEN FOR REFERENDUM

NO ANNOUNCEMENT YET AS TO PROVINCIAL ELECTION BUT THERE IS STILL A CHANCE IT WILL BE HELD AT THE SAME TIME AS THE REFERENDUM.

THE CABINET MEETS

TORONTO, Sep. 9.—Monday, October 20, is the date on which Ontario electors will vote on the prohibition referendum. Official announcement to this effect was made by Sir William Hearst's office yesterday afternoon. There was no mention of the date of the Provincial election in the statement, and it was stated by the Prime Minister's office that the Government had not considered when it would go to the people.

Voters' Lists Delayed.

"There have been some unexpected delays in the preparation of the voters' lists," read the statement issued by Sir William, "but the work has progressed sufficiently to enable the Government to fix the date for the vote on the referendum. Voting on this act will take place on Monday, the 20th of October."

The Cabinet Council has held several long sessions during the past week, and yesterday's announcement was made after a two hours' meeting. While the Prime Minister's office had nothing to say about the election, it is understood the matter was not lost sight of in the fixing of the referendum date. Whether or not it will be held the same day as the vote is taken on the referendum has not been definitely settled.

The Cabinet members have been swaying back and forth on this phase of the question, at one time favoring the double vote on one day, and again leaning toward the idea of having the election six weeks or two months later.

Bruce County First.

It is confidently expected that by the end of this month all the voters' lists will be complete, according to the Chief Election Clerk, Mr. Allan Dymond. He stated yesterday that to Bruce county, comprising the three ridings, fell the honor of first notifying his office that the lists had been filed with the Clerk of the Peace there. Since then other ridings have sent him similar notification. From now on it is expected each day will find similar notifications being received.

COMPERS LOST A RACE WITH DEATH

(United Press.)

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 9.—Samuel Gompers, President of the American Federation of Labor, arrived here to-day after losing a race with death. His father, Solomon Gompers, 91 years old, died last night at the home of his daughter. Solomon Gompers began life as a cigar maker in London, later coming to New York. He became totally blind in 1908 and had lived with his daughter since that time.

CAPT. M'AULAY TELLS OF VISIT

DESCRIBES RAID BY MILITARY POLICE UPON JESUIT NOVITIATE

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 9.—The evidence of Major Hirsch was completed and Captain MacAulay told the story of his visit to the Jesuit Novitiate at this morning's session of the inquiry. These two witnesses took up the entire morning session.

Major Hirsch's evidence had largely to do with the fate of the letters mentioned on Monday afternoon as having been taken from his private file in London, and there were several sharp tilts between the opposing counsel as the witness refused to positively identify the letters produced as those which had been in his possession and which conveyed to him his authority for proceeding against the Novitiate.

Captan MacAuley told a rather dramatic story of his visit to the Novitiate, delating at length the elaborate precautions taken to prevent the people of Guelph from gaining knowledge that anything out of the ordinary was afoot. An interesting point was reached when he swore that hanging in the hall of the Novitiate he saw typewritten lists of members of the institution, but that next morning that list was gone from its accustomed place.

Shown a list by Mr. Geoffrieon, who declared it was the list referred to, Captain MacAulay swore such list was not the one he had seen.

UNITED FARMERS HOLD MEETING

Plea for Unity made by Ernest Macdonald of East Peterboro—Labour's Position.

A largely attended and enthusiastic meeting of the United Farmers of Ontario for West Peterboro, was held in the Sons of England hall last night. Mr. Ernest N. Macdonald the U.F.O. standard bearer in East Peterboro pleaded for unity among the farmers stating that there are candidates in nearly every riding of the province and that only complete unity among the farmers would assume election. He replied to certain criticisms that the nominating convention held some time ago at Norwood at which he was nominated was not representative by saying that his two opponents in the nomination are now working together for his election.

Labour Should Co-Operate

He asked that Labour co-operate with the farmers in the Political Field and that they together nominate a candidate for West Peterboro for the Provincial house. "The farmers and Labour as producers and consumers have grievances in common." An invitation was sent to the local Trades and Labour Council to send representatives to the meeting to take common action in the political field but some of the labour men thought it would not be consistent with the aims of labour and no delegates were sent. Mr. George Parliament, a member of the Trades and Labour Council speaking unofficially thought that they should unite to nominate a candidate

Co-Operative Store Plan

Mr. R. B. Rogers reported on the progress of the co-operative store idea and that 189 shares had been purchased by the rural community to date but that 300 shares was the total to be obtained before the store would be opened. He stated that Mr. Publow who spoke here some time ago in favour of the scheme, would organize the business as soon as enough shares were sold to finance it.

ARRIVES IN PARIS.

Dr. Karl Renner, Chancellor of Austria Reaches Paris.

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, Sept. 9—Dr. Karl Renner, Austrian Chancellor, and head of the Austrian peace delegation, who is to sign the Peace Treaty to-morrow for his nation, arrived in Paris from Vienna this morning.

THE FUNERAL WAS HELD TO-DAY

FIREMEN WERE REPRESENTED BY THE NIGHT PLATOON

The funeral of the late Percy B. Pammett, engineer at the Fire Hall, took place this afternoon at 2.30 to Lakefield Cemetery.

The firemen were represented by the night platoon, with six firemen as pallbearers. The Police Force was also represented by a number of the policemen.

For the last two days the Fire Hall has been tastefully draped in purple and black, with flag at half-mast, and the hose waggon in the funeral procession carried heavy drapings of purple and black. His rubber boots, hat, and fighting harness, with his certificate as an engineer, occupied the top of the waggon.

It Pays to Advertise.

DOES ADVERTISING PAY?

Many advertisers, and particularly retail advertisers, never get the full cumulative power of advertising behind their business because they lack patience. They demand direct returns. They run a one-time announcement in the local paper to-day and look for sales enough—sales directly traceable to the little one-time advertisement—before next week to pay for the cost of the space.

Of course they are disappointed. Retail advertising seldom works out that way. But they are impatient for results. They are not prepared to invest money in advertising as they would in new goods, in store fixtures, in stocks or in real estate—and wait for profits to be earned. No. The returns of to-day's advertising must ring in cash profits to-morrow, or in the estimation of too many retail dealers, the advertising is not worth what it costs.

Hand-to-mouth advetising is not worth what it costs. It yields only hand-to-mouth returns. To show the best results as a business building power, the advertising of the retail merchant must be persistent. Its chief purpose should be to build up permanent trade; to make the people of your community turn to your store in preference to other stores; to make them think of you and of your place of business; to convince them that they cannot get better quality and price and service anywhere.

"Would you advise a sixty-inch advertisement in the newspaper once a week or six ads. covering ten inches of space each week?" was one of the questions asked.

"I would advise six ads., one each day, or, better still, three twenty-inch ads. each week," replied the advertiser.

"Anything that is desirable is advertisable," he said, and pointed out that the desirability of an article depends much on the consistency with which it is advertised.

"One of the best ways to advertise is to cultivate the customers you have acquired and they will assist you in your advertising."

His final message was: "Advertise and get out and prosper."

For your children's injuries nothing is equal to Zam-Buk—it ends pain so quickly! Children know this and when they have once had it applied willingly for it again.

Mrs. T. D. Anston of the Children's Aid Society, Belleville, Ont., says: "We never use anything but Zam-Buk for our children's cuts, burns, bruises, etc. We have found it superior to all other remedies for ending pain and healing, and we have also found, by experience, that no injury, treated with Zam-Buk, ever festers. With so many children in our shelter, we really could not afford to do without Zam-Buk, not only for their injuries, but also for their sores and skin troubles."

Mothers! Be sure to keep a box of Zam-Buk on the children's chair. It will save you much needless anxiety as well as expense. Zam-Buk does not deteriorate with keeping, but retains its strength and purity to the very last. For eczema, ringworm, boils, pimples, ulcers and piles, Zam-Buk is equally good. If you have not already tried this herbal balm, cut out this advertisement, write across it the name of this paper and send it with 1c. stamp (to pay return postage) to Zam-Buk Co., Dundas St., Toronto, and we will then send you a free trial box. 50c everywhere.

ANNIVERSARY WILL BE HELD WEDNESDAY

FEW CONTRIBUTIONS TO THE SCRIVER MEMORIAL

PORT HOPE, Sept. 8.—People of all denominations in this part of the province next Wednesday, will join in honoring the memory of the late Joe. Scriven, author of "What a Friend We Have in Jesus," that beautiful old hymn known to every Christian congregation in the world. The hundredth anniversary of the birth of the devout author was until quite recently believed to be in 1820, but Judge Clary of Calgary, who has made careful research in the matter, has proven that the late Mr. Scriven was born in Scotland in the year 1819 and came to Canada when quite young.

The discovery of the true date of birth has given the people of this section very little time to arrange a fitting ceremony in commemoration of the event, but the local clergy and others have arranged to have a public ceremony in the Methodist church at 2.30 Wednesday afternoon next. After the ceremony a pilgrimage will be made to the grave near Rice Lake, some miles north of Port Hope, where flowers will be placed and the anniversary otherwise marked.

It is expected that a great many people from neighboring towns and places farther away will attend the services and take advantage of the pilgrimage of others to find their way to the grave of the author of what is perhaps the most remarkable contribution to Canadian literature.

The late Mr. Scriven lived in Port Hope for some time, and visitors to the town will be shown the little house where he lived which still stands.

The Joseph Scriven Memorial.

To Editor of The Mail and Empire:

Sir,—It is disappointing to announce that the result of our appeal through your columns for funds for the erection of a suitable memorial at Joseph Scriven's grave beside Rice Lake has been woefully small — only $126 so far has come to hand — no wonder I use the word disappointing. Thousands sing his hymn, thousands have found it to be a fitting expression of their years and sorrows and in the singing of it have found "What a Friend they have in Jesus," and yet the response so far is only as I have indicated.

An influential committee awaits the generosity of all who love the hymn, and love the Friend of whom it speaks, to enable them to honor Joseph Scriven's memory by erecting a stone on which shall be his name and the necessary data, but especially the three verses that shall be sung "till time shall be no longer."

Seven hundred dollars is the amount necessary for this object, the sculptor awaits our instructions to proceed: but we hesitate to incur personal liability, and a further sum, making $2,000 in all, will enable us to put in repair the lovely tiny spot in which he sleeps, secure and make a right of way, erect gates and signs and provide a fund for perpetual upkeep. This project the committee are desirous of carrying out this year the 100th anniversary of his birth and shall we appeal in vain? Surely not, for in honoring Joseph Scriven's memory and worth we really honor Him who has emphatically said "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto Me.

Yours etc.,
WILLIAM D. LEE,
President,
Joseph Scriven Memorial Committee.

It is harmless and never irritates.

Stoney Lake News

STONEY LAKE POINTS, Sept. 6—The guests at Viamede held a jolly mashmallow roast on Thursday evening. The affair was in charge of Mr. Larke of Montreal, who was attentive to the wants of his friends.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Porter, of Lakefield, took the round trip on Labour Day.

Mr. and Mrs. Ward of Rochester, are guests at Mt. Julian.

Mrs. John Northcott, Miss Northcott and Mrs. Trude Waldon, of Lakefield, were on the lake on Labor Day.

Miss Eleanor Carruthers of Grove City, Pa., who has been at 'Viamede' for the past fortnight, returned home on Friday.

Miss Phyllis Cumberland of Toronto, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Grahame at "Kawanna."

Mr. Stewart Brown of Apsley was at Mt. Julian on Wednesday.

Mrs. Graham (nee Julia Choate), and family, of Rosetown, Sask., is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Choate at McCracken's Landing.

Mrs. J. S. Knapman and Mr. Harold Knapman are spending a few weeks at "Forest Home," the remainder of the family returned home to Toronto on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs R. B. Elgie of Toronto, who were guests at "Viamede" for the past fortnight, returned home on Wednesday. Their son, Mr. Howard Elgie, who has spent the summer at "Cootie Camp" near Mt. Julian, returned with them.

Archdeacon Warren, who has been spending a week with friends on the lake, returned home on Saturday.

Miss Mary Warren, of Toronto, who spent a few days at 'Viamede,' returned home on Wednesday.

The cottages at Stoney Lake are gradually being emptied as the week advances. Schools are open and people with children are called home, but there are a great many cottages still occupied. The weather is the ideal September weather that the Stoney Lake enthusiasts rave over, and it is quite fitting to say that this is the best time of the whole season on the lake. The fish are biting well, too, which adds to the general enjoyment.

Voice Of The People

Editor, Examiner:

Sir,—While I was watching the Labor Day parade the thought came to me that the man who earns his bread by the sweat of his brow had come to realize that he has some claim to the comforts and pleasures that this old world owes him. He has found out that he has been the under dog long enough. Now, as a farmer I wish to use the word we, as we are one of the labouring class. Any man who makes his living farming does not have much time to spend at the summer resorts. He that by the plough would thrive himself, must either hold or drive. Now, my idea in writing to the labouring class is to ask the question, 'Can we get together?' There can be no misunderstanding between us that cannot be straightened out. We have all got to work hard for a living and help keep the man who won't work besides. As we are about to have an election soon, why not the labour unions and the farmers get together and select a candidate for both houses, one who will pledge himself to see that the working man's interests are looked after. The man who earns his living without causing pains in his back or blisters on his hands is always ready to see that he has the proper man there to look after his interests. I am quite confident that arrangements could be made whereby the labouring class in the cities could get his supplies from the farmer cheaper than he is doing today. As the time is short I would like to hear some discussion on this question, as I think it is of vital interest to the working man. Come, brother labouring man, let us get together at once.

R. N. Scott, Smith.

A Single Application Banishes Every Hair

(The Modern Beauty.)

Here is how any woman can easily and quickly remove objectionable, hairy growths, without possible injury to the skin: Make a paste with some powdered delatone and water, apply to hairy surface and after 2 or 3 minutes rub off, wash the skin, and the hairs are gone. This is a painless, inexpensive method, and, excepting where the growth is unusually thick, a single application is enough. You should, however, be careful to get genuine delatone.

THE PETERBORO EXHIBITION

The published programme of the Peterboro Industrial Exhibition is undisputable evidence of the fact that as far as special features and amusements are concerned, the big fair will set a new standard for Peterboro. The directors of the Exhibition have done their part; for months they have been working out the details of the Exhibition and preparing for the annual event. Nothing has been left undone that it was thought would add to the success of the occasion. Now the issue is squarely before the people of the city and county. They can make the Exhibition a success of a failure, according to the amount of interest they display in it and according to the measure of co-operation they are prepared to offer the directors. Everyone can help by attending; that is the first duty of the citizens generally and it should be a pleasant duty, too, for there will be much to see. The manufacturers and merchants have a special obligation to the Exhibition. They can help materially by arranging to have a special exhibit at the grounds and again by assisting in making the parade on Monday a success. In these two particulars much depends upon the manufacturers and dealers and with their loyal co-operation the Exhibition of 1919 will be a record-breaker.

THE COMING CONFERENCE

Although many people are dubious as to whether any practical results will come out of the National Industrial Conference on industrial relations and labor laws, every citizen who has the interest of Canada at heart will unite in the hope that the Conference will culminate in a policy being adopted that will end much of the present unrest. The industrial world has been so frequently upset by strikes and lockouts during the past few months that production, instead of being speeded up, has been retarded. Greater production in all lines is the only salvation for Canada, and as long as the industrial troubles continue to paralyze the industries of the country, the Dominion will suffer. While all the delegates have not been selected for the Conference, it is understood that there will be some seventy-five delegates representing the employers of the country, a similar number to look after the interests of the employes and a third section, forty strong, consisting of representatives of various municipalities, members of the Royal Commission on Industrial Relations, returned soldiers and other interests. The composition of the Conference is a representative one. Let us hope that the delegates selected appreciate the importance of their mission to Ottawa and resolve that they will use their energy and talent to the limit to endeavor to solve the problem that is interfering with Canada's return to normal conditions.

THE WAR GRATUITIES

The Union Government with its usual facility for doing the wrong thing has undoubtedly set in motion an agitation that may be far-reaching in its effects, by the refusal of the Government to old a conference with representatives of the G. W. V. A. in regard to an increased bonus or gratuity for returned soldiers. There could have been no possible harm done by hearing the case of the ex-soldiers as represented by their chosen representatives. As Mr. McNeil, the Dominion Secretary of the Great War Veterans, explains, the request "has been solely for a fair opportunity to present for a thorough investigation various schemes most studiously prepared, and which other possible solutions of the vexatious problem with a modicum of expenditure." The decision of the Government against holding such a conference has naturally increased the dissatisfaction of the returned men, and is a shabby reward for the leaders of the G.W.V.A., who have endeavored to keep the demand of the veterans within reasonable bounds. Their efforts to do this aroused the ire of some of the more radical among the returned men and officials like Provincial Secretary W. E. Tufley, have come in for considerable abuse from many veterans, because of the stand they took on this question of gratuities. And their moderate course has been met by the Government with a point-blank refusal.

Friends of the administration are in the habit of talking considerably about what has been done for the returned soldiers in Canada. A statement prepared by the Dominion Secretary of the War Veterans in connection with the demand for an increased bonus throws a different light on the matter:

"Mr. McNeil says the soldier settlement plans did not appeal to everyone, but no corresponding provision was made for those not agriculturists; vocational training available was not adequate to solve the problem; the housing schemes offered no immediate relief; some families who crossed the Atlantic during the war were repatriated at the public expenses, while others, equally as deserving, were left to shift for themselves; employment conditions were none too bright; Canadians who served in the Imperial forces could not participate in the post-war benefits; the war service gratuity was distributed in a manner which discriminated against certain classes of men; disabled men could not secure insurance to protect their dependents, and all of these facts accentuated the uneasiness and fostered the demand for a bonus which would enable every man to undertake his own re-establishment, independently and in a manner to suit his individual mood."

THE LIBERTY LEAGUE

The Examiner's opinion of the Liberty tactics, in claiming to be opposed to the return of the open bar, and at the same time urging the people to vote in favor of the repeal of the Ontario Temperance Act, is shared by a number of other journals throughout the Province, who have called attention to the inconsistency of the policy adoptted by the League. The views of the Hamilton Herald were given the other day and the opinion of the Toronto Globe is well worth quoting:

"Mr. Ernest Heaton's letter in this issue does not improve the case of the Citizen's Liberty League," says the Globe. "His assertion that the League is not seeking the revival of the old system and is absolutely opposed to the return of the open bar is flatly inconsistent with the League's advocacy of the repeal of the Ontario Temperance Act.

"The League pretends in its advertisements to favor the 'general sale'—a euphemism for the bar-room sale—of beer and wine, and the sale of hard liquors only by Government agencies. The hook which carries this bait for the guileless elector is the League's injunction to the public to vote "Yes" on the first question of the referendum ballot paper. Mr. Heatons letter implies that he is unaware that a majority affirmative vote on Question 1 will restore the old license system and the far-room as it existed before the Ontario Temperance Act. His associates who are writing the League's newspaper advertisements cannot be so innocent. Clause 8 of the Referendum Act plainly says that the repeal of the Ontario Temperance Act will revive the old Liquor License Act. Sir William Hearst made the point clear beyond cavil. He said in the Legislature: 'If the first question—Are you in favor of the repeal of the Ontario Temperance Act?)—is answered in the affirmative the Ontario Temperance Act will be repealed and the old license law just as it existed prior to 1916 will be revived. In that event there would be no necessity for further questions, for the greater would include the less, and liquor would be sold in bars and shops as in years gone by. But this is not likely to happen.'

"It will happen if the Liberty League's disingenuous campaign succeeds. Electors must be put on their guard against an organization which is using the verbal pitfalls of the referendum to trick them into voting back the bar-room for the sale of whiskey, beer, and wine in every municipality in Ontario."

WAGES AND PRODUCTION

Dr. Arthur L. Bowley, professor of statistics in the University of London, England, has made a notable contribution to the industrial literature of the day in "An analysis of national income before the war." He was led to make this investigation by two statements, one by a Socialist leader, who declared that "two-thirds of the population, that is to say, the manual working class, obtain for their needs only one-third of the produce of each year's work; and the other by a prominent iron master who remarked: "Let a close examination be made of the whole industry of any country, and I am much mistaken if the result will not be approximately as follows: Seventy-five per cent. of the total sale value of the commodities produced will have gone to pay the persons producing them."

By investigating conditions before the war, Dr. Bowley was able to get nearer to the normal and while the result shows conditions only in Great Britain, it is a fair assumption that in a country like Canada where the line is not drawn so tightly between aristocarcy and democracy, conditions are not any worse.

In brief his findings show that in 1911 the aggragate income of the residents of the United Kingdom derived from home sources was £1,900,000,000, of which nearly six per cent. found its way into the hands of a group receiving wages, small salaries, or independent earnings due almost entirely to their exertions, whose annual income was under £160. About 40 per cent. was the income from home sources of 1,100,000 families. Of this amount £45,000,000 went to those engaged in trades and professions, and £190,000,000 was "unearned" in the common usage of the word, being obtained from real estate or securities.

According to these figures all but one-tenth of the total income was the earnings of labor of some sort, the one-tenth being obtained from investments.

These statistics also show what a tremendoes part wages and salaries play in the cost of things. If they were doubled, as they have been in many instances since the figures were compiled, the cost of production, and the cost of living would be virtually doubled. Any economy in the cost of production would have the result either from raw materials imported or from more intense production. As costs have increased in every country, and transportation charges have increased correspondingly, a higher price must be paid for raw materials.

There is left, but one way, then, to beat out the climbing cost of living, speaking generally. There are multitudes of cases of profiteering, which are now being unearthed with ultimate benefit, let us hope, to the consumer; but in the aggregate greater production must be the watchword of any country which desires to see its income exceed its expenditures. By increasing wages and decreasing output a country is on the road to bankruptcy. A world-wide increase in wages and decrease in output in the same proportion everywhere, would leave the worker in general neither worse nor better.—London Advertiser.

Large numbers of apple trees are dying in the district about Melbourne, Australia, as a result of the root borer attack. Many of these trees will be grubbed out during the winter.

OTHERWISE VERY QUIET

A great many changes have been ascribed with more or less truth to the influence to the war. The following passage, extracted from the letter of a correspondent at Hastings, suggests that a new standard of quietness may be among them. Describing the reception of the news of the signing of peace, the writer says:—

"Everything was very quiet here; there yas nothing but the ringing of church bells and the firing of guns."

CLEANLINESS IS HEALTH

By the use of Gillett's Lye, house cleaning is made a pleasure instead of a drudgery. It softens the water and cleans thoroughly whether the dirt is visible or invisible. Destroys all bacteria and infectious germs, removes obstructions from drain pipes, closets, sinks, etc. Refrigerators are made delightfully fresh and clean by using one teaspoonful of Gillett's Lye dissolved in two gallons of water.

BARBARA IS DISTRESSED AT WHAT LORRAINE TELLS HER

CHAPTER LXI

For a little after Lorraine left I sat stunned. Then I began to think of all she had said, to look things in the face. If what she said were true—I was not even yet quite ready to admit it—why I must give up all my cherished plans, or — I must get Neil to reform his business methods at once. There was one other thing I was not ready to believe, and that was that my husband was really dishonest. Why he couldn't be! I thought as I recalled his kindness to me and our boy. The child would keep him straight if he needed a motive, which I did not at all believe.

Lorraine had exaggerated. That was the conclusion at which I arrived. She was rather prudish, and as she had said, they had no money to lose. Perhaps her father had wanted to go in with Neil in something and couldn't because he hadn't the money, and so was a bit sore. I found all sorts of excuses. The one thing which made me almost ill was that Mr. Bowen should have such a mistaken idea of Neil. I should have to wait awhile to launch my social year; wait until Neil would have made them all see he was the absolutely straightforward man I knew him to be.

What Lorraine has said anent his making Blanche Orton's house a rendezvous mortified and hurt me. Had I done wrong to refuse to receive these coarse men in my home—men with the money necessary to Neil in his business? If I had received them, perhaps there would have been no scandal, no talk about Neil. Blanche Orton's servants had probably talked. Lorraine said the men gambled and drank while there, also that it was in her house that Neil's big deals were put over. I almost wished I had allowed him to bring them home, then as I recalled their uncouth manners, I shuddered with disgust.

Into my mind flashed the thought of Mr. Fredericks. He had long ago warned me. Someway I wished he were where I could talk to him. I would see if he were in town. I went to the telephone and called the hotel where he usually stopped.

"Is Mr. Fredericks stopping there at present?" I asked.

"No, but he is apt to come in at any time. Any message," I was told after a moment's waiting.

"No, yes. Tell him to call Plaza 1234 when he comes."

Perhaps I should decide to say nothing to him if he did not arrive in town for several days, but I could give some excuse for calling him if I concluded not to tell him anything of what I had heard.

I knew he did not approve of Neil's methods, but even so I had taken Neil's judgment as final when he had called Mr. Fredericks an old woman, and not up to date in his ideas of business.

I knew I had been frightfully extravagant, but Neil had told me to go ahead, and to be sure and have the best of everything while I was about it. He had good taste, and hated anything showy. So all the furnishings of the house were of the finest woods and materials procurable. My home was exquisite. Yet as I looked around I thought of what Lorraine had said—to "give up all idea of social success and enjoy it with friends I now had." I was not willing to do so. It was a great deal of care and hard work to run such an establishment properly. A small house and fewer servants were all we should ever have required had I not intended this onslaught upon society.

I had ordered several very expensive gowns, so that they would be in keeping with my surroundings, evening dresses that would be of no use if my plans failed. No, no, they couldn't fail! It was just that particular streak in Lorraine that had made a mountain out of a mole-hill. I would go on just as I had intended. That is I would after I had a talk with Neil.

Friday seemed a long way off. It would be hard to be patient until his return.

SUMMER COMPLAINT IS A SERIOUS BOWEL TROUBLE

Very few people escape an attack of Summer Complaint. It may be slight, or it may be severe, but nearly every one is liable to it.

You can't tell, when it seizes on you, how it may end.

Allow the profuse diarrhoea, the vomiting and purging to continue for a day or two and you will become weak and prostrated.

Just as soon as the bowels become loosened up, get a bottle of Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry and check these unnatural movements, and thus prevent the system from becoming weakened.

Mrs. L. T. Alteen, wife of the well known wholesale and retail Fish Dealer, 64 Hill St., Amherst, N.S., writes: "I have four children, the eldest being eight years old. Every summer they were troubled with Summer Complaint. Doctors' prescriptions did not seem to help them any. One day a friend asked me to use Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry. I at once got a bottle, and to my surprise and wonder, I soon saw a change in them. I now keep a bottle of it in the house all the time, and will recommend it to any mother."

FARM WATER SYSTEM

A Summary of Best Available Types for Stables.

When Pastures Fail the Milk Flow Decreases Unless Soiling Crops Have Been Provided — Corn Silage Will Also Greatly Increase Milk Yield in Hot Summer.

(Contributed by Ontario Department of Agriculture, Toronto.)

IN a day's visit among the farmers of Ontario in almost every county you would run across quite a number of stables equipped with some form or other of water system for supplying the farm stock more or less automatically with water each day. With few exceptions every new barn built now is provided with a water system. Among the available systems are the following, which, in this short article, can receive only a very brief description:

Of these probably the most common is that consisting of a water supply tank in the loft or attic of, or above the stable. From which the water runs by gravity into a regulating tank on the stable floor, which supplies the individual drinking cups with water automatically. The tank is usually built of concrete and the size depends upon the kind of power used for pumping; if windmill be used then the tank needs to be large enough for three or four days supply in the event of there not blowing every day. Under these conditions a tank 10 x 4 x 4 feet, or its equivalent would be required for 30 head of stock. Sometimes the concrete tank is built into the walls of the stable and underground enough to protect it again frost, or in one corner of the stable, elevated enough on the floor to feed the regulating tank by gravity. In case the power used is gasoline engine and the supply is sufficient, a motor may be connected with the pump in the house. In many provinces municipal corporations supply water to the barn and running it into the stock tank so that in wet weather very little pumping is required, especially where a large tank is used. Another method of filling the storage tank is by the hydraulic ram installed at the spring. Still another is by means of a one-inch pipe leading from a spring or other source at an elevation at least as high as the storage tank. Sometimes where hydraulic ram or gravity system is in use the storage tank is dispensed with, the water in the case of the former, running through the drinking basins or troughs and thence escaping to a good outlet or drain, in the latter the water is piped directly to the requisite tank which in turn supplies the basins or troughs automatically. Again the water is pumped directly to tank in the attic of the house, the overflow from it supplies the stable with water. And since the advent of the compression water system we find a few cases where it is used to supply the stables as well as the house, the installation being proportionately larger than it would be for the house alone. Probably no one system, however, can be absolutely recommended as best for every case as the circumstances pertaining to the source of supply, amount of water used, position and elevation of the farm buildings, etc., always have to be carefully considered in planning the ideal water system for the farm house or stable.—R. B. Graham, B.S.A., O. A. College, Guelph.

Soiling Crops for Cows.

Most Ontario dairy farmers depend on the pasture crop for the feeding of cows during summer. If the pasture fails, there is no remedy, the cows go dry, the creameries and cheeseries lose a lot of patronage, the city milk plants are short of milk, and the whole dairy business is more or less handicapped. The time has come when dairy farmers should take out an insurance policy in the form of a summer silo, filled with corn from the previous year's crop. Failing this, silage in the bottom of a winter silo is good feed, but the surface exposed should be reduced one-half by cutting the silage down the centre with a hatchet. If this is not available, the silage in one-half the silo may be dug down with a fork, but this is an irregular way which causes excessive spoiling of the silage. Great care is needed in feeding summer silage, else there is danger of spoiling the milk. The strong advantage of silage for supplementing poor pastures is the fact that it takes the place of a silo for a herd of cows in about one-half the time required to cut a soiling crop in a mow and haul that to the stable for the cows to eat. Some meal, or wheat bran, should be added to the silage for best results.

If silage is not available for feeding during the months of '19, then soiling crops like clover, oats, peas and vetches, corn, etc., should be provided, so that the cows may not want for feed to make milk.—Prof. H. H. Dean, O. A. College, Guelph.

Farm Tractors.

Interest in farm tractors has increased rapidly in Ontario in the past two or three years. In the early part of this year the Ontario Department of Agriculture held 12 courses on farm power in different parts of the province, and there was a total attendance of 15,[illegible]. No greater interest has been shown in courses on any other subject, and more useful educational work was done.

Milk In Brick Form.

In some parts of Siberia milk is frozen and sold in brick form and many frozen bricks is what travellers by the railroads journeys.

A combination storm and glare-shield that can be clamped on an automobile windshield in front of a

231,130 Miles; Repairs but $76; another amazing record for Maxwell Trucks

HERE are the third returns on the nation-wide inquiry to determine the reliability of Maxwell trucks. Group No. 1 showed 16 trucks, $830.59 for repairs, for 90,010 miles. Group No. 2 showed 15 trucks, $313.07 for repairs, for 109,700 miles.

The group just examined follows:

| Total Miles | Actual Repair Cost | Total Miles | Actual Repair Cost |
|---|---|---|---|
| 13,500 | $2.50 | 18,000 | .00 |
| 14,950 | .00 | 22,980 | 25.00 |
| 14,880 | .00 | 20,000 | .00 |
| 21,700 | .00 | 15,500 | 10.00 |
| 15,500 | .50 | 24,800 | 25.00 |
| 27,900 | 3.00 | 15,500 | 10.00 |

This is at the rate of $7 per Maxwell truck against an average mileage of almost 20,000. This is, so far as we know, the most remarkable figure ever recorded on a motor truck, regardless of price.

Paralleling this repair cost record is the obvious and well-known gas, tire, and oil mileage economy of the Maxwell truck—so accepted in the trade and by the public that it no longer is a subject of comment.

Like a horse, a truck must be sound to be useful. A truck often seeking the aid of mechanics is like a sick horse. Maxwell, as these repair figures show, is a well nigh perfect piece of machinery. And when you consider the cost—chassis price $1715 f.o.b. Windsor—you can easily figure what a great money earner it is. Many Maxwells pay back their cost in a year's time.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED

MANY IMPROVEMENTS IN FORCE THIS SEASON AT THE Y.M.C.A.

OFFICIALS ARE SETTING THE PACE IN RE-CONSTRUCTION — A BIG PROGRAMME OF ACTIVITIES FOR THE FALL AND WINTER SEASON

RETURNED SOLDIERS

The local Y.M.C.A. is already setting the pace for reconstruction by the inauguration of a new policy the planning of a programme of activities reminded of pre-war days, and a building completely remodelled and redecorated. The officials predict the biggest year in the Association's history.

Returned Men

The gymnasium will open the week of September 22nd, under the direction of Mr. Douglas Loomis with a programme of activities which should be especially attractive to returned men. Many men just out of the army are realizing their need of physical training such as they experienced during their service, and have already signified their intention of using the "Y.M.C.A." "gym" which with its brisk, snappy training and opportunities for recreation should provide them with a means of keeping physically fit and under more pleasant conditions than the hard, monotonous methods of the army.

Social Activities.

Social activities will not be neglected and Mr. G. H. Roper, the general secretary, states that the management will endeavour to provide musical and social evenings this winter with the fireplace, the centre of attraction.

No Evening Activities for Students.

For some time past the Collegiate Institute teachers have objected to the boys of the Institute spending many of their evenings at the "Y" and have claimed that the practice was having deleterious effect on the boys' school work. As a result of this the officials of the "Y" have decided that in the future gymnasium and other activities for the pupils of the Collegiate Institute and Public Schools will no longer be conducted in the evenings with the exception of Friday and Saturday.

Standing on Steps.

The management's request to the members of the Association that they refrain from standing on the steps in front of the building has been well observed. Many people have objected to the congregating of the boys on the steps, on the grounds that it was a public nuisance. This trouble, however, has been practically removed.

Changes in Decoration

The building within and without has been re-decorated and several changes made. The general office has been converted into a private office and the boys' department office into a general office. The central position of the general office will add much to the ease of superintending the social rooms. The boys' parlour is now a men's reading room and the former reading rooms is being used as a social room. The "cozy corner" and partition beside the fireplace in the lobby have been removed adding considerably to the attractiveness of the room.

All rooms on the first floor as well as the game rooms and swimming pool in the basement have been redecorated in a tasteful and harmonious manner while the outside of the building has been repainted.

Altogether the "Y" is hardly recognizable to its old members in its new dressings and should prove the means of whiling away pleasantly many otherwise dull winter evenings.

STANDARD TIME FOR LINDSAY

LINDSAY, Sept. 8.—At the regular session of the town council, Deputy Reeve O'Reilly and Reeve Babcock fathered a resolution to the effect that daylight saving would expire in Lindsay on Monday, Sept. 15, when the municipality would revert to old time. The date first set in the resolution was Sept. 8, but it was felt that the necessary publicity could not be given in so short a time. The resolution was adopted.

To Renew Complexion Without Cosmetics

If the excessive user of cosmetics only knew the impression her artificiality really makes upon others, she would quickly seek means of gaining a natural complexion. Let her acquire the mercolized wax habit, discarding make-ups entirely, and she will soon have the kind of complexion that women envy and men admire. It's so easy to get an ounce of mercolized wax at any drug store, use nightly like cold cream, and wash it off mornings. And the results are so remarkable. Gradually the lifeless cuticle peels off, in almost invisible flaky particles. In a week or so there's a brand new complexion, clear, velvety, soft, of girlish colour and texture.

The treatment is so simple, harmless, and so marvellously effective, the wonder is that every woman whose skin is withered, discoloured, rough, freckled, or pimpled, has not already adopted it.

LOCAL MARKET.

Live hogs are quoted at $1 lower to-day at the packing houses, but dressed hogs still remain at last week's price, $30.

Beef has taken a drop of several cents owing, one of the leading butchers, said, to the poor quality of cattle which is being brought into the home markets. All the best grades of beef cattle are being shipped to Europe.

Grain prices are still not set by the government, and $2.01 is still being paid.

FIRESTONE CO. IN HAMILTON

The Industrial Department of the city of Hamilton may very shortly announce that negotiations have been completed by which the Canadian branch of an American rubber concern to employ 6,000 hands, will locate there. Efforts are being made, it is stated, to obtain a site that will meet the requirements of the firm. It is rumored that the company is the Firestone Company of Akron, Ohio, which is capitalized at $75,000,000.

THIEF HAD A SWEET TOOTH

Mrs. W. J. Hillman, corner of Dennistoun Avenue and Inverlea Street, finds that she is minus two dozen quarts of various kinds of fruit which was stored in the cellar. A trap door opening into the yard was likely the means of the egress of the thief. No trace of the man with the sweet tooth can be discovered.

SOLD HIS WIFE WANTS HER BACK

PITTSBURG. — A. H. Snowden sold his wife to Ballard Debency, for $10. Then he relented, and to even things up went gunning for her and Debeny. Snowden travelled the streets for many weary hours until he met them, serenely and happily walking arm in arm. One shot hit his wife in the leg. At the police station Debeny showed a receipt for $10, in which Snowden acknowledged "lawfully" selling his wife to his friend.

PETERBOROUGH HAS SIMILAR CASE

Belleville Council Have Not Collected — Peterborough Has Similar Case to Settle With Sadie.

BELLEVILLE, Sept. 9. — Sadie Kohen, coal merchant, of Toronto, it is said, owes the City of Belleville over one thousand dollars worth of coal or its equivalent in cold cash, but in all its negotiations during the past year since two thousand dollars of city money was sent so casually and carelessly to Sadie Kohen, the city authorities do not seem to get any "forrarder," despite letters from the City Solicitor and personal visit by Belleville aldermen to the lady's office in Toronto. The matter was again debated at the special meeting last evening of city council, the only visible result being a resolution to have the City Solicitor write another letter.

TO EMPLOYEES BY THE CRESSMAN CO.

Last night, immediately after the store closed for business, the employees of the above firm gathered in the new Furniture Auditorium of the store for the distribution of the half-yearly profit-sharing checks. This new innovation of the company had been announced and explained at the yearly store banquet last January, and the profit-sharing period covered was from 1st February to 1st August; and was beneficial to every employee who has been with the firm for six months.

DISFRANCHISES OVER 400 METHODISTS

TORONTO, Sept. 9. — Four hundred Methodist ministers and their wives, and possibly others of their families of voting age, will be disfranchised on the referendum, owing to being subject to the itinerant system of the ministry which moves them to new districts in which they are not on the voters' list. A mention has been directed to this fact by several ministers, and Rev. Dr. Chown, superintendent of the Methodist church, has taken up the matter with the Provincial government.

THE EXHIBITION WILL OPERATE THREE DAYS AND THREE NIGHTS

GRAND OPENING WITH MONSTER PARADE WILL TAKE PLACE ON MONDAY NEXT AT ONE O'CLOCK

Time has slipped around rapidly since the last Peterborough Fair and very few people will realize that the 1919 Exhibition opens on Monday next.

During the interval between Fairs, a great many changes have taken place. This year the improvements over last year are more marked than ever. New Race horse barns, new Show horse barns, new band stand and performance stage has been erected, the main building thoroughly put in shape and will not be recognized.

In keeping with the Ground improvements the Board has made big additions to the prize list, in many sections and the attractions this year will be beyond any criticism.

The greatest show and the greatest crowds for three full days and three evening performances are expected for this year's fair.

It opens in full blast on Monday, at noon. At one o'clock the parade will take place from the Central Park, and the full programme of attractions will be put on on Monday afternoon and evening.

Everybody in and out of the city who can get to the Fair this year, should make every endeavor to be present. There are hundreds who now come to Peterborough on the reputation it has made the past few years, and this year they will get more for their money than ever before.

SPECIAL.

A running race every day of thoroughbred running horses.

POLICE FORCE GO ON STRIKE

BOSTON POLICEMEN WILL WALK OUT IN A BODY TO-DAY

(United Press.)

BOSTON, Mass, Sept. 9.—The entire police force will go on strike at 5 o'clock this afternoon, leaving the city practically without police protection. The vote to strike was taken last night following the suspension last night by Police Commissioner Curtis of nineteen policemen who are leaders in the Policemen's Union, the formation of which was forbidden by the Police Department.

DISASTROUS FIRE NEAR PORT HOPE

The driving shed belonging to Mr. Will Bickle at Canton, and situated just north of his large barns, was completely destroyed by fire at noon yesterday. Mr. Bickle was in the building about five minutes previous, and discharged a gun through a knothole in the building at some sparrows on a nearby wood pile. He then went to the house to 'phone, and when he returned the building was a mass of flames.

His entire stock of implements—binder, mower, seeder, harrows, a large kit of tools, democrat waggon, two cutters, a buggy, two bicycles, one the property of Miss Peters, and a canoe, owned by Mr. Blake Peters, were all destroyed.

Fortunately the wind was directly from the west, otherwise the barns and the fine brick residence might have suffered a similar fate. There is only a small insurance.

THE pleasure of choosing suitable hosiery need not be marred by uncertainty as to the lasting qualities either of color or material. Although Penmans now means everything in hosiery that the tidiest of the smartly-gowned woman dictates, there is still the underlying quality that has been associated with the name Penmans for generations. ## "GOOD MORNING MR. ZIP, ZIP, ZIP"

THIS WAS PRESIDENT WILSON'S GREETING AT ST. PAUL TO-DAY

United Press:

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 9.—President Wilson and party arrived in St. Paul from Sioux Falls, S.D., at 9 a.m. to-day.

A small crowd gathered at the station. Military and civil police maintained order.

There was considerable delay at the station when the train pulled in, because the automobiles that took the party to the Capitol were not there. The President appeared on the rear platform to bow and smile at war camp community service girls who sang war songs. He wore a morning suit with silk hat. Mrs. Wilson, carrying a bouquet, also appeared. There was prolonged hand clapping but no cheering.

The singing girls brought a big laugh from the crowd a smile from the President when they sang, "Good morning, Mr. Zip, Zip, Zip."

BITRO-PHOSPHATE IS GOOD FOR TIRED NERVOUS PEOPLE

A French scientist has discovered an organic phosphate which should be a very effective remedy for weak nerves, sleeplessness, thinness and lack of strength, energy, and vigour.

Its substance is described by specialists as identical in composition with certain vital elements naturally found in brain and nerve cells and one which when taken into the human system is quickly converted into healthy, living tissue.

This phosphate is already widely known among druggists in this country as Bitro-Phosphate, and some physicians claim that through its use strength, energy, vigour, and nerve force are frequently increased in two weeks' time.

Dr. Frederick Kolle, Editor of New York Physicians' "Who's Who," says it should be prescribed by every doctor and used in every hospital in the United States. As there are a great variety of so-called phosphates, those who wish to test the substance should be sure to get the genuine Bitro-Phosphate.

INFLAMMATORY RHEUMATISM PERMANENTLY CURED

NEW BRUNSWICK LADY GIVES FULL PARTICULARS OF HER RECOVERY.

There are many types of rheumatism, but none worse than inflammatory.

It was the kind that almost killed Mrs. Edw. Warman, of Kent Jct., N. B.

Every known remedy she tried, different doctors gave their advice, but the disease increased.

Weak and despairing, she was at her wits' end when the remarkable cure of Thos. Cullen was published. This gentleman was cured of rheumatism by "Ferrozone." Consequently Mrs. Warman used the same remedy. Here is her statement:

"For five years I have been rheumatic. I tried various forms of relief without success. The disease increased, settled in my joints and muscles; these swelled, caused excruciating pain, and kept me from sleeping. My limbs and arms stiffened, my shoulders were lame and prevented me from working. Week by week I was losing strength and despaired of finding a cure. It was a happy day I heard of Ferrozone. Every day I took Ferrozone I felt better; it eased the painful joints, gave me energy and a feeling of new life. Ferrozone cured my rheumatism—cured it so that not an ache has ever returned. Even damp weather no longer affects me."

Ferrozone has power to destroy Uric Acid, neutralise and enrich the blood, and therefore does cure the worst cases. Mrs. Warman's statement proves this.

By removing the cause of the disease and building up a reserve of energy, Ferrozone is certain to cure. Sufferer, isn't it about time to stop experimenting? Ferrozone is a CURE. Order to-day. 50c box, or six for $2.50. Sold by all dealers or direct from The Catarrhozone Co., Kingston, Ont.

CALL TO CANADIANS IS TO WORK MORE

ONLY MEANS OF RIGHTING THE HUGE NATIONAL FINANCIAL DIFFICULTY LIES IN FAR MORE WORK, ESPECIALLY OF A PRODUCTIVE NATURE, DECLARES REV. CANON DAVIDSON

On Sunday evening in St. John's Church Canon Davidson gave a practical address in connection with Labour Day on the subject of "Work," bringing out certain features which have an important bearing on a present-day question and our national needs.

He began by saying that work was often treated almostly solely in connection with its compensation which was natural enough in the light of prices to-day, but he would concentrate attention, not on wages, but on the work itself.

A Divine Institution.

His first point was that work was an integral characteristic of God's nature and was strikingly exemplified in the life of Jesus Christ, both in the carpenter's shop and in His active ministry. Jesus Christ, he said, left us an example by working hard as a carpenter, in prayer, in teaching and preaching, in healing and in a hard life journeying from place to place. Work then is Divine, and work is therefore a good thing in itself. It was not to be slavery or a necessary evil, but to be man's healthful and helpful business. For man's good was issued the Divine law — "Six days shalt thou labour."

The Teaching of Experience.

Moreover our own experience in life teaches us that work is good. Without it man would become soft, flabby, purposeless and the prey to many temptations.

Avoid of course overwork. Life was not intended to be a treadmill, but avoid also underwork, the doing less than our physical powers will allow.

The speaker expressed incidentally his gratitude that he had been brought up to work hard. He had done rough work of many kinds and felt the satisfaction which comes from it as well as the comradeship realized through it with other workers. As a worker he believed with all his heart in work as a good thing.

A National Call.

But whatever we might individually think, our country was to-day loudly calling all Canadians to work more and not less. Our vast national debt had been quoted as over $250 on every man, woman and child in Canada, and it was still rapidly increasing. The balance of trade was also heavily against us, involving great and constant financial loss. The only means of righting these huge national difficulties lay in far more work being done, especially of a productive nature, by all citizens.

During the war extra exertions and extra sacrifices had been cheerfully made by the whole body of our people with striking results. We might feel entitled to some temporary relaxation, but was this the time to be fixing our attention on permanently increased leisure and ease? The speaker had admired the patriotic answer of a working man whom he was urging to take a needed holiday: "I cannot take the time. While my country is in this shape it is up to me to work more, and not less, than in other years."

Work Religious.

Canon Davidson went on to urge that the ordinary work of life should be made a religious act whether on the farm, in the factory, or in the kitchen. To each one of us God had apportioned a share in the great sum of the world's work, and we should "do it heartily as unto the Lord," for in your work ye may "serve the Lord Christ."

The Church was in close relationship with the workshop, the office, the household and the farm. From the real work of united worship in the Church we might naturally pass to other types of "Divine service" in the workshop and other departments of work.

Good Work.

And as being Divinely given let our work be not only done heartily but also well. We should take pride in doing it in the best possible way. Perhaps the labour unions (which were so necessary) stood not only for good wages but also for good work, but this was not generally understood. They certainly had a great opportunity for usefulness in this direction.

Lastly it was to be remembered that while valuable work was not the most important thing in life, being was a more important thing than doing and character than work. But the doing should help the being, and good, steady, skilful, conscientious work should do much to mould a good man or woman.

No doubt all kinds of work had not the same interest or training value, and all work tended to be monotonous and dull at times. Still we should take heart and carry through our contribution to the great whole. For the sake of ourselves, our country, and our God, let us set ourselves to do it a spirit of responsibility and religion, good, useful and faithful work.

ABOUT 170 years ago tea sold in England for $14.60 a pound. It was a luxury which only the wealthy could afford.

Thanks largely to the great increase in the area of tea plants under cultivation in India during the past fifty years, there is enough tea grown to-day to supply tea to the world at a price even the poorest can afford.

A cup of "good" tea—Red Rose Tea—costs only a fraction of a cent. There is hardly anything sold in the grocery store that gives more value or more pleasure for the money.

Consisting chiefly of ASSAM teas—the richest and strongest of Indian teas—Red Rose is exceedingly fragrant, flavory and economical. It is a tea of real quality and real value.

Sold only in sealed packages.

OUR DAILY SHORT STORY

The Test

By VICTOR BARCLIFFE

Copyright, 1919, by Western Newspaper Union.

"I consider it a duty to protect Uncle Jack Dalton from further squandering his fortune," pronounced theatrical Harold Blair, his lawyer and nephew.

"You mean, have a conservator appointed?" ejaculated self-seeking John Dwyer likewise a relative of the person delineated.

"What do you propose to do, Blair?"

"Arrange to visit the old spendthrift en masse, a special committee to remonstrate against his dissipating his substance recklessly. Perhaps the dread of law I can inspire professionally will scare him and save our—ahem—respective inheritances."

"Just so. Fine idea. Let's try it." And that evening Lawyer Blair visited his uncle, and trusting that he represented the quartette, delicately insinuating the merits of the occasion.

"Think I've lost my mind, I suppose?" observed Dalton grimly.

"Well, that's the construction most folks put on the case," replied Blair.

"Bah!" muttered Mr. Dalton, and he was in a dangerous mood. If his visitors had only known it. "Time-serving crew that you are, I will give consideration to your intruding upon my own personal affairs. The entire crowd of expectant heirs and heiresses seems to lack a quorum. Where is my half brother's daughter, Eleanor, and her husband, Joseph Howard?"

"Uh, we don't consider them near of kin," remarked Blair. "We did ask them to join us, but they refused to comply."

"You don't say so!" Dalton mimicked the speaker's squeaky ones. "Well, you all four of you come here next Saturday night at eight o'clock, and I'll tell you what I have decided to do. Now then, beat it, and leave an improvident old man alone with his misery."

Saturday night the quartette appeared at the lonely home of the erratic old bachelor. A great fire blazed in the grate, chairs were ranged against the wall. Between them and the fireplace was a table with two parcels upon it.

"My dear solicitous friends and relatives," began Dalton with a certain sardonic expression of face, "I have decided to make a full and complete confession of my misdeeds. This," and he opened the package, "contains over one hundred thousand dollars in mining stocks, oil stocks, automobile stock not worth the paper they are printed on. We'll get that out of the way," and he flung the heap upon the blazing fire where it was quickly consumed.

"One hundred thousand dollars!" groaned Blair.

"This package" resumed Dalton, and he took up the other parcel and opened it, "contains but—see for yourselves. Money—scads of it! oodles of it! Look—view, gloat!"

"Inasmuch as life is growing burdensome to me because an avaricious brood is after what I have left and threaten to take away my freedom, I become a pauper! Whoop—whiz—there she goes—ashes!"

"Twenty thousand dollars!" gloated Dalton. "See it sizzle in the grate! Now, that I have disposed of my fortune I am a pauper. I've lived and loaned to the last one of you considerable amounts in the past. Of course you will be glad to have me live out my few remaining days, move about among you—" But, a maddened, disgusted, discomfited crowd, the precious relatives made their presence scarce.

Jack Dalton moved into a wretched room in a poor tenement house next day. His erratic conduct was the current sensation of the hour, but nobody thought of a conservator now. It was common gossip that he had visited each member of the quartette in turn, asking shelter and help. Four decidedly cold shoulders was all the satisfaction he got.

He was puttering over the cooking of a sparse meal one evening when he had visitors. Howard and his wife. Howard held the old man's hand sympathetically and Eleanor kissed him and began to cry.

"You poor old man!" she sobbed. "You, who started us in housekeeping to come to this! But that will soon end. Uncle Jack, you are to come to our house at once."

"And live there a welcome guest for the rest of your life," supplemented Howard.

John Dalton went as invited. Often during the first month of his sojourn amid comfort and affectionate attention he would chuckle slyly to himself. Then one day he was down town for several hours and acted unusually brisk and happy as he joined Eleanor and Howard.

"Children," he said, "I have just been to my lawyer, putting my affairs in shape. I have placed all my liquid funds in bank subject to your disposal. My real estate goes to you jointly by my will."

"Will—liquid funds—estate—" repeated Eleanor vaguely.

"Exactly. The banknotes I burned up were some counterfeits I paid dearly for in a deal with some schemers, supposing them to be real money. My pauper act I staged to try out these living relatives of mine. You two stood the test and I am going to see that we all enjoy life together, with plenty to help us do it."

BURIED IN PARLIAMENT.

Imperial Pound Weight and Yard Measure Carefully Kept.

Buried in a cavity of the public staircase leading to the committee rooms of the British House of Commons are cases, boxes and caskets containing valuable copies of the imperial pound weight and yard measure. These weights and measures are examined once in twenty years, and the last time they should have been examined was in 1912, but it has been postponed for various reasons, and the interesting and, to the public, almost unknown ceremony is due to take place this session.

Part of the wall on the staircase holds a brass plate indicating the position of these imperial treasures, and the ceremony of inspection takes place in the presence of the Speaker, the President of the Board of Trade, the First Commissioner of Works, a representative of the Lord Great Chamberlain, and other officials.

These standard measures have to be very accurate, for upon them depends the accuracy of weights and measures throughout the British Empire. The original standards were lost by fire in 1834.

The yard measure is of bronze, in the shape of a bar 38 inches long, on which 36 sections, each an inch long, have been marked by a special divider. The weight standard is a cube of platinum, weighing exactly 10 ounces.

The most elaborate care is taken when examining these standards. After being weighed, the platinum pound is taken up with a pair of tongs, wrapped in Swedish filtering paper, and gently laid in its silver gilt case. This case in turn is placed in a square, solid bronze case, and the bronze case put into a mahogany box, which is screwed down and sealed.

The yard measure is also kept in a mahogany box, and both boxes are enclosed in a Tantalum case, which is carefully soldered before in turn being placed in an oak box! The whole is deposited in the cavity in the wall and cemented down for another 20 years.

In addition to these standards of the weights and measures, copies are kept by the Mint, the Royal Society, and the Royal Observatory. After the examination a Parliamentary paper is printed to signify that the standards were not destroyed, defaced, or otherwise injured.—Pearson's.

Webster On "Morale"

MORALE (Mo-ral) n. (F. See Moral, a) the moral condition, as the condition in other respects, so far as it is affected by, or dependent upon, moral considerations, such as zeal, spirit, hope and confidence; mental state, as of a body of men, an army, and the like.

WHAT is Dr. Webster's definition. Many of us know the word only in its war-time application.

Webster dwells firstly upon the usage of the word "morale" as applied to the commonplace happenings of every-day life. His allusion to its reference to an army comes later. And Webster is correct—meticulously so.

It was their private-life morale that made such splendid soldiers of our boys when the time came for them to don the khaki. It was that, and that alone, that made them take the first step, and it was that which carried them through to victory. If their every-day morale had been neglected, the Army could have done little with them and success would not have crowned their efforts.

It is the many little incidents of your daily routine that make up your morale—the morning shave, your clean linen, polished shoes, brushed clothes. Webster speaks of zeal, spirit, hope and confidence. It is by attention to the small details of your personal appearance that these may be attained.

The Gillette Safety Razor enters as much into the morale of every-day life as it did into that of the trenches. It helped our soldiers to maintain their confidence and bearing. It will do the same for you. The Gillette Safety Razor makes the daily shave come easy—there is no pulling or scraping—no honing, or stropping—just five minutes of perfect shaving comfort. And, afterwards, a chin that tells of morale and self-respect.

Restoring Our Reserve Plant!

A telephone system to be normal and healthy must have a big percentage of its plant in reserve.

There must be spare positions on switchboards, spare cables in underground conduits, spare wires in underground and aerial cables, spare pins on cross-arms.

The plant in reserve must be ample, not only to meet ordinary growth, but to take care of unforeseen development such as the opening of a new car line, the cutting through of a new street, the location of a new industry in a given district.

During the war, through scarcity of material and skilled labor, our reserve plant was depleted as never before. Even necessary maintenance work had to be postponed.

Our problem now is, while keeping up with the demand for new telephones, moves, etc., to get our reserve plant back where it should be and to overtake vital maintenance and repairs so that service may be at the highest standard.

Installations from January 1st to June 30th were 36,716 instruments, with 20,341 take-outs, a net gain of more than double the same period last year.

The task of getting back to normal while growth is so rapid is a difficult one. Our chief concern is that subscribers should get the best possible service under all conditions and to this end we are doing our utmost.

Clear, Peachy Skin Awaits Anyone Who Drinks Hot Water

Says an inside bath, before breakfast helps us look and feel clean, sweet, fresh.

Sparkling and vivacious—merry, bright, alert—a good, clear skin and a natural, rosy, healthy complexion are assured only by pure blood. If only every man and woman could be induced to adopt the morning inside bath, what a gratifying change would take place. Instead of the thousands of sickly, anaemic-looking men, women and girls, with pasty or muddy complexion; instead of the multitudes of "nerve wrecks," "run-downs," "brain fags" and pessimists we should see a virile optimistic throng of rosy-cheeked people everywhere.

An inside bath is had by drinking each morning, before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour fermentations and poisons, thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Those subject to sick headache, biliousness, nasty breath, rheumatism, colds, and particularly those who have a pallid, sallow complexion and who are constipated very often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store which will cost but a trifle, but is sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance, awaiting those who practice internal sanitation. We must remember that inside cleanliness is more important than outside, because the skin does not absorb impurities to contaminate the blood while the pores in the thirty feet of bowels do.

(6) March of the 50,000 ex-Service men in Hyde Park.

During his stay in Ottawa H. R. H. Prince of Wales laid the corner-stone for the central tower of the restored Parliament Buildings—the Victory Tower as it is to be called, and in so doing the climax of the state functions attendant upon the visit of His Royal Highness to the Capital was reached. It was the most elaborately staged function since the arrival of the Heir Apparent to the Throne in Canada, and was attended by the largest assemblage of persons prominent in the public life of the Dominion, and witnessed by the greatest throng of citizens, for the Labor Day holiday and the delightful weather enabled all to contribute to the volume of cheering.

Cattle and Brompton To Meet Here Again

Everyone who saw the boxing bout at Brock street rink on Friday night between Young Cattle, of Toronto, and Kid Brompton, of New York, will be glad to learn that this clever pair have been booked for a return bout here on Thursday, 18th September. Neither boy was satisfied with his showing here last week, and each figures he can battle out a win in the next mill.

The two went the rounds the other night in as vigorous a style as has been seen in Peterborough for a long time, and the fans who were in attendance would not think of missing the return.

There will be some good preliminaries as well, including six-round bout between Dugas Anthony, who were seen in action at the last programme.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Peterborough, 9th Sept., 1919.

The Editor, The Examiner.

Sir,—I fail to see or agree with the article in The Examiner as regards voting on the Referendum. Should the Wets not vote "Yes" to all four questions, they will certainly lose, and easily, too.

The multiplicity of questions are designed to defeat all who want to use alcohol in any shape or form. For instance, if I do not vote for the repeal of the O. T. A., those who want the law to remain in its present unfair and unBritish state will win out. There is no guarantee that there will be any amendment, even if there is a majority asking for it. The one question called for by the O. T. A. is repeal or no repeal. The other questions are not called for by the Act, and will have no effect.

We know Premier Hearst has declared himself a Prohibitionist, and the Wets will not trust him to make amendments.

Now, unless all who want to use alcohol answer Yes to all four questions, wherever they answer No they help the other side, who will answer No to all four. If those who want light beer only put No to the other questions, and those who want spirits do the same, each of those voters are unknowingly helping the Prohibitionists to win.

Suppose, for instance, the Wets are in a majority of three to one over the dry's. Say every twelve want to use alcohol, in various ways, to every four that want Prohibition. I will show you how the quarter of the voters will win. Say six of the twelve want the Act repealed and no amendments, three want no bars, but the Government to handle beers, two want beer in hotels, and one wants spirits handled by the Government. The other four are dry. The result of the voting would be as follows:

| | Yes. | No. |
|---|---|---|
| Repeal of the O. T. A..... | 6 | 10 |
| Sale of beer by Governm't | 3 | 13 |
| Beer in hotels .... .... .... .... | 2 | 14 |
| Sale of spirits by Gov't..... | 1 | 15 |

Four Prohibitionists beat six Repealists, and other six who want alcohol under some modified law. Even without Prohibition vote at all the wets would defeat themselves, leave the drys out the voting would be:

| | Yes. | No. |
|---|---|---|
| Government beer .... .... .... | 3 | 9 |
| Hotel beer .... .... .... .... .... | 0 | 10 |
| Spirits .... .... .... .... .... .... | 1 | 11 |

and the Prohibitionists could look on and laugh.

Therefore, I say, all must vote Yes every time to win, and as Mr. Guise-Bagley says, "Leave it to Sir W. Hearst to pass a new enactment. The country's representatives know what the people want, and can be trusted."

—Yours, C. Duggan.

DOES GOD PROHIBIT? H....

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir:—Mr. J. H. Burnham M. P., having invited me to debate publicly with him the topic of my recently published sermon, I have to ask your indulgence of a reply.

After careful consideration I have come to the conclusion that it would be better for me to decline the pleasure, and fr several reasons, one reasure for several reasons. One re-championed the cause of the Deity against the Prohibitionists according to his light with great frequency while I, through your courtesy, have had my say at very considerable length. So it may be well for both of us to be modest and admit that the public does not regard either of us as men of sufficient consequence to trouble a great deal about what our opinions are on such an abstract question as "Does God Prohibit?" Then, may I add, I have come to the conclusion that even if the topic were of sufficient present interest to justify the holdings public debate, there is evidently such an incompatibility of mentality between Mr. Burnham and myself that it would be difficult for either of us to preserve that dignity which is so much to be desired both in a member of the Dominion Parliament and in a minister of the Gospel that for the sake of both of us it would be better not.

Then again, it is to be remembered that the matter of Total Prohibition is not before the public at present—so any prolonged discussion would only confuse the issue which is shall we or shall we not continue the Ontario Temperance Act, which, whatever else it may be or may not be is certainly not a prohibition measure, inasmuch as it permits the manufacture and sale of beer with an alcoholic content so great that excise duty would have to be paid on any imported to Great Britain or the United States, and sufficient to produce intoxication; it permits any person to import from other Provinces any reasonable quantity of any kind of alcoholic drink for private use: the manufacture of native wines in any quantity for use within the Province, and the manufacture of any quantity, and any kind, of alcoholic liquor in the Province for industrial use or for export. Since this is the character of the Ontario Temperance Act, on which we are to be allowed to vote presently, it is hardly worth while to be too deeply concerned as to whether God prohibits or not seeing that there is no proposal of Prohibition by the people of Ontario before the public or likely to be for a long time to come.

What might very well be publicly debated is whether or not the Ontario Temperance Act should be continued, which is a measure of moderation and so, although not ideal in the eyes of the extremist on either side, is certainly one which ought to secure the approval of moderate minded people on both sides. My friends who adhere to the platform of the Liberty League and who desire sane legislation, ought to be fully satisfied, while the Prohibitionists ought to be thankful that the evil which they wish to see prohibited has at least been restricted to a degree hitherto unknown.

I admit that I regret not being able to hold a debate with my representative, Mr. Burnham, for I feel that I am depriving lot of people of some real good fun. Imagine a public debate at which Mr. Burnham taught me morals and religion, which I am sure he would, and imagine me teaching Mr. Burnham Law and Logic, which I would be compelled to do, and you have a picture of what will never happen, if either Mr. Burnham or myself have any sense of the fitness of things.

JOHN GALT.

WM. RUDKINS WAS APPOINTED

Labour Congress Opens on 22nd of September in Hamilton.

Mr. William Rudkins was appointed delegate to the Trades and Labour Congress to be opened in Hamilton on the 22nd of September by the Local Council at a meeting held last night in the Trades and Labour Hall. President A. J. Bolwell was also nominated, but after close balloting Mr. Rudkins was chosen.

At a previous meeting Ald. Gainey was proposed as delegate to the Congress, but declined as he could not attend both the Congress and the Barbers' convention, which is being held this year at Buffalo, and which he is now attending.

HALE HAMILTON AS FINANCIAL GAMBLER

POPULAR METRO STAR TO APPEAR IN CYCLONIC COMEDY-DRAMA AT GRAND THEATRE

Like the greatest of all is stage successes, "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford" is Hale Hamilton's new picture play, a peppery comedy-drama called "The Four Flusher" in which he will appear at the Grand Theatre on Thursday and Friday.

The role portrayed by the forceful young Metro star, that of Lon Withers, a young New York clerk, who puts on a big front in a daring bid for a big contract, is very similar to that made famous by him in the sensational stage success in which he was seen in all quarters of the globe.

Different from either "After His Own Heart," "Five Thousand an Hour,' 'or even "Full o' Pep" is this newest vehicle of Hamilton's, which is an original story written especially for him by Izola Forrester and Mann Page.

It is a breezy, powerful tale of finance, generously sprinkled throughout with gripping adventure and a beautiful love theme, produced under the direction of Harry L. Franklin at the Metro studios in an atmosphere of luxury and wealth.

Supporting Mr. Hamilton in "The Four Flusher" are Ruth Stonehouse, Louis Fitzroy, Harry Holden, Ralph Bell, Robert Badger, Frederic Malatesta, and Effie Conley.

Mr. Hamilton is said to be at his best in this new picture, which gives him the fullest scope for his remarkable comedy talents.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

AT THE GRAND

Unique, interesting and entertaining to a high degree, the vaudeville attraction at the Grand Opera House last night attracted an unusually large audience who were charmed with the generous and ighly artistic programme Eugene Lockhart, the world-famous entertainer, presented. Already, while leading man with the Pierrot Players, last winter, when ployed in the city, Mr. Lockhart had won a firm hold on his Peterboro audiences, and last evening in his songs and pianologues in the latter in which he gave an imitation of the musical show he won now laurels for himself. In the feature picture "The Woman on the Index," Pauline Frederick, supported by a very strong company, appeared at her best, while the Charles Chaplin comedy "The Busted Johnny," provided a good solid half-hour's laugh. The programme will be repeated this evening and tomorrow.

CLUB LIFE IN MISSOURI.

Thirteen students of Missouri University at Columbia have formed an organization known as the Quo Vadis Club. To be eligible to membership one must have bummed at least 1,000 miles without paying railroad fare, must have slept one night in a box-car and must have had at least one free meal at the back door. Membership is limited to 13. The purpose of the club is to raise the moral tone of the university. — Columbia, Mo., Herald.

All is fair in love and war—or, in other words, during courtship, and after marriage.

Even the young man who is able to hold his own may prefer to hold the hand of some pretty girl.

Aill the good poets are dead. This should be a solemn warning to the word rhymers of to-day who have aspirations.

'MY SOLDIER GIRL" GRAND THEATRE

A BRILLIANT MUSICAL SUCCESS —BIG NOVELTIES

The sparkling and gay musical play, "My Soldier Girl", to be presented at the Grand, Saturday, matinee and evening is the most brilliant success offered in years. There are two acts in this new offering, presenting the most novel ideas in stage pictures.

The first act is laid at Col. Stone's home, Miami, Florida on Biscayne Bay, and a brilliant lawn fete' is in progress in honor of "overseas" boys and girls whom the Colonel met while in France in the interest of the Red Cross. The picture presented outshines anything attempted in years, the effects are bewildering in their splendor and the dazzling array of costumes say nothing of the wonderful performance is good to look upon. The story:— Colonel Stone, a wealthy Floridan who was a producer of theatrical enterprises went to Europe during the war in the interest of Red Cross,—there he met many boys and girls well known in the theatrical business and made it a standing invitation that six months after the Armistice should be signed, all those in America at the time should come to his home for a reunion at his expense. Dixie Harris, a ward of the Colonel's, also a clever actress who has devoted her time the last two years to aviation for the Government, is in love with Lieutenant Carter, who by the way is just back from France and is present at the lawn fete. Colonel Stone, highly elated with the talent presented by the visiting guests, favors producing a big Follies production and engages his many guests to participate in same. Six months later we find the organization on the roof of a New York theater, rehearsing a big musical spectacle in which Dixie is the soubrette and Lieutenant Carter is playing the light comedy, the play is dedicated to Dixie and entitled "My Soldier Girl", the brilliant stage setting with shimmering opalescent scenery, the riots of color in the dazzling array of gorgeous costumes and the wonderful story unfolded on the stage is brilliant beyond description. There are more than a score of big novelties and an excellent cast, including Dorothy Garrigue, Maude Baxter, Billy Moore, James Baber, Leslie Jones, Billy Murphy, J. G. LeRoy and many others, while a "pony" ballet of wonderful dancers trip through the novel drills and dance ensembles fetchingly.

Out of the twenty some musical numbers, the title song, "My Soldier Girl", leads in popularity while "Just for You", "That Dixie Wedding Tune", "Wrap me in a Bundle of Love" and "Jasper's Ragtime Band" are big favorites.

AUGUSTUS THOMAS KNOWS "ARIZONA"

His Knowledge of Western Life Makes This Play Worthy of Seeing. As Shown at the Allen, With Douglas Fairbanks, it Breathes a Western Atmosphere.

Not invariably does the man who writes of the west know his ground or his characters intimately enough to insure their being accurate. Too often absurdities are permitted to creep in which may not be noticeable to the eastern spectator, but which are glaringly so to those who have lived in the big lands of the west or southwest.

The stage version of "Arizona" was acknowledged to be the nearest approach to realism of any romantic play of that country or period.

The version which Mr. Fairbanks offers, as shown at the Allen Theatre, not only preserves all the features of accurate investiture, costuming and character, but likewise is even more convincing than the play itself.

A wonderful cast was chosen. Albert Parker, was director, and the production is one of the most elaborate ever undertaken by the Fairbanks Company.

CECIL B. DE MILLE'S NEW PHOTOPLAY

"Don't Change Your Husband," a Deep Psychological Study, to be Shown at the Allen Theatre Next Wednesday.

All who saw Mr. DeMille's superb picture, "Old Wives for New," will find this production one of novelty, charm, and complete artistry.

It is probable that those who talk learnedly of "art" on the screen are not always exactly sure of their meaning. But no one, even the least conscious of what constitutes art, could fail to recognize something far beyond the ordinary in motion pictures in "Don't Change Your Husband," which will be presented at the Allen Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday.

It is an Artcraft special picture, produced by Cecil B. DeMille, which is in itself a guarantee of high quality. But even Mr. DeMille has outdone himself in this story which for sheer beauty, novelty and artistry has been unequalled in the annals of the screen.

The story is a new version of the familiar triangle—a lovely and romantic young wife, a husband immersed in business, and neglectful of his wife, and a debonnaire, sleek and highly clever young architect. The wife leaves the husband under the spell of the newcomer's romantic promises and lives to repent and go back again to the man who was foolish enough to put business before everything else, but who meantime, has reformed and become as immaculate as his ex-rival.

The story was written by Jeanie Macpherson, and unquestionably it is her best work to date. Mr. De Mille has given of his best in the direction, and has chosen a small but wonderfully selected cast, including Gloria Swanson, beautiful and charming, for Leila, the wife; Elliott Dexter, the well known trading man, as the husband, James Porter, and Lewis J. Cody, an excellent actor, as Van Suiphen, the other man.

The settings are superb, dignified, artistic. The costuming is wonderfully effective. Miss Swanson is a vision of beauty, in her Oriental-like gowns. It is a picture to talk about, it conveys a real lesson for husbands and wives, and it is the most entertaining film witnessed in many months.

EMPLOYMENT SITUATION.

Improvement Practically Constant Since Middle of April.

OTTAWA.—Weekly reports from employers to Dominion Headquarters of the Employment Service of Canada, Department of Labour, indicate that, apart from unemployment due to strikes, there was a further considerable increase in the volume of employment during the week ending August 16th, greater than for any week since July 14th. It should be noted that the increase in employment has been practically constant since the middle of April, only three slight weekly decreases having been registered, and that the present increase is an addition to the accumulated increases since that time.

THE NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—With few exceptions leading issues were strong at the stock market to-day. U. S. Steel opened at 103 1-3 off 1-2. Goodrich at 82 1-4 off 1-3, and Pan American at 119 7-9 off 1-8, Sinclair opened at 60 1-4 up 1-4; Fisherbody at 106 up 2, Stud., at 113 3-8 up 5-8, Mid. Vals at 51 1-8 up 3-8; Crucible at 173 up 2, and American Loco at 94 5-8 up 3-8.

Crucible shot up to 188, up 17 points, breaking to 184 between sales. Later reaction brought it down to 180. Baldwin advanced to 127, up 7; Beth. at top during the first half hour, was up over 4 points. U.S. Steel sold at 105, up 1 3-8.

Rumors that Union Leaders of the Steel Industry would vote to-day to hold over their grievances until the general meeting between Capital and Labour in Washington next month, are held to be responsible for the rise in steel prices.

The entire list acted well during the second hour, Oils and Motors featuring the trading. Chandler went to 293, up 13. Mexican Petroleum sold at 211 1-2, up six.

VETERANS' DEMAND MUCH IN EVIDENCE

UNITED FARMERS OF EAST DURHAM, ELECT A STANDARD BEARER AT ROUSING MEETING HELD IN MILLBROOK YESTERDAY AFTERNOON

MR. S. S. STAPLES WILL CONTEST RIDING IN PROVINCIAL ELECTIONS —LABOUR DELEGATES PRESENT

THE NOMINEES

MILLBROOK, Sept. 10.— United Farmers and Organized Labour joined hands at Provincial U. F. O. Convention that was held here yesterday afternoon at which Mr. S. S. Staples was nominated. The farmers were represented by two hundred knights of the plough representing the East Durham U.F.O., Association and labour's interest in the meeting ws presented by two accredited delegates from Port Hope. They were Mr. A. McElroy and Mr. W. A. Thomas. The former in a brief address, expressed sympathy for the farmers and volunteered the co-operation of labour in seeking a better form of Government. Mr. McElroy in assuring the farmers they were not to blame for the high cost of living, cited the following instance Cheese was sold on the Picton Cheese Board for twenty-five cents and fraction a pound and in Toronto it was sold for forty-five cents a pound. Who got the spread of nearly twenty cents? Not the farmer or the cheesemaker. Labour goes to the farmer and says we want three dollrs a day. The farmer says, "I won't give it to you. In Peterboro the moulders go to their employers and demand so much a day and they are locked out. What is the difference?" asked Mr. McElroy. In conclusion both Labour delegates assured the farmers present that they would present a favourable report to the Labour interests in Port Hope with a view of linking up with the farmers in an effort to secure adequate representation in Parliament. Both delegates were accorded a hearty reception by the much surprised farmers.

Taking Politics Seriously.

It is many years since the farmers of East Durham have taken their politics so seriously as they are this year. As one officer of the Conservative Association put it:—"My connection with the Conservative Association extending over many years and also with the U. F. O., leaves me in a difficult position, but I am going to do my duty to the cause of the latter in spite of my party affiliations."

"Who is your present member? another man was asked.

"I can't tell you I have lived in the constituency only two years, he replied. "I can tell you who our next member will be," he added.

Among those in the gathering were several representatives of the Millbrook Ministerial Association including the following, Canon W. Allen, Rev. H. Tucker, Methodist and Rev. A. H. McConnachie, Presbyterian, South Monaghan.

The speakers were Mrs. Webster of Cambray, Mr. J. J. Morrison, Secretary-Treasurer of the U.F.O., Mr. J. M. Holman of Clarke Township, County director of the U.F.O., who presided, also four of the nominees as follows: Messrs. Robert McCamus of Ida. Mr. Melville Staples of Cavan. Mr. S. S. Staples of Ida and Mr. John Walker of Hope Township. The fifth nominee, Warden A. J. Henderson of Cavan was not present. The chairman was informed that Mr. Henderson could not qualify as a candidate as he was not a member of the U.F.O. The first four nominees asked to have their nominations withdrawn. After much insistence, Mr. S. S. Staples agreed to allow his name to go before the convention and his candidature was unanimously endorsed. He is a son of Mr. J. F. Staples, prominent live stock breeder of Cavan and a well-known exhibitor at the fall fairs. The nominee is president of the East Durham, U.F.O., and an active worker in the farmers movement. Mr. Staples welcomed the labour delegates in a brief nomination speech. "Our emblem is that of the producer shaking hands with the consumer and we sympathize with labour who represents the largest class of consumers," said Mr. Staples.

Women's Rights

The first speaker on the program was Mrs. Webster of Cambray, a prominent women worker in the U.F.O., movement. Mrs. Webster explained some of the intricacies of women's franchise and how it discriminates against many women owing to certain assessment conditions.

"We want equal rights and we must get it said the speaker. Farmers wives never asked for the franchise because they never had time. It has been said that a woman's proper and only sphere of activity is in the home. That is right to a certain extent. The first twenty years of a woman's life should be spent in education the second twenty years in rearing her children and the third twenty years, should she survive the hard farm life, in serving her country.

"I am in the third twenty and that is why I am with you to-day," said Mrs. Webster.

Government Bulletins

"If the country is good enough to die for it is good enough to live for and work for," continued the speaker. Politics is the science of good government as things are at present any man who is a friend of the government can get good money writing bulletins for the government that are not even fit to light the fire with because they are printed on too good paper. It was very kind of the Government to send us a calendar also bulletins, showing us how to feed hogs, when to oil the harness, etc., The time has come when women are not content to stay at home and allow anybody to govern the greatest industry we have."

The Enumeration.

Referring to the recent enumeration ,Mrs. Webster said that in the municipality in which she resided only one list was provided instead of the usual course of supplying a list to each of the school teachers and post offices in the municipality. "The chief enumerator was a party man," said Mrs. Webster. The one list was printed in proof form, scissored and pinned together in three pieces. "I was informed," continued the speaker, "that we had only from Saturday until Tuesday to get additional names on the list whereas we had previously been informed that we would have ten days. In our division of 250 names, 47 had been left off. On the last day that was left for us to enter additional names, the regular list was supplied, when it was too late to be of any use. We want men four square and men who cannot be bought for fifteen cents, said the speaker. If a party is necessary in Ottawa and Toronto why is it not necessary to have two parties composed of six Tories and six Grits, to run a church? asked Mrs. Webster in conclusion.

Mr. J. J. Morrison.

"It is a peculiar thing why the date of the election is kept back," said Mr. J. J. Morrison, who was the next speaker. "It is one of the dirty spots in politics," he added. "Its only object is to give somebody an advantage. The government is not one bit worse than we are as electors. We are seeking a better government for Canada."

Answering an editorial in a Toronto paper which asked, "Why the farmers had any excuse for seeking a larger representation in Parliament through the formation of another party," Mr. Morrison said that the platform of both Hearst and Dewart offered nothing of interest to the farmers.

Largely Attended.

"The fact that there are such large numbers at the U. F. O. nomination meetings is evidence of the increasing interest the farmers are taking in the new movement," said the speaker. Quoting Mr. Hearst, who was reported once as having said that the farmers had nothing new, and made no request to the government, and that he would like to see more farmers in the Cabinet. Mr. Morrison said that when a bye-election was held in Manitoulin, two candidates were put up by the farmers. Premier Hearst was asked to acknowledge them and permit their election by acclamation. This he declined to do. He showed his interest in them by sending the Minister of Agriculture into the riding to fight them.

"We have asked him to abandon the Provincial Highway and build good roads for the masses instead of for a few speeders," said the speaker.

The Fountain Head.

Everything is now centralized in Toronto. The school trustees have nothing to do but to see that the school is kept clean ,and get wood for the stove. You cannot even dismiss an inspector without the sanction of the powers that be in Queen's Park. The same with the Medical Health Officer and many other things.

Hartley Dewart has said that R. H. Halbert, the President of the U. F. O., is a paid agitator. As secretary and treasurer of the organization I am prepared to say that Mr. Halbert does not get as much as Mr. Dewart's office boy. He is only paid by the day and for very few days at that. It has been said that we are smiting the hand that helped us. What have they done for us? They abandoned the regular voters' lists compiled by assessors after many years work. The old form of compiling the voters' list was the best ever devised yet they threw it away and appointed enumerators to suit themselves.

Dewitt Foster.

What have they given us in politics? They have given us N. W. Rowell, Hugh Guthrie, Gen. Mewburn and "Bob" Rogers while you fellows stay at home and hoe the corn.

The speaker referred to his recent re-discovery of DeWitt Foster, who at a government enquiry was credited with having secured from the government during the war with Germany a horse that was turned down in the Boer war, and was traded on one occasion for a pair of ducks!

"Where do you think I found him?" asked the speaker.

"In looking over an advertisement in a magazine I find him listed as Superintendent of Resources of the National Railways. He was put there because he knew too much."

Rural Depopulation.

The Hon. George Henry, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario, said that Crerar did not know what he was talking about when he said that the farms of Ontario were being depopulated. In his own departmental report of a year ago, Henry himself said that the rural population for two years suffered a loss of 16,000 a year. That is an appalling situation, and one that affects Durham as well as all other counties in Ontario. In the last twenty eight years Cavan township shows a loss of over 900 population. Other municipalities show a corresponding loss over a similar period.

Ontario Representation.

In the Ontario House there are 111 seats and our present representation is made up as follows: 39 professional men, 21 merchants, 1 undertaker, 7 agents, 14 manufacturers, 3 contractors, 2 drovers, 1 auctioneer, 1 labour man (deceased), 1 gentleman and 17 farmers. Half of the latter are joy farmers: They don't know what it means to buy boots for the children. They made money, bought a farm, and are now rusticating.

SALLIES AT FARMERS' CONVENTION

"Farmers' wives never asked for the franchise because they never had time,"—Mrs. Webster.

The farmers rubbed their eyes and looked dazed when the two labor delegates from Port Hope announced their presence at the meeting. It was the biggest surprise of their lives.

"Our emblem is that of the producer shaking hands with the consumer and we sympathize with labor who represent the largest class of consumers"—Mr. S. S. Staples.

The Labor delegates re-echoed the farmer's desire for a better form of Government and more adequate representation in Parliament.

"If the country is good enough to die for it is good enough to live for and work for."—Mrs. Webster.

"All the school trustees has to do now is to see that the school is kept clean and get wood for the stove."—Mr. J. J. Morrison.

"It is very kind of the Government to send us a calendar also bulletins, showing us how to feed hogs, when to oil the harness, etc."—Mrs. Webster.

"The time has come when women are not content to stay at home and let anybody govern the greatest industry we have. We want men four square who cannot be bought for fifteen cents." —Mrs. Webster.

"If a party is necessary in Toronto and Ottawa, why is it not necessary to have a party composed of six Grits and Six Tories to run a church?"—Mrs Webster.

"We have asked Premier Hearst to abandon the Provincial Highway and build good roads for the masses instead of for a few speeders."—Mr. J. J. Morrison.

"Mr. R. H. Halbert, who has been accused of being a paid agitator does not get as much as Mr. Hartley Dewart's office boy."—Mr. J. J. Morrison.

"What has the Government given us in politics? They have given us N. W. Rowell, Hugh Cuthrie, Gen. Mewburn and "Bob" Rogers while you fellows stay at home and hoe the corn."—Mr. J. J. Morrison.

"There are seventeen farmers in the Ontario House, and half of them are joy farmers. They made money, bought a farm and are now rusticating."—Mr. J. J. Morrison.

"The late John A. Macdonald once described the farmers as the 'Great Silent Throng.' They never asked for anything and never got anything."—Mr. J. J. Morrison.

"When you vote for Grit or Tory you simply vote for a rubber stamp."—Mr. J. J. Morrison.

THE PRINCE IN WINNIPEG

HIS HIGHNESS RENEWS ACQUAINTANCE WITH THE [illegible]TH BATTALION GOAT

MOB BROKE LOOSE

(Special to The Examiner.)

WINNIPEG, Sept. 10.— That the Prince of Wales has a keen appreciation of feminine beauty was evinced by an incident which occurred when the Royal carriage was crossing Osborne bridge yesterday. The Prince caught sight of two well known young ladies of Fort Rouge district who were watching the procession. "By jove, there is a pretty girl," he exclaimed and rising partly in his seat he waved to two girls until they were out of sight.

Mr. John Arthur, Warsaw avenue, born on the royal estate at Windsor, England, was honored by the Prince of Wales at the Parliament Buildings to-day. As the Prince left the building Mrs. Arthur waited in the angle of the corridor near where he had to pass, to catch a glimpse of him. She is 87 years of age and had waited several hours for his arrival. As he came opposite where she was standing the Prince stopped, took off his cap and held out his hand to her. He smiled and said he was glad to meet her as she shook hands with him.

Mrs. Arthur said that she had often seen King Edward VII at Windsor.

Battalion Goat.

One favourite veteran greeted by the Prince and honoured with a gentle pat on the back for his service done at the front, was Sergt. "Bill" of the Fifth Battalion, goat and senior mascot of the Canadian army.

Bill stood stiffly to attention when the Prince passed him and asked regarding him. The young Prince had seen him on several occasions at the front, but was not sure it was the same goat. "Bill" did not bat an eyelash, but let Corp. Van Allen, in charge of him, explain to the Prince that it was the identical mascot. His Highness in passing gave the goat a pat on the back in remembrance of his past career. "Bill" appeared on the parade ground dressed in full parade uniform. His uniform is of deep blue plush, with Fifth Battalion badge embroidered on it.

The Prince's carriage very narrowly escaped disaster when, following the reception of the address and the formal opening of a greater Winnipeg scheme, the mob broke loose and completely surrounded the carriage containing the Prince, two aides and Lieut.-Governor Aikins.

It was with the utmost difficulty that mounted police and 180 policemen cleared the way for the Royal carriage to pass. Right in front of the carriage and stretching across the main street, was a beautiful streamer with the words, "God Bless the Prince." "I guess I will need it," His Royal Highness said with a smile, as he faced the cheering crowds still trying desperately to get a further look at the future ruler of the Empire.

The Prince smiled his boyish, good-natured smile. Then he put out his left hand to greet individuals. He did most of his handshaking throughout the day with his left hand, because of lameness of his right through shaking hands so many times in the east.

THE TREATY WITH AUSTRIA

AUSTRIAN DELEGATES SIGNED THE TREATY TO-DAY--NO SPEECHES WERE MADE

WAS LESS FORMAL

By Henry Wood.
(United Press.)

PARIS, Sept. 10.—In the absence of all the elaborate details such as accompanied the setting at Versailles, the Allies made formal peace with Austria to-day. Dr. Karl Renner, Austrian Chancellor and head of his country's peace delegation, signed the Treaty at Germain at 10.18 o'clock this morning.

No speeches were made by the Austrian delegates. Premier Clemenceau, on behalf of the Allies, invited the Austrians to sign in the same terse fashion he had employed at Versailles before the Germans.

Chancellor Renner was the first delegate to sign. He was followed by Henry White, General Tasker, H. Blush and Frank L. Polk of the American delegation.

Aside from the Peace Treaty the Austrians signed two engagements, one by which they will undertake to indicate Allied ships lost during the war which were sunk by the Austrians, and another which obliges them to furnish within a month a list of persons responsible for the war, that the Allies may place them on trial.

The ceremony of affixing the signatures ended at 11.10 o'clock. French guards presented arms as Chancellor Rennor made his exit.

After signing the Supreme Council of the Peace Conference announced that the Roumanians and Jugo-Slavs would be given three days to sign.

Bowing and Scraping.

(Canadian Press.)

ST. GERMAIN, Sept. 10.—When all delegates present had seated themselves at the round table, Dr. Renner was introduced with the same formality that was observed when the Germans entered the Hall of Mirrors at Versailles June 28. Georges Clemenceau, President of the Peace Conference, then rose and opened the session, asking Renner to affix his signature to the Treaty and annexes and announcing that the delegates would then be called in the order in which they were named in the preamble on the document. There was no hesitation on the part of Dr. Renner in signing the treaty. He rose from his seat on the left wing of the table after M. Clemenceau's opening address had been translated into German and immediately walked to the signing table and signed the document. Dr. Renner bowed and smiled graciously as he approached the table and bowed and smiled again to the delegates after signing as he turned to go to his seat.

Delegates of Roumania and Jugo-Slavia did not sign the treaty to-day because they are awaiting instructions from their government. The Supreme Council has given them until Saturday to make known their definite intentions.

POLICE STRIKE STILL UNDERWAY

WHOLESALE LOOTING ON THE STREETS IN BOSTON

(Canadian Press.)

BOSTON, September 10. — Lawlessness was rampant in Boston today, Without adequate protection private citizens were left to their own resources to protect their lives and porperty. Since the police force struck yesterday afternoon there has been no organized police force power able to cope with the situation that last night approached anarchy and to-day appeared to be more serious as the inadequacy of the makeshift arrangements intended to preserve public order became obvious to the community.

Applications for permits to carry fire arms were received by hundreds, and the discontinuance of their sale has been ordered.

The few policemen struggling to maintain order made two hundred arrests. The offences ranged from the snatching of women's hand bags to the wholesale looting on the streets. Four men were reported at the hospital with knife or bullet wounds.

Sympathetic strikes, which will tie up the telephones, street cars and lighting systems are now feared.

TREATY MEANS ALLIANCE NOT LEAGUE OF NATIONS

SENATORS CLAIM TO BE GOVERNED BY A SINGLE PURPOSE--REPUBLICANS ENDORSE STAND.

(Canadian Press)

WASHINGTON, D.C., Sept. 10.— Chaarcterized as an alliance and not a league, "which will breed wars instead of securing peace," the German peace treayt, including the covenant of the League of Nations, was formally reported to the Senate to-day by the Foreign Relations committee, with forty-five amendments and four reservations. Accompanying the treaty was a majority report of the Foreign Relations committee, subscribed to by every Republican member excepting Senator McCumber, of North Dakota, explaining the amendment and reservations, all of which, it was declared, were "governed by a single purpose and that is to guard American rights and sovereignty, the invasion of which would stimulate breaches of faith, encourage conflicts and generate wars."

CONGRESS ENDORSES STATE OWNERSHIP OF COAL MINES

(Canadian Press.)

GLASGOW, Sept. 10.—The result of the vote on nationalization of mines was to throw virtually the entire Congress solidly behind the coal miners' demands for nationalization of their industry. The resolution pledges insistence by that body that the government adopt a majority report of the Coal Commission presented last June, known as the Sankey report. This report provides for state ownership of mines and for joint control of their operation in which miners would have an effective voice. A resolution passed to-day calling for the acceptance of the report by the government adds: In the event of the government still refusing a special Congress shall be convened to decide what form of action shall be taken to compel the government to accept."

Jos. Havelock Wilson, President of the International Seaman's Union, in opposing the resolution, was pointing to the fate of State controlled enterprises when he was interrupted with a shout of "what about the war." President Bunning announced the definite vote on the question of direct action would be taken Friday.

HOW HE SECURED NECESSARY CHANGE

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y., Sept. 10.—Jefferson Davis Wilson, St. Catharines, Ont., printer, is here on the first league of his vacation trip to Erie, Pa. He had $125, all in Canadian one dollar bills. When he discovered souvenir stands and near beer parlors were the only places where Canadian money was accepted without discount he made purchases at these places breaking all his bills. Then he had to buy another satchel to carry the silver he got in change.

NATIONALIZATION OF COAL MINES

VOTE OF TRADE UNION CONGRESS IN GLASGOW WAS IN FAVOUR

(Canadian Press.)

GLASGOW, Sept. 10.— By an overwhelming vote, the Trades Union Congress at to-day's session passed a resolution favouring the nationalization of coal mines. The motion presented by Robert Smillie, the mines leader, was carried by a vote of 4,678,000 against 77,000. Mr. Smillie moved that the government be compelled to accept the majority report of the Sankey Coal Commission. He said he believed the government would refuse the demand for ratification of recommendation in the report and that within two months the Trades Union Congress would reassemble to consider the position.

CHEESE SOLD AT TWENTY-FIVE CENTS

MR. JAMES COOK SECURED ENTIRE BOARD OF 1423 BOXES

There were only three buyers at the meeting of the cheese Board this morning, Mr. G. A. Gillespie, Mr. W. D. Flavelle of Lindsay and Mr. James Cook of W. S. Cook and Son of Belleville. Fourteen cheese factories with a total of 1423 boxes of cheese divided as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| Keene | 30 |
| Warminster | 90 |
| Selwyn | 73 |
| Villiers | 150 |
| Warsaw | 80 |
| Westwood | 125 |
| Oakdale | 115 |
| Ormonde | 220 |
| Young's Point | 105 |
| Lang | 60 |
| North Dummer | 55 |
| Norwood | 150 |
| Killarney | 85 |
| Stoney Lake | 85 |
| | 1423 |

Mr. G. A. Gillespie opened the bidding at 25c for the whole board F.O.B. Montreal and was followed by Mr. James Cook of Belleville, with 25c. F.O.B. shipping point and at this price he obtained the whole board. Mr. Flavelle refused to bid higher. After the meeting Mr. Cook sold a number of the factories output to Mr. Gillespie and Mr. Flavelle. The board is for the local market although the Government will pay the adverse rate of exchange on cheese exported. Twenty-five cents a pound is maximum fixed by the government for cheese to be exported. Liverpool reports that cheese is very scarce as the railroad strikes in Great Britain has had the effect of piling up millions of Canadian cheeses in London with no immediate way to have them shipped to other parts of the country. Mr. Flavelle stated that the adverse rate of exchange between Canada and United States affects eggs to the amount of seven cents a dozen.

Mr. G. A. Gillespie moved that the usual $10 prize for the best cheese at either Norwood or Peterboro Fairs be continued this year. Mr. Williamson seconded the motion and it was carried.

FORETELLING THE WEATHER.

Prophets Can Do Their Forecasting at Home.

Adam may or may not have tried his hand at weather-prediction, but it is written that as far back as the time of Noah that gentleman prophesied a long, wet spell, and, unlike a lot of later weather prophets, he had such faith in his own prognostications that he took measures to meet the situation. Further than that, subsequent events proved that Noah was 100 per cent. prophet. Many of his successors, however, showing a lower batting average, it became increasingly apparent as time went on that in view of the frequency with which the prognostications failed, the subject should be placed on a scientific basis in order to obtain accuracy in the results, or at least to spread a sort of halo of learning and philosophy about it, and thus minimize the curse, as it were, of possible errors. So weather bureaus were instituted, which same have been in more or less successful operation now for many years, with attendants on the Government payroll, and everything. Entirely apart from scientific weather observations, however, home-made weather-forecasting has persisted as a pleasing pastime all these years, and on this very day there is a set of rules governing it, more or less recognized by all amateur weather-prophets. For the benefit of those who may be unfamiliar with these rules the New York Sun has obligingly made a compilation of them and they are set forth as follows:

When standing on high ground and the horizon is unobstructed from all quarters, if the sky is absolutely cloudless, look for a storm within forty-eight hours.

If it starts to rain after seven o'clock in the morning it will continue to do so all day, and very often it is the indication of a three days' rain.

When it is raining and it brightens and darkens alternately you can count on an all-day rain, with a chance of clearing at sundown.

When the rain ceases and the clouds are still massed in heavy blankets one sure sign of clear weather is the patch of blue sky that shows through the rift large enough to make a pair of "sailor's breeches."

Another sign of continued rain is when the smoke from the chimney hovers low around the housetops. When it ascends straight into the air this indicates clearing weather.

A foggy morning is usually the fore-runner of a clear afternoon.

A thunder-storm in winter (usually in January or February) is always followed by clear, cold weather. It is not, as many think, the breaking up of winter.

People living near the seashore may a storm is "brewing" when the air is salty, caused by the wind blowing from the east.

A red or copper-colored sun or moon indicates great heat. A silvery moon denotes clear, cool weather.

The old Indian sign of a dry month was when the ends of the new moon were nearly horizontal and one of them resembled a hook on which the Indian could hang his powder-horn.

Many people troubled with rheumatism and neuralgia usually are excellent barometers and can predict changeable weather by "feeling it in their bones."

And the advice of the old weather-sage is "never go out during April month without your umbrella."

And then, for the special benefit of those who never can remember anything they read in prose, but do have a faculty for retaining jingles, the following important formulas are set out in verse:

Red in the morning the sailor's warning;
Red at night the sailor's delight.
When you see a mackerel sky,
'Twill not be many hours dry.
When the seagulls inland fly
Know ye that a storm is nigh.
A ring around the moon
Means a storm is coming soon.
When it rains before seven
'Twill clear before eleven.

Vase 2,240 Years Old.

An interesting new feature of the Greek and Roman galleries at the British Museum is the famous Orestes vase from the Hope collection.

"This magnificent art treasure in terra cotta has had some remarkable modern vicissitudes," said Arthur Smith, the keeper of these treasures. "The vase, which is dated 330 B.C., was saved, during the French Revolution, from the fury of the mob by being walled up in a secret room. Afterwards it fell into the hands of Adrian Hope, the rich banker.

"When the Hope collection was sold the vase was purchased by an American collector to take across the Atlantic. Because of the submarine menace, however, the American got 'panicky,' and decided to sell the treasure again rather than risk its getting sent to the bottom of the sea.

"With the assistance of the National Art Fund and the help of other donors a sufficiently large sum was raised to purchase it for the nation; but because London was bombed so badly, the vase was placed 80 feet below ground in the Post Office tubs for safety. This is the first time it will have been on view as national property."

He Was Through.

Major—My boy, what do you intend doing when you get out of the army?

Private—Stay outpair.

Unclean and Unpatriotic.

The man who markets unclean and filthy milk is especially unpatriotic.

COULD NOT COUNT OR TELL THE TIME

Chicken Case Was Laid Over Until September 17th.

A startling case of almost complete ignorance was revealed in police court this morning when James Gunn and his three sons, Roy, Bruce and Quinn, who were remanded a week ago on a charge of stealing nine chickens from the roost of an Albert street resident appeared in the docket again this morning with Mr. Fordyce Strickland, who recently returned from overseas, defending the Gunns. Detective Newhall asked the Gunns how many chickens they stole but they did not know because they could not count. One of the Gunns was a member of the 93rd Battalion and could not number, always repeating the number shouted by the man next to him. Detective Newhall asked him what time they stole the chickens, but again they were ignorant, they could not tell the time. Roy Gunn, asked how old he was, did not know, but turned to his wife, who thought that he was 21 years old. The three boys were again remanded in custody, but the old man, who is bent nearly double from hard work, was remanded but allowed out on his own cognisance to appear on the 17th of September when the case comes up again.

LOCAL GOLFERS TO PLAY U. S.

Mr. F. M. Dela Fosse and Mr. Miles Hamilton Have Left For New York.

Mr. F. Montague Dela Fosse and Mr. R. Miles Hamilton of the local Golf and Country Club have been selected with fourteen other players to represent Canada in the golf tournament between Canada and the United States to open at Apawanis, N.Y., to-morrow. The team left for New York last evening. They were accompanied by their president secretary, with George S. Lyon, of the Lambton Golf Club, as captain.

Be Careful What You Wash Your Hair With

Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else, that contains too much alkali, for this is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is just plain mulsified cocoanut oil, for it is pure and entirely greaseless. It's very cheap, and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get this at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in, about a teaspoonful is all that is required. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly, and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to handle. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff.

KILL 1,126 RATS.

London—During tree days' threshing at a farm near Long Lane, Derbyshire, 1,126 rats were killed.

HOW TO MAKE YOUR HAIR BEAUTIFUL

Ten Minutes' Home Treatment Works Wonders, Stops Falling Hair and Dandruff and Makes the Hair Soft, Brilliant, Lustrous and Fluffy.

Better than all the so-called "hair tonics" in the world is a simple old-fashioned home recipe consisting of plain Bay Rum, Lavona (de Composes) and a little Menthol Crystals. These three, mixed at home in a few minutes, work wonders with any scalp. Try it just one night and see. Get from your druggist 2 oz. Lavona, 6 oz. Bay Rum and 1-2 drachm Menthol Crystals. Dissolve the Crystals in the Bay Rum and pour in 8 oz. bottle. Then add the Lavona, shake well and let it stand for an hour before using. Apply it by putting a little of the mixture on a soft cloth. Draw this cloth slowly through the hair, taking just one small strand at a time. This cleanses the hair and scalp of dirt, dust and excessive oil and makes the hair delightfully soft, lustrous and fluffy. To stop the hair from falling and to make it grow again, rub the lotion briskly into the scalp with the finger tips or a medium stiff brush. Apply night and morning. A few days' use and you will not find a single loose or straggling hair. They will be locked on your scalp as tight as a vise. Dandruff will disappear. You will find fine downy new hairs sprouting up all over your scalp and this new hair will grow with wonderful rapidity.

Any druggist can sell you the above. The prescription is very inexpensive and we know of nothing so effective and certain in its result.

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

You Can Bring Back Colour and Lustre With Sage Tea and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is mussy and troublesome. For 50 cents you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite and not a medicine. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

TAKE SALTS TO FLUSH KIDNEYS

Eat Less Meat If You Feel Backachy or Bladder Troubles You—Salts is Fine for Kidneys

Meat forms uric acid which excites and overworks the kidneys in their efforts to filter it from the system. Regular eaters of meat must flush the kidneys occasionally. You must relieve them like you relieve the bowels; removing all the acids, waste and poison, else you feel a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment; the channels often get irritated, obliging you to get up two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids and flush off the body's urinous waste get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine and bladder disorders disappear. The famous salts is made from the juice of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys and stop bladder irritation. Jad Salts is inexpensive; harmless and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then, thus avoiding serious kidney and bladder disease.

LIFT OFF CORNS WITH FINGERS

Doesn't hurt a bit and costs only few cents

Magic! Just drop a little Freezone on that touchy corn, instantly it stops aching, then you lift the corn off with the fingers. Truly! No humbug!

Try Freezone. Your druggist sells a tiny bottle for a few cents, sufficient to rid your feet of every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and calluses, without one particle of pain, soreness or irritation. Freezone is the discovery of a noted Cincinnati genius.

Many lasting friendships are due to the distance between them.

NO IMPROVEMENT

The advertising campaign of the Citizens' Liberty League continues to show no improvement. The advertisements of the League still persist in trying to persuade the people to vote for the repeal of the Ontario Temperance Act, and a section of Premier Hearst's speech in the Legislature is being used in an attempt to show that the Premier has said that the repeal of the Act would not mean a return of the open bar. The contrary is the case. Sir William Hearst said in words that permit of no misunderstanding, that if question No. 1 is answered in the affirmative the License Act, as it existed before the present Act was passed will be received. There is no need of repealing the Ontario Temperance Act to secure the sale of liquor in Government agencies or to adopt the other methods of handling the problem that are being voted on. Any of them can be made effective by amendments to the Act itself, so that the Liberty League in telling the people to repeal the Act are leaving themselves open to the charge that they are far from sincere in their claim that they are opposed to the return of the open bar and its attendant evils.

THE AGITATION

The public, in connection with the demonstrations that are going on in Toronto and in other cities over the question of larger gratuities for returned soldiers, should understand that the agitation is being caused by two issues, connected with each it is true, but nevertheless separate and distinct. The Great War Veterans' Association have been pressing for the appointment of a Royal Commission by the Government in order that the whole question should be threshed out. The Association's request is reasonable; they ask for a chance to discuss the issue thoroughly and their leaders state that if the Government can convince them that the country cannot carry the financial burden of the increased bonus, they will be satisfied to drop their request. The public will stand behind the G. W. V. A. in this sensible and fair demand and will be at a loss to understand why the Government has declined their request.

In addition to the campaign of the G.W.V.A., there has sprung up a new agitation especially in Toronto where returned soldiers have united in a demand for a war bonus of $2,000 for every soldier who fought in France. The Returned Soldiers' Overseas Gratuity Association has been formed and its members declare there will be no compromise. The request for a commission to study the question is evidently too mild for the new organization, whose mission is to strike at once for the maximum gratuity demanded.

THE REFERENDUM.

The writer of a letter which appeared in the local papers yesterday on the prohibition referendum, declares "that the multiplicity of questions is designed to defeat all who want to use alcohol in any shape or form." That is rather a remarkable statement in view of the fact that the last three questions in the referendum were inserted, it is believed, at the instigation of members of the Ontario Government who are not ardent supporters of prohibition. The original intention was to have the people of Ontario vote on the one question of whether or not the Ontario Temperance Act should be continued. Such a referendum would have undoubtedly been more pleasing to temperance advocates than the present ballot, but would have allowed no opportunity for the citizens who believes that the sale of light beer over the bar, or that liquor should be sold in government agencies, to express his sentiments in the matter. If there had only been the one question, the repeal of the Temperance Act, before the people, there would have been no doubt whatever of the result. The Act would have been sustained by a big majority, but the public would have had little chance to give free expression of their views on the different methods of handling the problem.

"It is public opinion, freely and frankly expressed, that is of importance," declared Premier Hearst, in introducing the Referendum Act, "not a big majority on a question that does not enable the people to give free expression to their views."

The Citizens' Liberty League, and others who hold similar opinions, seem inclined to throw away the opportunity the new ballot gives them, by concentrating the fight on the first question, "Are you in favour of the repeal of the Ontario Temperance Act?" That is their privilege, and no one would object to their plans for an affirmative answer to this question were it not for their attempt to becloud the issue.

The writer of last evening's letter goes so far as to declare that the repeal of the Temperance Act is the whole issue. If the Act is not repealed, according to his peculiar conception of the referendum, there is no longer guarantee that the amendments would be put in force, even if they are carried. "We know Premier Hearst has declared himself a prohibitionist," he declares, and the Wets will not trust him to make amendments. And after this lack of confidence in the Premier, he winds up by saying, "Therefore I say all must vote Yes every time to win, and as Mr. Guise-Bagley says, 'Leave it to Sir W. Hearst to pass a new enactment. The country's representatives know what the people want and can be trusted.'" The two statements are as consistent as the position of the Liberty League.

THE HIGH COST OF LOAFING

We are confronted by a condition, not a theory. Prices are high, and show tendency to go higher. Wages are high, with an upward trend. When prices rise, wages must follow; when wages go up, prices must keep pace. The wage-earner demands that prices drop while wages remain stationary or even continue to go up; the employer of labor has about given over hope of declining wages, but insists that prices must rise while wages stay put. And between the two millstones right in the dead centre of the vicious circle, are some millions of salaried workers who call upon Heaven to witness that whatever happens they must stay.

The demand for a solution of this puzzling mess there are many answers. We are not going to invade the field of the economist to venture an opinion upon the thousand and one panaceas that have been put forward, for we are not at home in that field. But there is one proposition which can be supported without any knowledge of the mysteries of economics; one that is mathematical in its simplicity, direct in its bearings, and clearly within our field.

If we hire a boy to pick blueberries at a dollar a day, and he picks ten quarts, the cost is ten cents per quart. If he doubles his output he cut the cost to five cents. If he knocks off in the middle of the day to go swimming and reports at quitting time with only five quarts, the cost goes up twenty cents a quart, and if he himself comes around the next day to buy blueberries, he may kick at the priced based on this figure but he must pay it.

All this is plain enough. There is no reason why the application of the principle in other fields should not be equally plain. If a linotype operator or a lathe hand or a carpenter or a railroad repair man or anybody else in the world loafs on his job and thereby cuts down his production, he automatically increases the cost per unit of his product. If he is working for the Government he may not thereby increase its price to the consumer—which means himself and everybody else; but even the Government, while it doesn't have to earn its keep, has to meet its deficits, so he at least raises taxes—his own and everybody's else.

In no uncertain terms Mr. Wilson pointed out to the railroad men that the remedy for high prices is not decreased production. His remarks had to do with production decreased through organized refusal to work at all; they are just as applicable to individual refusal to work, to work full time, and to work effectively. The world faces a shortage of every manufactured article, and at the same time a shortage of labor. It is perhaps natural, now that there are more jobs than men, for the worker to relax his efforts. It is understandable that he should feel that he need not bustle and that he is not going to hustle. But there will not be lower prices until he gets rid of that feeling.

The law of supply and demand is still doing business at the old stand—even in Russia, where it was officially abolished. If demand exceeds supply, prices must rise until demand drops to a level with supply. The only way you can possibly make 100 pairs of shoes go around among 200 prospective buyers is to put the price where half the buyers can't reach it. On the other hand, if supply exceeds demand, prices must fall until they attract new buyers to swell the demand.

If the world is short of sugar and shoes, steel and wool, and copper, automobiles and ships and houses, coal and wheat, the remedy does not lie in producing less of these things. This is plain to the point of absurdity when thus put down in black and white; in practice, where it can be obscured by a hundred considerations which reallly have nothing to do with the matter, it may not always be so plain. It is always true, however, and always inescapable. There is just one way to force prices down under present conditions—that is for us all to pitch in and produce so much of everything that at the same time prices can and must go down. Cut the cost and boost the supply and prices must drop. But as long as we go on cutting the supply and boosting the cost by loafing on our jobs prices will hold their upward course. —Scientific American.

BOY MURDERED BY KIDNAPPERS

NEW YORK Sept. 8.— A photograph of a youth found murdered in Milford, Conn., several weeks ago was identified to-day at New York police headquarters as that of Benjamin M. Binkowitz, a Wall Street messenger boy, who, according to the police, disappeared on August 12 with $167,000 worth of Liberty bonds entrusted to him for delivery by his employers, Whitney & Co., bankers and brokers.

A nation-wide search was begun for the boy after his disappearance. Shortly afterwards the Milford murder occurred. Working on the theory that the stranger had been slain for the bonds he is alleged to have had in his possession, Detective Frank Virell, of the Connecticut State Police, came, came here to-day to establish identification. The boy's mother, when shown the photograph, declared it was that of her son.

CITY HALL NEWS

Ald. James Hamilton, chairman of the Property Committee received a letter from Mr. Edwin Newsome, of Toronto, who made serious charges against the plumbing in Peterboro. A meeting of the Property Committee will be called this week to take some action. Ald. Hamilton stated that the letter did not state specifically what was wrong with the plumbing.

A special meeting of the Special Committee to deal with War Memorials, will be called soon. The Board of Trade report of War Memorials will be considered, and a letter has also been received from the local branch of the Women's Council on the subject. The Trades and Labour Council have appointed two of their members as a committee on War Memorials, besides the G.W.V.A. and these will be called into consultation.

Aldermen Hamilton and Phelan visited the vicinity of Riverside Park yesterday to inspect the right of way to the park when the new bridge is constructed. Ald. Hamilton is of the opinion that when the bridge is finished that the ramp down to the right of way into the park will be dangerous and that accidents, in which the city would be liable, would occur, as the corner would be sharp. He is of the opinion that a right of way ought to be purchased south of Calcutt's Brewery, and open on Burnham street.

The mayor has written to the Department of Militia and Defence asking if Peterboro would receive a portion of the German guns and trophies which are greatly in evidence in Toronto just now? A reply was received that fourteen carloads of war trophies were shipped to the Toronto Exhibition and that they would be shipped back to Ottawa at the close of the fair and distributed among the cities, divided according to the size of their quota of men sent overseas. The mayor thought that a German plane would be a fine decoration for the drill shed of the armouries.

As one of the essential elements of Safety, it is readily recognised that the street dust nuisance is one of the most pressing problems of the day, and one of the most necessary to overcome.

There is only one known system which will positively clean a paved street and will remove both the coarse and the fine dust completely. That is the Blaney Sweepers, as manufactured by the Dominion Dustless Sweeper Co., Limited.

Sanitation of city streets is so costly under the present system that the demand for an efficient street sweeper is most insistent, not only in Canada, but in all the large cities of the world.

The Motor-driven Street Cleaning Machine of the Dominion Dustless Sweeper Co. has been designated by expert engineers to be as near perfection mechanically as human ingenuity could invent.

The greatest advantages consist first, in the fact that the machine replaces, in other words does away with, the work of a large number of labourers: and second, that on smooth pavements it removes practically every bit of the fine dust, as well as the coarse material which is picked up and deposited in the hopper.

The Company are holders of patent rights in Canada, United States, Great Britain, France, and Australia.

The Promoter's Wife

BY JANE PHELPS

IS LOVE BLIND?

CHAPTER LXII.

As I had decided to go ahead with my plans —simply putting off the time when I should take the public to my confidence, I continued to keep up for the things which one always needs after the principal part of what one attempts is finished. I was in a small, exclusive decorator's shop on the Avenue. I was trying to match some fringe for a lamp shade I was having made. Several people were in the shop, and I was obliged to wait some little time before I received attention. I wandered about looking at many dainty confections, when my notice was taken by a sibilent whisper:

"Yes, that's his wife! stunning isn't she"

"Yes, what he can see in that Blanche Orton is beyond me. She isn't bad you know, she isn't wholesome enough to really compromise herself. But the way she leads men on is something awful."

"I guess Forbes is willing enough to be led if all I hear is true."

Just then the saleswoman who was attending to them brought some materials for their inspection and the conversation was interrupted. I remained where I was, hoping they would resume it. I was not disappointed.

"My husband says he's got Forbes' number all right. You know what queer expressions men use. He has talked about him a lot, been suspicious all along. He hasn't much use for promoters anyway. He thinks so many of them are crooked.

"But surely they can't all be," the other woman spoke.

"No, but Tom claims they aren't to be trusted either. He says that when they aren't crooked, they are visionary, and "—Then: "Oh, see Such this piece is exactly the color we wanted. They bought some of the material and left the shop.

I matched my fringe and went immediately home. I had several other errands on my list, but they would have to wait. I could do no more that day. I was trembling with indignation, and cold with something like fear. Could they all be mistaken. Rough but kindly Mr. Frederick, Lorraine and this woman. I wished I had asked the clerk her name. I wondered if she were socially prominant. She was beautifully gowned, and I had noticed a limousine with two men on the box. Of course it might belong to the other woman. Yet—

I paced feverishly up and down the room upon my return home. I clasped and unclasped my hands, so nervous I could not keep still a moment. Was Neil purely a visionary? Visionary I knew he was to a certain extent; but I always had considered that he had a lot of hard business sense also. When at first he was continually on the verge of making a fortune worried a great deal. But now when he had been so successful I had forgotten to worry, to pay much attention, when he talked of "hoping to put this deal through" and other expressions he used when talking of his financial affairs.

"I know he is not dishonest!" was my constant reiteration as I walked back and forth. "He pays all his bills. And he is so generous.—He will lend or give to anyone who asks. Oh, I wish I could make them all see how fine and lovable he is!"

Then came the thought: "they say he is not practical" That was what Mr. Frederick had said. What difference did it make if he won out? It was no sin to be different from the plodding men all around him. It was no sin to talk in thousands instead of small sums. If he made half a million instead of few thousands it only proved his superiority

I might have known that when one has to argue themselves into the acceptance of a thought there was something wrong somewhere. But I didn't! I loved my husband intensely. I believed in him to the utmost I was jealous at times, principally of Blanche Orton. I hated to stay alone when he remained out with his business friends, yet I do not think there are many women who really cared more, really loved the man they had married more than I did.

They say that "love is blind." That perhaps is some excuse for me.

THE SIX DECISIVE BATTLES OF THE WAR

Verdun and the Marne Rank First.

"One of the six decisive battles of the war," said Lloyd George, referring to the victory won by Lord French and his handful of Contemptibles and Territorials when the way to the Channel Ports was barred at the first battle of Ypres. What are the other combats on the Premier's list? He gave no hint, but we shall all agree on most of the battles. The first battle of the Marne, the first battle of Ypres, the battle of Jutland, the second battle of the Marne, and the second battle of Cambrai with the accompanying struggle for the Canal du Nord—those are five great stages in the checking and defeat of Germany. But what is the sixth? Nancy, where De Castelnau held Lorraine and made it possible for Joffre to stand on Marne? Tannanberg, which made the war a long one and gave the Germans a superiority in the East, never afterwards lost? Esdraelon, where Allenby's cavalry and aeroplanes ended the Turkish Empire? The Austro-German check at the Piave after Caporetto, when the Italians and their allies rallied and kept Italy in the war? I fancy Lloyd George himself would put all these aside in favour of Verdun, greatly though he values Allenby's work.

PREMIER'S REPLY TO THE VETERAN

FINANCIAL SITUATION IS SUCH AS TO PRECLUDE POSSIBILITY OF LARGER GRATUITIES

Premier Borden's reply to the G.W.V.A.'s request for a commission to inquire into the question of large gratuities and which precipitated the present demonstration, was as follows:

"The financial situation of the country is such as to preclude the Government from entertaining any proposal for a larger or further gratuity or bonus. The payments under the order-in-council of December last will run into $130,000,000. In addition, the expenditure under the provisions of the Lands Settlement Act will probably amount to at least $125,000,000. Besides this, there will be a heavy annual expenditure for some years by the Department of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment in hospital treatment vocational training, etc.

"In the budget speech delivered by Sir Thomas White on 5th of June last, it was pointed out that the National debt for this coming fiscal year will amount to $115,000,000 and that for a century or more we must look forward to providing annually from 35 to 40 million dollars in pensions. There is the ordinary expenditure for the administration of public affairs, which amounts to $125,000,000 or more.

"In addition, inevitable deficits in the operation of our railways and capital expenditure for the most modest of railways facilities will run into many millions yearly. The country is face to face with a very serious financial situation which will call for rigid economy and careful retrenchment."

In reply to his letter the Dominion Executive of the G.W.V.A. sent the following letter to Sir Robert:

"We have received your letter in reply to the request of the G.W.V.A. of Canada, asking that a Parliamentary Commission be appointed to determine the possibility of granting a further bonus for the re-establishment of returned soldiers. As this matter has to be immediately dealt with by this committee, may we respectfully urge that you inform us whether your Government is prepared to grant such a commission."

The Premier's reply in part is: "After my interview with the executive of the G.W.V.A. on Saturday, last I discussed the whole subject with my colleagues, with the result that we feel ourselves bound to adhere to the conclusions expressed in my letter of the 27th of August last.

"The facts which, in the opinion of the Government, control our actions in this matter are available, and can be verified without the appointment of either a committee of the House of Commons or of a Royal Commission. You will realize, I hope, that it would be undesirable to establish a commission or appoint a committee to enquire into facts which are within the knowledge of the Government. We are quite ready, however, to place all available information on the subject at the disposal of a committee to be named by your association. If such a committee is designated to me I will see that it is put in touch with accredited representatives of the Departments of Finance Militia and Defence, Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment and the Department of the Interior, which are those chiefly concerned with the matters in question."

TRANS-ATLANTIC FLIER IS MARRIED

Lieut. Sir Arthur Whitten Brown, K.B.E., who Crossed the Atlantic Takes Place.

LONDON.—The successful crossing of the Atlantic by aeroplane was recalled on Tuesday by the marriage of Lieutenant Sir Arthur Whitten Brown, of Manchester, the navigator of the Atlantic machine, to Miss Marguerite Kennedy, of Ealing. The ceremony took place at the Chapel Royal, Savoy, and in addition to the fortunate guests who found a place in church large numbers of people crowded Savoy-street in the hope of getting a glimpse of the Atlantic airman and his bride.

There were rousing cheers when Capain Sir John Alcock, who was Sir A. W. Brown's companion in the successful flight, approached the church, but the bridegroom slipped in unnoticed by the waiting crowds.

Miss Kennedy was given away by her father, Major Kennedy, who is also an officer in the Royal Air Force er gown was of ivory charmeuse, with a short train and an old Brussels lace veil. Her bouquet was tied with a band of ribbon in the colours of the R.A.F. The bridesmaids, Miss Eileen Kennedy, the sister of the bride, and her little cousin, Miss Biddy Tucker, also carried bouquets bound with the R.A.F. colours.

The decoration of the chapel was carried out in white marguerites, and the R.A.F. wings, done in white flowers, were placed over the altar.

Nuxated Iron Helps Make Red Blood

The Kind That Puts Roses Into the Cheeks of Women and Force, Strength and Courage Into the Veins of Men

Watch the People You Meet On the Street—You Can Tell Those Who Have Plenty of Iron In Their Blood—Strong, Healthy, Vigorous Folks

Cut this Out

Sworn Statement of the Composition of the FORMULA of Nuxated Iron

It is conservatively estimated that this remarkable formula is now being used by over three million people annually. Among those who have used and strongly endorse it are many physicians who have been connected with the best hospitals and medical societies, former United States Senator and Vice-Presidential nominee, Chas. A. Towne of Minnesota; U. S. Commissioner of Immigration, Hon. Anthony Caminetti; Judge Atkinson of the United States Court of Claims at Washington; Wm. L. Chambers, Commissioner of the United States Board of Mediation and Conciliation at Washington, and former Health Commissioner Wm. R. Kerr of Chicago.

Newspapers everywhere are invited to copy this statement for the benefit of their readers. It is suggested that physicians make a record of it and keep it in their offices so that they may intelligently answer questions of patients concerning it. Everybody is advised to cut it out and keep it. A copy of the actual sworn statement will be sent to anyone who desires such. It is as follows: Iron Peptonate (Organic assimilable Standard) Quantity Given Below, Sodium Glycerophosphate U. S. P. (Organic), Calcium Glycerophosphate U. S. P. (Monosaccate), Manganese Peptonate U. S. P. (Organic), Nux Vomica U. S. P. Capsicum Fructus U. S. P. Coriander Fructus U. S. P. Cardamom Semen U. S. P. Oil Cassia Cinnamomi Praeparatum U. S. P. Calcium Carbonate Praecipitata U. S. P.

Each dose of two tablets of Nuxated Iron contains one and one-half grains of organic iron in the form of iron peptonate, of a special assimilable standard, which is our copyrighted product. By using other makes of iron Peptonate we could have put the same quantity of actual iron in the tablets at less than one-fourth the cost to us, and by using metallic iron we could have accomplished the same thing at less than one-twelfth the cost; but by so doing we must have used entirely impaired therapeutic effects. Glycerophosphates used in Nuxated Iron is one of the most expensive tonic ingredients known. It is especially recommended to build up the nerve force and thereby increase brain power, as glycerophosphates are said to contain phosphorous in that particular state so similar to that in which it is found in the nerve and brain cells of men.

As will be seen from the above, two important ingredients of Nuxated Iron (Iron Peptonate and Glycerophosphates) are very expensive products as compared with most other tonics.

Under such circumstances the temptation to adulteration and substitution by unscrupulous persons, to very great and the public is hereby warned to be careful and see every bottle is plainly labeled "Nuxated Iron" by the Dan Health Laboratories, Paris, London and Detroit, U. S. A., as this is the only genuine article. If you have taken other forms of iron without success, this does not prove Nuxated Iron will not help you.

Nuxated Iron is not a secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach. Nuxated Iron is not recommended for use in cases of pernicious anaemia, but only as a tonic, strength and blood builder. The name of Nuxated Iron is owned by Dan Health Laboratories and is printed in this advertisement. If in doubt as to whether or not you need a tonic, ask your doctor, as we do not wish to sell you Nuxated Iron if you do not require it. If you should use it and it does not help you, after you have given it a fair trial, we will refund your money. It is sold by druggists.

LEGAL COMMITTEE HAD BUSY SESSION

TAX EXEMPTION FOR WAR VETERANS' CLUB HOUSE—TREE FELL ON HOUSE.

LIABILITY TRANSFERRED

The Legal committee had a busy session last night, although they were in the dark part of the time — the lights went out. It was the first meeting held in two months and the voluminous correspondence kept the committee busy until 10.00. Present were Aldermen Phelan, Hamilton, Garside, the Mayor and Chairman Turner.

Veterans Want Tax Exemption.

A letter from the local branch of the Great War Veterans asked that proper steps be taken at once to protect the Association from paying taxes on their hall on Murray street. street. They mentioned that according to the agreement entered into by the city they were to be exempt from all taxes, municipal or provincial. City Clerk Armstrong stated that the Veterans had already been billed for taxes this year. City Solicitor Widdifield mentioned the fact that the matter had been taken up by the Ontario Legislature, and reading the Act the members agreed that the city could not come up to the agreement entered into with the Veterans. The Act distinctly provides for tax exemption except school or local improvement, if it is submitted to the ratepayers eligible to vote on money by-laws and carried. The Veterans must, according to the Bill, pay local improvement and school taxes which the city generally agreed in the agreement not to collect.

Mr. Widdifield said that the city were not liable because they could not meet the full terms of the agreement. It was decided to submit tax exemptions of the Veterans' property to the ratepayers in conformity with the by-law.

Accident at Civic Bathing Beach.

Gordon and O'Brien reported to the Board that they have been instructed to take action against the municipality unless a settlement is made in the case of Amos Feeley, son of Mr. John Feeley, whose knee was badly cut at the civic bathing beach last June. The letter stated that the boy's leg may be permanently stiff. The City Clerk informed the Board that a writ for damages of $500 had already been issued. The City Solicitor in a letter and in person said he was of the opinion that the Board was not liable, that the boy might have been cut any place. The Mayor moved that the City Solicitor defend the action, and Ald. Hamilton seconded it.—Carried.

Part of O.T.A. Fine Remitted.

City Treasurer Frank Adams asked the Council for instructions. In a letter which he enclosed from the Attorney-General of Ontario it states that $175 of the $200 fine imposed on Mr. Gerald Dunford for a breach of the Ontario Temperance Act, by Magistrate Dumble, has been remitted and instructed the city to hand that sum of money from the city treasury over to Mr. Dunford.

The City Solicitor asked the committee to leave the matter over as he doubted the Attorney-General's power to remit part of the fine to Mr. Dunford as the money belonged to the city. Mr. Widdifield explained if License Inspector Stewart prosecutes the money goes to the Ontario Government, as he is a Government appointee, but if the arrest is made by the local police force, as it was in this case, the fine goes to the city coffers. The police obtained this conviction and therefore he was of the opinion that the Attorney-General had no power to remit part of the fine. He said that the reason given him that part of the fine was remitted was that Mr. Dunford wrote to Toronto and said that he needed the money more than the city. "The Government made us remit $700 before," stated Mr. Widdifield "when it was already in the bank." It seems to be a high-handed move. One of the members in seeking the motive of the Attorney-General in not remitting the whole fine, thought if the whole $200 was remitted it had the effect of annulling the conviction. The matter was left over and no action taken until Mr. Widdifield can inquire further into the matter.

Transfer Liability.

The Canadian Woollens Limited, who now operate both the Bonner-Worth and Auburn woollen plants, informed the committee that the liability of $6,000 of the Bonner-Worth Company had been transferred to the Canadian Woollens Limited.—Referred to the City Trust Commission.

The Hydro-Electric Commission objected to paying a garbage tax on the streets on which their gas mains run. They stated that they pay garbage taxes on their property in the city, but object to the street tax. The committee referred it to the Court of Revision.

New Bridge Plans.

The Grand Trunk Railway System informed the city that when they build the new bridge on Bethune street the city would assume all liability for accidents and the upkeep of the driving road and the sidewalks. The railroad would only be responsible for the railroad track. The blue prints of the new bridge were enclosed and were ordered fyled.

Stickney Motors Ltd. are Liable.

The Stickney Motors Limited, who opened part of their office at the old Cordage plant, but who have decided not to operate here and who are, according to City Clerk Armstrong, moving out their machinery, informed the committee that they do not intend to operate here. Heavy expenses were incurred when the by-law for fixed assessment was submitted to the people and carried by a large majority, and Mr. Armstrong said that the company were liable for the expenses of the by-law as it carried. If the bylaw had been negativated the city would have had to pay the costs. The matter was referred to the City Solicitor with power to act.

Soldiers' Memorial Board.

The Trades and Labour Council informed the committee by letter that Mr. J. J. Hartley and Mr. A. J. Bolwell had been appointed to the Soldiers' Memorial Board. Ald. Turner stated that they would be notified when the committee dealing with war memorials was summoned.

Tree Fell on House.

"The full damage to my house was $65," said Mr. Josept Ronca in a letter referring to the overflow of the Downey street creek last spring when nearly all the property touching the creek was flooded. Mr. Ronca lives at 544 McDonnel street and his home was not the lightest touched. The Mayor thought that Mr. David Dumble who owns the property through which the creek flows was liable and thought that the City Council could ask Mr. Dumble for damages done to the streets by the freshets.

"These citizens should sign a petition and have a test case against Mr. Dumble," opined Ald. Garside.

Finally Mr. Widdifield and Ald. Phelan, with the Mayor, decided to inspect the creek with Mr. Dumble at some convenient date and report back to the committee.

Reports of Encroachments.

Reports of encroachmets on city property continue to flow in and many have answered to the city's demand for an immediate settlement and ask that their liability be determined. The City Engineer and the City Assessor were ordered to find out the size of these encroachments and their value and report to the committee. A yearly rental will then be fixed for each encroachment. Mr. Armstrong was also instructed to write to those who have made no reply to the committee on the encroachment of their property that the city will take steps to have the encroachments removed. The Customs House encroaches two feet on Charlotte street and the Public Works Department asked that a plan of the encroachment be sent them. On motion of Ald. Hamilton, seconded by Ald. Phelan, it was decided to have a plan made and forwarded to the Department of Public Works.

Cups For Triplets.

Samples of silver cups from various local jewellers were closely inspected with a connoisseur's eye by the aldermen and it was decided to order a curious-shaped silver cup with a gold-plated lining from the E. V. Warne jewelry store at a total cost of $25, "as per sample submitted."

In addition Mrs. Albert Dorris, mother of the trio, will be presented with a ten dollar gold piece, "English or Canadian."

DR. HAMILTON SAYS HIS REMEDY NEVER FAILS TO CURE QUICKLY

Mine is a marvellous remedy.

There are others, but not one possesses the peculiar merit so prominent in mine.

With my remedy I guarantee to cure constipation.

I also guarantee to prevent it.

My preparation, which is in pill form gives tone and regularity to the bowels that quickly rids the system of effete matter, accumulations of bile and other injurious results of costiveness.

I call my pills Dr. Hamilton's. I am sure they are safe because composed of such health-giving vegetable extracts as Mandrake, Butternut, Hyoscamus and Dandelion.

My pills are not harsh or drastic. They cause no pain, no distress; they are prescribed by physicians because of their mildness and certainty to cure.

For women and children I know of no better medicine for keeping the system healthy. For men they are perfect.

I have proved their merit in biliousness, constipation and headache, and can strongly recommend them in these troubles.

My personal guarantee stands behind every box of Dr. Hamilton's Pills; and this means much to you in selecting your remedy.

Every dealer sells Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. 25c per box.

UNITED FARMERS OF EAST DURHAM ELECT A STANDARD BEARER, ETC.

Farmers' Platform.

The Farmers' Platform is based on the following planks:

To establish the personal responsibility of the electors.

To promote debate on public questions.

To establish honesty and economy in public business.

To obtain a fair representation for agriculture.

To obtain fair treatment for the farmers as producers.

To insist on the fulfillment of pledges made by the government.

To obtain responsible government—not government by orders-in-council.

Orders-in-Council.

"We don't want a government that takes care of DeWitt Foster," said the speaker. "We now have a Dominion Cabinet of twenty-three members who can't trust a parliament even when it is in session. They prefer to do their business by orders-in-council," said the speaker.

The embargo on hides hit the farmer but they would not allow American boots to come in for fear it would lower the cost.

The Silent Throng.

The late John A. Macdonald once described the farmers as the "great silent throng"—they never asked for anything and never got anything.

The Hog Campaign.

"During the war the government exhorted the manufacturers to produce more and guaranteed them a profit for doing so. The help they employed received as high as ten and fifteen dollars a day. Millionaires were turned out wholesale. The government then turned to the farmers after they had robbed them of all their help and told them to produce more foodstuffs for the sake of patriotism, not for profit. Girls and High school boys were turned out to help. They then turned to the hog campaign, which cost the country twenty-five thousand dollars alone for advertising. The farmers said we cannot do it, we have not sufficient help. W. J. Hanna replied, let your wives and daughters feed the hogs. His wife and daughters did not volunteer to help. Not one of the farmers at that hog campaign meeting in Ottawa had gumption enough to take him by the scruff of the neck and throw him out. The government then told the farmers to work longer and eat less and put the clock ahead an hour to help them to do it. That is some of the things farmers did for the rural people," said Mr. Morrison.

"When you vote for a Grit or Tory you are simply voting for a rubber stamp," observed the speaker. If you are a loyal citizen you will smite them.

Anybody who says our organization is narrow and cannot change its views doesn't know what he is talking about. Only recently a Catholic U.F.O. man was nominated in Ontario, and his nomination was moved by a County Master of the Orange Order. He cannot be elected without the vote of the Orange Order, and he is going to be elected." "The farmers are getting tired of little road grants, grants for fall fairs, etc. They are going to have a real government for the people," said Mr. Morrison, in conclusion.

UNSOLICITED SUBSCRIPTIONS TO FAIR IMPROVEMENTS

A NUMBER HAVE BEEN RECEIVED AND ARE GREATLY APPRECIATED

The improvements to the grounds of the Peterborough Central Exhibition could not have been undertaken or the new buildings erected, had it not been for the subscriptions received from the manufacturers and business men, and citizens generally of the city. They are coming in from time to time, and to-day the President received a cheque for $5.00 from Mr. T. W. Bennett, resident manager for the Remington Typewriter Company in Peterborough, who has recently come to reside in Peterborough and has already seen and appreciated the effo ts to make Peterborough Exhibition a real Fair.

THE PAVING HAS BEEN COMPLETED

The paving on Water and King streets has been completed by Mr. Richard Sheehy. The work has been finished in a neat style and well within the time planned by Mr. Sheehy. "It is too bad we could not have more of it," said one citizen to-day.

MEDICAL OFFICER OF HEALTH WILL ASK FOR AN ADDITIONAL INSPECTOR

INSPECTOR STAPLETON'S TIME IS SPENT CHASING COMPLAINTS—PIONEER WORK NOT FOLLOWED UP.

The Board of Health last night needed no light on the subject because Chairman William Buller objected to the meeting being disturbed until the mere matter of lights was adjusted. The members sat gravely around the committee table discussing the city's health with only the lighted cigar points showing where each member sat. Present were Mayor Duncan, Mr. Harry Morgan, Mr. James Murty, Chairman William Buller and Dr. A. W. McPherson M.O.H. Still in the dark Dr. McPherson informed the Board that next summer he would ask for an extra Sanitary Inspector for more efficiency as Mr. Charles Stapleton cannot handle both the numerous telephone calls which come into his office and attend to his duties outside. He also said that the systematic work of the C.A.G. Spence regime was not kept up and that trouble was sure to result. For instance the by-law covering manure pits has not been enforced and that in his opinion there is not a correctly constructed manure pit in the city. The sale of food by-law is also a dead letter alleges the Health Officer and is exposed to flies, dust and dirt and that the Sanitary Inspector has to instruct the grocers what must be done besides looking after the manure piles and doing his other work. He suggested that action be taken against all who do not comply with the several by-laws and that the matter be left with the police to deal with. He stated that very nearly all Sanitary Inspector Stapleton's work now is chasing up complaints because the by-law has not been enforced.

Paint Isolation Hospital

Miss Alice M. Price, Matron of the Queen Mary Isolation Hospital asked that the woodwork around the windows at Hospital be painted and that the windows be glazed. The rain enters the premises but the Board decided to inspect the premises before paying an exhorbitant price for paint.

A Second Hand Permit.

Mr. Roth's request for a permit to open a second hand or junk store on Louis street which was bequeathed to the Board of Health by the Board of Police Commissioners was settled and on the advice of Dr. McPherson, the Board decided to refuse to grant a license for a second hand store on Louis street and also to inform Mr. Roth that the position of his present store on Stewart street was not desirable and that the Board thinks that he had better move within the course of two months and that after that time his permit for those premises would be cancelled.

Isolation Hospital Report.

The Queen Mary Isolation Hospital report submitted by Miss Alice Price the matron showed an expenditure for food and supplies of $375.63 for August with a total of $3,979.71 for 1919 up to date. The salaries of nurses and caretakers for the month of August amounted to $222.68.

NEW SCHOOL WILL COST NEARLY QUARTER OF A MILLION DOLLARS

BOARD OF EDUCATION HELD A MEETING LAST EVENING—THE SUCCESSFUL CONTRACTORS.

LIGHTS WERE OUT

Practically in total darkness, the Board of Education, last night, authorized the letting of the tenders, submitted by the Building Committee, for the building of the proposed South Central School, which will cost as Mr. G. N. Gordon pointed out, over a quarter of a million dollars. In each case the lowest tender submitted came from a Peterboro firm and all contracts were awarded to residents of the city.

Memorial School.

Upon the recommendation of the Building Committee the Board authorized the naming of the new school the "Memorial School."

Tenders Accepted.

As authorized the Building Committee invited tenders from the various trades for the erection of the proposed new public School. After receiving tenders, and considering the same, the committee recommended that the Board request the City Council to provide, by the sale of debentures, the sum of $240,000.00 to cover the cost of the building and equipment, and the grading and fencing of the grounds together with the construction of the necessary walks. This amount is arrived at by the acceptance of the lowest tender for each trade, which in detail, is as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| All work exclusive of heating and ventilating, plumbing, fixtures, and drainage and electric wiring Messrs. Graham & Hayes | $150,963.00 |
| Heating & Ventilating Messrs. R. G. Sturgeon & Co. | 32,145 00 |
| Plumbing Fixtures and drainage. George Brenton | 13,000.00 |
| Electric, conduit and wiring work, Messrs Miller, Powell and Watson | 2,747.00 |
| | $207,855.00 |

In addition to the above your Committee estimate additional costs as follows:—

| | |
|---|---|
| Levelling of grounds, fencing, cement work and necessary water connections | 7,300.00 |
| Equipment, including seats, desks, blackboards, clocks, window shades and electric light fixtures | 8,900.00 |
| Manual training and household science equipment and library | 3,500.00 |
| Architect's and consulting engineer's fees | 8,500.00 |
| Unforseen expenses | 3,745.00 |
| | $240,000.00 |

Providing that the City Council furnish the necessary funds the Committee recommended that the above named tenders be accepted and that the usual contract be signed by each contractor and executed by the chairman and secretary on behalf of the Board. Draft forms of contract were submitted herewith for the Board's approval. The bonds furnished by the contractors must be approved by the Building Committee.

The Committee directed the attention of the Board to the fact that the successful tenderers are all members of local firms: also that in the plans and specifications the products of Canadian manufacturers were recommended and have been adopted throughout with one or two minor exceptions.

Upon motion of Mr. Patterson, seconded by Mr. J. W. Worth, the report of the Building Committee was accepted.

Many Meetings.

In presenting the report of the Building Committee, Mr. E. G. Patterson said that the committee had had many meetings with the architect, Mr. Walter Blackwell, and with the consulting engineer, Mr. Thomas, and after many months of labour felt that they had accomplished much. He added that the proposed school should be ready for occupation in a year's time. He further stated that the Railway Board had, in a meeting held in the afternoon, approved of the property upon which the school will be built, being taken into the City of Peterborough, and that plans and specifications of the new school had gone to the Department of Education, as required by law, and had been approved.

Wanted Canadian Products.

Mr. J. W. Worth objected to the fact that the boilers to be used in the heating apparatus were not made in Canada and advocated that the provision for Canadian-made boilers be made if possible. Mr. Thomas, the consulting engineer, who was present, gave a thorough explanation of the heating system contemplated for the school, stating that the Spencer system, which is Canadian made, and was suggested by Mr. McKone, was more expensive in installation and would not use soft coal, which is used throughout the city in the schools. He questioned the figures quoted upon the saving per room on the heating in the using of the Spencer method.

Mr. G. O. Cameron pointed out the fact that at some future time the Board might find it impossible to obtain the particular kind of coal required for the Spencer method.

The Building committee's report was finally accepted, with the proviso that they go more fully into the matter of boilers and if possible get Canadian made goods.

Fair Wage Clause.

Upon the reading of the accepted contract for the building of the new school, Mr. J. W. Worth objected to the fact that no stipulation in an otherwise carefully worded contract had been made for a fair wage clause or for the employing as far as possible of Peterborough men. Mr. Patterson said that the Board had nothing to do with fair wage clause or Peterborough men being employed, both matters resting with the contractors.

Mr. Worth asked why, when stipulating everything else, provision should not also be made for his two clauses, which he said should be embodied as a matter of sentiment. Mr. Gordon, who was against the whole building of the school as he stated it was doubtful if it were good business to go into so large a construction when prices are at the crest, said the whole matter would likely go to the people.

Finally, on motion of Mr. Worth, seconded by Mr. A. J. McKone, the clause was added to the contracts that Peterborough men should be employed and that a fair wage clause be added.

Mr. Worth said he was surprised that Mr. Gordon had not objected to the omission of the fair wage clause and the engaging of Peterborough workmen and Mr. Gordon responded that he was confident the proposed school would never get past the vote of the people to which the Council would undoubtedly put it.

"If the contractors won't sign the revised contracts we'll have to open them up again," Mr. Denne remarked. Mr. A. A. Fowler, however, felt confident that the contractors had all entered into the matter before tendering.

Full Board Present.

All members of the Board were present at the meeting, also Mr. E. A. Peck, who drew up the agreement with the contractors, Mr. Blackwell and Mr. Thomas.

Ask For Debentures.

It was moved by Mr. E. G. Patterson, seconded by Mr. A. A. Fowler, that the Council of the City of Peterborough be requested to pass a by-law for borrowing two hundred and forty thousand dollars ($240,000.00) by the issue and sale of debentures of said city for the purpose of the erection of a public school house and for the purchase of furniture, furnishings, school apparatus and other equipment in connection therewith.

Clear Your Scalp and Skin With Cuticura

After shaving and before bathing touch dandruff or irritation, if any, with Cuticura Ointment. Wash all off with Cuticura Soap and hot water, using plenty of Soap best applied with the hands. One Soap for all uses, shaving, shampooing, bathing. Finally dust shaven parts with Cuticura Talcum. The Soap, Ointment and Talcum sold everywhere.

TOTAL DAMAGE CAUSED BY RIOTS

Officers Accused of Participating in The Riots in Ireland.

Dublin, Sept. 10.—C. P.—Total damage caused by riots at Fermoy, near Cork, on Sunday night, is now estimated at 20,000 pounds sterling. There were no disorders to-day, the shops keeping their shutters in place during the day. A public meeting was held for the purpose of calling upon the military authorities to prevent repetition of the riots. Col. Dobbs, commander of the troops in Fermoy, after hearing a detailed account of the origin of the trouble, promised to confine soldiers to their barracks to-night and to investigate charges that officers participated in the wreckage on shops.

WILSON REACHES NORTH DAKOTA

THE PRESIDENT RECEIVED A BIG RECEPTION IN ST. PAUL

By Hugh Miller.
(United Press.)

Aboard the President's Train Approaching Bismarck, N.D., Sept. 10.—President Wilson left the big cities of the northwest behind to-day and struck into North Dakota. He was greatly pleased with the demonstration in St. Paul last night. At the close of the President's speech in St. Paul Mayor Lawrence C. Hodgson, of St. Paul, asked those of fifteen thousand spectators who were in accord with the President's views to say aye. A tremendous shout that reverberated through the building went up. He then called for "noes." There were a few scattering "noes." The President had an opportunity to-day to rest from his strenuous labours at St. Paul and Minneapolis, where he made three speeches within ten hours.

100 MILE AN HOUR GALE IN SOUTH STATES

All Wire Communications Are Down.

(Canadian Press.)

NEW YORK, N.Y., Sept. 10.—Reports reaching the offices of the Western Union Telegraph Company here to-day said that all wire communications south of Miami, Florida, had ceased as a result of a severe storm raging along the southern coast and the West Indian Islands. A gale of at least a 100 miles an hour was blowing, reports stated.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and see how they speed up the stomach. It's like stepping on the gas. You begin to eat things that used to worry you even to think of them, the rich things of the banquet, the savory home-made sausage, the toothsome pies and puddings and all the balance of a long list of eatables that so many stomachs have been strangers to.

A Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet after meals relieves gassiness, rumblings, drowsiness, sour risings, heartburn water brash, and the feeling of being "stuffed." They contain harmless ingredients which act with an alkaline effect just as the stomach does when perfectly healthy. Thus, instead of milk or cheese curdling into a hard ball so you can taste it all day, it is broken up and converted into a substance for quick and easy absimilation. It is the same with those other foods which your weak stomach has had trouble with. Get a 50-cent box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets at any drug store, speed up your stomach and thoroughly enjoy what you eat without distress.

HAVELOCK AND NORWOOD WILL ASSIST CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY

MOTHER WANTS TO SECURE POSSESSION OF CHILDREN—MEETING OF THE CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY

Faced with the quandary of the better person, to keep the children, a repentent and apparently reformed mother, or a father recently returned from overseas, with whom the children do not wish to live, the members of the Children's Aid Society had little time to attend to routine business yesterday afternoon at the regular meeting of the Board. The case in point is one which has come before the Society before and involves three children, wards of the Society, whose father and mother separated some years ago and whose mother was sent to the Mercer Reformatory for immoral conduct, and whose father enlisted for service overseas, and upon returning from the front, wished to have the children. The mother just previous to the father's return had been released from the reformatory on parole and had returned to the family, of which the eldest daughter was taking care.

Plea For Father.

Mr. J. F. Strickland on behalf of the father made a strong and stirring plea for the return of the little ones to their father, arguing that sentiment should be set aside in such a case, and the good of the children be considered. He stated that he had been advised that the mother's conduct is far from desirable and that she is said to have been driving in the country with men lately. The latter piece of information, Mr. Strickland said, had come from the police. "Can you depend on them?" asked one of the members. Mr. Powell said that he was assured the mother's conduct was much improved and Mr. Strickland answered that it was probable that it should be whilst she was on parole and pointed out to the members that the atmosphere of the home with the mother was far from desirable in consideration of the fact that children will probably be given "the cold shoulder," as a result of the mother's record. Case was left over.

Tag Day.

On account of her capability displayed on former occasions and her powers as an organiser, Mrs. Joseph Knox was appointed to take charge of the C.A.S. Tag Day, which will fall on Saturday the 11th of October. Mrs. Knox reported that the ladies of Havelock and Norwood, eager to divert their energies used during the war on Red Cross work, on some worthy object, had promised to co-operate with the local C.A.S. and that Havelock alone had assured her that in event of a tag day or collection, $300 to $500 would be collected. Norwood would probably do the same.

Vote of Thanks.

A hearty vote of thanks was moved to Dr. Buchanan for his assistance in an operation on one of the children at the Shelter recently.

An Investigation.

An investigation, prompted by Dr. D. C. King, was made into the amount of time the agent spends at the Shelter to which he is supposed to give all his time, and Mr. Powell made an evidently satisfactory account of his methods of looking after the business. He was instructed, however, to visit the Shelter in future at least once a week.

$6,000 For Ward.

Mr. Powell reported that recently he had been advised $2000 had been made over to a ward of the Shelter by the adopted child's parent in case of the parent's death, the money to be devoted to the child's education.

Agent's Report.

Mr. G. W. Powell reported five applications for children during the month, three brought in to the Shelter, one made a ward and one child, not a ward, returned to the parents. Thirteen children were in the home during the month.

Those Present.

Those present at the meeting yesterday were Mr. E. A. Peck, in the chair, Mrs. W. H. Gibbs, Mrs. Webber Turner, Mrs. Kimberley, Mrs. Joseph Knox, Mrs. Brayley, Mrs. Evans, Mrs. W. A. Sanderson, Mr. R. H. Parsons, Mr. Joseph Wearing, Dr. D. C. King and Mr. H. B. Cowan.

SHE BELIEVES IT SAVED HER LIFE

MRS. O'BRIEN DIDN'T HAVE A SINGLE WELL DAY IN FIVE YEARS---TANLAC RESTORES HER TO HEALTH

"I actually believe this Tanlac has saved my life," is the remarkable statement of Mrs. Grace O'Brien, who resides at 18 June street, Halifax, Nova Scotia, Canada.

"I had not seen a well day in five years until I took Tanlac," she continued. "The agonies that I suffered from stomach trouble made me almost wish I was dead many a time. In all those long years of suffering I had not known what it was to enjoy a meal, and have gone for days at a time without touching real food, because I was afraid of the pain that I know it would bring me. Even a piece of dry toast would upset me so that I would be in misery for hours, and when I tried liquid food it would sour on my stomach. When I would try to eat my food would feel like a rock in my stomach and would sour and form gas that would rose up in my throat and almost cut off my breathing. Pains all through the pit of my stomach sometimes kept me awake at night walking the floor and I finally got to the place where I was so weak and nervous and run down that I couldn't even dress myself. When I would try to dress in the morning I have fainted away many a time, as I would be so weak that I could not stand on my feet. If it hadn't been for my two daughters I don't know what I would have done as they had to take care of me and the house too.

"The first bottle of Tanlac didn't seem to make much improvement in my condition for I had suffered so long that my troubles were hard to reach. I began to feel like eating after the second bottle and as soon as I could eat and digest my food I felt myself getting stronger. I kept on until I have now taken four bottles and it is remarkable how I have improved. The pains through my stomach have disappeared entirely, and the gas has quit forming. I have a good healthy appetite and can eat meat, onions, in fact anything that I want—and it builds me up and I enjoy every meal. My strength has come back until I can get around and do almost as much housework as my daughters can. I have gained ten pounds and am picking up all the time and when night comes I sleep without a pain and wake in the morning feeling like a different person. I really believe Tanlac has saved my life and I am glad to tell everybody about this wonderful medicine."

Tanlac is sold in Peterboro by W. B. Warne Drug Co., Ltd., in Havelock by A. C. Denike, in Lakefield by Tanner Drug Co., Ltd., in Fowler's Corners, by W. A. Hunter, in Gelert, by A. J. Scott, in Westwood by G. Pringle & Son.

G. W. V. A. DEMAND FOR INCREASED BONUS

Ottawa, Sept. 9.—The G. W. V. A. demand for increased bonus was much in evidence in the House of Commons to-day. A letter from Secretary C. G. MacNeil, sent special delivery to every member of Parliament, set forth the demands of the Association for the appointment of a representative tribunal to investigate the claims of the Veterans for increased bonus thoroughly and impartially and report to the Government, the returned soldiers agreeing to abide by the findings of the tribunal. In addition, there was one or more telegrams from nearly every constituency, each for its special member. Pages with arms filled with letters and telegrams were circulated through the corridors and the Commons Chambers during most of the afternoon and evening, attempting to deliver the flood of messages.

GOLDEN WEDDING WAS CELEBRATED

MR. AND MRS. J. T. SMART, FORMER RESIDENTS OF PETERBOROUGH, CENTRAL FIGURES IN INTERESTING EVENT

A very interesting event took place at 94 Lindsay avenue, Toronto, yesterday, when Mr. and Mrs. T. Smart, formerly of this city, celebrated their golden wedding. They were married on September 8th, 1869, at Bristol, England by the Rev. E. G. George. They have lived for the past 34 years in Toronto.

After a very sumptuous supper had been served, a short address was read by their eldest son, Mr. T. J. Smart, and at the proper moment Master Leonard Smart, grandson, presented them with a purse of gold.

All the guests were then taken for a motor trip around the city. Their five children, Mr. T. J. Smart, Mr. W. R. Smart, Mrs. T. J. Downing of Toronto, Mrs. G. A. Goheen and Mrs. O. S. Matchett of this city, together with their wives and husbands and children were present.

It is also interesting to know that it was the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Matchett.

The many friends will join in wishing them many more years of happiness.

ANTICIPATE A COAL SHORTAGE

QUICK HANDLING OF CARS WILL HELP MATTERS

Anticipating a further shortage in car supply for coal shipments the Canadian Railway Board has issued a circular to the Railways operating in Canada warning them that the shipment of coal from the United States is being reduced as a result of car shortage. Any serious shortage of the output of coal will mean a corresponding reduction in the amount of fuel shipped into Canada. Canadian consumers are advised by the Board that they may materially aid in the anticipated coal shortage by eliminating all delay in handling the coal cars. Consignees in Peterboro are urged to observe the vital importance of unloading cars in the shortest possible space of time.

One of the finest houses in the city was recently sold to Mr. Chas. Ackerman. The property is situated at the corner of Hunter and Belmont avenue, and the former owner was the late W. H. Denham. The sale of this property was negotiated by H. J. McCannan, real estate agent, of No. 140 Simcoe street, and was one of the largest residence transfers made in the city for some time.

CHOLERA RAGING IN PETROGRAD

Stockholm, Sept. 9.—From two to three hundred persons are dying daily in Petrograd from cholera, according to advices from that city. Owing to the lack of medicines and food, many of the hospitals have been closed.

Sanitary conditions in Petrograd are hourly becoming more intolerable, the advices added. The Government has issued a decree ordering all hospitals managed by Sisters of Mercy to discontinue that work.

BELLEVILLE CHAMPIONS TO PLAY HERE SATURDAY

One of the last games of the season and one of the best as well will be the clash between the Belleville team. Central League champions and the Petes at Riverside Park on Saturday afternoon. Belleville will meet the winners of the Osler-Judean game which is to be played this Saturday. Next week is the O.B.A.A. semi-finals and the game with Peterboro was arranged to tune the Central League champions up for their battle with the Toronto city winners. Belleville will therefore be at full strength on Saturday and the game should be a fight all the way. The Petes have met the champs five times, this season and Belleville won four out of five beating the Petes there by 5 to 4 in extra innings game once by 6 to 3 and on the last occasion by 3 to 1. The Petes were victorious once beating Belleville here by 3 to 2 in the game that tied up the Central League race. Saturday's game was called for 3 o'clock sharp.

THE EVIDENCE OF CAPT. MACAULEY BEFORE COMMISSION

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, Sept. 10.— The Royal Commmission investigating the raid on the Novitiate at Guelph this morning found that the original letter of Capt. Burrows to Major Hirsch contained the word "raid" and the letters stated that steps should be taken to clean the place up was definitely sworn to by Captain A. C. Macauley at the resumed inquiry of the Royal Commission investigating the Guelph Novitiate charges here to-day. Capt. Macauley made the important admission that had the certificates signed by the Rector that the Novitiates were members of the Order been produced when the raid was made, he would have at once withdrawn. There were several little brushes between Council and at one stage the witness was asked to withdraw, while Mr. T. R. Ferguson endeavoured to make a point to protect him from the examination of Mr. E. L. Newcomb, but their Lordships both agreed that Capt. Macauley was being treated with the utmost fairness by cross-examining counsel.

WILL FIGHT TO A FINISH IN MONTREAL

Building Strikes Out on Strike for 8-Hour Day—Bricklayers, Painters and Plasterers Refuse to Join.

(Special to The Examiner.)

MONTREAL, Sept. 10.— The Unions of the Bricklayers, Painters and Plasterers have re-affirmed their decision not to join the strike of the building trades. Nine thousand men of the other crafts of the industry are now out and special efforts are being made by the strikers to line up all unorganized labour of industry to aid them in an effort to force a demand for an eight hour day with the same pay as for nine hours. The contractors are determined to fight to a finish and are employing all idle men they can get.

BARRAGE FOR THE GOVERNMENT

WAR VETERANS ARE MAKING A CANVAS OF THE MEMBERS

Special to the Examiner.

OTTAWA, September 10. — If Sir Robert Borden does not reverse his decision in the matter of granting a commision to enquire into the demands of the Great War Veterans for better terms, it will not be for lack of pressure. The representatives of the Veterans are hard at work and have already canvassed most of the members for a "Yes" or "No" answer as to whether in their opinion the appointment of a commission is justified.

They make it plain that their demands upon the premier is not for any fixed sum or amount or in fact for any amount at all, but for the appointment of an independent tribunal which shall deicde the whole matter of better terms. On the finding of that tribunal they agree to stand whether it be for or against.

Most of the members who have been seen so far, they declared, are favorable to the demand and we anticipate that by the time Sir Robert has recovered and is able to meet a deputation he will be impressed with the strength of our claim and the justice of it and will reverse his decision—otherwise we do not know what will happen.

The Ottawa Citizen this morning considers it a weakness on the part of the government and declares that Sir James Lougheed, the head of the department of Civil Re-establishment, 'does not seem to inspire the demobilized men as a whole or public opinion in the country with confidence in what is being done."

Voice Of The People

To The Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir:—A short time ago a number of boys were in the police court for stealing and robbing orchards and gardens. The punishment that they received was, no doubt, severe upon the parents, but it will bring good results in the future.

It was hoped at the time that this would be a warning and lesson to others. Now some citizens who have gardens and others who went to the expense of renting orchards and gardens, and have worked twelve hours a day all summer, find that a number of young men do not respect the law and are not ashamed of bringing disgrace upon their parents and the other members of their families.

If this cowardly, mean, sneaking and contemptible conduct after dark in the west end of the city, especially Sunday evenings, is done thoughtlessly, it may be well to let them know that the only reason why they were not in court as thieves is on account of a neighborly or fellow feeling for their parents and the other members of their families who are trying to be honorable.

We may all have to acknowledge that, when we were boys, we were at times unruly more or less, and committed many an act that we should not (and few of us could pose as angels to-day) but if boys were mischievous in our days they were not hoodlums and when caught in the wrong tried to act the gentleman. The rough element were in a class by themselves.

The press in the past has greatly assisted in keeping this evil within bounds for that reason and to protect my own interests I send you this communication. The police have done much more than their duty along this line.

If the innocent, in cases of this kind, have to suffer on account of the actions of a son or brother, they should not blame their neighbor, for in some cases, the limit has been reached.

Something must be done, for, believe me, the charitable spirit is about exhausted. Let the good boy in the bad gang take his chance get out while the going is good, for he must see that they are going too far.

To be done by the profiteer every day is hard, but when your neighbor's children start to do you at night, it is about time to call a halt.

Yours Truly.
ONE WHO HAS SUFFERED.

LIBERALS HELD CAUCUS TO-DAY

CONSIDERED THE PEACE TREATY AS PRESENTED TO THE HOUSE

(Special to The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, Sept. 10.— Liberals of both houses held caucuses this morning at eleven o'clock and "gave general consideration to the question before the House" namely, the approval of the peace treaty and its supplementary documents. The caucus was called primarily for the purpose of considering whether any amendment or reservation should be offered to the resolution.

At this time of writing it would appear quite probable that some reservation will be offered. Just what that reservation will be will not likely be announced until submitted in the House, but it will probably be in the form of an affirmation of the supremacy of Parliament. Some idea of its form may be gained from the remarks of Earnest Lapointe of Kamouraska, in the Commons yesterday.

While it is not in the power of the Canadian Parliament to dot an "I" or cross a "T" or make any change whatever in the terms of the treaty or covenant and while its only power is to approve or disapprove in whole, but not in part, such an affirmation as above hinted it would, it is believed, be in order.

WHY DO SOME WIVES LEAVE HOME?

NOVEL THEORY ADVANCED IN "DON'T CHANGE YOUR HUSBAND" NOW SHOWING AT THE ALLEN THEATRE

the second spouse proves selfish, is inclined to stray—while, meantime, the first husband reforms, becomes as neat as a pin and saves her from a disgraceful situation as the result of another woman's entrance into No. 2's affections.

What would the wife do? Go back to No. 1? To find the answer to this question the public is referred to Cecil B. De Mille's newest special Artcraft picture "Don't Change Your Husband," by Jeanie Macpherson, which will be shown at the Allen Theatre on Wednesday and Thursday.

This is one of the best psychological photoplays which De Mille ever has produced. Although it is in no sense a sequal to Mr. De Mille's "Old Wives For New," the two may be regarded as companion pictures, and "Don't Change Your Husband" forms a sort of answer from the woman's point of view to the problem contained in "Old Wives For New." Gloria Swanson, Elliott Dexter Lewis J. Cody Theodore Roberts, James Neill, Sylvia Ashton and others comprise the cast.

In addition the second episode of the thrilling serial "The Great Gamble" will be shown.

Suppose a beautiful and refined woman, with romance as one of the compelling motives of her life, a husband who is immersed in business, unintentionally neglectful and inclined to carelessness.

Then imagine a handsome, debonaire, romantic and convincing young man who appreciates the situation and is overwhelmed by his admiration for the wife.

Suppose the wife, swayed by the fine speeches and the result of odious comparisons, leaving her husband, and marrying the interloper, who is at best a trifler.

Then consider her position when

HAMILTON IN "FULL OF PEP"

POPULAR STAR HAS SPLENDID VEHICLE IN NEW PLAY SHOWN AT GRAND THEATRE FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

"Full of Pep," new Metro production, will open at the Grand Theatre Friday and Saturday, with the increasingly popular Hale Hamilton in the stellar role, furnished by a delightfully new and diverting entertainment in the pictorial drama.

There is not a dull moment in his comedy-drama. And comedy-drama it was, of a human kind which found a genuine appeal from the youngest in the audience to the oldest. The authors of the story, Hoda Forrester and Mann Page have conceived an idea which should meet with universal approval.

Mr. Hamilton, playing the role of Lon Withers, a young New York clerk, who picks up a live tip from a friend and makes a fortune out of it by putting on "a big front," is an enjoyable character, pictured true to life to the last detail; and is reminiscent of this same star's sensational stage success "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford" in which he portrayed a financial genius.

Picturesque and beautiful are the stage settings and exteriors of "The Four Flusher," which was directed by Harry L. Franklin and personally supervised by Maxwell Karger, Director-General of Metro. The cast also was excellent and gave capable support to the star. It included Ruth Stonehouse, Harry Holden, Ralph Bell, Robert Badger, Louis Fitzroy, Frederic Malatesta and Effiee Conley.

FIGHT SCENE IS BIG THRILL

IS FEATURE OF "THE GREAT GAMBLE" SHOWING AT THE ALLEN

He was a huge thick-chested young man with an under-shot jaw and hands like suit cases and had been sent by a theatrical agency at the request of Director Jos. A. Golden, to take part in a bar-room fight scene in the new Pathe serial "The Great Gamble," co-starring Anne Luther and Charles Hutchison.

"Now boys," said Director Golden, addressing the group of huskies, including the thick-chested one, "you've all got to pitch on Mr. Hutchison and try to beat him up. It's got to be a real fight. Sail right into him and try to lick him, but don't get hurt."

"Whaddya mean, don't get hurt?" inquired the man with the suitcase hands, surveying the quiet and peaceful Hutchison with an air of contempt. "Who's gonna hurt me, I ask you? If I open up once you're a gonna be short one star till he gets outta the hospital.

"All right, son," smiled Director Golden. "You just open up."

The scene was called and the fight started. Three minutes later "Suit Case" looked up groggily from the floor. See this fight at the Allen in the "Great Gamble."

"MY SOLDIER GIRL" AT GRAND THEATRE

It must be gratifying to the authors of a new play to see the word "success" stamped on their book, lyrics and music as was the case with "My Soldier Girl," upon its first presentation. This delightful musical play will, no doubt, create as much interest as any of its predecessors, proving equally as big a drawing attraction as "High Jinks," when that delightful comedy was offered the public for their approval. Every producer has one or more successes during his career that brings a small fortune, for the producing business is not unlike the mining business — more money is usually invested than is ever realized, for it requires much capital to produce a big musical production.

When "My Soldier Girl" was suggested to Le Comte and Fletcher, they requested the authors to produce the manuscript and score—and immediately upon hearing the music accepted the play. Money was no object in building this big spectacle for this firm realized as soon as they heard the score and read the book that it was another success equal to the well-known "Chocolate Soldier." The success of the play is well known now and theatre-goers who desire to see it when it comes to the Grand on Saturday matinee and evening should make their reservation early, for capacity business prevails everywhere and should prove the same big drawing vehicle here. The original cast and bewitching chorus together with the three gorgeous stage settings and beautiful costumes will prove a new and novel entertainment for those who are fortunate enough to secure seats for the one performance offered in this city. There are some twenty musical numbers of which the title song, "My Soldier Girl," is the favorite, "Jasper's Ragtime Band," "That Dixie Wedding Tune," "Wrap Me Up in a Bundle of Love," "Won't You be My Beau?" "You're My Loving Sugar Baby," are some of the read hits.

The oftener a man is sold the cheaper he feels.

A REPLY TO MR. J. H. BURNHAM

To The Editor Of The Examiner,

Dear Sir:—In reply to Mr. Burnham's letter in your issue of September the 8th, I wish to say that although I had determined not to discuss the matter of Prohibition in your columns further for the reason that prohibition is not an issue before the public at present I feel that courtesy demands of me a reply.

As briefly as possible I claim that God phohibits and refer Mr. Burnham and others interested to my sermon recently published, for instance. The fact that there is a dearth of candidates for the ministry all over the world at present I regret, but it is due to a lack of recruits not to ministers foresaking the ministry for social reform work, but in any case, the matter has nothing to do with the Ontario Temperance Act.

In conclusion, if it could be maintained that God does not prohibit alcoholic drinks, it would not follow that we should not. I will put reason that we should not. I will put my reasoning on this point into syllogism form, which will enable Mr. Burnham with his legal training to appreciate the position at a glance, taking Mr. Burnham's premise as the major:

It is wrong to prohibit what God does not prohibit.

God does not prohibit slavery, therefore it is wrong to prohibit slavery.

I am a prohibitionist and would take great pleasure in discussing the topic were it not that another is already before the people. The Ontario Temperance Act, which as I have already stated is not a prohibition Act, but rather a piece of sane legislation acceptable to moderate people of all sorts, but not acceptable to extremists on either side.

JOHN GALT.

PATIENT EXTRACTED MONEY, DENTIST PULLED TOOTH

YOUNG NEW YORK MAN PICKS POCKET OF DENTIST WHILE GETTING HIS TOOTH OUT

William Miller, twenty-four years old, of No. 312 East Fifty-third street, New York, wasn't the only one who had an extraction when he walked into the dental rooms of Dr. Abraham Wolfson, No. 400 West Fifty-ninth street, New York, on the afternoon of September 1. It all came out in Yorkville court yesterday when Magistrate Frothingham held Miller in $10,000 bail on a charge of burglary in connection with the theft of clothing. Entirely apart from the burglary charge was a complaint by Dr. Wolfson. He said he recognized Miller as the young man who appeared at his office to have a tooth pulled and while he was extracting the tooth the youth extracted quite a sum of money from his pockets.

Editor of The Examiner:

Sir,—In reply to Mr. R. N. Scott's letter which appeared in your issue of the 9th inst., I must say the working man should take it with a pinch of salt. Also, I wish to remind Mr. Scott that the working man has not forgotten his previous letters in the press, how he would help the working man with daylight saving and several other epistles that appeared in the press over Mr. R. N. Scott's name. No, working man; there is a rumour of an election coming off soon. See what Mr. Scott is fishing for! Oh how nice, brother workingman, eh!

Yours,
Workingman.

CARDINAL MERCIER REACHES NEW YORK TO-DAY

BELGIAN PRELATE IS WELCOMED BY COMMITTEE OF CHURCH AND GOVERNMENT OFFICIALS

Cardinal Mercier, coming to thank Americans for their aid of Belgium, will arrive the first part of next week on board the Northern Pacific. The duration of his visit to America has not been determined, but it will include a tour of the Middle West.

A committee representing the church and the national, State and city governments will meet the eminent Belgian churchman when the transport reaches the Narrows. The official welcome will be held September 17 at the City Hall under auspices of the Mayor's Committee to Receive Distinguished Guests. The Cardinal will spend the night as the guest of Archbishop Hayes at his residence here.

On Thursday Cardinal Mercier will go to Baltimore to visit Cardinal Gibbons. He will return to New York September 17, for the official reception here, and on the next day will go to Albany, where he will be received by the Governor.

Next he will attend the national meeting of Catholic bishops, to be held September 24, at Washington. He will address the meeting. His tour of the West, as far as St. Louis will follow.

ARMY CAPTAIN THREATENS WILSON

BAIL BOND FIXED AT $2,500—HE DENIES THE CHARGE

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 9.—Rozier Wickard, of No. 5,777 Westminster Place, recently discharged as a captain in the army air service and now employed as an automobile salesman, was arrested to-day on a warrant, charging him with threatening the life of President Wilson.

Information on which the charge was based was given to District Attorney Hensley by Samuel B. Ward, of No. 4,200 Athlone avenue an automobile salesman for the same company, and William H. Norwine, of Webster Groves, who reported that when they were discussing the President's visit this morning in the salesrooms of an automobile concern, Wickard said:—

"To-day some man could go down in history if he would kill that—I wish I could have the opportunity myself."

Ward and Norwine reported the alleged remarks and Deputy Marshall Clooney went to the salesroom and arrested Wickard.

When taken to the Federal Building, Wickard said the charges had no foundation whatever and that he did not make the statements attributed or anything like them.

WESTERN VETERANS

TELEGRAM SENT DIRECT TO PREMIER BORDEN AND MANITOBA MEMBERS

HAD WAR LASTED

(Special to Examiner.)

Winnipeg, September 11. — The refusal of the Canadian government to grant even a $2000 gratuity, was condemned by Fred Law, the organizing secretary of the Great War Veterans, yesterday.

Canada could have carried on another year of war without being bankrupted, he continued, and yet she could not pay $800,000,000 to her soldiers.

"Supposing the war had lasted another week," he said, "it would have cost Canada up in the millions. She has to thank her soldiers that it ended when it did."

The Great War Veterans telegraphed Sir Robert Borden, the Cabinet, and the Manitoba members of Parliament to-night, urging the appointment of a commission to investigate means for furnishing money for the re-establishment of war veterans in civil life.

TO BE EXAMINED BY JAIL DOCTOR

Charles Spencely Pleads Guilty to the Theft of a Horse and Buggy—Remanded For a Week.

Charles Edward Spencely of Lindsay, is alleged to be mentally deficient because one of the policemen made a rotary motion indicative that the prisoner had wheels in his head, and Mr. J. O'Brien, who defended the prisoner, took up the queue, as the evidence was conclusive against the prisoner, and asked that Spencely be examined. Spencely, who has a brilliant red top, is only a boy of nineteen years and told a very sad story of how his father was a permanent invalid and his mother was not able to work and that between he and his brother, who is a returned soldier, they kept the whole family, which included a ten-year old brother and two young sisters. He pleaded not guilty; but his counsel advised him to change it to one of guilty and throw himself on the leniency of the court, after Mr. O'Brien had failed to extract from one witness the statement that the prisoner intended to return home with the horse and outfit. But the witness didn't hear the prisoner say that when he drove up to his barns in the city on the third of September he attempted to sell the whole outfit for $100, and so Spencely was consigned to jail for another week until the jail physicians can examine him for weak mindedness. Spencely hired the horse and buggy from George Dennis, a liveryman of Lindsay, saying that he was working for a farmer near Lindsay, and that when he returned in the evening he would settle for the hire. He came to Peterborough. He attempted to sell the horse to a local horse dealer, who asked him where he came from, as he thought that $100, which was asked for the outfit, was too cheap, as the buggy itself was worth at least $75. On learning that he lived in Lindsay he 'phoned to that estimable town on the Scugog and soon learned that the outfit belonged to the Dennis livery. After buying Spencely's meal, as the prisoner said he had no money, he conveyed the outfit to his own stable, and Mr. Dennis came on the following day and took his horse back to Lindsay. Spencely was arrested the same evening at nine o'clock by the police and was remanded until to-day.

New York Physicians May Stage A Strike For Their Own Benefit

TWO HUNDRED AND FIFTY DOCTORS HOLD A MEETING AND DECIDE TO SEEK AFFILIATION WITH THE AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOUR—DISPENSARIES HANDLE TOO MANY FREE PATIENTS

(United Press.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—A strike of New York physicians may be the newest labor wrinkle. It was indicated here to-day, following organization in the Bronx of 250 doctors. The new body will seek affiliation with the American Federation of Labor, it was said.

"Physicians are not getting enough money to live on," said Dr. Gertrude Greenstein, explaining the reason for the union movement. She said too many patients are taken in by dispensaries as charities, when in reality they are able to pay for medical attention.

WHOLE STREETS HAVE BEEN LEFT OFF VOTER'S LISTS

REFERENDUM COMMITTEE HAS ADDED FIVE HUNDRED NAMES TO THE LISTS—WELL ORGANIZED.

THE ENUMERATION

Since the Referendum Committee has looked into the enumerators lists it has been found that not only have several hundred persons been left off the list but whole streets. Already the Committee has accounted for five hundred persons names who would otherwise have lost their votes.

The centre wards have been covered fairly intelligently with the exception of the apartment houses which in many cases were overlooked, an inexcusable error it is stated due to the fact that by the help of the directory which was at every enumerators disposal the addresses of the residents of apartments could have been easily found. Another exception to the centre ward lay in the Y.M.C.A. where the enumerators called in the morning to get in touch with the boarders but on finding evening was the proper time to find them failed to return for the names.

Streets Left Off

In the South end of the city the lists are in a hopeless muddle. Crescent street was missed, part of Lansdowne street was overlooked, Prince street shared the same fate, and most of Gladstone avenue between Wescott and Lake street. In wards 3 and 4 the enumerators crossed sections and overlapped the lists several residents on each appearing on both lists. In all the West and South wards were very loosely done.

Names Unrecognizable

The spelling of the names in a great many cases is atrocious, some of the names being absolutely unrecognizable. In one case the enumerator found it necessary to go over a section as he had obtained the initials of the residents but omitted the surnames.

No Excuse

There is not the slightest excuse for the bungling, Mr. A. B. Cunningham, chairman of the Referedum Committee, said. "All received the same directions which were perfectly intelligible and proven so in the fact that in some of the districts not a single omission occurred. The blame probably attaches to the indiscreet choice of enumerators, some of whom proved themselves to be entirely untrustworthy. But I would like to add," Mr. Cunningham said, "that there is absolutely no indication of any political interference in the part of either political party. It all lies with the incompetent appointments."

Women on the Job.

Mr. Cunningham said, that he would have liked to have seen women on the job of enumerating as he felt sure they would have done the work more conscientiously. He would also like to see qualified women appointed to the positions of poll clerks. As it is the Referendum Committee proposes to place one woman and one man at each polling division so any woman may feel perfectly at ease in coming out to vote.

Same Relation

The Government recently ruled that the Referendum Committee stands in the same relation as candidates for Parliament; they are entitled to two inside scrutineers. Mr. Cunningham said that never before in any election had a campaign been so effectively organized. The Conservative and Liberal Association are co-operating in every way with the Referendum committee. As a member of the Provincial Referendum Committee ex-officio, Mr. Cunningham attended the meeting in Toronto recently and learned that from every outlying district the same word comes that everything is splendidly organized and that in the country the vote will be absolutely in favor of prohibition and in the cities things look very promising.

Local Committee

The local Referendum Committee is composed of two sections, the mens and womens and sends out organizers into every section of the city to organize each section. The first organization meeting will be held this evening in Knox Church for the south ward and for the west ward on Friday in Charlotte street Sunday School. Mrs. Kendry will preside.

SENATORS ARE GAINING COURAGE

THEY REFER TO WILSON'S FAILURE TO START A BACKFIRE

By L. C. Martin.

(United Press.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—Gaining courage from what they term the failure of President Wilson to start a backfire against them in the west, the Senators opposing the Peace Treaty in its present form are assuming a more belligerent attitude.

Senator Kenyon's speech yesterday was pointed to as a sample of the "rough manner" in which the opposition intends to go after the President from this time on.

Senator Hitchcock and other treaty supporters, however, profess neither surprise nor disappointment over the visible results of the President's trip nor are they concerned, they said to-day, over the situation in the Senate.

"When the fire is over," said Senator Hitchcock, "it will not be President Wilson who is hunting cover." Hitchcock to-day will present to the Senate the views of six Democratic members of the Foreign Relations committee, who will urge that the treaty be accepted immediately without amendment of reservation.

The debate will continue for the remainder of this week along the lines it has followed for months.

Next Monday, however, the real work begins, when the Senate will take up the pact, article by article.

The first clash is expected when page 19 is reached. On that page, at the end of article three of the league covenant, occurs the Johnson amendment to equalize the votes of the United States with those of Great Britain in the League Assembly.

This is the strongest amendment proposed by those who favour textial changes, and is therefore regarded as a certain test of amendments, of which the committee has proposed 45. A majority of the Senate is enough to amend the treaty, though two-thirds is required for final ratification.

SAFETY ZONES ON THE STREETS NOW

White Lines Mark Where Motorists Must Stop When Street Cars Are at a Standstill.

Safety zone lines are being placed on the streets to-day by the city in the form of white painted strips which reach from one curb to the other. They are placed there for the safety of passengers getting on and off street cars and when a street car stops at the corner the lines are so placed that they are six feet behind the end of the car. Any motor car passing on the right hand side of a standing street car must stop at this white line which thus gives passengers ample room to get on or off. Any infraction of this rule will result in police court action. The lines are being placed on both sides of the corners except at the corner of Charlotte and George streets where two cars usually stand together. On the north side of Charlotte street next to the George corner no line will be placed because the line on George street somewhere in front of E. V. Warne's jewelry store will prevent any automobiles turning the corner onto Charlotte street and endangering the safety of passengers while the street cars are standing there. The police are also on the look out for any motorists who cut the street corners besides those who pass the safey zone. Motorists may safely pass on the "blind" side of a standing street car, that is the side on which no passengers are descending or entering. On this side no attention need be paid to the safety zone marks.

BLAMES THE GOVERNMENT

EVIDENCE CONCERNING WINNIPEG STRIKE SUBMITTED TO THE ROBSON COMMISSION

HIGH COST LIVING

(Special to the Examiner.)

WINNIPEG, Man., September 11. —The inaction of the Federal government in dealing with the high cost of living and profiteering in Canada, was an indirect result of the general strike in Western Canada last spring, L. Lydiard, general chairman of the Canadian brotherhood of Dining Car Employees of the C.N.O. told the Robson Commission. In a statement filed by Lydiard he declared that in spite of increased wages paid throughout the Dominion, they were insufficient to meet the increased cost of the necessities of life, for which we are charged exorbitant sums by profiteers. He stated that conditions for the working classes are far worse than in 1914.

R. C. McCutcheon, a member of the Metal Trades Council, declared that the metal trades workers were discriminated against. He stated the general strike was not the result of the leaders' agitation, but by the men themselves.

Under cross-examination by C. P. Wilson, as to the likelihood of a general strike in Winnipeg in the near future, McCutcheon declared that under present conditions there was none. They have found that a general strike is not practicable, but they may try something more drastic. There is a bitter and resentful feeling in the minds of the workers owing to manner in which they were treated in the recent general strike.

SEEK ENFORCEMENT OF PROHIBITION

Attitude of the Anglican Church Toward Liquor Question.

The report of the executive committee, as adopted by the Council for Social Service of the Church of England included the following reference to the prohibition of the liquor traffic.

The question of prohibition of the liquor traffic is still with us, and more in evidence than ever before, and one must be thankful that as time passes is growing less and less a political issue, and more and more one that is moral, social and economic in the community life.

The action taken by the church synods, conventions and social service councils, Dominion, Provincial and denominational, has had the results of educating and moulding public opinion in the direction as to what prohibition really implies, viz:—

1. The lessening of opportunities for temptation to indulge in strong drink, where the general community is concerned.

2. The strengthening of habits of self-restraint and thrift as a consequence of the first.

3. The limitation of personal liberty in the interests of those whose moral strength is insufficient to resist temptation.

With whatever views the members of the church enter upon this present campaign, it is well for them to remember the action taken by the general synod and this council for social service, as expressed in the last sexagesima appeal, as follows:—

(a) The General Synod heartily endorses the action of the Government in seeking to restrict and eventually to abolish the liquor traffic, and calls upon all patriotic citizens to uphold its hands in this matter.

(b) The General Synod strongly urges that, wherever necessary and practicable, there be established some substitute for the saloon, to meet the social needs of the men in the community.

At the same meeting in view of reports having been made to the council concerning evils arising from defective enforcement of the various prohibition laws at present operative in Canada, the incoming executive was instructed to investigate:

1. The extent to which the non-enforcement of prohibition prevails.

2. The evils arising from the use (a) of the products of illegal stills (b) of substitute for liquor.

3. Reported increase of the drug habit.

4. The working of the present laws regarding the system of selling on doctors' prescriptions.

FIRE DEPARTMENT PUT ON SMOKE DEMONSTRATION YESTERDAY AFTERNOON

SMOKE HELMETS WERE TRIED OUT AT THE J. J. TURNER FACTORY —ALL FIREMEN PRESENT.

THE METHOD USED

—The fire department will be equipped with a number of smoke helmets, the utility of which were demonstrated at the factory of J. J. Turner and Sons yesterday afternoon, if the Fire, Water and Light committee decide to purchase them, as they likely will do. Mayor Duncan and Ald. R. Morrison, chairman of the Fire, Water and Light committee were present at the demonstration and were favourably impressed with their usefulness in enabling the firemen to get at the source of the fire before it has gained too great a headway. The oxygen cyclinder which is a part of the helmet holds enough of the ozone to last a fireman from 30 to 55 minutes, after which the cylinders must be changed.

The demonstration was carried out in a small room in the garage at the J. J. Turner factory. The whole fire brigade was present, the day platoon bringing the fire apparatus in case an alarm was sent in. In a galvanized pail was placed oil, sulphur, tar, molasses, ammonia, cotton waste and brimstone, which when set afire gave off a dense black smoke which made the eyes water and produced a choking sensation in the throat. Lieut. James Ward of the Fire Department, was the first man to make the venture inside the room with the smoke helmet on. Mr. B. Morden, who demonstrated the smoke helmet, or Dracger breathing apparatus, as it is commercially called, explained the different parts of the helmet. It is very simple, consisting only of a black cylindrical tube holding oxygen, a small pipe which carries the oxygen to the mouth, the mouth piece which fits inside the mouth, a lamping pin which fits like a pair of pincers on the nose and is used to prevent the smoke from entering nose, a tin of chemicals through which the oxygen goes before it reaches the mouth and which acts as an air purifier, a large rubber bag which holds the exhaled air and is fitted with a valve which allows the air to go out when turned on but allows no smoke or outside substance to enter, a pair of straps which holds the apparatus on the body, and a pair of glass goggles heavily rimmed with rubber. The whole helmet would not weigh over two pounds and it is easily and quickly adjusted. Lieut. Ward remained in the smoke for a period of ten minutes before he was called out, as the demonstrator wished to have a number of firemen wear it. Lieut. Ward reported that he had no difficulty whatever in breathing and that he not so much as smelled the dense, strangling smoke which wreathed and curled around him. Firemen Tom Hatley and Lieut. F. Degan also tried out the helmet and reported in substance the same as Lieut. Ward.

Same as Pulmotor.

The helmet acts on the same principle as the pulmotor, and is made by the same company. The oxygen is inhaled from the oxygen cylinder and in passing to the mouth passes through chemicals, which purify it. When the air is exhaled it passes down through the mouthpiece through the chemical tin, but through the pressure of the oxygen in the cylinder does not enter there, but passes through into the rubber bag, which can be emptied as already described. The wearer is warned of the exhaustiton of the oxygen cylinder by a hissing sound made when the last of the oxygen leaves the cylinder.

The price of the helmet is $115 and one fireman remarked that a carload of them would be acceptable.

WILL PRESENT MEDALS ON TUESDAY NEXT

LIFE-SAVING EXPLOIT RECOGNIZED BY HUMANE SOCIETY

On Tuesday afternoon next at the Exhibition grounds in front of the grand stand, two bronze medals, awarded by the Royal Canadian Humane Society for life saving, will be presented to Mr. Donald Fitzgerald and Mr. Charles J. Begley. The presentation will take place at two-thirty o'clock, and no doubt the many friends and relatives of the recipients will be present on that occasion. His Honour Judge Huycke will make the presentation to each of the boys who in June last at Inverlea Park successfully rescued from drowning Miss Evelyn Roberts, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Roberts, 3 Dennistoun avenue.

Mr. Fitzgerald was a student at the Peterborough Collegiate Institute at the time and his home is in Lakefield. Mr. Begley resides in this city.

The medals are suitably engraved and bear the caption "For Bravery."

PARDEE WITH THE OPPOSITION

(Specia lto The Examiner.)

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 11.— F. F. Pardee, M.PP. for East Lambton, and formerly Union Liberal, has moved his office effects down from the government's room to a big room at the end of the Opposition corridor. His new company will comprise Messrs. Jacobs, Power, Trahan, Ross, McMaster and others. Mr. Pardee has been accorded a seat on the front benches of the Opposition. He will occupy the desk of Hon. Jacques Bureau to the left of Hon. Dr. Beland. Mr. Bureau has generously consented to move back.

NOVITIATE ENQUIRY RE-OPENS AT THE CAPITAL TO-DAY

Provost Marshal on the Stand—Reason Why Macauley Was Moved to Winnipeg.

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, Sept. 11.— During the cross-examination of Col. Godson-Godson, Provost Marshal, which was continued when the Novitiate Inquiry Commission resumed its sitting this morning, the witness told Mr. Ferguson that he had been instructed by Adjutant General Ashton to get the papers from Major Hirsch's file. It had never occurred to him that Hirsch would be perturbed when he missed them, and it didn't strike him to leave a memo in the files of papers removed, although he agreed that these papers were Hirsch's justification for the action at Guelph. He told Sir Sam Hughes that in his own files he had the "S. C. M." memo and a copy of a letter written by Capt. Burroughs, but he went to London to get the letter actually as Major Hirsch had them. This was his practice in all investigations.

"You had no respect for the honour of Major Hirsch or Capt. Macaulay," questioned Sir Sam.

"I considered Major Hirsch's honor was quite safe in my hands," answered witness.

Earlier in the examination the witness stated that he considered Captain Macaulay's report as to the admission of young men to the Novitiate and the conditions attached to their stay there was substantially correct. Witness told Sir Sam that Macaulay was removed to Winnipeg because "I did not consider he was the right man in London." The witness had been sent to Guelph to investigate an officer's conduct not any legal question, therefore he did not attach much importance to the points in Macaulay's report.

When he said Macaulay's report was substantially correct he did not mean that he approved of his refusal to produce his authority.

Col. Godson-Godson's stenographer read to the Commission her notes of a letter from Burroughs to Hirsch containing a copy of a memorandum from the Minister of Militia. The notes showed the memorandum suggested that the officer to whom it was addressed should clean up the situation at the Novitiate. The word "raid" was not used.

TWO LOOTERS WERE SHOT

SECOND DAY OF POLICE STRIKE IN BOSTON—TROOPS HAD A BUSY NIGHT

CLUBS USED

(United Press.)

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 11.— With more than 6,700 troops of the State Guard patrolling the principal streets to-day, Boston was virtually an armed camp on the second day of the police strike.

The city was quiet early this morning following a night in which two looters were shot to death by the guardsmen and more than a score, including four girls, were wounded.

Rain, which fell intermittently throughout the night, failed to keep the crowds indoors, and riots in which thousands of men and boys clashed with the military, hurling stones and using clubs, were frequent. There were no indications of an early settlement of the strike to-day.

(Canadian Press.)

BOSTON, Sept. 11. — The third day of the police strike opened with a casualty list of three persons killed, and nearly a score, including four women, injured, as a result of the activities of the state troops in policing the city last night.

The military forces, some 5,000 in number, were under orders to restore lawful conditions to the point of using ball ammunition with which they were provided, if necessary.

In some sections the mobs were uncontrolled and there were several serious riots. It was in these that most of the casualties occurred.

Show windows were broken in many places, but in only a few was there any looting, the troops and the skeleton police force of regulars and volunteers being quick to reach the seat of the disturbance.

The sight of well armed soldiers and cavalry men on the streets, gave a sense of security to-day.

THE TRUTH ABOUT FLORIDA A recent issue of Saturday Night, Toronto, answering a correspondent who had inquired about a certain section of Florida, made statements which can be easily proved untrue. The Florida Grower, leading agricultural journal of the state has undertaken to show the falsity of the allegations, by testimony of men, who know. The charges in the Saturday Night article will be refuted by publication in the Florida Grower during the next two or three months of experiences of prominent Florida men, each of whom came from a northern location. Children Cry for Fletcher's

CASTORIA

Fletcher's Castoria is strictly a remedy for Infants and Children. Foods are specially prepared for babies. A baby's medicine is even more essential for Baby. Remedies primarily prepared for grown-ups are not interchangeable. It was the need of a remedy for the common ailments of Infants and Children that brought Castoria before the public after years of research, and no claim has been made for it that its use for over 30 years has not proven.

What is CASTORIA?

Castoria is a harmless substitute for Castor Oil, Paregoric, Drops and Soothing Syrups. It is pleasant. It contains neither Opium, Morphine nor other narcotic substance. Its age is its guarantee. For more than thirty years it has been in constant use for the relief of Constipation, Flatulency, Wind Colic and Diarrhoea; allaying Feverishness arising therefrom, and by regulating the Stomach and Bowels, aids the assimilation of Food; giving healthy and natural sleep. The Children's Comfort—The Mother's Friend.

THIR OOSE RELIEF! FIFTH DOSE! DIARRHOEA STOPPED

Diarrhoea does not need to persist for any length of time until the whole system is weakened and debilitated. No other disease so quickly undermines the strength and brings about a condition of prostration and very often total collapse.

Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry is not only prompt and effectual in checking the diarrhoea, but at the same time acts as a stimulant, strengthening the heart and braces up the whole system, and one of its principal points is that it does not leave the bowels in a constipated condition.

Mr. W. H. Arnold, Fort Qu-Appelle, Sask., writes: "A few years ago while out threshing I had a severe attack of diarrhoea. Nothing I took seemed to do me any good. I was getting worse all the time. Hearing that Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry was good for diarrhoea I went into town and procured a bottle. After the third dose I felt relief and after I had taken the fifth dose the diarrhoea had stopped. I always keep it in the house and would not be without it."

See that you get the original "Dr. Fowler's." It has been on the market for the past 74 years. Substitutes may endanger your health. Price 35c. Put up only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

ADOPTED PLAN FOR SETTLEMENT

(Canadian Press.)

PARIS, September 11. — The plan for the settlement of the question of the Teschen mining district, in dispute between Poland and Czecho-Slovakia, was adopted by the Supreme Council at to-day's session.

It was agreed that a plebiscite be taken in the district, as jointly proposed by Polish and Czecho-Slovak delegates.

The Millinery Openings

The millinery openings to-day in the city stores proved more wonderful from a standpoint of variety of styles to choose from and brilliant effects in window dressing than any previous year or season. George street has taken on a most brilliant appearance as a result of the artistic endeavors of the talented window dressers, and is well worth taking a trip down town to see.

Each of the leading millinery houses are offering hats of the smartest shapes in originals mostly carried out in the darker shades of taupes, browns, elk and kangaroo for the small street hats and the larger or dress hats are carried out in light colors to a great extent, with ostrich trimmings. Wool, embroidery and ostrich mounts are used extensively in the hat trimmings and tams are much featured.

The Suits.

The suits with their strictly straight lines are charming to behold and are trimmed to a great extent with button and fur trimming. The skirts are shorter and wider and worn about 5 to 7 inches off the ground. Browns are featured extensively in the suits in the shades of pheasant, antelope, dark Cordovan and the wood shades. Reds, prunelles and purples are also amongst the favorites, while navy, the ever popular, is widely shown. The afternoon dresses are absolutely elaborate and minus a waist line and keep to the straight lines. Frills, pleating and drapes are featured and low necks are en vogue.

The evening dresses, which every store has made a specialty, anticing a gay winter in the city, are tempting in the utmost and feature silver and gold tissue as a foundation covered with glorious billows of tulle. Some in the rainbow shades are, to say the least, new and distinctive The trimmings are the last word in daintiness and consist mostly of silver and gold lace.

The coats, which in the cloths feature velour and silver, are carried out in the most charming and graceful lines, and are worn long. The fur and fur fabric coats, like the suit coats, 32 to 36, inches long.

Blacks Popular.

Black is undoubtedly a season's favorite for dressy occasions outside of evening wear, and is being shown for suits and afternoon costumes.

DIRECT ACTION MEETS DEFEAT

TRACES UNION CONGRESS VIRTUALLY TURNS IT DOWN BY SMALL MAJORITY

(Canadian Press.)

GLASGOW, Sept. 11.—Trades Union Congress to-day, after three hours debate on the subject of direct action by labour to enforce its political demands, chocked off further discussion of the subject by adopting the previous question by a small majority. This makes it impossible for the triple alliance of railwaymen, transport workers and miners to obtain the desired mandate from five and a quarter millions of British organized labour to precipitate a national railway and industrial paralysis if it were necessary to accomplish its political demands. These demands as originally made, were withdrawal from Russia, lift the blockade, abolish conscription, release conscientious objectors and do not use military in industrial disputes.

WAR EXPENDITURE IS STILL HEAVY

FOR AUGUST CANADA HAD TO PAY $14,087,000

(Canadian Press.)

OTTAWA, Sept. 11. — Canada's war expenditure exclusive of pensions still totals half a million per day. For the month of August it was $14,087,000, or four and a half million less than in August last year. For five months, since April first, the capital expenditure on war totalled $121,487,189, almost double as compared with the same period last year. This amount naturally includes payment for accounts of long standing. The current revenue for August increased over six million dollars, all of which increase and more, being contributed by income and business profits tax, which, with some small miscellaneous items, totalled last month $10,800,000.

MORE DEATHS IN BOSTON RIOTS

(Canadian Press.)

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 11.—Deaths from riots increased to five to-day, when Margaret Walsh, who was shot by the police firing into the crowd in South Boston last night, died in hospital, and Raymond Bayers, of Cambridge, was shot dead while attempting to escape from State Guards who had rounded up a crowd of 75 crap shooter on Boston Common.

W. F. O'CONNOR SAYS BOARD WILL TAKE ANY STEPS THAT ARE NECESSARY

(Special to the Examiner.)

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 11.—"You know our powers. We will take any steps that are necessary," said W. F. O'Connor, of the Board of Commeree, to the Examiner this afternon, when asked what steps would be taken against profiteering here.

"Will you seize food and make improvements?" asked the Examiner? "We will if it is necessary."

"What leads you to believe that there will be a break in price?"

"All the storehouses are bursting with goods," replied Mr. O'Connor, "that they are not going to be allowed to send away. What's the aiswer?"

Mr. O'Connor will see among others this afternoon, Attorney-General Lucas. He may also pay a visit to the pork packing industries, as he stated to-day that he intended going to look into the price of bacon.

RECEPTION AT KNOX CHURCH FOR REV. AND MRS. J. A. MACKENZIE

Held in Ladies' Parlor With a Large Number Present.

Last evening, Rev. J. A. and Mrs. MacKenzie were the guests at a reception given in their honor by the members of Knox Church. The affair, which proved a great success, was held in the Ladies' Parlor, which had been tastefully decorated for the occasion with countless autumn flowers and ferns. The church had seldom if ever, held a larger gathering than assembled to greet their pastor and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. MacKenzie assisted by Mr. J. F. Morrison and Mrs. MacPherson had a busy time welcomin gthe guests.

Addresses of Welcome.

After light refreshments served in the schoolroom, the audience gathered in the church when addresses of welcome were made by representatives of the different organizations to which the Rev. J. A. MacKenzie made a suitable reply. During the evening enjoyable musical numbers were rendered by Misses Buckham Penrose McLeish and Sneese, and by Alex Seager and Mr. F. E. Walden, the new choirmaster and organist of Knox.

Presentation to Mrs. MacKenzie.

Just before the close Mrs. MacKenzie was presented with a beautiful bouquet of American Beauty roses by Miss Margaret McCulloch on behalf of the Ladies' Aid.

LEMON JUICE TAKES OFF TAN

Girls! Make bleaching lotion if skin is sunburned, tanned or freckled

Squeeze the juice of two lemons into a bottle containing three ounces of Orchard White, shake well, and you have a quarter pint of the best freckle, sunburn and tan lotion, and complexion beautifier, at very small cost.

You grocer has the lemons and any drug store or toilet counter will supply three ounces of Orchard White for a few cents. Massage this sweetly fragrant lotion into the face, neck, arms and hands each day and see how freckles, sunburn, windburn and tan disappear and how clear, soft and white the skin becomes. Yes! It is harmless.

THE PREMIER'S MESSAGE.

The message sent by Sir William Hearst in regard to the 'Soldiers' representations for increased gratuities inlicates that the Premier is considerable of a politician. He has been very careful to avoid committing himself as to the merits of the Veterans' demand, while at the same time his message has been worded so as to convey the impression that he is endorsing the request. "Speaking for Ontario, the home of almost half of our army, and the Province from which the Dominion derives nearly half of the public revenue, I feel confident that our people are prepared to bear willingly thier share of any addition grant the circumstances may demand and the financial position of the country warrants," wires the canny Premier. He was perfectly safe in issuing this cautiously worded message, which does not in any way reveal his personal opinion of the matter. The Premier's telegram should and doubtless be read in the light of the approaching election.

ABOUT MATCHES

Matches are little things but the monthly report on fire losses in Ontario in the Public Service Bulletin, indicate that they are decidedly dangerous. The report for last may, the last month recorded, shows that in the thirty-one days of that month there were no fewer than 123 fires caused by matches—the largest number reported for a single month. "The question naturally arises," says the Bulletin, "are we becoming more careless in the handling of matches or is it, as we previously intimated, partly owing to the inferior quality of the matches now being placed on the market?" The average citizen will be inclined to agree with the Bulletin's second reason. A large number of the matches that are being offered the public are undoubtedly a menace to property. The heads fly off as the matches are struck, and the use of them anywhere where there is inflamable material is an invitation for the fire fiend to step in and do its deadly work. It is a remarkable thing that although the cost of lucifers has almost trebled since the beginning of the war, the quality has decreased as the price grew. The Board of Commerce might devote a little of its attention to the match question. It would be time well spent, if it would result in the producetion of better matches at a more reasonable cost.

THE FARMERS' VIEWS

There is little chance of the returned soldiers and the farmers uniting on a common platform, judging by the view taken by the Farmers' Sun, the official organ of the United Farmers of Ontario on the question of larger gratuities for ex-service men. The Sun is frankly and flatly against the demand of the soldiers and as it presumably speaks for the farmers organization, it does not require much calculation to estimate the affection that the returned men will have for the U. F. O. from now on.

Here is what the Sun says:

"The wild declamations of the Returned Soldiers' Gratuity Association in Toronto make, no doubt, good newspaper copy, but the newspapers ought to provide as an antidote a debate of the practicability and wisdom of the soldiers' proposals. A gratuity of $2,000 to each soldier and nurse would involve a debt increase in the neighborhood of $00 millions. If there were no question as to where the money was to come from, the enterprise ought not to be undertaken without the assurance which cannot be given that the money would, for the most part at least, be used in productive industry and not consumed in idleness. The returned soldiers would not generally derive enduring good fortune from a donation which impoverished their fellows and also impoverished industry. The returned soldier cannot escape the fortunes of his country and speaking generaly the best fortune that he can have is the work and wages of prosperous industry. Whatever he receives now in the way of gratuity, he must presently work with the rest to repay."

Habits are like porous plasters, easy to acquire and hard to get rid of.

THE GRATUITTY PROBLEM.

The Great War Veterans' Association has been successful in arranging a conference with Sir Robert Borden for Saturday when the problem of the civil re-establishment of Canada's soldiers will be discussed. The representatives of the Veterans hope to be able to impress upon the Premier the desirability of appointing a commission to go into the whole question and if their mission is successful the present agitation will in a large measure subside. The vast majority of the returned men are sane, reasonable men who have no desire to attempt to stampede the government into a hasty and careless settlement of this all important problem. They will be satisfied to know that they will be given an opportunity to state their case in full and that they can expect that fair consideration will be given to their request. The Premier precipitated this present trouble by his unnecessarily curt and blunt refusal of the Veterans' request for a commission. His letter was a slap in the face to the moderate leaders of the G.W.V.A., who for months have endeavoured to restrain the more impetuous members of the Association, and who have wisely counselled the returned men to be reasonable and fair in their demands. It was the moderates who at the Dominion convention succeeded in securing a compromise to the famous Calgary resolution which called for $2,000 for every soldier who fought in France, $1,000 for every man who served in England, and $1,000 for ex-members of the C.E.F. whose service had been confined to Canada. In place of this drastic demand a resolution was passed asking the government to appoint a commitee to meet with representatives of the G.W.V.A. and investigate the whole question of the repatriation of the soldiers. Having played the game to this extent, the Association naturally felt that it was shabby treatment on the part of the government to refuse to appoint the commission asked for.

The result of Saturday's conference will be anxiously awaited, not only by the returned men themselves, but by their fellow citizens.

THE REFERENDUM

It has been decided ,and will duly be proclaimed, that the poll of the people on the Ontario Temperance Act will be taken on the 20th of October. On that day every person qualified to vote at the election of a member to serve in the Assembly will have an opportunity to take part in enacting a measure of direct legislation for the settlement of the liquor traffic. Is it the will of the majority that the Ontario Temperance Act shall be repealed? If not, then the Province's answer to the first question on the referendum ballot paper will be No. The idea of repeal having been thus disposed of, the next point of importance is the of the voters on the questions o amendment. There are three of these, any one of which, or all of which or none of which, may be approved. There may be an overwhelming majority against the repeal of the Act, and there may be majorities against every one of the three proposed amendments of the Act. That is to say, the Ontario Temperance Act may be continued in its present form, and the sale of light beer in Government agencies, hotels under local option, and the sale of spirituous and malt liquors through Government agencies may be negativated. But no matter what majorities there might be for this or that or all the specified amendments, these would count for nothing if the answer to question 1 should be in the affirmative. There can be no amendment of a repealed Act. If the majority call for the removal of the O. T. A. from the statute book the License Law will automatically come into operation again.

The Ontario Temperance Act will have the support of the thoroughgoing prohibitionists, and will have the support of those, who, strongly opposed to the return of the bar, are in favr of having the Act amended so as to permit of the sale of light beer or the Government sale of al kinds of acoholic liquor. Very possibly the uncompromising opponents of liquor traffic under conditions are strong enough of themselves to keep the Act in force. If they are, they can prevent any amendment of the Act, for the total vote polled on each of the four questions will be the same for on each the voter must mark his ballot under Yes or No. The citizen who makes his choice as to Question 1 does not thereby deprive himself of voting power as to the other questions, but must vote on all of them. In framing the referendum questions it has been the study of the oGvernment t oopen all the channels so as to give free vent to the movement of public opinion on the question. The Government felt that something better was expected of it than merely to give the people the option of clinging to prohibition or going back to the licensed bar. It recognized that there were many citizens to whom neither alternative was acceptable, and it provided for the fair weighing of their opinion in the scales of the referendum.

The three years of its operation will count in favor of the O. T. A. as a permanent measure. That experience of the Act has been educative in favor of temperance. Many who would not have voted for such legislation without previous trial of it will vote for it to express their appreciation of the good it has done. Whatever the outcome of the voting, it will be the deliberate preference of the majority and the law as it is to be after October 20 will be based on an unquestionable foundation of public opinion. That is peculiarly necessary for the enforcement of legislation to restrict the liquor traffic. It can be taken for granted that, whatever the orders of the people are on October 20, they will be strictly carried out by the Hearst Government and will be the more easily carried out because it is of the people's own doing. If prohibition is continued as it is, those now opposed to it will be more reconciled to it because it is the fiat of the majority.—Toronto Mail and Empire.

Making a purely vegetable Medicine
1875—1919
In 1875, Lydia E. Pinkham of Lynn, Mass., gathered and dried the roots and herbs which she used in the now famous Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, from the fields and forests,—then steeped them on her kitchen stove and filled a few bottles at a time, to alleviate the suffering of her women friends, neighbors and acquaintances, and the success of this medicine was unparalleled.
After 44 Years
These illustrations show the present method by which vast quantities of this well-known remedy are produced and from exactly the same kind of roots and herbs used by Mrs. Pinkham in the beginning.
First—The various herbs used are of the finest quality, and gathered at the time their medicinal strength is the highest.
Second—After the herbs are properly ground and mixed, the medicinal properties are extracted by soaking in large stone jars, covered.
Third—Then the extract is drained through percolators, acting somewhat like a coffee percolator.
Fourth—To insure a thoroughly pure medicine, it is carefully pasteurized by heat in special apparatus, and bottled hot.
Throughout the entire process, from the crude herb to the finished medicine in bottle, cleanliness and exactness are the watch-words.
The Reliability of Testimonials Guaranteed
The testimonials published by the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company come to them unsolicited. Never knowingly have they published an untruthful letter, never is a letter published without the written consent of the writer. The reason that thousands of women from all parts of the country write such grateful letters is that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought health and happiness into their lives, once burdened with pain and illness. It is easy to realize how these poor, suffering women feel when restored to health; and their keen desire to help other women who are suffering as they did.

ANXIOUS DAYS

CHAPTER LXIII.

What did it all mean? If I asked myself that question once. I did twenty times each day until Neil returned. I had seen Lorraine again and while neither of us mentioned Neil, his business, we were both ill at ease, and uncomfortably aware that the other was thinking of our last conversation.

Blanche Orton had called. She was gay, debonair as usual, yet I thought I detected an undercurrent of unrest. It seemed as if she wanted to say something to me, was right on the verge several times, then caught herself just in time and uttered a silly platitude instead. I became embarrassed and appeared to even worse advantage than I usually did when where she was. This annoyed me exceedingly, and I became more brusque, colder, until she left.

"She will think me a silly jealous fool!" I said aloud as I, from the window, watched her car glide away from the curb, "and she is right! I am a silly jealous fool!"

Some way it comforted me to call myself names, strange as it may seem. It took away some of my fear that Neil had done wrong. It was so easy to do and say things which others misconstrued. Of course the people who criticised Neil understood nothing of his business—or else they would not have criticised.

Father used to say that everything came to him who had patience to wait. Well, I would wait awhile, not long, before I tried to break into society. In the meanwhile I would cultivate two or three rather impecunious members of the 400, and would tell Neil what people were saying, and warn him to be more careful of his associates, and ask him to remain away from Blanche Orton.

I had a queer feeling that in some way everything now revolved about his acquaintance, his friendship for her. If he dropped her, all the other gossip would die a natural death because there was no foundation for it. With her there was cause for talk, even though his friendship were the most innocent thing in the world. Blanche Orton was either loved or hated, and for the same cause—Because of her unconventionality. Conventionally narrow women and men hated her. Those who would have been as unconventional as she had they dared, loved and admired her. To both she was interesting because she was a type whom they envied—she dared do as she pleased. In other words she had the courage of her convictions. Even Lorraine Norton, the most particular, the most conventional woman I knew liked her. She had said so even while finding fault with her for receiving Neil and his vulgar friends.

Just why I should constantly wish for Mr. Frederick, I could not have explained had I tried. But not an hour passed of the days while Neil was away that I didn't long for him. Yet had he been with me, I should scarcely have known how to put my fears into words. They were there, phantom ideas, unformed thoughts, unhappy suggestions. But having a thing in one's mind, and giving expression to it are two totally different things, especially when the man you love, the father of your child is the man.

That fate held the threads of my life in her fingers ready to draw them out one by one, or loosen them altogether I gave no thought. Then I picked up an evening paper. In bold headlines I read:

"Man accused of fraud upon millions. Promotor under arrest charged with selling stock in oil wells that never existed. Chief assets pretty paper," etc.

My heart stopped beating. Suppose it were Neil. I scarcely dared read the article. The man's name had not been mentioned in the heading. I read every word. It was a man named Carter who had perpetrated the fraud. Almost unconsciously I murmured 'thank God.' Yet I kept on reading. It might give me some idea of the kind of man Lorraine and others thought Neil to be, simply because he was like this man Carter, a promoter.

When I finished the column article I was sick, really sick. It gave me more of an insight into "crooked deals," as the writer called them, than ever I had had before. He, the writer had called Carter "slick" a "schemer" and other names far from complimentary. I shuddered as I thought that was the way people thought of Neil. Then grew indignant that all promoters should be classed as "crooked" because of men like this one. There were dishonest men in every profession, every trade. That did not necessarily mean that ALL were dishonest. The same principle must apply to men who promoted big business.

To-morrow—Barbara Discovers Disturbing News in the Papers.

THE HOME CIRCLE COLUMN

Pleasant Evening Reveries—A Column Dedicated to Tired Mothers as They Join the Home Circle at Evening Tide

A mother performs her highest duty when she instills into the hearts of her boys and girls the courage of honorable living, the desire to follow the principles of truth, nobility, and purity, so that they may go out into the world free from the narrow self interest, dishonesty, and petty scheming which never threaten to undermine our country's life and the liberty dear to every true Canadian heart. If a mother has taught her children to be good, worth-while citizens, she has done her duty, for good citizens are also good men and women.

Marriage never seems so much a failure to a man as when something goes wrong at home that he can't possibly blame on his wife.

Don't marry for beauty alone, for it may vanish in a single night, and, unless accompanied by loveliness of spirit, it is only a mantle of vanity, selfishness, and ill temper.

If you want to be loved, be kind to those about you. Hide your sorrow in your own heart, and put a cheery smile upon your lips and laughter in your eyes. Listen to the sorrowful tales of others, and be quick to offering sympathy yet do not allow such recitals to affect your own good spirits. Be considerate, kind and lovable and you will never lack friends.

Some parents are careful to teach their little ones to say "thank you" and "excuse me," but forget to teach them to lend a helping hand or to do a kind deed.

Instead of demanding that your children yield blindly to your every command, reason with them. Someday they will have to decide for themselves between the right and the wrong, and it is never too early to train them in that direction. A child should never be forced to obey merely because he is told that a certain course is right. He should be shown why it is right and led to see that it is to his interest to follow it.

We have been willing to sacrifice life and wealth to overcome the foe which so recently threatened us. But the greatest foe of all, the foe which attacks us all and must eventually be overcome is in our midst, and that foe is sin. Ought we not to be willing to sacrifice everything in order to overcome this greatest enemy of mankind? Yet many of us are negligent in this regard. Perhaps we are not committing any of the crimes vigorously denounced by mankind. We do not kill or steal, we do not, perhaps, even swear or smoke. And yet we let evil thoughts dwell in our minds. We criticise our neighbors and think evil concerning them. We consider their faults instead of their virtues, and fasten upon them evil beliefs which have no foundation in fact. We cannot hope to overcome the serpent of evil until we painstakingly cast it out from all our thoughts.

The ideal life for a woman, and for a man as well, is the closest supreme love of one, true and tender affection for many, and kindly, active, good will to all.

Have the courage to speak your mind when it is necessary you should do so, and to hold your tongue when it is prudent to do so.

A PRAYER FOR A FRIEND OUT OF SIGHT.

The following beautiful prayer is attributed to William Ewart Gladstone:

'Tis sweet, as year by year we lose
Friends out of sight, in faith to muse
How grows in Paradise our store.
—The Christian Year.

Oh God, the God of the spirits of all flesh, in whose embrace all creatures live, in whatsoever world or condition they be; I beseech Thee for him whose name and dwelling place and every need Thou knowest, Lord, vouchsafe him light and rest, peace and refreshment, joy and consolation in Paradise, in the companionship of saints, in the presence of Christ, in the ample folds of Thy great love.

Grant that this life (so troubled here) may unfold itself in Thy sight, and find a sweet employment in the spacious fields of eternity. If he hath never been hurt or maimed by any unhappy word or deed of mine, I pray Thee of Thy great pity to heal and restore him, that he may serve Thee without hindrance.

Tell him, O gracious Lord, if it may be, how much I love him, and miss him and long to see him again; and if they be ways in which he may come, vouchsafe him to me as a guide, and guard, and grant me a sense of his nearness, in such degree as Thy laws permit.

If in aught I can minister to his peace, be pleased of Thy love to let this be and mercifully keep me from every act which may deprive me of the sight of him as soon as our trial time is over, or mar the fullness of our joy when the end of the days hath come.

Pardon, O gracious Lord and Father, whatsoever is amiss in this my prayer, and let Thy will be done; for my will is blind and erring, but Thine is able to do exceeding abundantly above all that we ask or think, through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

LOST ON SALVATION'S BRINK.

Some of the brethren have proposed an all-day thanksgiving service for the remarkable dispensation of Providence by which our pastor was preserved to us recently. While he was in the water preparing to baptize two pretty old sinners, they slipped away from him and he, too, slipped beneath the deceitful waters of the mill pond. How the preacher escaped is a miracle only accounted for by the intervention of Providence. It went pretty hard with the two old reprobates, but the general feeling is that their time had come.—Billiville, Ga., Banner.

A handful of common sense is worth a bushel of book learning.

A POPULAR AND COMFORTABLE STYLE.

2945 — For this charming little model, one could use gingham and lawn, organdie and dotted Swiss, challie and crepe or satin. The dress is also nice for plaid suiting, for serge, seersucker or poplin, with the guimpe of crepe, lawn or batiste.

The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 4, 6, 8 and 10 years. Size 10 requires 2 yards of 27 inch material for the guimpe and 2 8-8 yards for the dress.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 15c in silver or 1c and 2c stamps.

THE U.F.O. IN 39 RIDINGS

ACTIVITIES OF THE UNITED FARMERS OF ONTARIO

(Special to The Examiner.)

TORONTO, Sept. 11.—The United Farmers of Ontario have nominated candidates in 27 ridings, at present represented in the Legislature by Conservatives, and in 12 ridings represented by Liberals. This is playing the game fairly, for there are many more Conservative than Liberal members in the House. In addition to the attempt to displace party candidates in 39 ridings the U.F.O. is running candidates in three ridings, which it captured in by-elections since the last general election. In North Perth and in Peel it is opposing Liberal members who gained their seats in by-elections. In St. Catharines and Niagara Falls it is supporting Labour candidates. Elsewhere the I.L.P. is supporting U.F.O. candidates.

MAURICE HOUEDRY DIES FROM WOUNDS

PETERBORO' CITIZEN WHO FOUGHT WITH FRENCH ARMY HAS PASSED AWAY—SERVED IN THE EAST

Mr. Louis Houedry, Dickson street, has received word that his brother, Pte. Maurice Houedry, of the French army, has died of wounds at St. Mazaire, France. Pte. Houedry, who was a former well known resident of Peterborough, left Canada at the beginning of the war to rejoin his old regiment. Like his brother, Mr. Louis Houedry, he was a reservist, and the two answered the call promptly. Mr. Louis Houedry saw service in France and after being wounded was invalided home to Canada. His brother was assigned to the Salonika Expeditionary Force and fought in the East with the French army, finally receiving a serious wound that resulted in his being sent to France. He had grown gradually worse until death's call came several weeks ago.

The late Maurice Houedry had a host of friends in Peterborough who will learn with deep regret of his death. He and his brother were the only Peterborough men who fought with the French army.

RENDERS HOMAGE TO EX-PRESIDENT

(Special to the Examiner.)

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.— General Pershing goes to Oyster Bay to-day to render homage at the grave of Theodore Roosevelt who, when President, promoted Pershing from Capt. to Brigadier-General. The Commander-in-Chief will call on Mrs. Roosevelt at Sagamore Hill.

A PEKER BET.

George Mason used to stay only till 10 o'clock when he called on Helen, now he stays till 12. Get ready, preachers! One of you will be called on soon, we'll bet a goat's left ear.—Leesville, Col., Light.

END MILITARY OCCUPATION OF SANTO DOMINGO

(United Press.)

MADRID, Sept. 11.—An appeal to the Spanish government to ask the United States to end her military occupation of Santo Domingo has been signed here by a group of Spanish political leaders. It is understood the suggestion will be forwarded to Washington.

MORE RIOTING AT BOSTON TO-DAY

(Special to The Examiner.)

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 11.—Rioting was renewed here at 11 o'clock to-day when State troops attempted to break up throngs of gamblers on Boston Common. An unidentified sailor was shot when he is alleged to have led an attack on guardsmen.

The soldiers were marching more than a score of gamblers along Tremont street, when a crowd attempted to release the prisoners. Shots fired in the air failed to stop attacks. The crowd was finally dispersed by bayonet charges.

Society Women Use New Wrinkle Remover

Since the disvovery that a solution of ordinary saxolite and witch hazel has a peculiar effect upon wrinkled skins, it has been learned that many prominent society women all over the country have used this simple home treatment with great success. The formula is: powdered saxolite, one ounce, dissolved in witch hazel, one-half pint. Use daily as a wash lotion.

The beneficial action of this wash is felt at once. There's an agreeable refreshing sensation and feeling of exhilaration. Flabbiness and all wrinkles are immediately affected, and the skin soon becomes firmer and more youthful looking. No woman need hesitate to get the ingredients at the drug store and make the remedy herself, for there are no harmful effects whatever.

THE "REDS" CLAIM A BIG SUCCESS

(Canadian Press.)

LONDON, Sept. 11.—A Bolshevik wireless despatch from Moscow today claims the capture of nearly 12,000 prisoners from Admiral Kochak's All Russian forces in the region of Aktubin Skorsk. It is declared the surrender of the remainder of Kolchak's southern army is expected.

Herein are Mentioned Gowns and Millinery of Superb Texture and Design

Behind the Scenes at the Fashion Fete

In the Realm of Dresses, Black is in Evidence

THE new silhouette for autumn strikes a note of grace and charm. Gowns are in many instances longer waisted and skirts oftentimes longer and fuller. There are neckline and sleeve innovations; the shorter length sleeves from Paris and the longer fitted sleeve with the flare cuff. We are also showing smart tailored frocks of the woollen and silk fibre materials with tight sleeves fitting into snug shoulders—truly smart.

WHEN YOU SEE THIS DINNER DRESS you will agree that there is something quaint and distinctive. It is of black Brussels net on which are three narrow knife pleats of black taffeta. The bodice is uniquely arranged with net and taffeta and the girdle is wide, knife pleated, with a row of black jet beads encircling the centre of it. Black jet beads are also used around the arm holes, neck and ¾ sleeves. The result is quiet dignity and originality. Reasonably priced at.....$55.00

THIS SEASON RUFFLES have a prominent place in the fashion world and the designer of this model has readily adopted the trend for 1919-20. The entire dress is of black—partly taffeta and partly georgette. From the hem up to a height of eighteen inches there is a series of tiny black taffeta ruffles and all are finished with picot edge. From there on, including the bodice, black georgette is used. There is a handsome vest effect with tiny tucks headed with oyster white beads and on either side motifs of taffeta and beads. The waist is girdled with black taffeta and moire ribbon. The back is of Russian blouse design. Price.....$75.00

THE EVENING OCCASION and meline are inseparable. So this model with its foundation of black crepe de chine and overskirt of black meline are in harmony with the evening festivities. The skirt is formed of tiny ruffles that are hemmed and headed with a silver thread. The bodice is of silver lace and at the waist line is a narrow silver ribbon joined in front with an American Beauty rose. The sleeve can be correctly described as short, flowing and pointed, with two rows of silver thread stitching. The price is.....$59.00

Millinery Models in all the Glory of A New Season

AGAIN one after another the charming new hats in our Millinery Show-Rooms will be a source of wonder and delighted surprise — for great is the variety and the artistry of these new modes wrought by clever, deft fingers. A softly crowned, softly draped hat of black will add piquancy to an interesting face. Ostrich flattering and dear to the feminine heart, graces many a saucy brim with soft swirls—or fine strands. And there are dashing little street hats that will be perfect with the trig new autumn tailleur or street frock.

The Millinery Show-Room will welcome your inspection of these many new modes.

A REVIEW OF WORK DONE BY THE PROHIBITION REFERENDUM MOVEMENT

ORGANIZATION HAS BEEN GOING ON QUIETLY,—HOMES PLACED ON THE LISTS.

The Executive Committee of the Prohibition Referendum Movement in this city met Tuesday at the Y. M. C. A. for conference and general review of the work as done and perfected during the last three weeks.

During the interval since the announcements of the approaching referendum, and while the lists were in course of preparation, organization has been going on quietly, in anticipation that with the vacation season over and the coming back to the city of those absent on holiday, that the work would be taken up generally. This anticipation has proved to be correct and reports submitted show that considerable has been accomplished in the interval. The campaign will come on about the middle of this month and it is the intention to carry on with energy and attention until the day of the voting has been reached and passed.

The chairman, Mr. A. B. Cunningham, gave a review of what had been accomplished. Strong committees have been selected and engaged from each of the local envangelical churches in the city, and from the friends in these groups will be appointed ward committees for the five wards, and a further subdivision of committees for each polling subdivision in the ward. A re-canvas of the membership of these committees showed that there will be plenty of workers to help in the details of getting out the vote.

As might be expected attention was paid to the matter of the placing on the lists of those omitted in the general enumeration. In all the Executive had before it omissions to the number of over five hundred, with additional names to be covered in the next two days. With the sessions of the Courts, which will open on Saturday and continue until applications for entrance to the list ceases the preliminary part of the detail immediately in sight will have been done. It is anticipated that for the first time in the city over ten thousand people will be required to vote, a number double the possible aggregate vote at any election contest.

The Executive.

At the meeting the number of the Executive Committee was strengthened by the addition of several, who being out of the city, were seen and consented to take active part in the work, were added. As completed, the Executive now includes.

Chairman—A. B. Cunningham, 331 Reid street.
Vice Chairman—Mrs. Jas. Kendry, 754 Water street.
Secretary—F. H. Dobbin, 622 George street.
Treasurer—(To be Named)
Members of Council and Executive in addition to officers:—
H. B. Cowan, 202 London street.
Mrs. C. H. Shields, 153 Benson avenue.
Dr. Jessie Birnie, 502 Water street.
Frank Ellis, 518 Gilmour street.
H. Stabler, 800 George street.
H. G. Walker, 774 George street.
Jos. Wearing, 85 Benson avenue.
Mrs. A. Mowat, 773 Water street.
W. R. Brenfoole, 501 Weller street.
Mrs. A. J. Thomas, 541 Water street.
A. W. Cressman, Hunter street, W.
George Teader, 671 George street.
W. G. Shiner, 327 Frederick avenue.
A. Prest, 242 Lansdowne street.

Presently the distribution of literature bearing on the issue will take place. A vigorous campaign of education is in view that all persons may be well seized with the objects sought to be achieved and the things to be avoided. Further on definite instructions will be given as to the ballot, its importance, the several clauses and the bearing it will have as to how the voter will mark his or her ballot.

PUBLIC SERVICES WERE SUSPENDED OWING TO STORM

(Canadian Press.)

KEY WEST, Fla., Sept. 11.—With daylight to-day, following the storm of yesterday and a night of darkness, the people of Key West and surrounding territory were able for the first time to survey the destruction wrought by the hurricane that swept through here Tuesday night. Not a house in the city had escaped damage and many were totally wrecked. The harbour presented a tangled mass of fishing vessels and other small craft. No vessel had left port early to-day nor had any trade come in over the Florida east coast railway. In addition to the temporary stoppage of gas and electricity, telephone service was suspended, and newspapers were forced to suspend publication. Some business places, all of which were closed yesterday, including restaurants ,re-opened to-day. A survey to-day of the situation resulting from the storm was expected to determine whether it would be necessary to ask outside assistance.

WILSON STARTS SECOND WEEK

By Hugh Baillie.
(United Press.)

BILLINGS, Mont., Sept. — President Wilson to-day opened the second week of his nation-wide campaign for ratification of the Peace Treaty and the League of Nations. He speaks to-day at Billings and St. Helena.

Wilson w. s much refreshed as a result of taking a long rest yesterday when he spoke but once at Bismarck and said a few words to a rear platform crowd at Mandan.

He waved to the crowds at the few towns through which his train passed slowly, and it was understood, devoted some time to plans for the industrial conference which will meet next month in Washington.

BANK CLEARINGS FOR THE WEEK

Clearings week ending Sept. 11, 1919, $718,118. Same week last month, $691,837, do year ago, $695,288; do two years ago, $652,681.

Safe Home Treatment For Objectionable Hairs

(Boudoir Secrets)

The electric needle is not required for the removal of hair or fuzz, for with the use of plain delatone the most stubborn growth can be quickly banished. A paste is made with water and a little of the powder, then spread over the hairy surface. In about 2 minutes it is rubbed off and the skin washed. This simple treatment not only removes the hair, but leaves the skin free from blemish. Be sure you get genuine delatone.

VOTED DOWN THE RESOLUTION

(Canadian Press.)

GLASGOW, Sept. 11. — By a comparatively close vote, the Trades Union Congress in session here to-day, voted down a resolution declaring against the principle of direct action.

The vote was 2,733,000 against the resolution; 2,036,000 in its favor.

The vote was on the resolution of Labour men in the House of Commons, reading: "Congress declares against the principle of industrial action in purely political matters."

THE PETERBOROUGH "PUNDIT."

Mr. J. H. Burnham, M.P., wires The Globe: "Will The Globe state in its columns whether in the referendum if every question is answered as the prohibitionists wish, the people of Ontario will be able or not to import all the alcoholic liquors they desire for private use, or what the law will be in that regard?" The Peterborough pundit knows, or ought to know, that the answer must be given by the Parliament of which he is a member. The Ontario Legislature has no power to prohibit the importation of liquors from another Province or country.—Clipping, Globe, Sept. 10.

MR. G. N. GORDON'S VIEWS ON THE PROPOSED MEMORIAL SCHOOL

MR. GORDON SAYS IT WILL BE A LINGERING MEMORY FOR FIFTY YEARS TO COME—ADDITION TO HUGE DEBENTURE DEBT OF THE CITY

When a reporter of the Examiner interviewed Mr. G. N. Gordon and asked him what he thought of the Memorial School recommended by the Building Committee of the Board of Education, Mr. Gordon said that "Memorial" was the best name that could be given the new school, because if the people had to pay out over a quarter of a million dollars for a new school it would be something that would never leave the memories of the ratepayers for the next fifty years. Mr. Gordon said his objection was that the school was too elaborate, too large, and the committee was desiring to enter into contracts when prices were on the very crest.

One tenderer found it necessary to add one third on top of the present union wages in Peterborough to make his estimate safe. Another tenderer found that he could not get quotations for some materials, on others only ten days; and on account of the market uncertainty he said he required to play safe for a large sum, all of which confirms the idea that prices may reduce, and this is confirmed by the fact that food prices in the United States are tumbling.

CHIEF OBJECTION.

Mr. Gordon said the chief objection was that work on the new building should stand for at least a year or two years, and then a plain substantial building for present needs should be built. The committee started out originally with the idea of purchasing the whole Chamberlain Block of some fifteen or sixteen acres which would cost them on the basis they paid for five acres, approximately $35,000.00. This plan was afterwards modified when it was found that a storm was raised. The city of Peterborough is compelled by contract to build a high level bridge, which will cost with the London street bridge, $280,000.00, and in all probability $20,000.00 more for unforseen expenditures, and extra work that requires to be done outside the bare construction.

An addition to the Collegiate Institute will require shortly to be built, and this will cost at the very lowest figure $60,000.00. A Sewage Diaposal Plant built on a scale to take care of the present needs of the people, and additional population for the next ten years' development, will run from $150,000.00 to $200,000.00, and this work will require to start next spring, on account of litigation being now pending against the city. The Utilities Commission requires a Filtration Plant for the water supply and an engineer's estimate of this is $150,000.00. In addition to this some arrangement must be made within the next couple of years for a moderate sized Technical School, if this city is to be in the race as an industrial centre; this will cost in all probability $50,000.00 to $100,000.00.

DEBENTURE DEBT.

This is approximately $1,000,000.00 of debentures which will require to be issued within the next two or three years. The city's present debenture debt is over Two Millions and a half, and we are paying annual interest to people who have lent us money to the extent of $111,486.71. If these expenditures are made, and most of them require to be made, in the very near future, it means an annual payment to the sinking fund and interest extending over a period of twenty years or more of nearly $100,000, or nearly eight mills. In addition to what we are paying now, namely, thirty-one mills. This school alone means an approximate increase of one and a half mills for twenty years, and Mr. Gordon said he thought in his opinion the people would never approve building this enormous twenty room school while there was such uncertainty as to prices and material

The detailed cost of the proposed school is as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| Building contracts, Graham & Hayes | $159,963 |
| R. G. Sturgeon, heating and ventilation | 32,145 |
| G. A. Brenton, plumbing | 13,000 |
| Miller, Powell & Watson, Contracts for electric Work | 2,747 |
| Sidewalks, grounds, grading, etc | 7,500 |
| School equipment, seats, etc | 8,900 |
| Household Science Equipment, and Library | 3,500 |
| Engineer's and architect's fees | 8,500 |
| Unforeseen expenses | 3,475 |
| Site | 11,500 |
| | $251,230 |

INSTEAD of using all sugar for your Preserving, use half sugar and half LILY WHITE Corn Syrup. There is even a saving in cost, but the real economy is in the results that will follow—your preserves will be a success.

LILY WHITE brings out the full flavor of the fruit; it prevents "sugaring" and keeps the preserves in perfect condition.

MR. J. H. BURNHAM ON PROHIBITION

(REPLY TO MR. JOHN GALT)

To the Editor of The Examiner:

(In further reply to Rev. J. Galt.)

Sir,—You will find I am quite sure that after the referendum, even if it were carried precisely as the prohibitionists wish, people will be able to import all they wish of any kind of alcoholic liquor of any strength, provided it is for private use. This means that after the referendum, only those who can afford to import can get liquor and they will be able to get all they want, while the ordinary man like myself will reflect (drily) upon the gullibility of the multitude and the vanity of human affairs. How can Mr. Galt expect people to vote in favour of such a determination? We must have a new law, and above all a fair one. Vote "Yes."

Mr. Galt declines to discuss the question, "Does God prohibit?" May I say without offence that for the affirmative of such a proposition there is not "even the shadow" of a leg to stand on. But he comes back at me with a challenge to discuss the O.T.A. I will accept his challenge and would prefer to have the discussion at his own church, the "Gilmour Memorial." He is more than right when he states that, after all, the question of prohibition is not involved in the referendum. It certainly is not. Thanking Mr. Galt for his good humour and for his challenge, I remain,

Yours, etc.,
J. H. BURNHAM.

SCHOOL FAIR HELD IN WARSAW

The Warsaw School Fair will be held Friday, Sept. 19th. Special prizes will be given by the Women's Institute, the Cottesloe I.O.D.E. and others. A school booth will be on the grounds from which ice cream, fruit and etc., will be sold. The Women's Institute will also serve tea. A concert will be held in the evening. The programme will be given by the pupils from the different schools taking part in the Fair. Two interesting features of the programme will be a spelling and chorus contest. The proceeds will be given in the interests of the war memorial.

HIGH-CLASS RUNNERS WILL BE SEEN IN ACTION AT THE EXHIBITION

A FEW HORSES THAT WILL BE SEEN HERE—AN INNOVATION

The decision of the Amusement Committee of Peterboro's Exhibition to include in their extensive program each day, races for the thoroughbred horses, has been received with much favor locally. Trials of speed for the harness horses have long been a feature of the Fair, but on Monday next also Tuesday and Wednesday, the lovers of racing will also see many high-class runners in action.

According to the latest advices from Toronto horsemen there with at least a dozen horses are making preparations to ship here and with those owned in this vicinity good sized fields, with keen contention are promised. Chas. Crew's Old Pop is among those expected from the Queen City, in charge of ex-steeplechase jockey Eddie Kelly. This son of the great Martipas created somewhat of a sensation on the occasion of his victory at Hamilton two years ago, when he scored at over 140 to! He has been in training at Woodbine Park, Toronto, most of this season and should give a good account of himself.

Since his recent victory at Galt, little Pete is likely to go well. "Peter" is better this season than ever before in his career, but Jockey Gibson, who owns and will ride Ella Jennings claims he can take the measure of the Lewis horse, the rivalry being very keen between this pair Ella Jennings has been a consistent winner in recent seasons, scoring her last success at Thorncliffe Park at Toronto.

This is really the first opportunity that patrons of the local Exposition have had to witness runners in this calibre under colors. The management are firmly convinced that this branch of their entertainment will meet with instant favor and they even anticipate branching out in this department on a much larger scale in future.

THERE IS DANGER IN TENDER GUMS

To preserve healthy teeth the ordinary tooth-paste is futile. You must first care for the gums, on which tooth health depends.

How many people think of this? Yet four out of five people over forty suffer from gum-decay, or Pyorrhea (Riggs' Disease).

At first the gums become tender, though actual gum-shrinkage is imperceptible. But in time receding gums will surely loosen your teeth, and then only a dentist can save them. The tender, bleeding gums of Pyorrhea also act as so many doorways for disease germs to enter the system—infecting joints or tonsils—or causing other ailments.

Forhan's (For the Gums) prevents Pyorrhea, if used in time and used consistently. This means that it prevents gum-shrinkage, gum-tenderness, gum-bleeding. So, automatically, Forhan's prevents tooth-loosening.

Brush your teeth with it. It scientifically cleans the teeth—keeps them white and clean.

If gum shrinkage has already set in, start using Forhan's and consult a dentist immediately for treatment.

HIDE MARKETS DULL.

Buyers and sellers of hides in Eastern United States markets are too divergent at present to permit of important transactions in wet salted, and the same condition holds good in connection with packer hides. There is a dull market for common dry hides, and large buyers have not shown willingness to indicate on what basis they would be willing to operate. Prices are nominal in the New York market for packers' hides. Negotiations were attempted recently, but no progress was made. Buyers have expressed the view that hide prices are due for a decline in sympathy with the general trend of commodity prices. The condition of the American market is not radically different from that prevailing in Canada. Tanners have asserted that there continues to be a demand for leather, but there appears to be comparatively little activity in the hide market, and the price position has lost some of the strength it has displayed in recent weeks.

Goyer To Pitch For Belleville On Saturday

The appearance of the champion Belleville team here on Saturday in an exhibition game with the Petes is attracting a lot of attention among ball fans, who, remembering the two great battles between Belleville and Peterboro at Riverside Park earlier in the season, are looking forward to another scrappy game. The first time Belleville played here they were beaten 3 to 2. On their next appearance they nosed the Petes out by one run, winning 5 4 in ten innings. Both teams will be at full strength on Saturday and Belleville are confident of winning with Freddie Goyer their crack south-paw on the rubber. Either Rose or Kirn will do the honors for the Petes with Swanston behind the bat. The game is called for 3 o'clock and will undoubtedly attract a big crowd of fans.

"Irish" Jordan Wants To Arrange A Bout

"Irish" Jack Jordan, who, besides proving a first-class fighting man against the Huns overseas, also found time to do some fighting in the square ring, is out with a challenge to any boxer in the city up to 135 pounds, to meet him in a four, six or ten round bout; the match to take place on Thursday, Sept. 18; the night Young Cattle and Kid Brompton fight their return engagement here. Anyone who wants to try conclusions with Jordan can leave his name with the Sporting Editor of The Examiner.

The programme of the coming boxing tournament promises a big night's sport. Cattle and Brompton are to go ten rounds and in addition there is a six round bout between Young Dugan and Babe Anthony and several other attractions.

Petes Play Tie With Tweed

Tie games seem to be a specialty with the Peterboro Central League team. Three out of the last four games have resulted in a tie 4-4 with Port Hope, 2-2 with Brighton and yesterday at Tweed in a game with the Trent Valley League champions, the score was 7-7. A report from Tweed says:

Tweed, Sept. 10.—The Tweed baseball team, champions of the Trent Valley League and the Peterboro baseball team of the Central Ontario League, met here in an exhibition game this afternoon.

The game was called at the end of the 8th innings, the score being 7-7. The "Petes" never scored a run in the last five innings.

The batteries were: Peterboro—Kirn and Head; Tweed—Houston and Alger. Umpire—Bradshaw.

ATHLETICS AT KING GEORGE SCHOOL

At a meeting of King George Boys Athletic Association, the following officers were elected:

Hon. Pres.—Mr. A. A. Fowler.
Pres.—Mr. M. H. Park.
Vice Pres.—Mr. J. E. R. Munro.
Secty. Pres.—Kenneth Beavis.
Committee—Harry Ebbs, Percy Oke, Orville Smith, Alex Champion, Bernard Williams.

It was decided to enter actively into sports. A short baseball schedule will be run off followed by a football schedule and later, it is hoped that hockey may be taken up.

RUNNING RACES AT THE FAIR

A SPECIAL ATTRACTION THAT THOUSANDS WILL GREATLY APPRECIATE

Applications for stabling accommodations from horsemen who will ship their charges here to race at the Peterborough Fair, commencing Monday, continue to arrive daily and from present indications the Amusement committee's speed programme will be the best in the history of the local Exposition. Word was received today from Andy Machan that he will ship from Toronto the thorough-bred Hemisphere, another candidate for the running events, and Jockey Johnson will be on hand to pilot this son of Stanhope II—The Globe.

Hemisphere is one of the best bred runners that will sport colours at the local races. His sire, Stanhope II, being the sire of two King's Plate winners, Tartarean and Ladder of Light, also Kingly, the winner of the $6,000 Toronto Cup at Woodbine Park. Although his racing experience is limited to one race, Hemisphere has worked fast in his trials, according to his owner, who expects him to develop into a good colt with a little more experience.

Jockeys Banks and Casey are the two latest riders to announce their intention of coming to ride, the latter being one of the best jockeys ever developed by Wm. "Red" Walker, the famous Toronto horseman.

The running racing was the outstanding feature of the Cobourg Horse Show and made a decided hit at both the Guelph and Galt races recently. As a result the management of Peterboroughs Fair felt that their patrons were entitled to the best amusement obtainable and at considerable expense have hung up enough prize money to attract the majority of the best running horses in training in this part of the Province.

There will be one running race on the speed programme on each of the three days of the big Fair. Each race will be two heats and the purses will be divided so that every heat will be a race. This eliminates the possibility of a rider "laying up" a heat with his horse and assures keen contests in every event.

"After all, what a man does with his money is to invest, and there is no better way to invest it than in Life Insurance."

As an ESTATE BUILDER there is nothing to equal Life Insurance.

TAKE THE FOLLOWING ACTUAL RESULT

A young man, sixteen years of age, took out a 15-year Endowment (No. 210380) in the Sun Life of Canada, which matured on the first of April. This young man paid annually $66.30 for fifteen years, and he has now, through that investment, an immediate estate of $1,425.00 in case of death.

DO YOU KNOW THAT THIS AMOUNTS TO ALMOST 15% COMPOUND INTEREST ON EVERY DOLLAR HE PAID?

No wonder Sir Wilfrid said (and he might have added, No better place than the Sun Life of Canada), "There is no better way to invest it than in LIFE INSURANCE."

HALE HAMILTON IN "FULL OF PEP".

POPULAR STAR HAS SPLENDID VEHICLE IN NEW PLAY SHOWN AT GRAND THEATRE TO-DAY AND TO-MORROW

A new Metro production will open at the Grand to-night and Friday with the increasingly popular Hale Hamilton in the stellar role, furnishing a delightfully new and diverting entertainment in the pictorial drama.

There is not a dull moment in his comedy-drama. And comedy-drama it was, of a human kind which found a genuine appeal from the youngest in the audience to the oldest. The authors of the story, Izole Forrester and Mann Page have conceived an idea which should meet with universal approval.

Mr. Hamilton, playing the role of Lon Withers, a young New York clerk, who picks up a live tip from a friend and makes a fortune out of it by putting on "a big front," is an enjoyable character, pictured true to life to the last detail, and is reminiscent of this same star's sensational stage success "Get-Rich-Quick Wallingford," in which he portrayed a financial genius.

Picturesque and beautiful are the stage settings and exteriors of "The Four Flusher," which was directed by Harry L. Franklin, and personally supervised by Maxwell Karger, Director General of Metro. The cast also was excellent and gave capable support to the star. In included Ruth Stonehouse, Harry Holden, Ralph Bell, Robert Badger, Louis Pitzroy, Frederick Malatesta and Effie Conley.

The balance of the programme will consist of a variety bill including a Lyons and Moran Comedy—a special Western Drama—and wait a minute—no program would be complete without The Big Hit Vod-a-Vil Movies, which are creating a sensation here.

BEAUTIFUL GOWNS WORN BY GLORIA SWANSON

In the Superb Photo Play, "Don't Change Your Husband," Showing at the Allen Theatre To-day.

Gowns that are exceptionally beautiful are worn by Gloria Swanson, who plays the leading feminine role in "Don't Change Your Husband," C. B. DeMille's new artcraft picture, which is showing to-day at the Allen Theatre for the last time.

Among them is an evening gown of brocaded charmeuse with pearls and specially designed headpiece; a blue negligee with peacock colour effects of brocaded silk with silver lace head dress; a misteria coloured budoir robe of Georgette with moire ribbons and French flowers, and an evening gown of cloth of gold brocaded in blue with blue Georgette drapes and Martin fur trimmings. These constitute, with others, a veritable fashion show which will be appreciated by the ladies who attend the picture. And Miss Swanson knows how to wear these exquisite creations, which were designed by Alpharetta Huffman.

BUILDING WILL BE REMODELLED

DR. M. YELLAND WILL SPEND $6,000 ON NEW HOME

Dr. M. Yelland, who has purchased the residence of the late Dr. McGrath, 639 George street, has taken out a permit for $6,000 for alterations to the property, to consist of tearing down the present verandah to erect another, putting in hardwood floors, and a new heating apparatus, redecorating, and excavating the cellar. Mr. W. W. Barry is the contractor for the rebuilding.

Other Permits.

J. F. Thornton, $100, for a bathroom at 633 George street.

S. Taylor, 166 Hunter street, alterations, $100.

S. Taylor, 163 Hunter street, build a verandah, $100.

Joseph Ball, $1,200 dwelling on Rogers street.

MEDALLION FROM BOMB.

Dover, England—A handsome medallion, made from a German bomb that was dropped on Dunkirk during a Hun air raid, has been presented to Mayor E. W. T. Farley of Dover, by the Mayor of Dunkirk, who was a recent visitor here.

A WELL KNOWN COMEDIAN WITH "MY SOLDIER GIRL"

WILLIAM MOORE AT THE GRAND ON SATURDAY

A comedian, who has caused the world to laugh at his many capers is William Moore, coming to the Grand, Saturday, matinee and evening in the role of "Jasper Pebble", a black-face comedy in the musical spectacle "My Soldier Girl". The burden of the comedy in this new play falls on Mr. Moore, who is properly cast in this black-face role and theatergoers who have seen him in his many parts can readily appreciate the opportunity this particular role offers, to introduce his funny capers. In the story "Pebble" is a valet to Colonel Stone, wealthy Floridan who has served two years in France and upon returning to America arranges a grand fete in honor of his many friends whom he met abroad. It is in this set that "Jasper" ever endeavouring to please the Colonel's whims and fancies is seen at his best and theatergoers who imagine they have laughed at funny comedians should see Mr. Moore, as a typical Florida nigger in dress and character. Again in the last act which is a gorgeous Follies production on the Roof of a New York Theater which Colonel Stone is producing "Jasper" is along and his funny songs, dances and capers are without comparison.

Mr. Moore has devoted much study to the art of black-face and his interpretation of the Florida nigger stamps him as one of the best black-face comedians on the stage to-day. His eccentric dancing is one of the real hits of the show and this clever comedian of nimble legs and funny faces begins to entertain where the average black-face leaves off. Of his many novelty numbers "Jasper's Ragtime Band", a syncopated rag sweeping the country just now is a riot and he "puts it over" with all the dialect of the typical Southern Darkey.

CHARLES RAY
WIDELY KNOWN AS THE ORIGINAL "COUNTRY BOY" OF THE SCREEN, PRAISES "STRING BEANS"
Young Ince Star Says Story of His New Photoplay is Full of Real Novelty, as Presented at the Allen Theatre on Friday and Saturday.

Charles Ray is the original "country boy" of the screen. In "String Beans," his latest Paramount picture, produced by Thomas H. Ince, which will be shown at the Allen Theatre on Friday and Saturday, he again portrays the young American of humble beginnings who succeeds by sheer pluck and honesty and industry in the face of heavy odds.

Mr. Ray's screen portraits are always distinct and accurate. One wonders at times, where in his youthful experience, he has found time to make so clear a picture in his mind of the young men of the farming lands. It is undoubtedly a gift. He invests each characterization with a verisimilitude that is pleasing and convincing. His work is clean cut, skillful and thoughtful.

Mr. Ray said recently: "Before I played my first role of the so-called "rube" type. I used to practice in front of a mirror at home in the evenings, but, somehow, this didn't seem to fill the bill. I got so tired of seeing my face that I hated it. Then I was seized with a brilliant idea. I got a small camera and a flashlight apparatus. Then I would put the camera on a table, focus it on a handkerchief on the floor, assume my poise, reach forward, touch off the flash, jump back and assume pose, press the bulb and take the picture—all in a breath you might say. Then I'd have the film developed and I could study my expressions at leisure. From this sort of study and practice I've developed the characters I've played under Mr. Ince's careful supervision.

"String Beans" it is said, is a real type of this kind and the plot is said to be full of real novelty and charm.

WOULD LOSE ALL HUN CONCESSIONS

If U. S. Senate Rejects Treaty Indemnity and Hun Ships would be Lost to the United States.

(Canadian Press.)

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11. — The rejection of the peace treaty with its League of Nations covenant, or the adoption of the amendments, would mean the sacrifice by the United States of all the concessions obtained from Germany, under the dictated peace, the minority members of the Foreign Relations Committee declared in the report presented today to the Senate.

The report prepared by Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, ranking Democratic member of the committee, urged the speedy ratification of the treaty without amendments or reservations.

BRIDGE WORK PROGRESSING

Abutment on West Side Will Soon Rear its Head —Progress in East City.

The construction of the abutments of the new Hunter street bridge is progressing rapidly and the men started this morning to dig for rock bottom for one of the abutments on the west side of the river. A big hoist has already been placed in position on ths side of the river and the digging has progressed about three feet. The abutment will reach across the whole road and the men expect to dig about twenty feet before a rock bottom is reached. On the east side of the river the excavation for the abutment nearest the bridge, which is about twenty—five yards from the river, is now twenty feet deep and the steam hoist is busily engaged in bringing earth to the surface. Two other abutments on the side of the East City hill do not reach across the road but are in two sections with a break in the middle. They have been filled in with cement to the road surface. The retaining wall on the east side of the road which reaches from Burnham street to the old McAllister Mill is now twenty-one feet high and is nearly completed as far as the filling-in process is concerned. The wooden walls to hold the cement have already been placed around the two east abutments preparatory to continuing them to their proper height.

FIRST ACCIDENT AT NEW BRIDGE

Percy Cunningham Loses Balance—Now in Hospital

The first accident on the construction of the new Hunter street bridge took place yesterday afternoon, when Mr. Percy Cunningham, Sherbrooke Place, who is employed on the bridge, fell off the retaining wall which is twenty-one feet high in front of the old McAllister mill, and landed on his feet in the roadway. It is not known how he fell from that height but it is presumed that he lost his balance and when he found he could not save himself that he stiffened and so landed on his feet. His limbs became still and pains shot through the lower part of his legs, after the accident. The ambulance was called and he was conveyed to Nicholl's Hospital where he spent a bad night. A number of X-ray plates were taken this morning and the amount of injury ascertained by the doctors attending.

WEDDING BELLS

ANDERSON—ROSS

A very pretty, but quiet wedding took place on Sept. 10, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Ross, 264 Stewart street, when their eldest daughter, Clara Jean, was united in marriage to Mr. John Anderson, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson of Greenwich, Scotland. The Rev. J. A. MacKenzie officiated.

FLETCHER—FINNIE.

On Wednesday morning, September 10, the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Finnie of concession 1, South Monaghan, was the scene of a pretty wedding, when their daughter Verna, became the bride of George A. Fletcher, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Fletcher of Bensfort.

The ceremony was conducted by Rev. M. W. Leigh, B. A., in the presence of a large number of relatives of the bride and groom. After the ceremony and customary congratulations, a pretty wedding dinner was served. A number of very useful gift. were presented to the happy couple as tokens of good will in addition to many gifts presented last Monday evening, when many of the neighbours gave a miscellaneous shower in honour of the bride. The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful necklace.

The groom is a returned soldier who has seen active service in France and since his return has opened a garage in Bailieboro.

After a short trip to Toronto and other points Mr. and Mrs. George Fletcher will reside in Bailieboro.

STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—As a result of the announcement late yesterday that the Union heads in the steel industry had called a strike for September 22nd, stocks were thrown overboard at the opening to-day, steel shares naturally being hardest hit.

Steel Common opened late at 102 5-7, off 2 7-8. Crucible was off 11 at 173, and Bethlehem 7 3-4 at 85.

Mexican Petroleum opened at 201, off 6. Pan-American at 119, off 2 5-8. American C. and F. at 134, off 2 7-8, while Central Leather and Marine Pref. declined nearly 2 points.

A sharp rally following the opening practically all issues regained much of their early losses. U. S. Steel got up to 108. Mexican Petroleum sold at 207 and Bethlehem B at 80 1-4.

Advances continued during the second hour. Tobaccos and Equipments were leaders. American Locomoitve advanced 6, Baldwin 12 5-8, Crucible 10, Bethleheem 5 1-2, Studebaker 4 8-4, Mexican Petroleum 7 1-2, Lorillard 9, and American Tobacco 8.

Market acted well during the last hour, Studebaker leading a demonstration in auto stocks, going close to the high of last week. Tobacoc stocks were firm all afternoon, and Retail Stores was still in demand. Mexican Petroleum leading the oil stocks, was up nearly 9 from the opening at one time.

LOCAL MARKET

The grocery market shows little change this week and there is no indication of any lowering of the price of butter. The hog prices remain unchanged. Fruit is becoming scarce, and plums have almost disappeared from the market. Hides and wool remain unchanged since three weeks ago.

MOST MORAL TOWN.

London—Lianelly, in South Wales, prides itself on absolute immunity from immorality of the professional kind. According to the chief constable, the morality of the town has reached such a plane that the people would not tolerate the unfortunate class. On this account he recommended that the proposed employment of policewomen was unnecessary.
